The dead were presumed to have been in the middle of the rink. An 18-inch-thick concrete outside foundation wall probably saved the lives of the others.

Two of the injured were in critical condition at Huntsville Memorial Hospital. They are Mrs. Canfield, the dead boy's mother, and Mrs. George Belton of Toronto, who has a crushed pelvis. Mrs. Canfield has a broken back.

Six others were treated and released.

Paul White Jr., 26, of Calgary, son of the hotel owner, and one of the injured, said: "I heard a crack and in a second saw daylight; then the roof fell in."

Rink 30 curlers from Toronto and hotel guests almost two hours to reach the dead and injured.

Marilyn Christenson, 21, of Timmins, a student at North Bay Teachers' College, spent almost two hours in an effort to revive Mr. Chudleigh. The retired teacher and Mary Ann Osborne, 17, a pupil at Toronto's Havergal College for girls gave first aid.

Dr. R. B. Davies of Huntsville, the coroner, said there probably would be no inquest immediately.

The curling rink was built in 1937 for $25,000.

Complain About Snow Plows Plugging Drives

Public criticism of the city public works department in its failure to clear private driveways of snow, and in leaving huge piles of snow along residential streets, is being heard around the city hall these days.

One West Hill woman complained not only of the huge piles of snow which plugged her driveway after the passing of the plow, also of the fact that her sidewalk was not cleared properly despite the fact that tax money was supposed to take care of this work.

She noted that complaints to city hall by residents in her section being taken, the complaint being countered with statement that they had been cleared and that for the city to keep private driveways cleared would be a great deal to ask.

One woman who lives in the centre of the block said it was impossible for her to get to a car on the street without climbing over a 60 inch barrier, the four feet high at the curb.

And now that the storm the snow piles get higher and the sidewalk gets narrower, with the likelihood that the schedule plow can no longer operate.

BAND ASSEMBLY

On Wednesday, January 21st, the Quinte School Band, arrayed in their smart new uniforms, presented a very fine and polished assembly. Mr. Schroder, the band director, introduced the student body a musical introduction to the instruments of the band. The different parts of the band then demonstrated with individual solos, thus illustrating the principles of performance which, as Mr. Schroder stated, is planned.

One of the most popular solos was the trumpet solo, "Trumpeter" which as Mr. Schroder stated, contains the element of emotional release as well as musical possibility. A very fine trumpet duet was played by Ian King and Brent Danicth, accompanied by Keith Lorenz at the piano. Mary Ann Jean Lee and Ian Bebee twirling routine to a march was very entertaining and in keeping for a change of rhythm, the band then played a tango, La Cumparsita which was put to very fine swing. Even the curtains of the auditorium joined up the beat. To round out the program everyone joined in a sing-song of old favourites.

Mr. Reid complimented the band on such an excellent performance and suggested that it would not be too far in the future until the Quinte Band would thoroughly enjoy the program and that they deserved it. Mr. Reid's suggestions.

Council Amends 2 By-Laws To Check Outbreak of Rabies

TWEED (Special) — In view of the seriousness of the small epidemic of rabid foxes in the Tweed area the village council has held a special meeting on Friday evening to discuss the situation.

Earlier in the month a fox was killed on Spring Street. A portion of this animal was sent to the Animal Diseases Research Institute, Hull, Quebec and a report was received on Friday that Chief Constable Wilbert Higgins stating that evidence of rabies had been discovered.

Following this report, Mayor Wm. Graham called a special meeting of council for Friday evening.

On Tuesday morning another fox was killed at the home of Mr. William Booth on No. 37 highway just south of Tweed. Mr. Booth noticed the dead dog fighting in his yard at 5.30 in the morning and on his arrival to investigate, the dog and a fox came into the house through an open door. The fox was chased out and shot at but turned on the animal and attacked Mr. Booth, who was able to destroy it before it reached him.

Mr. Booth has not appear to have been bitten but on advice of the Department of Health and Forests officers it too was destroyed.

AMEND BY-LAW

With these two incidents in mind, Tweed Council decided to amend the by-laws No. 580, 581 and 653 as follows:

1. The immediate re-appointment of a dog catcher.

2. That all stray dogs and dogs not being under control by any person be seized and transported to the city of Belleville dog pound.

3. Owners wishing to claim any dog or other domestic animal having been seized, will be required to pay the costs incurred to the pound keeper.

4. No animal, dog or otherwise, will be released from the pound keeper, unless he has proof of rabies vaccination.

5. Where the dog has not been vaccinated for rabies within the specified period of time, the owner will pay the additional cost to the pound keeper and leave the said animal to be vaccinated by a veterinarian. The animal will be confined to the pound until this has been completed.

OUTBREAK SERIOUS

A letter signed by Chief Constable W. Higgins and distributed in Tweed, points out that the rabies outbreak in Ontario is the most serious to date. "That any dog, even your dog may be infected with rabies by transporting the contaminated saliva virus on its hair, having perhaps been rubbed on by an infected fox or other animals.

Concluding, the letter said, "for the safety of our children and for the safety of your dog at large. For the safety of your dog, have them vaccinated as soon as possible."

RCAF and Kingston Rinks Win Beaux and Belles Spiel

The first Beaux and Belles bonspiel at the Quinte Curling Club on his grandfather's rink but the memory will linger for a long time. It was a most successful venture and E. C. Gowsell, general chairman of the bonspiel and his energetic committee can take a bow for a job well done. The whole spiel ran like clockwork, the draws were kept on time and the cordiality among the participants was of high calibre. The visitors were made welcome and everything was done for their comfort.

The canteen run by the women's section of the club was well patronized during the spiel and to say the least the food was delicious. It was well cooked. At the close of the spiel the president of the club, William Gault, distributed the prizes and thanked all for their co-operation. Mr. Gowsell also thanked his committee for their efficient help and stated plans were being made for a bigger, mixed spiel next year.

The RCAF Curling Club at Trenton and the Kingston Curling Club carried off the top awards in both events and the two rinks curled well through out the spiel. In the finals for the event R. Bilbeck met a clubmate, R. Tiller for top honors with Mr. Bilbeck winning 6-5 in a close game. In the "B" event E. Brown of Kingston met A.R. "Doug" Holway's rink and the Belleville rink went down 8-4. The winning rink in the first event were given two bar lazy sussns, while the second rink were given carving sets. In the second event the men received two barbeque, while the women received hassocks.

The prize for the highest game score went to Al Peterley's rink in Belleville with a count of 31, while Earl Morrison's rink won the prize for the rink encountering the greatest difficulties. The greatest single term prize in the first draw went to T. Fletcher of the RCAF with a five-ender, while A. Cardin also of the RCAF Club won the prize for the hidden score in the first draw. In the "draw" contest Everett Fairman won and the prize for being closest to the "Button" while Joanne Taylor won the same prize for the women. Open Probe Into Springhill Mine Disaster

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP)—The first of about 40 witnesses was to appear today before a royal commission opening hearings here into the cave-in last October in Cumberland's No. 2 Colliery that killed 75 men..

Expected to testify today are Louis Frost, chief mining engineer of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, William, F. Campbell, retired superintendent of the Donco subsidiary Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, and Donco coal chief Harold Gordon.

They will begin to tell the story of a bump—upheaval of the mine floor—that caused the Oct. 23 mine disaster which resulted in the closing of all coal operations in this hard-luck northern Nova Scotia town at 7:00C. Closing of Springhill's only industry left 700 miners without work.

Are 600 Million Children Facing Disease, Want

TRENTON — By actual survey there are over 600,000,000 children in the world who live in the shadow of disease and want, E. D. Magnus said over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Magnus are both active in the work of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund and were instrumental in the organization of a branch in Trenton in 1956, at Dafferin School.

Mr. Magnus is also a member of the Canadian National Executive Committee of UNICEF and recently made a trip to the countries of the Far East, where he saw misery beyond belief.

On Wednesday, January 28, Mrs. Jean Arnold Tory, chairman of the national committee of UNICEF, will be in Trenton at the Dafferin Home and School meeting where she will tell of what happens to the money collected by the children on Hallowe'en. There will also be films shown and the meeting will be open to all interested people of the Bay of Quinte area.

Last year the children of the Dafferin school collected $400 in pennies and nickels for the fund and Mr. Magnus explained that this amount of money could do the children.

It could cure 8,000 children of trachoma, which does not kill but cripples for life; or it could give 28,000 children one full glass of orange juice a week; or it could give 3,000 children protection from malaria for one year; or it could provide 40,000 children with suitable protection from TB.

"More and more help is still needed for these children of the world", said Mr. Magnus. "And our motto is to give a little less candy to our own children on Hallowe'en and a little more for UNICEF".

CBC POSTPONES

CBU. The deferment announcement followed.

The Ottawa meeting followed one in Toronto Saturday in which an eight-man delegation of Montreal union leaders presented the producers' case at a meeting of 300 Toronto CBC employees.

At the meeting the CBC was criticized for "irresponsibility." The corporation was urged to withdraw the ultimatum and resume negotiations.

OPPOSE SPREAD

A statement by Toronto producers which said it opposed the spread of the strike outside Montreal was applauded at the meeting.

In Ottawa Sunday night E. T. Bushnell, acting president of the CBC, said his special representative in negotiations with the producers will be Marcel Carter, comptroller of management, planning and development for the corporation.

The CBC announced Saturday it is spending $3,000 to $7,000 a day on special police services to protect families of Montreal employees continuing to work.

The corporation employs about 1,300 members of its Montreal staff of 2,800 who went to work. Others include about 500 management employees.

Thermometers in the Belleville area took a nose dive Sunday night and early on to an abrupt end the comparative mild spell which had been enjoyed for the past few days.

The mercury at Belleville was said to have officially dropped to 14 below at the filtration plant in the west end of the city. But much lower temperatures were recorded in the area by farmers.

Aquatic Display Closes National Y.M.C.A. Week

Saturday was a busy day for the local YMCA as National YMCA week activities drew to a close with an aquatic display held in the Alderdey College. Over 100 people showed up to watch the fine events put on by local "Y" members. Of these interesting events four were outstanding being that of synchronized swimming put on by the junior girls; the diving display by Paul and John Peoples, Ralph Boomhower and Rodney Turner; the canoe and display by the women's life saving group, a game of water polo between two teams of the junior boys.

Meanwhile, back at 20 Campbell Street, a local house league basketball game was played between the Warts and the Pixies. The former won out in a close tilt, the score being 48-41. Highest scorer for the game was Don Skinner of the winning team with 19 points. Second highest scorer was Clyde McFarland, of the Pixies, with 15 points.

Team lineups were:

Warts: Parkhurst 13, Skinner 19, Dulmage 10, Hallem 6.

Pixies: McFarland 15, Blaker 13, Turner 7, Rose 7, Burley.

Officials: Bill Flanagan and Don McBride.

A BLOW FOR HUMANITY

Bancroft -- and the adding machine which used to be in the village clerk's office -- get our nomination for the kick of the year.

As far as we can discover Bancroft's adding machine struck the only newsworthy blow of the year in defence of what may become tomorrow's anachronism, the human brain.

The Hastings County Council, meeting here last week, agreed to strike $94,224 from the figure approved by Bancroft's equalized assessment, on receiving proof that an error of this proportion had been made as the result of calculations on which the assessment was based.

Notice the complete lack of symmetry in this wrong answer. If the error had been $99,999.99 or $35,353.35 or any of a number of almost limitless number of combinations, there would have been some engineer ready with a rationalization. But we defy even the most expert engineer to rationalize an error like $94,244. There's only one explanation. The machine was wrong.

The scientists's answer, of course, will be that it was an old, worn-out machine and that it was not very smart, anyway, a very primitive bit of mechanism. Today's machines can do much better.

But just as long as machines slip occasionally, just so long will there be an opportunity to suggest that it is advisable to have a human being around to check their calculations from time to time.

There is, of course, a disadvantage to this state of affairs. An ordinary man may read this story about the $94,224 error in Bancroft's assessment without wondering whether errors of comparable proportions have been made in figures which affect him. Conscience nags and suggests that perhaps certain things like mortgage payments and the interest on a bank loan should be subjected to the use of pencil, paper and the human brain. Perhaps other adding machines have slipped a few cogs. Intuition will warn that this way lies the path to a lot of useless work. The optimist, letting his rosy outlook come to the rescue of his dislike for labor, will suggest that it might be well to let things alone, that the errors, if any, are as likely to be in his favor as against him. The pessimist, and realist, will feel certain that this is not so. The adding machine in the village clerk's office in Bancroft, he will point out, set the pattern. It may have stepped out of line but the step was in keeping with the trend of the times.

When it erred it was in an inflationary mood. Its figure was higher, not lower, than the right answer. The pessimist will be sure that any errors machines may have made will certainly not be in his favor. He will feel certain, too, that it won't be worth his while to discover them. He won't have a vote on the tribunal which will court martial the erring adding machine, as did the reeve of Bancroft, Warden Jack N. Brown, when that village's machine was hailed into court.

THE TRUTH

Because a labor union distributed propaganda that was partly false, the U.S. Court of Appeals has ruled that the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. does not have to bargain with it.

We certainly have no quarrel with this ruling, but what the Milwaukee Sunday Journal refers to as "the court's simple and precise language" in outlining the reasoning behind this decision raises a much larger field of controversy.

"If truth is diluted, it is no longer truth," said the court. "A glass of pure water is no longer pure if a one-tenth part is contaminated, nor is it 'virtually' pure. There cannot be 'virtually' the truth, any more than there can be 'virtually' a virgin."

That this language has great appeal, we shall freely grant. The truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth -- what a noble ideal. But is it not, perhaps, only an ideal, never to be attained. Is it not, perhaps, as non-existent in a natural state as the court's conception, a glass of pure water? Truth, unlike virginity, is not something that is given to all of us until we destroy it and, while perhaps the word "virtually" is as inapplicable to truth as to virginity, a close approximation to the former is reason for pride, while a close approximation to the latter is an impossibility.

GOLDEN YEARS

The golden years, according to an experienced operator in the fatherhood field, are when the children are too old to expect you to know everything and too young to assume you know nothing. (Stratford Begcon-Herald.)

THEY STAY HOME
By EDGAR A. GUEST

No use going anywhere;
We don't have any fun,
Seems she's always worrying
About the little one.
Theirs'n! We've got them out;
Though I say it's wrong,
Mother says she can't stay
Away from him so long.

Had to give up parties, too,
Found it was no use;
Ten o'clock would find them, and she Framed up some excuse
To slip quietly away
From the merry throng;
Said she couldn't bear to stay
Away from him so long.

Oh, you lucky little tyke,
Blest with such a Ma,
Who can never begin to Save right where you are.
And no matter where she goes,
Tugging at her strong
Always is the thought that she Must not leave you long.

Gives History of Pipes

BBC London Letter

The North American Indians were the first to smoke, but in the past few hundred years the habit has spread, and in the process tobacco pipes have evolved in fascinating variety. In a recent BBC talk Dr. R. O. Samson, Jr., archaeologist and pipe Curator of the Horniman Museum in London, described their history and the interest of collecting them.

Clay pipes, said Dr. Samson said, were the stone toffee pipes in many areas of the United States and later caste many different pipes of stone, copper, bone and pottery. Pipes made of finely carved shale, often in the form of foxes and owls, were still made by the Hopi Indians of British Columbia, and most people were familiar with the pipes of peace of volumes of smoke at ceremonial occasions — "long stemmed fascinating pipes, often decorated with scalps and other circumpheathers and interlaced with locks of women's or horse hair."

There was little doubt, Dr. Samson said, that smoking in its various forms was known to the Indians before Columbus had discovered America in 1492 and on later journeys; although tobacco was first taken to Europe before the middle of the 16th century, credit was given to Sir Walter Raleigh and Sir Francis Drake for introducing the habit into England. In Ireland, "in 1573 ladle-like pipes were made for the first time in Ireland, but in 1586 the pipe became fashionable, in 1602 silver pipes were made for Queen Elizabeth Vaughan . . . The first clay pipes were made in the early years of the 16th century and soon became the fashionable smoking material. By 1620 they were almost immediately adopted. In 1619 the pipemakers had received their first charter from James I, and they adopted the motto—"let brother" love conserve." In the 17th . . . many pipes had become valuable objects of barter in America, and Sir William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania, had purchased large tracts of land, which had been included in the articles given in exchange.

Dr. Samson said that pipes from all over the world could be seen in the Horniman Museum, and European examples included a snake pipe of glazed pottery from Staffordshire; a Cornish fisherman's pipe from a crab's claw; long-stemmed pipes from Germany and Austria; Dutch Delft pipes carved from the antlers of deer with bowls made of meerschaum, amber, wood or porcelain; Lapp pipes made from the antlers of reindeer, and the bamboo pipes which had become firmly established in the French pipe-smoker had visited Corsica, Napoleon's birthplace, in the 19th century, and had replaced his broken meerschaum pipe with one made of the local barky, fragrained bitter wood.

Tobacco and come to China at the end of the Ming dynasty, Dr. Samson said, probably to Fukien Province by way of the Philippine island of Luzon from Central America. In North China and Tibet peasants smoked pipes made out of a single piece of bamboo with a tiny metal spoon bowl; even in parts of the country where the bamboo was scarce it was always very small, and the bamboo stem might have a mouthpiece, or ferrule, metal, glass, jade or ivory. These pipes should not be confused with opium pipes which differed in several details and opium smoking had not developed until the 18th century. The stem of the Japanese pipe was shorter than the Chinese, and the bowl and metal were used. In the Shan States of Burma he had seen pipes being made with fairly small clay bowls, joined to the stem with silver mounts and ornaments.

Turkey, where smoking had not been officially allowed until 1655, had produced the "chibouque" with meerschaum bowl and wood and long slender stem; and there were different types of water pipe—hookah, hubble-bubble or nargileh — in India, Turkey, Persia and Egypt and parts of Africa. Recently, Dr. Samson said, he had introduced to the Portuguese and the Dutch, was a splendid field for collectors. He found the multiple-bowl types particularly amusing, and the Horniman Museum possessed a seven-bowled wooden pipe from South Africa.

Life Savers His Gold Mine Go to Market

New York Herald Tribune

"The man who made a mint out of Life Savers."

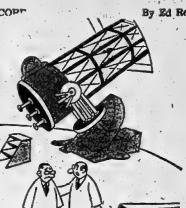
Edward J. Noble, now dead at seventy-six, was sometimes called that, and it was true. Acquiring the candy mint in 1913 with a loan of $3,900, enterprising Ed Noble, who was the epitome of an American entrepreneur, turned it into a literal gold mine by clever packaging and display.

But Ed Noble was something much more than a lucky businessman. He was a great human being, with a zest for life and for people, and the money he made was giving money away (he gave away millions) to worthy (and unworthy) causes. He was an active man, fond of flying his own planes. He had started in the Georgia or the St. Lawrence, later in the 1920s he was a autogyro, knew aviation as well he was chosen to head the Civil Aeronautics Administration by Hopkins, then Secretary of Commerce, a position created his worth and made him his No. 1 assistant. Still a Republican, he was in the campaign for Wilkie in 1940. In 1943 he made the key speech during the Blue Network and creating the American Broadcasting Co.

A man who always seemed young. Noble liked to give young people a hand. Through a Herald Tribune columnist, Robert Kintner, then only in his thirties, to become president of the network. It, too, succeeded. Noble was fertile in ideas. He was proud of the fact that his Life Savers giant in Port Chester was "gravity-fed," from the time sugar went in at the top until mints rolled out at the bottom.

Irish Eels Go to Market

Ulster Commentary



Though eels are plentiful in Lough Neagh are amongst the finest to be found in the world, there is practically no demand for eels here in Ulster. Consequently they have to be exported to the consumer market in England, and an interesting point about this trade is that the eels literally swim all, or almost all, of the way there.

As soon as they are landed from fishing boats in the Lough, the eels are placed in small wooden tanks in which they live naturally until they are despatched by Larne, the Belfast method of a busy cross-channel trading port. The journey to Liverpool is overland, of course, and it is completed in less than two hours. During the journey the eels are packed in wooden boxes, for they can live out of water for as long as twenty-four hours.

On arrival at Larne they are tipped into containers on the quayside and hosed down a "shoot" which leads to the Netherlands vessel "Helene," belonging to Europa, the Mediterranean and other areas for cargoes of eels for the growing English market. The eels journey to Maldon (Essex) the eels live in specially constructed tanks on board, because the hull of "Helene" is perforated to admit water to the tanks.

On arrival at Maldon the eels go into storage tanks until purchased by London buyers. They arrive in London as fresh as the day caught two weeks before — they were netted in the quiet waters of Lough Neagh.

The eel-fishing season commenced in September and catches this year have been good.

DISCUSS MEDICAL FEES WITH YOUR PHYSICIAN OR SURGEON.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Perhaps you can help me. This may be a very common practice, but I'm wondering. We have a family doctor for whom we have much faith and respect. In our family of seven, we have at times needed medical

"Our doctor puts us in the hospital, is in the operating room, and all I get from him and our insurance forms to fill out. Sometimes we receive a bill the first of the month, and sometimes not.

"Now here is my problem: We always receive a bill from another doctor, the surgeon, and that bill usually is a whopper. Is this the usual practice? Should part of our insurance have gone to him? Am I obligated to pay this other doctor? Or is my doctor obligated to share the insurance with him and have me pay the balance?—D. L."

There are different kinds of insurance. The Blue Cross — Blue Shield type is what you call a "service" insurance. Blue Cross, of course, is just hospital insurance; Blue Shield is for the medical and surgical benefits which is provided by the doctor, not by the hospital. (This is true in most instances, at any rate.)

Then such a policy, the hospital and doctor report what service they gave to you, after they receive payment. You don't get any money yourself. (In many instances you do get a check in your name to state to state to you may or may not have some additional payment to make directly.)

TYPES OF POLICIES

That's the "service - type" of policy. The other is the "indemnity - type," and the insurance company contracts to pay to you, in money, a specified sum depending on what kind of policy you have, how long you are ill, and what the illness is. In that case it is up to you to pay the bills yourself, from the money you receive. (Of course, it is also possible to "sign over" the insurance benefits to the doctor, and this sometimes is done. If the insurance money is not adequate to pay the whole cost, you owe the difference.

Now, then, for the other aspect of your question. Your doctor is in the operating room — he's got a bill from the surgeon.

That is as it should be. In repairing your house, you may have a contractor who will hire one man to paint, another to fix the roof, a third to do carpentry. The contractor makes a single charge to you, covering all of these varied tasks.

But we believe that where your health is concerned, it is a more personal, more vital matter, and that it is most right that you, the patient, should deal directly with the doctor or surgeon, with no "third party" or "contractor" intervening.

Surgery isn't like house repairs. The patient, under anesthesia, can't even see what is going on. Only the surgeon must be trustworthy and you must trust him.

An added reason for this direct dealing and direct billing is to avoid what is known as "fee-splitting", in which a doctor who "finds" a surgical case gets a "kickback" of money if he directs the patient to a surgeon who is willing to enter into such a deal.

Fee-splitting is not only a violation of medical ethics; it is in conflict with some of our laws.

I've abbreviated this subject, I don't want to avoid any unanswered questions about such things.

Did Mikoyan Use Parable?

Kingston Whig-Standard

After reading a report on the recent conversation in Detroit between Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan and Mr. Henry Ford II, we cannot help wondering if the wily Armenian, who has a reputation for making a point with a few well chosen words, has turned to parable.

Mr. Mokoyan told the automobile magnate that he no longer drives a car but has only a driver instead. In this way, he explained, he keeps his eyes on the road ahead instead of on the scenery.

Mr. Mikoyan may be able to keep his attention clear by vacating the driver's seat in this instance, but the rest of the world must never be allowed to forget where the true responsibility lies for any harm that may result.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

STARTS

Starts toward a definite objective are always important, even though we may give to another the job of finishing something we begin on.

Many courageous adventurers, for a long period of years, tried to conquer the air. Every letter try was met with defeat — but they never succeeded, largely by learning why the others failed. All those starts by others were not wasted. No efforts are wasted that serve a useful purpose in the long run.

The starts that ended in perfecting the automobile, the airplane, the telephone, the radio an TV has inspired great numbers of others to start things. And us have the slightest idea of our beginning, or of the starts that must be made to reveal this potential?

A German doctor finally discovered a useful medicine, but not until 606 trials had been made, so he called the discovery 606! Edison started an almost endless number of useful inventions, but each one of these served a great purpose through its start. Never grow discouraged after any start that shows a useful possibility.

These talks are often assumed out each day on an efficient little typewriter, but it was Edison who made a model that has inspired the creation of scores of typewriters and a near use-ful for endless application.

People who make the start that inspires others, serve all mankind.

In my youth I listened many times to an inspiring lecturer, and I have often called to mind one line that he spoke. It was this: "It is serious business to begin a soul voyaging toward Eternity!"

WE MUST MEET BASIC REQUIREMENTS

King Solomon was one of the most distinguished human beings that ever lived. Yet he was also one of the great failures. He began with two great goals, and Ahijotle and Leonardo da Vinci —as among the best informed persons in the world today.

As a king he had wise domestic and foreign policy. His name meant "peace." And his life and reign, save at the very end, were characterized by peace.

In his declining years, life seemed to cave in on Solomon. He died in disgrace. There was left a horrid legacy for his son. He should have gone down as one of history's greatest characters went down as one of history's greatest failures.

Solomon had certain ailments and they were spiritual ailments. In the first place he was vain and luxury loving to such an extent that he neglected his opposes his subjects in order to satisfy his own vanity. Also Solomon would not face a moral problem and settle it. He swept all moral problems under the rug. His many wives shipped many different gods, and Solomon in a spirit of good-natured tolerance allowed these women to bring these gods into the land of Israel and corrupt the spiritual and moral life of Israel.

There is no true success in life — for Solomon or anyone else — save spiritual success. Make and keep the soul right with God and everything will be right with life. And always remember that the only real success is that which measures up to the requirements of our spiritual natures.

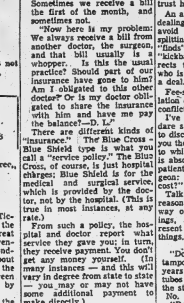
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A prosperous couple among my kinfolk have made ten or fifteen trips to Europe since the first World War which they usually met. They have seen all the famous places. They are as familiar with Paris and Berlin as they are with Montreal, Vancouver and Toronto. The past five trips they made, they rented a car so as to be free of the constraints of travel.

But last year, after six weeks travelling around France, Italy and Switzerland, they came to the conclusion that they had had enough. Enough of Europe — enough of the cities — enough of the crowds — enough of the food — enough of the hotels.

On their way home they drove to Calais and ferried their car across the Channel, planning to drive to Yorkshire for a brief visit with relatives and then home to Canada.



"Let's," said the wife, "avoid the big cities and towns and zigzag up the back roads."

So she took the map on her knee and directed the course. They were monotonously lost. Instead of heading straight up for Yorkshire, they found themselves in Wales, avoiding all large towns, using only the wrong roads, they zigzagged their way up through Shropshire, across through Leicester, seeing an England they never dreamed existed, staying at wonderful little inns, meeting unforgettable people, and getting to Yorkshire two weeks late.

Now they are re-found Britain, Europe, and are going again in September, with new impressions, and new destinations, on the back roads.

People With Estates in Ont. Or Quebec Forced to Pay Provincial, Federal Taxes

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ponder the case of Mr. X who wants to leave his $80,000 estate to his widow.

If he dies in Quebec and his estate is there, the tax will be $6,740.

In Ontario the tax will be $6,728.

But everywhere else in Canada the tax is only $2,600.

Why? Because Quebec and Ontario are the only provinces that impose their own succession duties. People with estates in Quebec or Ontario pay both provincial and federal taxes.

GAVE UP RIGHT

All the other provinces gave up their right to collect such duties when they rented certain tax fields to Ottawa.

The new federal estate tax law, effective since Jan. 1, provides higher exemption and various other reductions in death duties paid to the federal treasury.

Now Ontario is reported planning to increase exemptions, at least when estates are left to close relatives. Action may be taken at the 1959 session of the legislature.

There has been no indication what Quebec might do to ease its death taxes.

In any case, as long as the provincial taxes exist in any amount, the cost of dying will be higher for people with taxable estates in the central provinces than in the other eight.

NEW TREATMENT

Under the new federal act life insurance is treated in a new manner. Estate tax experts are advising husbands in some cases to have life insurance written up so that the policies are in full control and ownership of their wives. If this is done at least three years before death, there will be no federal tax on the money regardless of who pays the premiums.

Another means of reducing federal tax is to make sure property is held in joint ownership by husband and wife. Estate tax would be assessed on only half the property's value providing, again, this were done at least three years before death.

In Ontario, however, the provincial act regards such property held in joint ownership as 100-per-cent taxable unless the widow can show she used her own independently-acquired money to pay for part of the purchase price.

And a widow in Ontario must pay succession duty on her husband's insurance even if she owns and controls the policy unless she can prove she bought it and paid the premiums with her own independent resources.

FIVE-YEAR LIMIT

In Ontario a man may give a gift to his wife and escape succession duties if it is done at least five years before death as compared with three years under federal statutes. However, a federal gift tax may be involved, depending on the amount.

The five-year limitation also applies in Quebec but that province does not, for purposes of succession duties, recognize a gift from a husband to a wife unless it is contained in a pre-marriage contract.

However, a man may avoid succession duties on gifts to his children or others if they are made at least five years before death.

In the case of joint ownership of property by husband and wife in Quebec, death duties are imposed by the province on only half the value.

The new federal law differs from the old succession duties act in that the estate, not the beneficiaries, pays the death duty. It is thus an indirect tax. In Quebec and Ontario the duties are imposed on the persons receiving the money. Provinces are limited to direct taxation.

Unless a will lays down directions for payment of the provincial taxes, the chief beneficiary must pay the full assessment.

FEDERAL DEDUCTIONS

Under the new federal act there are more generous deductions from the net value of the estate before taxes are imposed.

If the aggregate net value of an estate—that is the value of all assets less funeral expenses, debts and court fees—is not more than $50,000, the estate is not taxable. There is also a special provision to prevent taxes from reducing the net value of an estate below $50,000.

Where the survivor is a widow with no children, the first $60,000 is exempt. The $60,000 exemption also applies where a wife leaves an infirm husband dependent upon her and there is at least one minor or infirm child. These exemptions are increased by $10,000 for each dependent child under 21 or each infirm child over 21.

In all other cases a $40,000 deduction may be claimed plus $15,000 for each dependent child.

All exemptions are boosted by 50 per cent if death resulted from war service.

In Ontario there is no succession duty on estates of less than $50,000 passing to a close relative such as husband, wife, father, mother, child, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, grandmother or grandfather. Nor is there duty on estates of $10,000 or less going to other relatives and on estates of charities or others.

But, in each case, if the estate exceeds these amounts, then the full value is taxable.

QUEBEC TAX

In Quebec, no duty is payable when the net value of property left to close relatives is $10,000 or less. This amount is increased by $5,000 for each child. Estates of $10,000 are taxable, however if left to such relatives as brothers or sisters or to persons not related to the deceased.

The federal law provides a 50-per-cent reduction in tax on property also taxable in Quebec or Ontario.

Despite this provision, residents of the two provinces may in some instances pay total death duties of as much as four times as great as if they had lived and held their assets elsewhere.

For example, in the case of a widow with two minor children, the tax on a $70,000 estate paid to the federal government in each of the other eight provinces would be $1,100. In Quebec the total of provincial and federal payments would be $4,880 and in Ontario $4,736.

The federal tax on $100,000 is $2,200 while the combined federal-Quebec duty would be $11,100 and in Ontario it would be $11,725.

The margin narrows as the value of the estate rises. The federal tax on $500,000 is $116,300 while the combined Ontario-federal levy is $130,000 and the Quebec-federal tax $133,000.

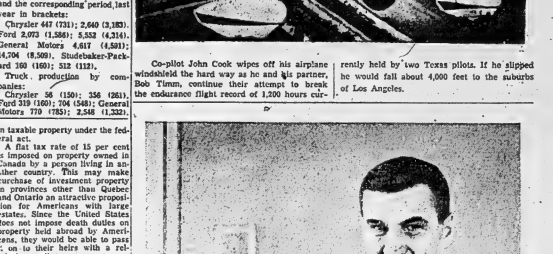
TRUST PROVISIONS

The laws provide a method of saving tax by providing a life interest in an estate for a widow rather than leaving it to her outright. In this way a second payment of tax—when the widow dies and the estate passes on to surviving children—is avoided.

In most cases the executor of a trust has the right to permit a widow to use some of the capital of the estate if the need arises. In such cases there would be additional provincial duties on the amount withdrawn. There would be no further federal tax.

Real estate located outside Canada is for the first time included in taxable property under the federal act.

A flat tax rate of 15 per cent is imposed on property owned in Canada by a person living in another country. This may make purchase of investment property in provinces other than Quebec and Ontario an attractive proposition for Americans with large estates. Since the United States does not impose death duties on property held abroad by Americans, they would be able to pass it on to their heirs with a relatively small tax payment.



There is no duty on such property if it is worth less than $5,000.

Death benefits—superannuation payments, pensions or gifts from an employer on death—now are taxable to their present or commuted value. Pensions arising out of war services are exempt.

When a family requires cash for living expenses after death of a member, the federal law permits payments of up to $1,500 by life insurance companies and up to $1,500 by savings institutions. Formerly the limits were $1,500 and $500 respectively.

Public Trials and Executions Well Understood by Cubans

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The public trials in the Havana Sports Palace, while not likely to enhance foreign confidence in Fidel Castro, are well understood by his fellow Cubans.

Canadians — and other friends of Cuba—have fears that may be valid but they are not conducive to justice in Havana, that Castro should have waited for the jury's verdict of expert evidence.

Certainly part of the answer is in the volatile Cuban temperament and Castro can point to the strongest popular support — not just mob support—for his stern procedures.

POPULAR WILL

The Thursday demonstrations, in which an estimated 750,000 people turned out to cheer him and his policies, provided one indication of the popular will and there have been similar indications in the provinces.

All this shows that the outside world is learning now for the first time just how bad things were in Cuba during the dictatorship of Batista and the many years he ruled behind the scenes.

On a television program, Castro appeared genuinely surprised and baffled at questions put to him about his summary executions, as if he thought the reasons for these would be well known to everybody.

"Proof is so easy," he said, holding out his hands in a helpless gesture.

ON ALL SIDES

Herbert L. Matthews of the New York Times, an expert on Latin - American affairs and a close observer of the Cuban scene for years, writes:

". . . There is hardly a family in Cuba that did not have a member at least arrested and at worst tortured and killed by president Batista's soldiers and police.

"Moreover, in every city, town and village, the killers and torturers were known."

This gives added point to Castro's contention that the rebels were correct in dealing out quick retribution, lest an inflamed populace go on the rampage, killing innocent as well as guilty.

NEW PLAN

Castro now has announced that capital punishment will be prohibited in Cuba as soon as the present notorious "war criminals" have been tried by summary court-martial.

This was apparently meant to reassure foreign countries but below the surface is a understanding of what the criticism is all about. The criticism has been directed at the speed and summary nature of the executions, not at the principle of capital punishment.

Castro has succeeded in maintaining a surprising degree of control over his victorious young warriors, and there has been practically no looting or bloodlust vilence.

But there is ample evidence that, at 32, he was unprepared for the political responsibilities that fell on his shoulders with victory. It has made little difference that Manuel Urrutia, an older and more experienced administrator, was named as provisional president—Castro is the boss in the eyes of the people.

Wedding

FLINDALL—KAISER

A quiet, but very pretty wedding was solemnized on Friday evening, January 23rd, at 7.00 o'clock in Christ Church, Bellville, by the rector of the church, Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, when Mildred Elizabeth Kaiser, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Kaiser, became the bride of Mr. William Flindall, also of Bellville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Flindall.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. D. W. Kaiser, was lovely in her bridal gown of blue flowered Austin-Halsaid Coramil with fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore a headdress of lily - of - the - valley, white mitts and shoulder corsage of white hyacinth bells.

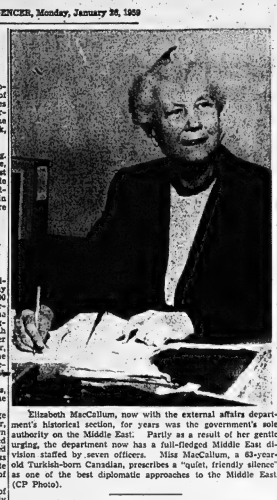
Mr. James Loveless, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home for the immediate families and a few close friends. The bride's table was prettily appointed with an all-white wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom between candles and white roses.

The bride's mother received, gowned in dark green silk with corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore beige toned silk with corsage of sprinkled carnations.



Mr. and Mrs. Flindall are residing in Belleville.

Miss Elizabeth McCallum Authority on Middle East

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)— If you favor the long view in international affairs, try talking to Elizabeth MacCallum.

From 1942 to 1947, this remarkable Canadian was the government's sole expert on the Middle East. Here is her advice:

"Outsiders should adopt an attitude of compassion, understanding and quiet observation. A quiet, friendly silence may often be the wisest course."

URGES PATIENCE.

For headline hunters who see crises or coups d'etat around every sand-swept corner, Miss MacCallum counsels patience.

"It may be that we attribute an excessive importance to day-to-day developments. When one goes back in time, things look different. Reading and reflecting, there is borne in on one an appreciation of the blood that has been shed and the extent to which we are moving away from all that.

"One feels very unhappy about the hatreds of today, but those hatreds have been expressed in the past in a much more devastating way."

A handsome, distinguished woman with snow-white hair, clear blue eyes and a friendly manner, Elizabeth Pauline MacCallum was born 63 years ago in Marash, Turkey, the bookish daughter of Congregational Church missionaries from Ontario.

One decisive day—July 24, 1908, —revolution in Turkey fired the young girl's imagination and provided a turning point in the life of one of Canada's most unusual women diplomats.

"We were camping in the mountains, and pitched our tent among the ancient cedar trees," she recalled in an interview. "Then we heard about the revolution.

"In a country without representative institutions, as Turkey then was, the atmosphere of change and the talk of parliamentary democracy were extremely stimulating."

Ever since, she has been interested in politics. After taking higher education at Calgary, Queen's University and Columbia, she plunged into research with the Foreign Policy Association in New York and later with the League of Nations Society in Ottawa.

In July, 1942, she joined the external affairs department and rapidly established herself as a kind of one-woman Middle East division. Always a firm and consistent advocate of an increased Canadian diplomatic effort in the area, she probably influenced the department's decision to establish a Middle East section, staffed by specialists in Arabic affairs.

Abroad, Miss MacCallum has served in Greece and Lebanon. She went to Beirut in 1954 as counsellor and was promoted to charge d'affaires, becoming the first woman head of mission though not technically accredited as such.

Now in Ottawa with the historical section of external affairs—the department's "memory"—she has the affection and esteem of all about her.

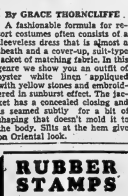
Asked what she considers the most interesting current generation about the Middle East, she replied:

"The pace of events. The area is in rapid transition to something we cannot foretell.

"Half a century ago things were quite stagnant. Today, the fact has been grasped that human beings can modify their own destiny. The ordinary peasant is less subject to disease and misfortune, and does forward to further betterment.

"This is a tremendous change, and it has an accumulating momentum."

IMPORTANT RESEARCH



A "veil of ignorance" is being torn away. Archaeologists are constantly discovering new facts about one of the cradles of civilization. Historical statements once considered gospel truth are being proved false.

When not buried in a book—perhaps Dr. Kenyon's Digging Up Jericho or one of Runciman's volumes on the Crusades—Miss MacCallum likes listening to music or walking in the Gatineau Hills.

An enthusiastic gardener, she regards Uxbridge, Ont., as her "grassroots" and has had a country residence there before the Second World War and fondly recalls her 16 fruit trees.

Religion and public service are her family's main themes. A grandfather preached in Gaelic in the Glengarry, Ont., church of novelist Ralph Connor. Her father, the late Frederick MacCallum, was a missionary minister and her mother, the former Mima Reid, is a Methodist minister's daughter.

Her sisters, Mrs. E. M. Laird, now in Indonesia, and Mrs. Frances Crowther of Los Angeles, formerly of Toronto, are active in social and educational work. Two brothers, now dead, worked in universities and Bible societies.

Current Events were given by Mrs. Chas. Ross.

Mrs. Leslie Finkle convened the following program: a New Year's reading, "The New Year," by Mrs. Harold Detlor; Mrs. Allyn Finkle, "The Flu"; Mrs. Charles Ross a humorous selection, "Pa's Cheap Car."

Mrs. Finkle called on Mrs. Harry Coulter, district president, to speak to the members at Women's Institutes. The first institute was started in February of Women's Institutes. "The first was started in February 1897 and is now known as the Stoney Creek Women's Institute." Today there are Institutes or similar organizations in every province, and also the Associated Country Women of the World was organized in 1933.

Mrs. L. Finkle also conducted a quiz on the hand-book which was interesting and informative.

Refreshments were served.

Home-School Group Reviews Code of Ethics

The January meeting of the Belleville and District Home and School Council was held Thursday evening at Queen Alexandra School. Due to the inclement weather the outlying districts were not as well represented this month.

The regular business reports, nomination for Federation were discussed and each association was urged to use its franchise.

Mr. Sharp of the Immigration Office in Toronto, has offered services of speakers to put on citizenship programs. Mr. Parr of the Belleville office will be pleased to give further information.

The topic of a "Citizenship Day" in conjunction with other local organizations, was brought up and further details will be made available at a later date.

The annual Home and School convention dates are April 1st and 2nd. All associations should try to send at least one delegate. It is an excellent opportunity to see what is being done in other associations in Ontario and discuss problems. Mrs. L. Risto is reservation chairman for Belleville district.

BOOKING AGENT

A committee is in the process of being set up to act in the capacity of booking agent. This committee will have on hand the dates each association has booked, also dates for less active meetings, also dates for less and falls. It is hoped to eliminate duplication and confusion by checking with this committee first.

A meeting for association presidents and council executive will be held at the library on February 5th, 8 p.m.

For the main subject for the evening was election procedures—at which there are three methods::

ELECTION PROCEDURES

Method I — "Nominations by Mail" was explained by Mrs. J. Winstanley, assisted by Mrs. B. Stenson and Mrs. L. Risto. Ballots were distributed to the general meeting and a mock election took place.

Method II—This method dealt with "Written nominations at general meeting preceding annual meeting." Mrs. G. Lane and Mrs. F. Walsh enlarged on the procedure.

Method III — "Nominating Committee". This method seems to be used more than the preceding types. Mrs. Wrought and Mrs. Garlepy used a question and answer period to enlarge on this.

Mrs. R. Jones thanked the council members for their co-operation in presenting election procedures and all associations were asked to use whatever method if results were not satisfactory with the procedure now being used.

Mr. Frank Benson introduced a skit which interpreted the aims and objects of the Home and School.

The setting was a living room in the home of a new community—played by Mrs. Digby. Mrs. R. Jones, chairman of the membership committee, calls on newcomer to explain Home and School and invite her to attend meetings. Saying, parent education is factfinding not fault-finding. A fault-finding neighbor, Mrs. A. Fort, is visiting the home at the time and is also convinced to attend a meeting instead of criticizing something she knows nothing about.

A PARENT'S CODE OF ETHICS

I will establish a direct and personal contact with the school my children attend by availing myself of the opportunity to visit it and get first-hand information regarding the equipment, teaching and activities of the school.

I will encourage a sympathetic and constructive attitude toward the school and its activities.

I will support and co-operate with the teaching staff and Board of Education to the fullest possible extent.

I will make no hurried criticisms but will act only on the basis of accurate and first-hand information after sober judgment.

I will discourage fault-finding on the part of my children; will refrain from adverse criticism of the teachers and the school in their presence.

I will expect nothing for myself or for my children contrary to the interests of the entire school.

I will accept my share of responsibility of the home and school as partners in the education of children.

I will provide home conditions favorable to study and will co-operate with the school in developing and protection of the health and character of the children.

I will try to keep pace with modern education by reading periodicals and books on progressive educational movements.

The skit was closed with all present repeating "A Parent's Code of Ethics" together.

Mrs. Ironside presided at the piano and a social time followed with Bayview Home and School Association providing the refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN "HOUSEWARMING" AND "OPEN HOUSE"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

May I ask you another question on the subject of "Housewarmings"? We expect to move into our new home in the Spring. When would it be appropriate to have the Housewarming? How soon or how late? I was wondering about having the "Housewarming" or "Open House" around the 1959 Christmas holiday season — because I think one can entertain so much nicer in the Christmas season. What would be your suggestion about this? Incidentally what is the difference between a "Housewarming" and an "Open House"? — R.R.K.

While there is no rule about the proper time for giving a Housewarming, it is customary to give it as soon as convenient after "settling" in the new home. Since an important part of the occasion is the showing of the house to the guests (even the closets), the house must be more or less finished in its decoration and furnishings, although of course these need not be entirely finished. However, if you wait too long before giving the Housewarming, the chances may be that many, perhaps most, of your friends will already have come to see your new home.

What is the difference between a "Housewarming" and an "Open House"? A very special difference. An "Housewarming" is a party given for a definite reason . . . to welcome relatives and friends to a new home. An "Open House" is an occasion of hospitality more generally extended . . . a party which may be, but need not be, given for some special reason other than hospitality. For example: you might give a "Housewarming" as soon as possible after your new home is ready to be shown; and then give an "Open House" during the 1959 Christmas season.

SHOWERS FOR SECOND MARRIAGES?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, 29 years of age, and I have just become engaged to a widower. We plan to be married in about three months. My first marriage was very quickly planned, and there was no time for friends to give showers for me. Now I am wondering if it is customary for showers to be planned for a second marriage. Is it? — S.S.

Showers are not generally given for second marriages. However, it is not incorrect for a small group of intimate friends of the bride-to-be to get together to give a shower for her.

MAY BEST MAN GIVE BACHELOR DINNER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My prospective groom has asked me to to ask you a question that is bothering him. We are to be married in about two months. He has just recently completed his service overseas and, because of finances, had entirely given up the idea of giving a bachelor dinner." But last evening his best man, his closest friend for many years (he has no brother), had a talk with him and said he would very much like to give a get-together party for him at his (the best man's) house.

His mother suggests he might give a buffet dinner on the Sat. during before our Thursday wedding. He would invite his members of the wedding party, of course, (who are great friends), and also several other mutual friends of the groom and best man.

The best man assured my Jim that he had not talked over his plan with anyone but his mother and father, who are most enthusiastic about it, and of course would not until he got Jim's answer. Jim and I have never heard of any bridesmaids party except the traditional "bachelor dinner," and he would like to know if it is proper for him to accept the best man's plan? — R.

Yes, entirely proper for your Jim to accept the best man's thoughtful and generous plan. Nowadays, when not as much importance is given to the traditional type of bachelor dinner as formerly, occasionally the best man is the host of an informal party given for the prospective bridegroom, or very often the men of the wedding party combine to give the party on a Dutch Treat basis.

THE OPPOSITE OF A "HOUSEWARMING" PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

You always seem to enjoy answering questions about Housewarmings . . . and now I'd like to ask you a question about just the reverse of a Housewarming.

For about twenty years my husband and I have lived in a very pleasant and comfortable house we rented from a company which now is going to use the location for an office building. So we have to move in about three months. Before we move we would like to give a large party in the house (we'll probably never be able to live in a house again, probably now in a small apartment), inviting our relatives and friends to say "Good-by" to this house. "Open House" obviously doesn't seem a very suitable name for this party, nor does "At Home." Have you any suggestions as to an appropriate name? — S.R.

Yes . . . today this kind of party is often called a "housecooling," the opposite of a "Housewarming." An amusing name to "come to the aid of the party"! These are days—when, for various reasons, so many families must move from a house, that it was natural that a name would be "made up" for the party given to say a fond farewell to the house. So . . . "Housecooling" is the name!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Stanley T. — She should have told the truth.

Eloise T. — Rose wouldn't have understood.

Stanley T. — My wife and I are having quite a feud over a social problem.

A couple we have been friendly with for many years decided to move into our apartment building. The wife, Rose, asked my wife whether she had any objections. My wife, like a fool, said no, and we now have them for our next-door neighbors.

We are both fond of Rose, but can't stand her husband. As long as we saw them once every couple of months, I didn't mind, but it's a hate having to see them every night. Rose really got the info a heck of a pickle this time. I don't see why she couldn't have told her the truth — that we'd rather they didn't live in our building.

Eloise T. — I don't see how I could have tactfully told Rose I'd rather she wouldn't live near me. We've been friends for years. She simply wouldn't understand if I said we didn't want her.

Actually, I don't see why it should make such a big difference. We have very good relations with all our neighbors. Most of them we wouldn't want as friends, yet we get along beautifully and are constantly helping one another out. Why shouldn't we get along well with neighbors who happen to be friends? What difference does it make?

It is amusing about Rose's husband, but I guess we can put up with him if we have to. Some of our neighbors are worse.

The Council: We think Stanley has some justice on his side. Friends and neighbors are two entirely different species, and a wise and tactful friend probably would have avoided this situation. We think Rose should have looked elsewhere for her apartment. She certainly put Eloise on the spot.

Neighbors are almost like relatives. We don't choose them. We accept them as they are, and we expect them to accept us as we are. We don't put on any show for them, and they often become far more involved in the day-to-day intimacies of our lives than friends. We may not like them particularly, but in a sense we are forced to. We are bound together by sheer common humanity. Each day struggles, the happier we are: We try to show ourselves at our best to them, and if they don't live up to what we expect of them we gradually discontinue the relationship. We can be free of friends whenever we wish — but not of neighbors.

We've overdrawn this a bit to emphasize the distinction, but we think the differences are valid in a general way and that if Eloise had been tactful she could have avoided a little further trouble. She might have plucked up the courage to state the issue to Rose in these terms. We'll admit it would be difficult.

It will take good sense and great tactfulness on the part of both couples to maintain a good relationship. The tendency will be to presume upon friendship to become over – neighborly, and the overneighborliness will strain the friendship. The couples should avoid "dropping in," borrowing eggs or getting overinvolved in one another's day-to-day problems.

Because I have just returned from a delightful visit to the car as we can to get toward our ideals. Usually the less we know about their failings and day-to-day struggles, the happier we are: We try to show ourselves at our best to them, and if they don't live up to what we expect of them we gradually discontinue the relationship. We can be free of friends whenever we wish — but not of neighbors.

SLOW MUSIC

Adagio, as a term in music, means the notes should be played very slowly.

Then I will give you the recipe for Aptel Beignets which is a glorified apple fritter. I think apple fritters may be a feature of many German restaurants and this will be one to fill your request for German recipes.

APFEL BEIGNETS

(German Apple Fritters) To serve six guests, core 6 medium apples. I think Spy would be ideal—or Canada. Cut them in half crosswise to form 12 rings that are about the size of doughnuts. Soak them for 3 hours in a dry white wine or lemon juice diluted half and half with water and sweetened with powdered sugar. Drain and dry. Dip in Fruit Fritter Batter: Two egg yolks, 1-3 cup each water and evaporated milk or rich milk, 1 tablespoon lemon juice or (wine or brandy), 1 table spoon melted butter, 1 cup sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg whites, ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Beat the egg yolks with the water and milk; add the lemon juice and butter. Stir in until smooth the flour sifted with the salt and sugar. Add the ½ teaspoon salt to the egg whites and beat until stiff, then fold them into the batter. It is now ready for dipping (see note below) Have ready deep fat to depth of at least 1¼ inches and heated to 385 deg. Fahr. Add only enough battered apples that may be readily turned. When golden brown on underside turn over and brown other side. Drain on absorbent paper and sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Serve hot.

Note: This batter is ideal for dipping drained canned pineapple, halves of bananas first soaked in lemon juice or rum, fresh or canned peach halves or apricots, etc.

One policy can insure this whole family

AS THE HEAD of the family, you naturally want to carry enough insurance to provide for your family, if something should happen to you. It is also a sound plan to carry some insurance on your wife and children.

With the new Metropolitan Family Plan, you can have additional permanent insurance on yourself and provide insurance on the lives of your family all at the same time . . . and with just one policy.

Here are some of the provisions of this plan: For You: Permanent Life insurance with regular cash and loan values . . . and the additional advantage of reduced premiums guaranteed for the first five years that the policy is in effect.

For Your Wife: Term insurance on her life of about one-fourth the amount of your insurance under this policy. It continues in effect until the time you are or would have been 85.

For your children between the ages of 14 days and 18 years — term insurance on each child until age 25. The premium is the same regardless of the number of children, and those born after the policy comes into effect will be automatically covered after they are 14 days old.

A further important advantage for your children is that when each child reaches age 25, he or she can take out permanent insurance of up to five times the amount of the term insurance without medical examination.

Another feature of the Metropolitan Family Plan is this: in the case of your death, your wife and children receive the benefits from your insurance, and the insurance on their lives continues in effect without further premium payments.

You will find that this is an ideal policy to add to your present insurance or to cover your wife and children. Ask your Metropolitan Representative to explain all of its many desirable features. He will be pleased to do so without any obligation on your part.

ON THE AIR!

If there are any Tennessee Ernie Fords, Milton Berles, Bennies or Skeltons in the McFarlands' Booster Club, better ready your best buttons and bows for tomorrows night.

"Snipe" Matthews may deliver a "tin can" commercial, Duffy may give the story of his Booster Club life to another newshound, Dick Beare may expedite on the beauties and benefits of a Kinmen Kings but outside of that you will be on the television screen.

The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation is sending down a battery of cameramen who will spotlight the Macs as a team and individually, also members of the Booster Club alone and en masse.

So orders from headquarters are, as many Booster is possible required for the mob scenes, garbed in berets, buttons, bearing banners, carrying cans and whooping the battle cry of "More, Macs, More."

It won't be exactly "The Birth of a Nation" or "The Ten Commandments" but there should be plenty of color around for the video cameras if the Boosters turn out as requested.

Adding to it will be the red-shirted Hull-Ottawa Canadiens who lower the curtain on their schedule activities here for the season.

DIFFERENT OPINIONS

It has been heartwarming, at least in the majority of times, to see in the public prints how many sportswriters and sports editors have "milled" their support of the McFarlands, their efforts to raise money for the European junket, and their opinions on who should pay the transportation shot.

The majority were in favor of the federal brass picking up the tabs, but there were some emphatic nays in the typewriter-pounding, too.

The Metropolitan sports editor who rolled his eyeballs in horror at the very thought of Ottawa paying the shot pointed out the Whitby Dunlops and Kelowna Packers paid their own way. What he should know living in the holler-than-thou suburb of Bialsville, that the Dunlop Company undervotes the Dunnites' overseas expenses, and its branch offices overseas took care of the boys while away. The KAHA footed the bill for the Packers to Russia, although the apple-pickers did raise something like $15,000 for bench and vodka money.

Ted (The Ole Meaner) Reeve shook his mane the other morning and came up with some nice things and suggestions. Said Edward: "As a fan or reporter are we glad to know that the strong squad from Belleville will be making this trip to Europe? A ring-ding yes, yes from this corner. Also it is heartening to hear of the good sportsmen like Harvey McFarland of Picton in the sponsorship of good sport. More than a few votes for this far-from-invisible character in the awards for 1959 sportsmen of the year come balloting time."

Speaking of the transportation tab, Ted thinks the promoters of the international tournament could afford to spread enough of the gates in the direction of the tourney's top drawing card . . . the Canadians, or Canadian versus Russia, to pay for the passage of the Mac overseas.

He said: "They pack the rinks over there and the dough has to go somewhere, even if head promoter A. Bunny Ahearne who is quick like a bunny on the travel bureau business (and thereby hangs a local tale) doesn't deserve a fair share, too."

"The McFarlands hockey players, and more power to them, are pros and get paid, we would think, so much a game for their league matches in the OHA. They bring in the crowds and are entitled to the stipend like the rest of us on pay day."

"And if they wish a trip to Europe they are entitled to pay their way like the rest of us. Or, as suggested above, have the gates which they draw in Europe given to their club to help defray — just as the hockey nationals did it back in the thrifty thirties or the English soccer teams handle matches when they come this way each summer."

Hot Race in West-North Loop

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

An exciting stretch drive is taking shape in the OHA-NOHA (Senior A schedule.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen pulled to within a point of the first-place Chatham Maroons Saturday with their 6-0 victory over Sudbury Wolves. The two club race has been tight as a drumhead all month.

But the real tension appears to be building up in the jockeying for the fourth and last playoff spot which is still a toss-up between Copper Bulldogs and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds. To add to the excitement, the last-place North Bay Trappers have suddenly caught fire and are closing fast.

DUMP THE SOO

North Bay dumped the Soo 6-4 Saturday night, stopping a Soo bid to move into a tie with Sudbury for third spot, and Saturday took a 5-3 decision at Windsor Sunday.

An impressive 2,100 fans turned out at Kitchener despite the stormy weather and watched the Dutchmen have an easy time turning back Sudbury.

The visitors put up a staunch attack in the first period but from then on it was Kitchener's game. Goalie Rosti Hurley posted his second shutout of the season with 28 saves, most of them on shots from short.

Sudbury drew 11 of 18 penalties including 10-minute misconduct reports.

Bruins Saturday but the visitors scored three times in the third. Jerry Toppazzini, Bronco Horvath and Don McKenney collected the Boston goals. It was McKenney's 24th this season.

In Chicago Sunday Leafs scored in all three periods and goalie Ed. Chadwick had a shutout going until 12:31 of the third when Hawks' Jack McKenzie beat him.

Bert Olmstead scored in the first, Frank Mahovlich and Ron Stewart in the second and Duff in the third. The little left winger now has 17 goals this season.

Goalie Perreault made 24 stops for his Saturday shutout over Chicago, whom he had beaten 3-2 on Wednesday.

Howe got his first goal on a power-play pass from defence-man Marcel Pronovost in the first period while Hawks Ted Lindsay was in the penalty box.

His second was scored in the third when he grabbed his own rebound and deposited past Glenn Hall. The right-winger has scored 21 this season.

Bisons Regain Top Spot in American League

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thanks to a baby-faced, 19-year-old winger in his first year as a pro, the American Hockey League has a hot three-man scoring race today to go with the Buffalo Bisons' five-point comfortable for first place.

Bill Hicke of Rochester Americans rolled out four goals and two assists in three games played Friday, Saturday and Sunday to take over first place in the individual scoring race.

With two goals in Sunday's 3-0 victory over Springfield Indians, the young Montreal Canadiens' farmhand has 59 points, one more than Art Stratton of Cleveland Barons and Ken Schinkel of Springfield.

The Buffalo-Hershey battle for first place wound up in a week-long split. Buffalo still leads by one point, with Cleveland third, three points behind.

TEADE LEADS

After losing the lead to Hershey by virtue of a 5-2 whipping Saturday, Buffalo regained the top spot Sunday night as Wally Hergesheimer scored in 23 seconds of a sudden-death overtime for a 4-3 decision. Hergesheimer also scored early in the game. Cline scored twice for Buffalo to send the game into overtime after Willie Marshall's three goals had sent Hershey ahead 3-1.

Cleveland, riddled by injuries bowed to Providence Reds 6-3 Sunday after dropping a 3-1 decision to Springfield Saturday.

Hicke, promoted from junior hockey this season, had a goal and an assist in Rochester's 3-2 loss to Providence Reds Saturday.

Garry Alderson scored Rochester's other goal Sunday. The shutout was the first this season for veteran goaltender Gerry McNeil.

Quebec Hockey

Montreal Royals are singing the "injury blues" but they can't express much sympathy from the rest of the Quebec Hockey League.

Sunday the Montrealers, who have had as many as 11 men on the line this season, edged Quebec Aces 4-3 to take a 12-point lead over second - place Trois-Rivieres Lions who were scraping past Chicoutimi Saguenens 2-1 on their home ice.

Canadiens Way Out in Front But Rest of Milling Throng Separated by Only 5 Points

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

If you ignore first place, this season is providing one of the most exciting National Hockey League races in years.

Montreal Canadiens, with their big men beginning to score again, continue to soar farther and farther above the rest of the league, but in the milling throng beneath, only five points separate second place from the cellar.

Canadiens won both their weekend games—after three games without a victory—to boost their first-place margin to 16 points. None of the other five could do better than a split of two matches in the dog-eat-dog battle for playoff spots.

HAWKS IN SLUMP

The slumping Chicago Black Hawks, though, they lost both weekend games, still hold second with 46 points, but New York Rangers, with a game in hand, have moved up to share it with them.

Fourth are Boston Bruins with 43 points; Detroit Red Wings follow with 42 and last are Toronto Maple Leafs with 41.

Sunday Canadiens moved into Detroit and banged Red Wings, who seemed to be on the rise, a 7-3 licking in which Bernie Geoffrion scored for the first time in 14 games.

FIRST OF SEASON

Detroit Saturday beaten Montreal in 10 games this season.

Rangers rebounded from their Saturday loss to the Habs by a 5-2 Montreal to humiliate Bruins 8-3 before a Boston crowd in a wild and woolly match that saw Rangers' Lorne (Gump) Worsley stop 36 shots in the first two periods.

Saturday Bruins went through their fifth game without a defeat, beating Toronto 5-3 in Toronto but Leafs went into Chicago Sunday to win 4-1, their first victory over the Black Hawks in a month.

Saturday the Hawks, who have lost three in succession, were shut out 3-0 by Detroit on Gordie Howe's two goals and a fine performance by substitute netminder Bob Perreault.

NEW LINE SCORES

Canadiens didn't score until the second period against New York Saturday, then the new line of Claude Provost, Henri Richard and Andre Pronovost clocked for the first one with the Pocket-Rocket pulling the trigger.

Donnie Marshall upped it 2-0 in the third before Andy Hebenton tied it at 2-2. With the score 2-1 in the dying moments coach Phil Watson pulled Worsley but the move backfired as Jean Beliveau scored despite Dean Prentice's work as emergency addminder.

Sunday the roof fell in on Detroit's Perreault, who had turned in two fine games a 3-substitute for injured Terry Sawchuk, and in the only question was how high the score would be.

Ralph Backstrom, who returned to action Saturday after being out with injuries for 10 games, made his chances of winning rookie-of-the-year Larry Sawchuk look better as he scored his 12th and 13th goals this season.

ALL SINGLETONS

No one Canadien scored more than once. The other goals went to Henri Richard, his 12th, Geoffrion, his 20th, Dickie Moore, his 24th, Beliveau, his 21st, and defenceman Doug Harvey's fourth.

Rookie Len Lunde scored his first goal of the year for Detroit in the first period as the count went to 3-1, Canadiens scored two more in the second and made it 7-1 in the third before Jack McIntyre and rookie Claude Laforge scored goals for Detroit.

In Boston Sunday four goals—three by New Yorkers—were scored before the eight-minute mark of the first period.

Rookie Kerry Colwill got two Ranger goals, both with his team short-handed. The other Ranger tallies were by Ed Shack, Red Sullivan, Camille Henary, Dean Prentice, Jim Bartlett and Earl Ingarfield. Vic Stasiuk, Johnny Bucyk and Larry Hillman scored for Boston.

Stan Mikita Picks Up Eight Points

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A fiery little St. Catharines TeePee forward playing with a broken wrist in a cast and an inspired win by last-place Hamilton Cubs highlighted weekend OHA Junior A games.

Stan Mikita, the boys's leading scorer who says his injured wrist impedes stick-handling, picked up eight points including two goals as St. Catharines trounced Barrie Flyers 6-1 Saturday and followed up with a 4-2 conquest of Toronto St. Michael's Sunday.

Hamilton Cubs gave home fans a fired-up performance Saturday as they led second-spot Peterborough Petes all the way to record a 6-2 win.

BILTS SHOW POWER

Guelph Biltmores, the team without stars, also impressed as they blasted Toronto Marlboros 7-1 in the other half of Sunday's Toronto doubleheader and move within one point of third-place St. Michael's.

St. Catharines broke a three-game Barrie winning streak by hiring four unanswered goals in a heated third period which saw several fights and penalties. Coach Hap Emms twice refused to tee a fuit scrum.

Emms' action resulted from a disputed penalty. He finally cleared the bench and finished the game with only a goaltender and two other players on the ice.

Mikita added to his star TeePee goals, scoring singles in the second and third periods and assisting on the others. Linemate Chico Maki also marked a pair with Bob Cornyn and Bill Hillis getting one each. Nelson Leclair scored Barrie's lone goal.

St. Catharines increased its league lead to 13 points Sunday by the win over the second-place St. Michael's Majors with a pair by Dave Keon and Jim Sonoski fired goals for Majors, who were managed by Rev. David Bauer in the absence of Bob Goldham. TeePees drew six of nine penalties, including two majors. Both goaltenders, Dennis Dejordy for St. Catharines and Cesare Maniago for Majors, starred.

CUBS LOOK SHARP

Hamilton Cubs looked almost unbeatable in their battle with Peterborough Petes. Bob Dillabough and Larry Jeffrey each got a pair for the Steelworkers and Stu McNeill and Keith Walsh fired singles.

Wayne Boddy and Fred Dart scored for the losers. Peterborough goalie Bob Neverman was worse defeat as he turned aside 45 shots from the dominating Cubs.

Seven players shared in Guelph Biltmores 5-3 victory against Marlboros. Carl Kraft, Sandy McGregor and Ron Ryan fired goals. Mike Donaldson, George Gidley and Rod Gilbert each found the range for Biltmores second Marlboros' goal.

Bill had a 3-0 lead at the end of the first and increased it to 5-0 going into the third. The teams shared 18 penalties.

Travel-Weary Macs Drop Decision To Hull-Ottawa

Loss Is Fifth in 32 Starts After Sensational 4-4 Tie With Dunnies on Saturday

A sensational 4-4 battle with the Whitby Dunlops and near all-night and all-day travel took their toll from the McFarlands over the weekend, and they dropped their fifth game in 33 starts to the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens on Saturday night, 3-1.

The loss clipped the Macs' unbeaten string at thirteen, but they hold a four-point lead over the Dunlops in the league standing with two games left in their 48-game schedule.

Due to highway delay and ceremonies in Whitby the Macs did not arrive home until 3 a.m. Sunday. At nine a.m. they were on the road to Hull. They wind up their Eastern Senior League commitments this week, playing Hull here tomorrow night, and dropping the final curtain on Friday with the Carnwall Cheviots at their guests.

While the Dunlops stand an excellent chance of winning the league leadership at schedule end, the Macs hope by victories over Hull and Cornwall this week to leave for Europe on February 1 as top dogs in the Eastern Ontario senior league standing.

WHITBY (Staff) — The McFarland playing combination endeared ranked up his fourth black eye and fifth hat trick in a sensational battle of champions here Saturday night.

Hildebrand led the Prague-bound Dunlops champions to a 3-1 first-period lead against the world champion Dunlops, desperately tried to rally them against a terrific three-goal onslaught in the second frame and scored the equalizer in a nail-biting third period to earn the 4-4 stalemate.

Ike scored his 26-27-28 goals of the season to pull up on even terms with Bobby Smith who fired his 28th marker in the second period. Lou Sneyd got the other Mac goal with Bert Bentley and Wiener Brown getting two assists each. Crawford and Benoit one each.

Etcher, Air and Kane scored the other Dunlop goals.

The rafter-packed Whitby arena plentifully sprinkled with Hub McFarland supporters, echoed to the battle-cries of "Go Dunnies Go" and "More Macs More" as the tide of victory swept first to one side and then the other.

There was bedlam in the thrill-packed third period as the teams defe'nding champs, waged a bitter struggle, the Dunnies to protect their lead, the Macs to earn the tie.

The triumphant slogan of the Macs rang through the rafters when Hildebrand taking a perfect pass from Bert Bradley at 13.38 whistled a low hard drive past Henderson to put the teams on even terms. Moe Bentley started the goal-getting foray.

Dunlop fans sat almost aghast as the Macs in a direct reversal of roles from the night previous slammed home three goals in the first ten minutes of the opening period.

Bradley set Hildebrand up for the first at 4.37 and five minutes later Crawford topped the second goal-getter to his coach. Brown's pass to Smrke a minute following saw Lou tip in the puck and the Macs were three up. Air reduced the margin to 3-1 four minutes before period end.

Dunlop manager Wren Blair's threat to "fine" his champions paid dividends in the flaming second heat. They unleashed a fierce offensive that saw them tie the score at the 2.50 mark. Etcher netted the first and Smith and Etcher scored in 74 seconds and Jackie Kane put the Dunnies in front with a minute to go.

The Macs drew five of the seven penalties one a miscon duct to Dewsbury Menard and Tom O'Connor were jugged for instituting and when Babando accidently crashed Ike to the ice the Macs protested too strongly, Dewsbury drawing the major sentence.

The game was an hour late starting, the McFarlands being held up due to a serious highway accident three miles east of Bowmanville.

The Dunlops and Whitby fans accorded the Macs an outstanding reception after the game. Details of this and the accident appear in other sports pages stores.

HULL, Que. (Staff) — Sunday's Canadiens started out to be a real thriller as the clubs battled through a scoreless first period before the Canadiens took a 3-1 lead in the second and added the loss marker in a final heat that saw just about everything but hockey.

It was all the way as the Baby Habs handed the Macs their first defeat in fourteen games with the high scoring Bob Boucher. Boucher had a goal and an assist while Guy Black, defenceman John Longarini and forward Mike Lagrace potted the other goals. John Amable and coach Connie Broden had two assists each while Bob Ellet got one.

Moe Benoit, the loop's top goal scoring defenceman, bagged his 13th of the year to save the Macs from a shutout, Ike Hildebrand and "Wiener" Brown drew assists.

Both Bell and Hull's Gerry Brassard came up with some great saves in the first period with Brassard kicking out 10 shots. Hildebrand shuffled the Macs' scoring ace, Brown, without the services of centre Johnny Amelian who is ill with the flu. Bradley had the lone penalty at 15.40 with no damage resulting.

Hull lost no time in the second Brassard robbed Payette on his doorstep and a minute later Guy Black's left-wing drive beat Bell from the corner at 2.50. Less than a minute later Longarini screened shot from the blueline made it 2-0.

Hull's third goal was a pretty one. Lagrace taking Ellet's pass as he cut across the goalmouth and gunning it home for a 3-0 lead at 8.27. A little more than a minute later Benoit deflected in Brown's shot during a scramble to make it 3-1. The Macs had a great opportunity near the end of the period. Brown was caught tripping, Belleville pressed and Gauthier tripped Hildebrand almost in the clear, just as Broden returned. The hustling Habs killed the second penalty without much difficulty.

In the third Crawford was thumbed at 1.37 and Benoit followed ten seconds later. Boucher then lifted the rubber into an open corner during a scramble with Black and Bell tangled up in the ether corner. Bell argued but all he got was a misconduct and a deluge of paper.

From this point on any likeness to hockey was accidental. Crawford was thumbed again at 6.13 and Black followed at 7.08. Both sides were playing the man all the way. Hildebrand and Bob Ellet mixed it up strong and drew majors for

Good Samaritan Roles Essayed By McFarlands

Besides being expert bridge and penny-ante players, the McFarlands have other attributes.

Saturday night en route to Whitby and the Dunlops, they essayed the role of Good Samaritans, aided and abetted by two of the players wives.

They were halted three miles east of Bowmanville where a three - car - trailer, crash piled wreckage on the highway. Traffic was cluttered.

Later, three injured people, one seriously, were taken aboard the McFarlands' bus. They were suffering from shock and severe head and facial injuries.

Mrs. Barclay and Mrs. Darcan Bradley, both registered nurses, were into professional action. They administered first-aid treatment on the spot.

An hour later the bus finally got under way and the injured in the car were taken to the Bowmanville Memorial hospital.

The stern that ended the 4-4 tie changed the picture completely. From tough, hard-hitting puck-chasing foemen, the teams through the magic of game-end, changed into a mid-ice laughing happy handshaking, back-slapping group.

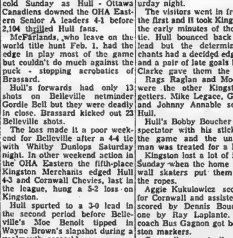
Merchants Win Over Hull Lose to Cornwall Chevies

Foreign clubs looking for a way to beat Belleville McFarlands in the world hockey championships at Prague might do well to check with Gerry Brassard.

Brassard's goaltending brilliance just about stopped Belleville cold Sunday as Hull - Ottawa Canadiens downed the OHA Eastern Senior A leaders 4-1 before 2,194 frigid Hull fans.



McFarlands, who leave on the world title hunt Feb. 1, had the edge in play most of the game but couldn't do much against the sparkling acrobatics of Brassard.

Hull's forwards had only 13 shots on Belleville netminder Gordie Bell but they were deadly in close. Brassard kicked out 23 Belleville shots.

The loss made it a poor weekend for Belleville after a 4-4 tie with Whitby Dunlops Saturday night. In other weekend action in the OHA Eastern the fifth-place Kingston Merchants edged Hull 4-3 and Cornwall Cheviots, last in the league, hung a 5-2 loss on Kingston.

Hull scorers. Playing coach Connie Broden, who asked to join the Belleville jaunt but isn't expected to go, collected two assists.

Kingston had to come from behind twice to put down Hull Saturday night.

The visitors went in front 2-0 in the first and it took Kingston until the early minutes of the third to tie. Hull bounced back into the lead but the determined Merchants had a decided edge in play and a pair of late goals by Nobby Clarke gave them the decision.

Rags Raglan and Moe Savard were the other Kingston goal-getters. Mike Legace, Guy Black and Johnny Annable scored for Hull.

Kingston lost a lot of its steam Sunday when the home ice Cornwall skaters put them through the ropes.

Aggie Kukulowicz scored two for Cornwall and assisted on two scored by Dennis Boucher and one by Ray Laplante. Playing-coach Bus Gagnon got both Kingston markers.

Cornwall now trails Kingston by three points and has two games in hand.

Olmedo said before his match with Fraser that he could not rely on a power game, but would try to "make a game of it," despite a strained stomach muscle. Then he proceeded to bewilder Fraser with a beautiful game to score his first big tournament victory.

The young Peruvian previously had led the U.S. team to recent quest of the Davis Cup from the Australians.

Five up with seven holes of 36 to play, Marlene sagged to one up before a battle of putts gave her the trophy she sought in finals of 1954 and 1958.

"I never thought I had it in the bag," she said. "I think the turning point was when I three-putted on the 31st hole and figured I couldn't take advantage of that."

Miss Goodwin wouldn't agree she had made a great rally on closing holes.

"Marlene just gave the holes to me," she said. Mrs. Streit conceded two Goodwin putts, but they were at one foot and two inches respectively.

Trimble Denies Coach Story

NEW YORK (CP)—A rumor which was denied in Hamilton Saturday cropped up again today in New York.

The story—that Jim Trimble, coach of the Big Four football Tiger-Cats, will coach Green Bay Packers of the National Football League next season—was denied Saturday by Trimble and his boss, Jake Gaudaur, Ticat general manager.

But it appeared in print today in the column of Harold Weissman in The Mirror. Weissman says Trimble has made a "hushhush application" for the Green Bay job.

Trimble said Saturday he had no intention of coaching Green Bay.

"This is the same story that comes up every year," he declared. "It is not true."

On the Tracks

BALTIMORE (AP)—The purse for the Preakness Stakes, which amounted to a whopping $1,000 when it was first run back in 1873, has been raised to $150,000, making it the richest added-money race in the world.

Officials of the club operating the Pimlico track where the second feature in American racing's big three is run, expect nomination, entry and starting fees to swell the pot to about $180,000.

This would mean about $127,000 to the winner. A total of $30,000 would go the second colt, $15,000 for the third and $7,500 for fourth.

The Preakness, with the Kentucky Derby and the Belmont Stakes, is for three - year-olds only. Nominations for the 83rd running on May 16 close Feb. 16.

NAME COACH

representing the whole church. The 20 previous ecumenical councils were called to deal with major problems facing the church, such as heresy and schism, to resolve questions of faith or to establish dogma.

The Vatican announcement was seen as an invitation for a return to the fold of the churches which have broken away from Rome, primarily the Eastern Orthodox.

PARTED 905 YEARS AGO

The eastern church parted from Rome 905 years ago in a dispute over matters of discipline. The Vatican considers the Eastern Orthodox schismatics but still Catholics, retaining the apostolic tradition and the regular administration of the sacraments.

Vatican sources said that almost certainly bishops of the Orthodox churches will be invited to attend.

It also was thought Protestant churches would be invited to send representatives, at least as observers. But it was considered certain that the Roman church, after consideration of action with the Protestants, would insist on supremacy of the papcy. This has always been one of the great obstacles to Christian reunification.

U.S. REACTION

The first protestant leaders queried expressed cautious interest. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, president of the U.S. National Council of Churches, said any step toward unity of churches will be welcome but "it would have to be . . . a mutual coming together, not under conditions laid down by one church for all the others."

Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the Archbishop of Canterbury who heads the Church of England, declined to comment until he had read the full text of the Vatican announcement.

Pope John also announced the code of church law would be modernized. The first major revision to come in 42 years, it will probably take many years.

ROYAL VISIT

This map outlines the Queen's route by air, ship, road and rail across Canada during her six-week visit this summer.

Between the time she arrives at Torbay airport near St. John's June 18 and her departure from Shearwater airport near Halifax Aug. 1, she will have visited all 10 provinces and the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

The Queen and Prince Philip will cruise the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes in the royal yacht Britannia. They will fly into the northland with visits to Schefferville in northeastern Quebec, Whitehorse in the Yukon, Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories and Uranium City in northern Saskatchewan.

Main purpose of the visit is the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway which will take place June 25-27 but arrangements and actual site for the opening have not yet been announced.

The Queen will visit one United States city when the Britannia calls July 8 at Chicago which will be holding its International fair and exposition at that time.

The itinerary also sets aside July 12 and 13 for a rest period in an unspecified area of British Columbia.

While the itinerary as made public at Ottawa left times and events for a later announcement, one event was named. The Queen and Prince Philip will visit the Stratford Shakespearean Festival July 2 during a tour of Western Ontario. (CP Newsphoto).

By CHARLES STAFFORD

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A hard, rough — chiselled man, the coal miner, is undergoing a change in his way of life.

Times are hard in the U.S. coal industry. Unemployment is high. There are too many miners. But in a decade or two, there may not be enough of them because young men are not going into the pits.

One former coal miner—a grizzled gray man thumbing his way to the other side of a coal-rich West Virginia mountain — explained his changing situation this way:

"I used to work in the mines but I got laid off."

NOW IN MINES

Mechanization was slower coming to the coal mine than to the factory but now it has reached flood tide.

"Perhaps the most dramatic visible change in the coal industry," says the National Coal Association, "has been the rumbling advent of giant machines which have almost pushed the pick and pit pony into oblivion.

"Undergound . . . a strange menagerie of machines has replaced most of the old-fashioned muscle in all but some smaller mines." This menagerie has also displaced many coal miners.

When a mine closed 30 years ago, the miner moved on to another. But when the Stonega Coal and Coke Company closed its colliery at Derby, Va., last April, 200 men began drawing unemployment compensation while they looked for new jobs.

The unemployment benefits ran out in early October. A month later children were going to school without breakfast. Families were reported near starvation.

NEED LESS MINERS

Admittedly the coal business suffered a recession this year. But one fact stands out clearly: U.S. soft coal mines are producing about the same amount of coal that they were 30 years ago with one-third as many miners.

Those who are left are specialists. The pick and shovel miner is almost extinct. A hundred years ago, men began to work on contrivances that would ease the job of mining coal. By the beginning of the century, they were cutting coal mechanically and using explosives to blast it loose.

A decade ago, the tempo quickened. Now the mine is an underground industrial plant working on an assembly-line principle.

The miners work in teams. The roof crew moves into a working place, bores holes into the roof and inserts long expansion bolts that bind several feet of the overlying layers of rock together to prevent cave-ins.

The cutting machine, pushing its snoutlike blade ahead of it, moves into the room to make cuts at the top and bottom of the coal seam. The shot fireman follows, to set a charge of explosive and "shoot" the coal. Then the loading machine, with mechanical arms that encircle the loose coal and gather it into the conveyor belt, loads the coal onto another conveyor or into a shuttle car to begin the trip to the surface.

But even this is becoming outmoded.

A new machine, the continuous miner, eliminates the separate steps of cutting, drilling, blasting and loading. It has several cutting heads that chew into the coal seam, tearing loose the coal and passing it to the rear.

These machines mine up to eight tons of coal a minute—half of a good day's work for one miner 30 years ago.

NOW FEWER MINERS

There is even a pushbutton miner operated from outside the mine.

"I was talking to the fellows who run that machine," says Lewis M. Payne, a state mine inspector. "I asked them what would happen if it got buried under a slate fall. They told me, 'You know, doc, that happened the other day. We made the darn thing dig its own way out.'"

Gradually, mechanization is reaching saturation point. Crawford L. Wilson, chief of the West Virginia department of mines, expects employment to stabilize within five years. But for now there are two applicants for every job.

"I was 11 when I went into the mine with my father," says Wilson, "My father taught me how to mine coal, then taught my brother. But you don't have that anymore. Young men are not going into the mines."

NOW NO JOBS

There are no jobs open for them. Under the United Mine Workers contract, the companies still fill jobs from a list of miners who have been laid off previously.

The result is an absence of youth in the pits. The average age of the miner is steadily climbing.

"Right now there is an oversupply of coal miners," says Wilson. "But in a few years I am afraid we will face a shortage."

MONTHLY HIGH

Canada ended 1958 with the highest December unemployment since the Second World War.

Government figures released in Ottawa indicated 440,000 persons without jobs and looking for work at mid-December, an increase of 79,000 over the mid-November figure and 48,000 more than December 1957.

The latest figure is 150,000 below the post-war high of 590,000 in March of last year. Graph traces the unemployment figures for 1958 and 1957.

ROSLIN

R.C. Graham, Director O.F.U., Urges Govt. Defray Rabies Losses

The local Farmers' Union of Roslin met on the evening of January 12 with a good attendance of members present, with the president, Mr. Fred Elliott, presiding.

Miss Margaret Bates rendered two lovely piano solos, and Mr. Lorne Meeks sang a selection, with his own guitar accompaniment, both of which were enjoyed.

The first guest speaker, Mr. Les Grills, M.P., was introduced by the president, prefaced his address by saying he had always lived on the farm, and had been connected with farming. His early days were spent in operating a threshing machine in his own neighborhood.

He gave an account of how he had become connected with municipal politics and of how later he had been nominated and elected as Federal member for this riding. He called himself a "mixed up" people, and related some of the different problems with which people confront him, mentioning that, although he tried to work out a solution in each case, he found that his time was almost entirely taken up with his duties as M.P. and wondered in some cases if people were not spoiled by receiving too much assistance, and felt that they could do more to help themselves. In making decisions he had to take a broad outlook and consider all the people, and not a few, when making decisions.

He felt that farmers were wise to organize, and were receiving more recognition than they could hope for as individuals.

In closing, Mr. Grills extended a cordial invitation for anyone to visit him at his office in Ottawa.

Mr. Elliott also introduced R. Clarence Graham, honorary director of the O.F.U. for Hastings county, who had been invited to speak at the meeting on behalf of the Farmers' Union.

Mr. Graham opened his remarks by compimenting the press and local Roslin officers on the constant and capable way in which they were carrying on the work of organization in their community, stating that "we who are members of the Ontario Farmers' Union realize that plowing and sowing the fields are a 'must' if we are going to exist as farmers.

He said he had been interested in Mr. Grills' remarks and felt that these Farm Union meetings with Federal and Provincial members were a necessity, no matter what party they represented, as it gave the farmers a first rate chance to present their problems, and receive questions as to what was being done by the government to assist agriculture.

"It has always been the policy of the O.F.U. to keep in close contact with their government representative and to invite candidates for opposition to speak at their meetings before elections and at any other time, and then, more or less, to forget about them until the next election.

"If a farmer sent a hired man to the field day after day, month after month without giving him any direction, it would be imagined how much work would be done."

Mr. Graham also stated he had to deal with problems facing farmers, and he hardly knew which one to present first.

"Next Thursday parliament will be opening and it is hoped every farmer will impose upon Mr. Grills as to some of the needs facing agriculture.

"Regarding agriculture, it is assumed that there will be some form of crop insurance introduced; also some changes in farm credit. There are some strong indications that the support prices may be lowered. It is hoped this latter move will not be made as the family farm is diminishing from the countryside fast enough without lowering the supports.

"Farm credit is necessary, especially today with the high cost of operation. However, we feel that if the Farm Union policy of parity prices was implemented we would not be so much in need of credit. Some type of relief should be given aid that any one producer can receive at least the flood price will become a support to the family farm rather than a sure thing for the large producers.

PRICE SUPPORTS NEEDED

"If a farmer wants to contract with large packing plants, and feed companies, and grow thousands of pigs and chickens, he will receive on the amount of his gross income, only what is consumed, and has no chance on the world market for the balance.

"The support for pigs was at $25 per hundredweight. Last March pigs were cheap and some came on the market as early as October, so the $25 floor price could not have been met. It is high time the feed companies and packers had controlled to also the pig business and will stay in whether the $25 is taken off entirely, or not.

"Deficiency payments are a method which can be used to achieve parity prices by paying the difference between the market price and the parity price. Deficiency payments have already been granted on apples and wool.

RABIES ACTION NEEDED

"The Farmers' Union feels action should be taken right away on rabies. All farm animals that have been bitten should be paid for by the Federal government the same as if they had to be destroyed as all animals should be vaccinated before going into the area, as accident mentioned. If young people are going to take any interest in agricultural industry, the prices will have to have an adjustment upward. It does not seem to be logical to expect the prices the farmer has to pay for goods will becoming down any."

A lively question period took place.

The ladies served a delicious lunch.

Russia Starts Assembly Line Output Of ICBM

Khrushchev Promises Rise in Living Standard

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev announced today that the Soviet Union has started assembly line production of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Opening the 21st congress of the Soviet Communist party, the party chiefain and premier said the Communist countries now "stand at the head of all progress."

In a review of Soviet achievements in science, including jet aviation and rocketry, Khrushchev declared:

"The Soviet Union has started the serial production of intercontinental ballistic missiles."

More than 1,500 delegates from throughout the Soviet Union and Communist parties in 81 other countries applauded vigorously.

MENTIONS GERMANY

He called anew for negotiations on Germany, and declared that all European international problems should be solved through agreement between the two governments of the two Germanys.

Russia did not object to free all-German elections, but that question "must be solved by the Germans themselves."

Germany now had "two sovereign states," and since "one cannot eliminate either of them without starting a world war, the reunification of Germany can be realized only by means of negotiations" between East and West Germany.

Khrushchev said today's main task is to break the East-West international deadlock. The need for banning nuclear weapons tests was particularly urgent.

WANTS TENSION EASED

Khrushchev said a key task in Russia's new seven-year economic plan is to bring an end to the cold war and a lessening of international tension. But he also called on his people once more to:

1. Catch up with and surpass the leading capitalist countries in per-capita output.

2. "Ensure the Soviet Union's triumph in the peaceful economic competition with the capitalist countries."

3. "Strengthen further the economic and defence might" of the Soviet Union.

Although he said expansion of heavy industry would still have priority, Khrushchev promised the Soviet people a substantial rise in the standard of living as a result of the increase in the country's economic potentialities, further improvement in all economic spheres, and a "continuous growth of the productivity of socialist labor."

ENTER NEW PERIOD

The Soviet people, he said, have entered a new historical period that they now have the chance to "live and work" under conditions of development, the period of extensive building of Communist society.

In the political field he called for "further consolidation of the Soviet socialist system, the unity and solidarity of the Soviet people, the development of Soviet democracy, the activity and in-

VOTE DOWN BID FOR EMERGENCY JOBLESS DEBATE

Liberals Join CCF In Surprise Move

OTTAWA (CP) — A Liberal bid to curtail the throne speech debate and concentrate on anti-unemployment legislation has been rejected in the first vote of the new parliamentary session.

The massive Progressive Conservative majority Monday night defeated 174 to 48 a CCF non-confidence motion criticizing the absence of "social and economic planning" in the government's legislative program.

Opposition Leader Pearson, in a surprise tactical move, threw the Liberal party's weight behind the CCF motion and added a challenge to the government to do something immediately about the "serious and pressing" problem of unemployment.

Mr. Pearson said his party could not support a socialistic approach to national problems, but this time the CCF had referred to "confused" government policies which the Liberals also had criticized.

Mr. Pearson asked that the government agree to conclude the 10-day throne speech debate—now entering its seventh day—and proceed with legislative business, "giving priority to unemployment."

The opposition leader's challenge—presumably aimed at the Liberals—was that the government has no immediate and concrete measures for dealing with unemployment—brought a rousing display of enthusiasm from Liberal benches.

The Progressive Conservatives made a derisive show of welcoming Liberal support for the CCF.

Works Minister Green, government House leader, said that if the Liberals had run out of ideas for the remaining days of debate "I'm sure they would get some from their new brothers in the CCF."

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue invited the Opposition leader's fault-finding was not consistent with the danger from communism, Mr. Pearson said communism had nothing to do with what he had been talking about.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

A moderating trend is indicated for the province on Wednesday as the first of a series of disturbances moves in from the Prairies. Southwesterly winds will bring milder air in from the central United States as well as some rain now in most of the province. Southern regions will likely get only a few flurries late in the day.

Jehovah Witness Given Damages Against Police

OTTAWA (CP)—Louise Lamb, member of the Jehovah's Witnesses of Verdun, Que., today was awarded $2,500 by the Supreme Court of Canada for a false arrest by the Quebec Provincial Police in 1946 on a charge of distributing pamphlets illegally.

She had sued for $5,000 damages.

Miss Lamb won damages from only one of three Quebec Provincial Police officers that she sued. She took action against Paul Benoit — from whom she received damages — Charles Forget, and Charles Nadeau for false arrest Saturday, Dec. 7, 1946, and detention in Montreal police cells during the weekend of Dec. 7-9, 1946.

The woman and three other members of the Jehovah's Witnesses were arrested on a Verdun street corner while distributing pamphlets of the sect.

Charges of possessing copies of the pamphlet Quebec's Burning Hate were dismissed at her preliminary hearing Jan. 10, 1947, after two of the police officers testified she was not in possession of the pamphlets.

TIME LIMIT

Nub of the damage suit involved the six-month provincial limitation on the time within which prosecutions against QPP officers may be made.

Miss Lamb took action against officers Forget and Nadeau July 10, 1947, and against officer Benoit, July 12, 1947. The Supreme Court ruled that the six-month limitation started at the time of her arrest Dec. 7, 1946, and dismissed the damage suit.

Both the Quebec Magistrate's Act and the Quebec Provincial Police Act set the limitation of six months, but W. Glen How of Toronto, Miss Lamb's lawyer, relied on the two-year limitation mentioned in the Quebec's code of civil procedure.

Castro's Aide Tells Havana Court

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The defendant in Havana's second showcase trial was convicted before dawn today and sentenced to death before a firing squad.

Three of Fidel Castro's officers deliberated for 39 minutes and found former Batista army Capt. Jesus Morejon guilty of assassination, homicide, and robbery.

Morejon was on his fate after a trial of more than 10 hours, staged in marked contrast to last week's trial of 42 men in Havana's 17,000-seat Sports Palace.

This time the scene was army headquarters outside Havana.

The courtroom held only 200 persons. There were no floodlights, television cameras, or radio microphones.

The crowd filling the room occasionally applauded when the prosecution scored a point, but there was none of the Roman Colosseum atmosphere of last week's trial.

Morejon raised his hands, joining them together as if in prayer, as his sentence was announced. Otherwise he showed no emotion before his guards led him out. Like Sosa Blanco, he was expected to appeal the sentence to the superior military tribunal.

It was not known when the third show trial, of Eu-Lo. Col. Ricardo Luis Grao, would start.

West Offers Half-and-Half Formula for A-Test Control

GENEVA (AP)—The Western powers have offered Russia the right to fill half the jobs in all nuclear test control posts set up in the U.S. and British territory.

In return the American and British delegations asked for the same concession by the Soviet Union and Moscow's acceptance of a basic concept of international control. The proposal was made at the three-power conference on suspension of nuclear tests.

The Russians, who have been demanding that control posts in their own territory be staffed by Russians, modified their proposals somewhat. They suggested that each station should have "four or five foreign controllers" rather than one or two as they previously had proposed.

But the western powers said the Russians still had to back on true international control—a point on which the American and British delegations say they never will compromise.

British delegation sources said the Western plan was so iron-clad that it was difficult for Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin to dismiss it.

The proposed control system would work this way in a typical post in the United States or Britain: The staff named by the administrator of the system would consist of three men from each capital, citizens of other countries such as Sweden, Switzerland or India.

The administrator would be elected with the unanimous approval of the three atomic powers.

But if the Russians were not willing to trust him to carry out this 50-50 arrangement, specific instructions could be issued to him by the seven-nation control commission.

Beyond that the Soviet government could name its own observers at posts in the United States or Britain to see that all disturbances were fairly reported. Other Russians assigned to stations in the Soviet Union would guarantee that foreign employees were not trying to fake incidents or engage in spying.

Flies to Jail Every Day After Work

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—With his auto driver's license suspended for a traffic violation, William G. Hopp is commuting by plane to the Minneapolis workhouse to serve a 30-day sentence which permits him daytime freedom.

Hopp works near his home in suburban Robbinsdale, takes a cab to a nearby airport each evening. There he climbs into his 85-horsepower plane and, in four minutes, lands on the lee of Parkers Lake, on whose shore the workhouse is located. Mornings, he reverses the route.

"It's okay with us," said Rolf Stageberg, workhouse superintendent. "Appears to be perfectly legal." And the traffic court has no jurisdiction over Hopp's flying license.

Speech Forecasts Increased Spending In All Depts.; Special Agriculture Inquiry

Will Help Widows, Children Under Succession Duty Act

TORONTO (CP)— An Ontario government department to supervise all forms of energy and a searching inquiry into agriculture were forecast today in the speech from the throne in the Ontario legislature.

The speech said the new department will be responsible not only for development but also safety and financing. It would embrace all forms of energy — electricity, natural gas, oil, coal, uranium or any other source.

The publicly-owned Hydro-Electric Power Commission produces virtually all of Ontario's electrical power and is charged with responsibility for a nuclear power program. The Ontario Fuel Board, now under the minister of lands and forests, controls natural gas and other forms of fuel.

"Our research program is to hasten the time when we may generate electric power from our almost inexaustible sources of uranium is being accomplished.

"With our rapidly expanding economy, growing population, greater production and higher standard of living, we must have an adequate supply of power and energy."

The 2,800-word speech marking opening of the 11th session of the province's 25th legislature, forecast increased government spending on Hydro-Electric power, welfare, aid to municipalities and hospital construction.

Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay, who is suffering from an eye ailment, departed from tradition by reading only the first and last paragraphs instead of the whole speech. The rest was read by the clerk of the House, Roderick Lewis.

The outline of the Progressive Conservative government's legislative plans announced a host of programs for mental health, alcoholism, prison reform, provincial parks and natural resources.

AGRICULTURE INQUIRY

A special inquiry headed a list of promised measures to assist agriculture.

The inquiry will be aimed at facilitating the marketing and processing of Ontario farm products to meet the renuirements of consumers whose purchasing habits are being altered by new merchandising facilities and methods.

"You will be asked to approve legislation which will enable the government further to relieve difficulties in marketing arrangements and to prevent more effective disposal of Ontario's farm crops."

Amendments to the Milk Industry Act will be proposed, to strengthen the provisions for marketing plans in the dairy industries.

FARM SAFETY DRIVE

"An accelerated safety program will be undertaken to diminish the hazards associated with farming. To help prevent loss from rabies, free rabies vaccine will provide free vaccine and will share equally with the municipalities the cost of vaccination."

The speech said mental illness will be attacked through a program "greatly altering traditional methods."

Supreme Court Rules CBC Exempt From Lord's Day Act Regulations

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today declared the CBC free from prosecution under the Lord's Day Act.

The Supreme Court upheld the CBC by a 4 to 3 majority, with Mr. Justices Robert Taschereau, Douglas Abbott and Wilfred Judson dissenting. The court sustained the CBC's request for the issuance of a writ of prohibition forcing it from a charge of violating the Lord's Day Act by broadcasting in Toronto on Sunday.

Ontario courts had ruled that the public-service CBC was a "juristic person", was subject to the Lord's Day Act.

But the corporation claimed that as an agent for the Crown it was not subject to the act because it was not specifically mentioned in it.

The CBC, the three Toronto daily newspapers — The Telegram, The Star and The Globe and Mail — and private radio station CKEY have been charged with violating the Lord's Day Act.

The Telegram was charged after it began publishing a Sunday edition March 17, 1957, and stopped Sunday publishing five months later.

The Telegram, after it was charged, laid complaints against the CBC, CBC and Toronto newspapers. The charges were laid in Toronto magistrate's court with Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, Toronto Chamber and Local Services Committee member, presiding. The case was heard Wednesday at the Belle Theatre, Maitland, Sask. starting at 2.00 p.m. Evening performances start at 8.15.

Canada Rejects Plane Shipments To Republic

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has rejected a request by a United States firm to ship Canadian Canadian Vampire jet fighters to the Dominican Republic on grounds that it does not want to become involved in any new Caribbean trouble.

Trade Minister Churchill said Monday in the Commons that the federal government had refused an application by the company for an export permit to ship the aircraft to the Caribbean country.

Canadian officials said Canada doesn't want to encourage traffic in arms. It was willing to sell military equipment to the U.S. or its NATO partners overseas, but not to other countries.

It was learned that Fore-Metal Company, a division of Fiteways Incorporated of West Bend, Wis., bought some 26 of the obsolete RCAF single-seat fighters about a year ago. The company got them for $24,600, an average of about $950 each, computed with $130,000 paid for each plane by the RCAF.

Fourteen of the aircraft later were shipped to Genaire Limited at Malton airport, ostensibly for storage and reconditioning Fiteways officials tried unsuccessfully to get Canadian government approval to ship 12 of the Vampires to the Dominican Republic.

The negotiations between the company and Gen. Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the republic, headed by Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo, occurred as rebel leader Fidel Castro staged a successful revolt in nearby Cuba. Ousted Cuban President Fulgencio Batista obtained refuge in the Dominican Republic.

The U.S. company cannot take the planes out of Canada without an export permit from the government. Canada and the U.S. cooperate in keep firm control over the trans-shipment of arms.

A state department official in Washington said the U.S. was considering a request for a transshipment permit. However, it was noted that Canada first would have to issue an export permit.

The request for a trans-shipment permit was made by Associated Shipping Inc. on behalf of Fiteways.

ORDER DUPLESSIS PAY $33,123 TO F. RONCARELLI

Damages Awarded To Jehovah Witness

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today ordered Premier Duplessis of Quebec to pay $33,123.32 to Frank Roncarelli for damages suffered in the cancellation of a liquor permit in his Montreal restaurant in 1946.

The court's decision was 6 to 3, with Mr. Justices Robert Taschereau, John R. Cartwright and Gerard Fauteux dissenting.

It reduced by about two-thirds the $80,000 damages claimed by Roncarelli, and upheld a judgment of the Quebec Court of Appeal which had ruled in favor of Mr. Roncarelli.

W. Glen How of Toronto, counsel for Mr. Roncarelli, said outside the courtroom that the court showed "commendable consistency" in protecting the rights of the individual against authorities who seek to infringe them.

SUBJECT TO APPEAL

The decision is subject to appeal to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council in London because the case was initiated in the court before December, 1949, when such appeals to London were abolished.

The case is believed the first in which a provincial premier was sued personally for damages arising from such an action. The nine judges of the Supreme Court had the appeal under consideration since it was heard last June. Originally, Mr. Roncarelli sued for $123,741, starting his court action six months after cancellation of the liquor license by Duplessis. The Quebec Superior Court awarded the former Montreal restaurateur $8,123 in May, 1951, three years later the Quebec Court of Appeal quashed the judgment.

DEFENDED CANCELLATION

Mr. Duplessis defended cancellation of the liquor permit on the ground that Mr. Roncarelli, a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses, took part in what Quebec courts — later over-ruled — then regarded as a "seditious conspiracy" by the religious sect.

MORE

Mr. Roncarelli contended that Duplessis acted to force him out of business, causing him heavy losses.

For about two years before the cancellation, Mr. Roncarelli acted as bondsman in the bail of Witnesses arrested for distributing pamphlets of the sect without a municipal police permit.

One pamphlet, entitled Quebec's Burning Hate, was at the time regarded by the Quebec courts as seditious. This legal view later was dismissed by the Supreme Court, as was a Montreal bylaw requiring such members to obtain a police permit to distribute the pamphlets on the street.

ARGUED FOR DISMISSAL

E. Emery Beaulieu, counsel for Mr. Duplessis, argued during the hearings last June that the dam-

On leaving Kahului on the island of Maui, the squadron will sail for more exercises furlogued by a three-day visit to Pearl Harbor, Honolulu.

Formulate Plans For 2nd Annual Quinte Bonspiel

With the mixed bonspiel out of the way plans are being formulated for the men curlers to take over the Quinte Curling Club for their second annual "Quinte" spiel. J. C. "Pat" Houston, chairman of the spiel again this year has an energetic committee working with Gordon Edwards as a special honorary secretary.

The spiel held last year was the talk of the district and practically every rink that took part signified their intention of returning again this year. The spiel will be held for five days commencing on February 19th and continuing until Saturday night with the finals being played on the last day. Sixty-four rinks can be accommodated, six sheets on each day's play. The rink winning the three games on the day they play come back on Saturday to join the other three games necessary to contest for the C. Corby Distillery Trophy and the main prizes.

The other rinks on each day's play must win the next two if going the first to enter to qualify for the second event on Saturday. On Saturday the draw will be of the last four rinks to enter the rinks losing their first game will drop back into the consolation, which will continue until third event of the spiel. As last year Jim L. E. McLean will run the board and draws and the task could not be in better hands. He undertook the job last autumn, geas along exceedingly well with the visiting and local curlers and is a wealth of information on all subjects.

"Pat" Houston is a natural for a general chairman. He has been around curling rinks practically all of his life. Loves the game and to say the least is no hard to get along with. Bill Cluff, the genial president, is always around to give a helping hand along with the committee members. At the present time Mr. Edwards has received entries from thirty-two rinks to date which represent 15 Curling Clubs in the Province. Toronto is coming down three rinks, Kingston four, the RCAF at Trenton four and so on down the list. It does not appear that the committee will have any trouble in filling the draw and the local rinks are advised to select their rinks and get their entries in as early in way will not be disappointed.

The prizes selected for the bonspiel are the best that can be procured and the merchants of the city have contributed greatly to this cause. D. McNevin has been given the task of collecting the prizes and he is certainly doing a great job. Stew Flintoft, the ice chairman, will have a perfect sheet of ice for the curlers. The rings will be repainted, a new flood will be put on and everything will be ready for a grand five days at the club.

Dr. Younghusband Retires, Served 44 Years With Govt.

Forty-four years' service with the Health of Animals Division, Federal Department of Agriculture, has been ended by Dr. Harold Younghusband of this city who Friday evening was tendered a retirement banquet by the Rotary Inter Club.

About 70 persons, including representatives of the Federal Department of Agriculture from Toronto, Ontario Provincial Ontario police, veterinary practitioners from the Quinte district, local cattle breeders and associations and friends, attended the retirement banquet.

Dr. Younghusband came to Belleville in 1941 to take charge of the local office, having served previously in Smiths Falls, Toronto, in Western Canada and in the Maritimes. His successor in Belleville as sub-district veterinarian is Dr. J. F. McCorquodale.

The retained service scroll, signed by the Honorable Douglas S. Harkness, Minister of Agriculture, was presented to Dr. Younghusband by Dr. G. F. Strong, chief veterinarian, Toronto, on behalf of the Veterinary Directorate, Health of Animals Division, Ottawa.

Lloyd Wood, Toronto, a long time associate and friend, made the presentation of a gold watch and leather-cased portable radio.

FINE TRIBUTE PAID

A number of other speakers also paid high tribute to Dr. Younghusband. Dr. Younghusband has made to his professional colleagues in the Department of Agriculture. These included Dr. E. N. Harvey, now retired, with many years stationed in Belleville, and Dr. A. B. Lewis of the Guelph district office.

ORDER DUPLESSIS

ace suit should be dismissed on the grounds that a public matter such as a premier cannot be sued for his actions.

In reply, Frank R. Scott, law professor at McGill University, Montreal, argued that precedents showing that public officials, if they act illegally, can be sued for their powers, can be sued.

He contended that Mr. Duplessis did not act in a public capacity in the liquor permit cancelled.

Mr. Beaulieu replied to this argument that Mr. Duplessis did not act illegally because, as attorney-general, he was in effect the legal counsel of the Quebec Liquor Commission and therefore Archambault acted Archambault, cancelled the licence after two telephone conversations with the premier on the matter.

CHAIRMAN'S TESTIMONY

Mr. Archambault testified in Quebec Superior Court that he alone cancelled the licence to cancel, but had consulted with Mr. Duplessis on the matter.

Newspaper Guild Defendants acknowledged newspaper stories quoting him as saying it was not acting as attorney-general, who ordered the cancellation.

Mr. Beaulieu argued the premier did so in good faith, believing that Mr. Archambault used the power to permit to make money with which to act as bondsman for Archambault's brother, so that they could continue what were regarded at the time as illegal activities.

Mr. Roncarelli never was prosecuted criminally. His lawyer contended that he had full rights to act as bondsman for witnesses.

Overseas Fund Needs $13,000 Says Chairman

The McFarlands Overseas Fund needs but $13,000 to attain its objective of $40,000.

Mrs. Clarence Shaw, chairman of the fund, is in full swing and in its final stages" fund chairman Alderman Jack Ireland said today.

The general response has been good thus far but many sources have not as yet been heard from.

"If we can raise this $13,000 this week, we would be happy in attaining the objective," he said.

A large number of out-of-town organizations, industries and individuals have sent in donations, but more is expected from local sources.

Some fine contributions have been received from the city and district. The Northern Electric Company forwarded its cheque for $500.

"There is not much time left and it is hoped that potential donors of the city and district will remain in their control utions so we will known where we stand," the chairman said.

The original objective was set at $40,000, but after careful study of the situation, it was decided that $45,000 would take care of the expenses.

Home Nursing Care Eligible For Subsidy

Home nursing care for city indigent patients whose active treatment in hospital has been ended, will be eligible for subsidy under the Ontario Hospital Services Commission insurance plan.

Belleville city council was advised of this fact at their regular committee meeting Monday evening by Welfare Administrator George A. Whitman and Cecil Chapman, regional welfare administrator for Ontario.

Mr. Chapman told council that the Home Makers' Service of the local branch of the Red Cross and the Victorian Order of Nurses, were prepared to take on this home nursing care under agreement with the city. In such cases home care for indigents would be under hospital plan would be subsidized 50 per cent by the province.

Mr. Chapman and Mr. Whitman advised that the plan would be done by the local welfare office, but the cost of administration would not be subsidized.

Further information on the plan is being communicated by Mr. Whitman before that body takes action.

Kidnapped Baby Found by Police In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The kidnapped "Baxter baby" and a woman described as his abductor were found today in a west side basement, police said. The four-week-old baby, John, appeared to be in good physical condition.

The infant was kidnapped after the woman sent the mother on a wild goose chase for a larger apartment.

"SHOULD NOT BE FOOLED"

MONTREAL (CP) — Stephan Wytwytsky, president of the Ukraine National Government-in-exile, says the free world should not be fooled by proud announcements by Russia of technological achievements for the advancement, of mankind, He told a meeting Sunday of 2,000 Canadians of Ukrainian origin that the achievements "do not deter the Red leaders from their ultimate aim of world domination."

Rotarians View Film and Hear Fund Appeal

Tribute to the annual anniversary of Rotary International's magazine and an appeal for members' support for the campaign for funds for the province of Ontario Crippled Children's Centre were features of the dinner and major points of discussion in yesterday's dinner meeting of the Belleville Rotary Club. Art Francis spoke on the influence of the Rotarian over the world. He listed several of many worthwhile community projects, which had been initiated by articles in the Rotarian. Dewey Deacon, chairman of the Crippled Children's Centre campaign, made an appeal to the club members for contributions. It is expected that local Rotarians will shortly be approached by a local collection of funds for the multi-million dollar centre to be built near Toronto within the next few years. The government will be contributing two million dollars to this centre with Toronto and district expected contributing an additional million dollars. The remaining $2,000,000 is what is expected to be raised throughout Ontario by private subscriptions and corporation donations.

A movie was shown depicting present conditions and facilities for the treatment of crippled children and the modern structure to provide adequate hospital and therapeutic treatment for children from all over the province.

Jack Yanover, club president, was chairman for the meeting, which was opened with grace by Harold Cook. Bob Hamilton introduced the guests and Ham Legate introduced the new club members on the 1959 slogan for Rotary — "Help Shape The Future."

Kittens Fussy About Programs They Watch

Mowrey said Monday he has nine cats, three of them —four-month-old kittens from the same litter—like TV.

One of the kittens, he said watches only Westerns and Phil Silvers.

"He'll run away when anything else comes on," he said.

A second watches only "You Asked for It."

The third, said Mowrey, "plays right along with baseball, basketball and hockey games—and doesn't even know there are other television performers."

An Appeal on Behalf of The Ont. Crippled Children's Centre

You can help remove the uncertainty which clouds the lives of so many of Ontario's handicapped children. You can offer them the hope of a brighter tomorrow . . . by giving today to the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre Building Fund.

Their greatest need — The Society for Crippled Children—in co-operation with many local service groups in Ontario cities and towns provides medical advice and attention, nursing care, corrective braces and wheel chairs and many other special services. But much more is needed. There are no special facilities in the province for rare and difficult cases requiring long-term care. To solve these and many other problems, you are now asked to help build the new Ontario Crippled Children's Centre.

The new centre will be located near Sunnybrook Hospital in North York township. Crippled children from all over Ontario will be referred here for diagnosis and treatment. Its facilities will include physical, speech and occupational therapy, nurseries, in-patients and out-patients.

$4,700,000 is needed to carry out this project so vital to the crippled children of Ontario. This appeal is province wide.

Build their tomorrow. By giving today you can help build a brighter tomorrow for the crippled children of Ontario.

Dr. Edward G. Pleva (left) emphasizes a point on community planning in an informal after-dinner discussion with J. J. Trudeau, a past president of the local chamber, and John W. Deacon, first vice-president of the 1959 Chamber of Commerce (right.) Dr. Pleva, who has been quite active on community planning boards in London township, was guest speaker at the 94th annual meeting of the local chamber last night.

Two People Stepping Down from the Helm of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce Admire the Plaques They Have Been Presented With.

Future of Southern Ontario Requires Sensible Planning C of C Members Told at Dinner

Five facts were presented by Dr. Edward G. Pleva, professor and head of the department of geography at the University of Western Ontario, to those at attending the 94th annual meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce yesterday evening. Taking as the future of southern Ontario, Dr. Pleva stated that this area, which is about one per cent of Canada's total land area, contains about two-thirds of Canada's population, 75 per cent of the country's industrial activity and 50 per cent of the dominion's agricultural capital.

A second fact which communities in this area face is that it is expected that the population will double by 1996. With this population increase it is fully expected that there will be a thickening of already populated areas rather than a farther areal expansion. The third fact about which confronts communities in southern Ontario is that Canada is presently a nation of city dwellers and will continue to be so in the future with a further exodus from the agricultural areas to the urban centres. The final and perhaps the most important factor affecting the communities is that our good agricultural land is very limited. Only three per cent of Canada's topography is suitable for agricultural purposes when correlated with such other factors as climate, rainfall, soil, etc.

COMMUNITY PROBLEMS

According to the speaker three problems confront each community in the southern Ontario area in view of the above facts. These problems are: first to develop a proper sense of land use by steering development through planning goals. In view of the fact that it should be possible to keep good agricultural land in agricultural use; second, to develop a sense of regional planning — to consider the region as a unit since there are many development problems which cannot be held on a fractional basis; third, to develop a concept of open spaces before it is too late to do anything about them — this includes conservation programs, lakefront development to allow people access to the water, provision of local parks along the Great Lakes communities waterfronts.

Professor Pleva also felt five tentative thoughts with his audience concerning community development. Planned redevelopment, obsolescence as a result of obsolethon when old buildings and areas have to be torn down and rebuilt, was one of the thoughts. Others were that city expansion in all aspects must be planned, that some arrangement must be made to guide the location of new industrial and residential areas, which will come along with the doubling of population. Another thought was that there is beauty in order as effect by the Seaway in this area, especially up to 1975 — how will this effect be utilized by the community? The speaker's final thought concerned the present legislation for community development and planning. He felt that there was adequate legislation to cover all phases of community progress.

PLANNING DEFINED

Several questions were also left with those present by Dr. Pleva. "Planning," he stated, "is the steering of the elements of growth and decay towards socially desired goals." It is up to each community to decide their

Foster Parents Of CAS to Get Higher Payments

Foster parents caring for wards of the Children's Aid Society are to benefit from a new schedule of payment for maintenance it was announced today by Bruce M. Kerr, director of the local Society. It is now possible for the society to pay up to $35. a month for the maintenance of a child over the age of 13 in a home where the family's income is not derived primarily from farming. Within recent months the C.A.S. has been experiencing difficulty in obtaining suitable foster homes for older boys and girls, said Mr. Kerr. While many couples with children have been willing and eager to share their home with a foster child, many all are not paying for their home and have very financial obligations. Understandably enough he said, they have not been willing to undertake anything that will add to their burden.

"Now that we are able to pay a more adequate amount," said Mr. Kerr, "we hope that these families will feel they could not afford to take a child will offer their homes. In the majority of cases, our foster parents are looking for an older brother or sister rather than a sub-stitute. Many of our men' successful foster parents are in this age group. We need more of them every day."

$196,000 Exclusive Of Land Estimated for New Structure Over C.N.R. Tracks

A cost figure of $196,000 exclusive of the cost of land acquisition, has been estimated for a proposed new overhead structure on North Front Street to replace the present outmoded narrow structure over the CNR double track.

This figure was suggested to members of city council last night by R. W. Smith, representative of the engineering firm of T. O. Lazenbatten and Associates Ltd., of Toronto, retained to do a preliminary study on the project.

Council authorized the city solicitor to make application to the railway, the board of transport and the highways department for approval of the structure.

Cost of land acquisition necessary for the approaches of the proposed bridge might amount to as much as $70,000, it was stated.

Both the cost of the proposed bridge and the cost of land acquisition would be subsidized by the railway, the board of transport and the Ontario Department of Highways, the city's share of the total running possibly as high as $35,000.

Plans tentatively approved by council call for an overhead structure to carry four lines of traffic with built-up approaches enabling motorists to see over the rise of the bridge in the approach. Sidewalks would be provided on either side.

It was suggested that prompt action on the part of council in making application to the railway, the board of transport and the highways department would see approval in time for summer construction which would take approximately six months.

Children's Aid Soc. Reports 247 Children Under Its Care

Richard D. Jones, executive director of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, will be guest speaker at the annual general meeting of the Children's Aid Society March 13.

Treasurer Charles L. Hyde stated last year's expenditures for all sources amounted to $172,-479.43 and receipts to $179,581.37. Wilfred St Pierre, chairman of the finance committee, said care depended on the needs for this year. He stated however that the society had been money steadily on its ward care operation for the past three years and that by the end of December, the accumulated deficit amounted to over $20,000. This is presently being carried on a bank overdraft, and it will be necessary to increase the rate chargeable to the municipalities liable for the maintenance of these children. The amount large enough to retire this deficit.

HIGHER RATES APPROVED

Mrs. Jane Forrester, reporting for the Executive Committee of the child care committee, introduced a motion calling for the acceptance of a new schedule of payment to families caring for these children. Mrs. Forrester said the C.A.S. found it difficult to obtain suitable foster homes at the present time of late and it is the feeling that these increased rates will stimulate new interest. Mr. George Wishart commented that the new schedule had been examined by the finance committee at its December meeting and given unanimous approval.

In his report, Bruce M. Kerr, the local director, said there were 247 children in the care of the society at the end of the year, a substantial reduction from 1957. Eighty were admitted in the 12-month period ending the 31st of December; 98 left the care of the society and 50 were placed in adoption. There was an abnormally high turn over in staff in 1958. Five workers left during the year but high calibre replacements were obtained. He announced the resignation of Mrs. Constance Bell, and asked that the board approve the appointment of Mrs Janette Souter, to the staff of the child care department. Mrs. Souter is a graduate of Queen's University and in 1957-58 was employed by the Children's Aid Society at Kingston.

SOME MISUNDERSTANDING

Mr. Kerr stated that there was an ever-increasing amount of interest being shown in the establishment of a social worker to do protection and prevention work in the municipal end of the county. There appears to be a misunderstanding on the part of certain of the municipal representatives of the people concerning the type of operation being planned for the area. Some have envisaged the opening of an office complete with telephone answering and stenographic service. While this may some day be necessary, there is no suggestion of it at the present time.

The existing needs of the area can be served by a trained and experienced social worker living and working in the community and taking supervision from the Belleville offices. However, the inquiries are more from within the northern community, commented Mr. Kerr. If enough people are interested an application is made to the provincial authority, we will be pleased to co-operate.

John Farrell To Be Chairman Of Centre Board

TRENTON — John Farrell, immediate past president of the Canadian Legion's Branch No. 110 in Trenton, announced last night that he will officially accept the post of chairman of the Community Centre at the next meeting, which is to take place at the board room of the rink on Thursday evening.

Mr. Farrell had been named and voted on to be chairman at the last meet of the Community Centre Board, but as there had been a fire at his home just a few moments prior to meeting time he had been unable to attend. Councillor Howard Aziz had contacted Mr. Farrell at this time but was unable to get a definite answer of acceptance then.

However, last night Mr. Farrell said he would accept the post and will name various committees at the next meeting.

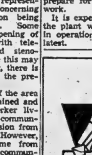
As president of Branch No. 110 of the Canadian Legion in Trenton, he guided the veterans through the planning, building and financing of their new Legion Hall near the Bay of Quinte shore. He worked tirelessly, along with the committees, to get the building, which is acclaimed as one of the finest in the provinces, constructed and well on the way to being paid for.

This year he had refused to allow his name to be posted to run for president of the Legion but retained his former post in the Branch as chairman of the publicity committee.

His name had come up in the council chambers to be appointed to the board which controls the Community Centre and the other members of the board felt he was more than capable of filling the post of chairman.

Until the meeting on Thursday night Cliff Baker, former chairman of the board, will continue to act as chairman of the board, as had been decided at the last meeting.

Work Started On Filtration Plant Addition



TRENTON — Work has already been started on the construction of the addition to the water filtration plant which supplies a part of the town of Trenton.

The addition will double the present capacity and consists chiefly of installing another bed.

At present the plant supplies and purifies 1,000,000 gallons of river water daily. When the addition is completed the plant will be capable of supplying 2,000,000 gallons per day.

Working crews of the Tatham Construction Company are now at the site working with jackhammers to break through the shallow crust of frost and to prepare for the actual excavation work.

It is expected the addition to the plant will be finished and in operation by July 1 at the latest.

GHOST-WRITERS, ARISE

A report from Ottawa says that the speaker of the House of Commons, Roland Michener, will soon announce a ban on the reading of speeches by members of Parliament.

Commons rules already prohibit the reading of speeches, but they have not been enforced in recent years. We are all for law enforcement and therefore stand ready to applaud Mr. Michener for his predicted action.

We are not so happy though, about some comments which Mr. Michener apparently made in chatting with members of the press about his plans.

The Canadian Press story contained the following paragraph: "Mr. Michener said the ban should tend to improve debate in the Commons. Speeches read by members - - and often written by a ghost writer - - generally were too long and dull."

Now the latter sentence is not directly attributed to Mr. Michener but the implication is there. We think it is an unwarranted slur on ghost-writers. Not, mind you, that speeches written by ghost-writers are not long and dull. That we will not attempt to deny. But as any ghost-writer knows - - and what newspaperman has not ghost-written in his day, even if it be only for the newly-elected president of the Pumpkin Square Euchre and Crowder Club? - - as we repeat, any ghost-writer knows the reason why ghost-written speeches are long and dull is because the person who delivers them wishes them that way. Notice, in contrast, the crisp and sparkling style of that preceding sentence, written by a former ghost-writer when he was not ghost-writing.

As for the first sentence in the quoted paragraph, regarding which Mr. Michener apparently cannot pleasnon sequitur or what have you, whether or not a ban on written speeches will improve debate depends on what one calls improvement. If Mr. Michener, or anybody else, expects that members who normally have speeches ghost-written and then read them are suddenly going to emerge as masters of the art of repartee when they are forced to ad lib, we fear that the grey day of disillusionment awaits. But we do think that speeches will be shorter. When a speech is written, and re-written, it is always possible to go back and insert an additional point of disinterest. Let's see now, we've mentioned the great contribution to the national well-being made by the Women's Institute at Block Creek - - let's not forget the boys at the Monday Evening Service Club at Cow Centre. But with no written speech much will be forgotten and to this extent debate will improve.

There will be no remarkable improvement in debate in the House of Commons, though, until somebody devises a method of banning written speeches during election campaigns.

That'll be the day, that'll be the day!

BRIDGE POPULARITY GROWS

We know that many people enjoy playing bridge, but we were not aware that there was any remarkable upswing in the popularity of the game. Indeed, we would have supposed that there were proportionately no fewer bridge players today than in those years when "the Culbertson system" was a household phrase. Perhaps, however, the pendulum is just starting to swing towards increased interest in this best of all card games. Maybe the trend reported in Hamilton will shortly be evident in Belleville to everybody. Canasta, which provided a brief challenge, seems to have disappeared. We would have supposed that TV had greatly depleted the time devoted to bridge, but it may be that a reaction has set in. Or the two pastimes may combine forces - - the Hamilton Spectator quotes Miss Edith Witherspoon, secretary-treasurer of the Hamilton Bridge Club, as stating that bridge instruction on TV is already enjoying popularity in the U.S.

Few of those who enjoy bridge really take the game seriously, but those who do find it amply challenging. Miss Witherspoon says that afternoon and evening sessions of duplicate bridge leave her "like a rag." We can believe it. Those who have not competed in competitions of this type under-estimate the drain on physical resources from long periods of intense mental concentration. Dr. Max Euwe, the Dutch chess master who was formerly world champion, was always accompanied to tournaments by a trainer and exercised and took rubdowns just like an athlete.

FEAR

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Fear that the skies
Of the morning may frown,
Fear that the rain
May come pattering down,
Fear that our foes
May attack and hurt,
And never a fear
That the Lord will desert.

Fear that drought
Will parch the land,
Fear that the sun
Will scorch and burn,
But never a fear
That the Lord will forget.

Fear that with grieving
Our poor hearts shall ache,
But never a fear
That the Lord will forsake.

Fear we have truly
That sorrow will come,
Fear that severe voices
May sound and strike dumb;
But never a fear
That the Lord will forget.

Sentiment In Business

Fort Arthur News Chronicle

The cliche about there being "no sentiment in business" may be old, but it's far from being true.

Sentiment, emotion, sympathy, understanding ... such feelings are not commonly supposed to have no place in business. In actual fact, however, they enter into most of the human relationships, and are factors interesting many a business decision.

There is a simple explanation for this. It is that businessmen are human. Granted, the followers of Karl Marx will not believe this for a moment. Granted, too, that quite a few other persons, who bone up on the world of business and industry is limited to the books they've read and the movies they've seen will have their doubts. Understandably.

The "boss image" created in the years by the cartoonist's sloping tycoon who is arrogant, unapproachable and altogether inflicted on the world and problems of those he employs.

There may be a businessman in Canada who fits this description but we doubt it. If he is, by any chance there is, he will assuredly not long remain in business.

The typical businessman, of course, pays little attention to this kind of preconceived and distorted image. Being human, he is not a mere small manufacturer, president of a large corporation, manager of an industrial plant or merchant. Whatever his position, the probability is that he has earned it — by demonstrating ability and capacity for hard work, and by gaining the respect of those around him.

There are many such businessmen scattered across Canada today. They have been known to be considerate to their subordinates, to be sympathetic to the needs of the individual men and women who comprise the company's staff and to be generous for good in the community in which they live. Come to think of it, most fund-raising projects and other good causes would be in poor shape if it were not for their efforts.

They enjoy a certain status in both their company and their community — and pay the price of responsibility for it.

All in all, the worst that can be said of many businessmen is that they have done a far better job of selling their products than of selling themselves.

In short, our typical Canadian businessman is typified by Nelson Legree in a great many cases, not a first cousin of the famed Simon Legree of Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Naturalists Urge Parks

Sarnia Observer

Will there be enough parks and open spaces for recreation in Ontario, 50 or even 25 years from now, for this province's rapidly expanding population?

The Federation of Ontario Naturalists have grave doubts. It was organized to "study and to acquire and set aside suitable areas for this purpose." Back up its objectives the Federation has presented a brief to the provincial government urging a number of suggestions and asking a basis for a long-term parks policy. The written policy on parks currently exists in the form of a land use document. At least it is worthy of concentrated study.

Among the recommendations contained in the brief was a suggestion that provision should be made for the setting aside of nature reserves for scientific purposes. This area would mean areas set aside for the benefit of land near Austwell, Texas, for the nesting of the near-extinct Whooping Crane.

No such areas exist in Ontario, and it is time a start was made for that a few animals and some of our rare and beautiful wildflowers, including some kinds of orchid, may soon disappear entirely unless given protection.

The Federation is right in saying that from a cultural standpoint it is the province's duty to preserve samples of each type of primitive natural environment as it is to preserve works of man in art galleries and museums. Although widely recognized in Britain, Europe and the United States, for most Canadians this is still a relatively new concept.

Some of the other points in the Federation's brief should be restricted to definite areas.

Recreational activities which demand the use of mechanical power should be strongly discouraged.

Access by plane and helicopter should be limited to well defined and designated landing plans, preferably on the periphery.

Educational programs using natural features of the parks should be developed.

Cutting of trees or control of animal numbers, where desirable, should be carried out by park authorities.

In formulating policies for the management of nature reserves the Federation points to the British National Parks and Access to the Countryside Act 1949, Great Britain.

Kill Anthrax With 'Bomb'

BBC London Letter

Carpet manufacturers in Australia are planning to effect economies by making use of a "bomb, tempered" or "benign" bomb, made by radiation. The bomb will consist of a few pounds of cobalt that has been made powerfully radioactive by one of the atomic reactors at Horsell. It will be placed within a weighty container, known as a coffin, to imprison the radioactivity. At one end there will be a kind of giant camera shutter which can be operated by remote control to release its nuclear beam.

The purpose of this good tempered bomb is interesting. Energy from it is to be used to sterilize wool, skins and hair which are used, among other things, for the making of carpets. The particular aim of the sterilization is to overcome the danger of the wool industry of a kind of giant camera shutter, disease, anthrax.

Originally the Australian organization dealing with the goat skins shipped them to England for sterilization by the high temperature steam process — at an annual cost of £1,000,000. Now nuclear sterilization, it is claimed, will be much simpler. The basis of goat skin bales will be placed on a moving belt through a heavily protected concrete chamber where the radioactive cobalt bomb will be focussed on them. One incidental advantage will be that the bales of skin need not often be unpacked before sterilization.

There is no possible danger of such an atomic bomb accidentally exploding, but the potent beam could cause serious injury to anyone who entered the chamber. To safeguard men at the sterilization plant engineers in Britain designed a complete plant to be built in Australia. Third lead and concrete walls are to be used and a system of control of interlinked switches and locks will make it impossible for a worker to approach the beam. There will be remote-controlled mechanical handling facilities in the chamber to overcome any troubles with the machinery that ruins the bales of hair through the beam.

An Alternative

Ottawa Journal

What Canada needs, says the president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, is more people to eat up the food surpluses. And the answer would be the return of the good old fashioned meals served when men were men and ate like horses.

Holloway Street Methodist Church was represented by Gerald Vandervoort and Clarence Linton who took the negative side. Gerald Vandervoort has made the highest individual score so far in the series. The score was 157 for St. Andrew's, and 149 for Holloway Street Church.

RCMP Chief Wins Suppo.

Ottawa Journal

The Commissioner of the RCMP has our sympathy in his sympathy in resisting pressure to present the Force as a tourist attraction.

Parade and "show" features are all very well and bring advantage on the performers. Yet the greatness of the RCMP was not achieved in the show ground, but in the hard, often lonely and sometimes dangerous, duty of maintaining law and order.

A mounted Policeman is a handsome sight in the glory of scarlet tunic but there is also a singular satisfaction in the sight of a constable, in drab working clothes, going about his business in the knowledge that the prestige of the force rests on far more substantial foundations than an eye-catching bright jacket.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINGS TO OVERLOOK

I came across this pungent paragraph from the philosophy of William James. He said: "The art of being wise is the art of knowing what to overlook." To be happy and useful in this life we should make a note of this wise saying and apply it in our daily lives. We are far from loving ideal human beings in this world, so we should be charitable with our friends and those whom we love, for the good in them should far outweigh their bad and unpleasant.

We should overlook the little faults of our fellow people. It does no good to remind them, for they usually know about them better than we do. There is so much we can discover that is good and genuine in other people if we only look for it.

We have our own ideas, and so do others. We must not say, or do, anything that might hurt their feelings. To lie to a friend is one of the noblest things to perform in this world of false

To Your Good Health

BLOOD TEST DISCLOSES INFECTIOUS MONONUCLEOSIS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you give me some information on the disease called 'infection of the nucleus,' or is it sometimes called 'gland fever' in adults? I would like to know if it is catching and if there is any cure for it. Is it a lifetime disease? Answer, A.C."

"Dear Dr. Molner: Two of my children have had infectious mononucleosis. So far we haven't been able to find out much about this so-called blood disease, or what causes it. We have had several alarming facts told to us, and would like to know the truth. Is there such a thing, or are we having our legs pulled? No one seems to be willing to discuss the subject or tell us about it. — Mrs. L.H."

Two letters out of quite a lot! But these two ask the questions which are echoed, over and over again.

First of all, put Diseases from your mind any "alarming facts" which have been flung at you. They are, to borrow a Latin-ism term from my fifth-grade days, a lot of bushwa.

The word is not to be taken lightly, nor is it to be ignored; on the other hand, if you understand it, you won't be frightened. Just concerned, perhaps.

Call it infectious mononucleosis, or call it glandular fever, it's the same thing.

We know a lot about it from experience. It is quite common, and probably very often, in mild cases, it is not even recognized. This was true in the past than it is now. For one thing, when a case is suspected, there are many more laboratories to which we can send a blood sample and get a yes-or-no answer. You see, a blood test for this disease shows an excessive number of lymphocytes, or white blood cells. The important reason for identifying it is to make sure that we aren't overlooking some other, more perilous disease that resembles it in some way.

TEMPORARILY WEAKENING

It is, temporarily, a weakening disease. The chief symptoms are: I've known of young people who appeared to become unaccountably "lazy" until the true fact was learned; they were ill!

Symptoms vary; usually lethargy and some fever; there are sometimes swelling of the glands (hence "infectious"); maybe sore throat and the like, headache, chills, crimps, and all weakness.

Never forget this: The disease is "self - limiting," like measles or chicken pox or a cold in the head. There's nothing to do to "cure" it, but to wears itself out. Rest is advisable, just as it is for those other diseases. Antibiotics are used to stop the disease itself, but to avoid other secondary infections.

Occasionally the patient has a second attack, or "relapse," so to go easy. But never for long. Recover. It just slows things up.

It is "catching." Yes, it's just as well to sterilize dishes used by the patient.

For reasons unknown, it spreads rather rapidly among groups of young people or young adults, like college students. It affects younger rather than older folk. It has been called "kissing disease," but that's only because young people enjoy smooching. Yet, probably, it is no more a "kissing disease" than cold or flu.

We think — but we haven't yet proved — that it is a virus disease and hence something like flu. Don't be terrified of flu just understand it. Maybe someday we'll trap the virus (if it is a virus) and concoct a vaccine for it. So far, we haven't.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Will you tell us if gelatin helps one to reduce? — A.B."

No, except in the sense that it will help you reduce if you eat instead of something with more calories.

Mrs. J.M.T.: Causes of children's grinding their teeth at night vary. Getting too tired or excited before bedtime is one. Worm infestation were common cause. This is frequent enough to be worth investigating in all such cases of grindin' the teeth.

Aaa. Stands For Alaska

Washington Post

"Aaa" describes precisely a reaction to the new administration for Alaska dreamed up by the General Services Administration. It sounds like the destination of a mountain goat plunging over a precipice. But it is unlike you make when the doctor inserts one of those tongue-depressors, or perchance the policeman when a drunk tank collides with your favorite corn. "Aaa" describes the expression of pain on a Bronx cheer than the signal of joy which greeted the admission of the Union's newest state.

Some of the other adjectives in common use, to be sure, are not very impressive. "Ida is frequently applied by the label he, "Ia" for Iowa and simple and state. "O" for Ohio — in this being, it seems to us, somewhat undignified for so perpetuating a state. The Post Office Department frowns on such what undignified for so perpetuating a state. The Post Office Department frowns on such labels, preferring that the more particular state be written in full . . .

Since Alabama has long since preempted "Ala." as an abbreviation, and since "Ala." would be appropriate only for those who opposed Alaska's statehood, we can choose the simple way with this as with other short state names? Why not, in deference to the prospective largest state, spell it "Alaska" with perhaps an extra letter for the men in the disgruntled Texans?

NATURE OF TRUE RIGHTEOUSNESS

Our Lord was constantly emphasizing the inner nature of true righteousness. Not only was it characterized by that outside of the cup and the platter could be clean with the inside full of extortion and excess. He believed that the only true righteousness was heart righteousness — not what the a person do or say but what is in the centre of his heart.

Jesus did more than command men and women to live pure lives, free of misbehavior and scandal. His words were, "Bless, and are the pure in heart: for they shall see God". He declared also that the angry malicious thought could be spiritually as bad as murder. "Do not seal your every utterance He told His contempor-

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

After leaving the ladies downstairs for a social evening with the TV, I went upstairs to my friend's den and found him busy sorting through a great pile of Christmas cards he was about to tie up in a parcel and put away somewhere until next December, when he would get them out to remind him of whom to send next Christmas's cards to.

He appeared to be searching for something in particular.

"Ah, here it is!" he cried, picking out one card.

He had an envelope ready, and carefully put the Christmas card with another one already in the envelope, and then set them aside. Then he tied up the bundle.

"What's so special about those two?" I asked.

"Well," he said, "a couple of our friends have had a quarrel and they're not speaking to one another. It's been going on since last summer. They've made it rather embarrassing for all of us who know them both.

"So, if they haven't patched it up by next Christmas, I am going to send them these cards that they may see I'll keep them nice and fresh . . ."

"You mean?"

"Yes," he said, slyly. "They'll get cards from each other, and of course they'll know who's relented. And all will be forgiven. Sneaky, but good.

Trouble Swells

Telling people to ignore their troubles is like telling a boil to ignored swells and festers — especially when it is a debt.

Town Council Has Heavy Agenda

DESERONTO — The first regular meeting of the town council was held in the town hall on Monday night with all members present with the exception of Mr. McAllister.

The meeting brought forth several discussions and resulted in the project of Mayor Sweetman to have the house numbered being shelved for the time being despite the vehement protests of the mayor regarding the horse and buggy days of Deseronto" and his statement that he had begged several donations to help finance the cost.

ALLOTMENTS UNEQUAL

With reading of the minutes Councillor Detlor brought to the attention of council the fact that the committees allotments were unequal. He moved that Councillor Therrien replace S. McAllister on the by-law committee and M. Detlor replace J. Spence on the property committee. With these changes the minutes were passed.

Correspondence including letters regarding the Chisholm property on Dundas St., which was turned over to the property committee and a letter of apology from Mr. Steward regarding the assessor. The invitation of the mayor for council to attend the library on the evening of February 6th was accepted. The request of the assessor for an increase in pay was referred to the finance committee but the request of W. Cotter for a salary of $50 a year for the work at sanitary landfill site was granted.

SPIRITED PROTEST

A letter from the Public Utilities commission permission for an increase of 20 per cent in the water rates brought a spirited protest from Councillor Spence. He objected to the increase because the facilities in the past had made expenditures from current revenue which should have been turned back to the town council. Spence felt that the Metcalfe Creek at their present rates were subsidizing the water for the users of gas. The mayor said that he felt Metcalfe was not paying enough for water and other rates charged in other towns. The matter was referred until the Utilities meet with the council?

The financial report was accepted and the streets committee reported that they were out of sand and also of salt. The snowplow had also broken down but would be back on the job in the night.

In the passing of by-laws the appointment of A. H. Sinden to the Board of Health brought forth protests regarding the manner in which the mayor had made the appointment without consulting other members of the council.

Mr. McKay of the Lakeland Natural Gas Co. requested an extension of the franchise for a further three years. Councillor Lott asked if that meant that Deseronto would not get natural gas for three more years as the town as one of the first to grant a franchise but would be one of the last to be looked after. This matter was also deferred.

HOUSE NUMBERING SHELVED

The letter from the Municipal Services regarding the numbering of the houses brought forth some spirited interchange but the matter was shelved until after the budget was struck.

Letter R. E. Neal was filed.

Councillor Howard introduced the subject of protection for the firemen and moved that a representative of the Compensation Board be brought down for an interview. On his recommendation the pay of volunteer firemen was raised from 75 cents an hour to $1 an hour.

Councillor Detlor moved that the clerk advertise for sale all properties which are three years in arrears for taxes. The clerk was also granted an increase in salary of $600 per year.

S. White was appointed to the library board and the cemetery board and T. W. Jackson was appointed to the cemetery board.

After the motion for adjournment former Councillor A. Marks, who was in the audience with two other former councillors, jumped to his feet and said "Just a minute, I have something to say." He was informed that council was adjourned.

Council Planning to Limit Service Stations to Fifty Until Zoning By-Law Passed

Belleville city council, meeting in committee Monday night, decided only to limit the number of service stations in the city to the present number of 50 which are either operating, are in the process of being constructed or for which building permits have been granted.

The limiting by-law is to be amended only as long as another measure to be effective until the city's new zoning by-law is formally approved by the Municipal Board.

The regulating measure was the topic of considerable debate as council several members took the attitude that the by-law would be monopolistic and that it tended to restrict trade.

On the other hand a proposal on the by-law pointed out that it would prevent new service stations from being erected in choice residential areas until such time as the city's new zoning by-law is effective.

City solicitor R. A. Pringle said nothing could be "more unlawful contr?," while City Manager Drury Denyes noted the proposed by-law was merely a "stopgap" until the zoning by-law is passed. The by-law for service stations will come before the next regular meeting of council.

HIRE ASSISTANT ENGINEER

Hiring of an assistant city engineer at a salary of $5,100 per annum, was approved by council. The new man, who is expected to take up his duties within the next month, is Mr. Mark D. Heitsha, aged 28, present assistant city engineer at Ottawa where he is working on the storm sewer and sidewalk program.

City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull recommended an engineer with some practical experience, rather than taking a graduate engineer from the office. This was favored by some aldermen.

Also approved by council was the appointment of Mr. Kenneth Keech as plumbing inspector.

Previously the duties of plumbing inspector and sanitary inspector had been taken care of by one man. The recommendation the work of sanitary inspector was divorced full time attention by one man.

Mr. Keech is currently employed as plumbing inspector and building inspector for the township of Thurlow and will work for the city on a part-time basis with the city paying him $1,000 per annum based on the basis of time spent in the city.

ASSUME RESPONSIBILITY

Council approval was also given to assuming the cost of indigents in hospital who are residents of the annexed area, also for the cost of maintenance of patients in the county home who were residents who has been established as being in the annexed area at the time of their committal.

Also in connection with the county homes, it was noted that the city would now be entitled to 50 beds instead of the former 30, while the city would assume an additional 3.43 per cent of the annual debenture cost of the home until termination of debentures. This, it was estimated, would cost the city about $500 additional in debenture costs.

The annual clerk's returns showing the population of the city and the county for the year 1958 will be used as the basis for the preparation of a new agreement regarding the division of costs between the city and the county for costs of administration of justice.

County council last week approved of the same recommendation submitted by a special committee from the city and county to adjust the above costs.)

Mayor Gerald B. Hyde noted that Children's Aid costs for wards from the annexed area who were taken into care prior to annexation were to be settled. He noted that the county position was that the city should assume such costs, while the city took the opposite view and felt the county should continue to assume the cost of wards from the annexed area who were taken into care prior to January 1st, the effective date of annexation.

ONE-WAY STREET

In a move to relieve Sunday morning traffic congestion at the corner of Victoria Ave. and Church Street, council moved to make Church Street between Victoria and Station Street a one way artery from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Alderman R. Temple, as chairman of the traffic committee, said that traffic congestion at the corner of Victoria and Church was "intolerable" on Sunday morning, principally as result of cars from St. Michael's Church parking lot exiting south on Church.

Under the terms of the recommendation only northbound traffic would be permitted between the designated hours on Sunday.

The tender of Charles L. Hyde and Son Limited was accepted for the installation of plumbing at the concrete structure on Pinnacle Street now being erected by the municipality for the city health department. Amount of the Hyde tender, the lowest received, was $1,290.

Council also authorized the purchase from the Canadian National Railways of 9.33 acres of C.N.R. right of way in the annexed area running parallel with the CPR tracks east from the hospital.

City Manager Drury Denyes said the right of way would give the city a roadway along the waterfront.

TO DRAFT ZONING LAW

Retaining of Urban Planning Consultants Ltd. to prepare on an hourly basis the zoning by-law for the city at a fee of $5,000 was approved by council.

Council planning committee chairman Alderman Les Digby and the committee members felt the $5,000 figure justified and noted that it was hoped that a temporary zoning by-law would be ready for the committee's meeting on March 2.

A committee of Alderman Claude D. Tice and William Arthur Ellis was struck to recommend name changes for any streets in the annexed area where there was duplication of names already in the city.

Issue of Anti-Trust Suits To Be Discussed at Meet

OTTAWA (CP)—Effects in Canada of United States trade laws will be discussed again in Washington Thursday when Justice Minister Fulton meets his opposite number in the U.S.

His meeting with U.S. Attorney-General William P. Rogers was announced last week ago, was originally scheduled to discuss U.S. government anti-trust suits involving Canadian firms.

Since then there have been questions in the Commons as to whether a U.S. law barring trade with Red China by U.S. firms might have stood in the way of Aluminum Company of Canada making a $1,000,000 sale of aluminum to Communist China.

The issue of the anti-trust suits was raised at the meeting here earlier this month of the Canada-U.S. cabinet economic committee. At that time Canada lodged its third protest against the suit brought by the U.S. justice department against the Netherlands and two American companies.

CONSPIRACY ALLEGED

Canadian subsidiaries of the companies are alleged to be conspirators for allegedly restraining trade between Canada and the U.S. Trade and tobacco are also involved in the suit.

Fulton insisted recently that the suits were not initiated or carried out by organization of a Canadian patent pool, Canadian Radio Patents Limited, which prevented importation into Canada of U.S. radio and TV sets.

The Canadian government maintains that Canadian Radio Patents Limited has been broken by any Canadian laws.

The difference between Canadian and American policy in trade with Red China was pointed up early last year, when it was there were reports that Ford of Canada lost a chance to bid on sale of trucks to Communist China—a sale permitted under Canadian law—because the U.S. ban on trade with Red China applied to activities of subsidiaries of parent firms. Ford Motor Company in the U.S.

The Canadian government charged this infringed Canadian sovereignty. Last July President Eisenhower told Prime Minister Diefenbaker that steps would be taken to ensure that subsidiaries of U.S. firms in Canada complied with Canadian laws and policy.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS

This question arose in the last few days with reports that Vancouver in the Commons whether he had obtained an export permit to sell 100,000 tons of aluminum to the Chinese, but that Aluminum Company of Canada would sell this to Japan.

The firm said it turned down the order for fear the risk of losing steady customers.

Opposition questioners have raised in the Commons whether it might not have been because half of the board of directors of Aluminum Co. of Canada's parent company, Aluminium Limited, are Americans.

Trade Minister Churchill has said he knows of no forces in reference a the firm's decision.

New Banquet Hall Being Planned By Shrine Club

Plans for the construction of a new banquet hall and ballroom with billiard room and other recreational facilities, are being considered by members of the Belleville Shrine Club.

The building would be an addition to the present Shrine headquarters and would be built immediately to the west of the present building on Highland Ave.

At the annual meeting of Shrine members held over the weekend, a special committee was named to investigate all phases of the proposal and report back at the next meeting.

Chairman of the board is H. Jack Allin with chairmen of the various committees being as follows: Entertainment, "John R. Bush; House, — Lee Colliver; Grounds, Dick Sargent; Crippled Children, Bev. Quincey; Membership, Kenneth Vivian; Public Relations, Dr. J. Russell Scott; and Secretary Treasurer, L. K. Crawford.

Two other directors named to the board for 1959 are Paul Foster and Ed Way.

Turn Down Macs' Request For Funds

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener and Waterloo councils took no action Monday night on a request for financial aid to send the Belleville McFarlands to the world hockey championships in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The request — accompanied by the glass lumber bearing the signatures of the Belleville hockey players—came from a London, Ont., public relations firm. News stories recently said how the London firm would receive half the money it collected for Canada's hockey representatives.

There was no comment by Kitchener councilmen when they voted "No action."

But in Waterloo, Ald. Peter Smart succeeded council send a token $50 grant directly to the Belleville team — bypassing the London firm.

"It would show our interest and support," said Ald. Stewart. "And it might mean that they would reciprocate in 1960 for the Dutchmen." The Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen will be Canada's Olympic representatives at the Squaw Valley, Calif., winter Olympics.

Kitchener's Frank Doerrier and Vincent Alviano said they felt Canada's Olympic representatives should be financed by the federal government.

Wider Latitude In Dealing With Pollution Urged

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters has asked the Ontario government to give some latitude into its Water Resources Act.

The annual convention discussed water pollution on Sunday. The law as it stands provides, broadly, only two courses of action by the Water Resources Commission — to take when confronted with a pollution case. It can either break off the action or close up the offender—usually a commercial enterprise—but there are no in-between courses that can be followed.

The federation resolution said the law does "not provide adequate power for enforcement of graduated control of the pollution of Ontario waters by limiting the punishment to such an offender may discharge" into the waters.

It requested an amendment to the law providing "the commission with authority to set the level of pollution on a diminishing scale that shall be permitted any offender."

REPORT ACTION

George Lang of Sudbury, pollution committee chairman, said the conservation clubs reported action during the year in the battle against pollution. Problems in Southern Ontario appeared to be the most extreme.

He said industrial wastes, are still contaminating water of the St. Mary's River below the Sault locks. Studies of the situation were continuing.

Kingston, 19 miles west of Kingston, paper company operations were still polluting water in the area but the situation was being rectified by the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Mr. Lang said cheese factories, specifically one on Kingsford Valley Island, are being investigated by the department of lands and forests and water pollution.

CHECK BANCROFT

Acid content of industrial waste in the Bancroft uranium mine area, 30 miles northwest of Peterborough, was being checked by the government.

Pollution by phenol deposits in the Trent River, where it empties into Lake Ontario at Trenton, was under study. Don River pollution in the Toronto area was described as the "worst example in all of Canada."

Aircraft patrols over the area between Clarkson and Whitby helped control oil wastes from refineries.

Canada's Arctic Land Teeming With Natural Resources

"If there were no Canada south of Hudson Bay", said Mr. R. A. J. Phillipps, chief of the Arctic division of the Department of Northern Affairs, "we would still be a wealthy nation", as he spoke to the Women's Canadian Club last evening in the fine new auditorium of Tabernacle United Church, on Canada's human and natural resources of the Arctic, by word, picture, and tape-recording.

Mr. Phillipps, who has travelled extensively in the north has familiarized himself with Canada's Arctic regions, and the vast mineral wealth which lies under the ice.

While other countries were using their northlands, Canada's still-life comparatively idle and untouched are wealth and human resources under-estimated. The Eskimo has but one-fifth the chance of survival as the other Canadians.

LITTLE SNOW

The Arctic comprises one-quarter of all Canada; it is treeless, has a million beseches; is land of the polar bear, huskies, igloos, walking winds like the baying of wolves in summer the people bathe in the Arctic waters; go about in boats; the cotton and paper mills throughout the brief summer. In November the last ship departs. There is very little snow in the Arctic; it is the largest desert in the world. In very few towns, Baffin Island and Frobisher being the largest, there and a half years ago a town was begun, then the Dew line, and in September of 1957 the intercontinental air port with its 100 planes linked continents and drew Canada northward.

RICH IN MINERALS

The establishment of Frobisher symbolized a change, first in 1576 when Martin Frobisher came, and now in the reign of Queen Elizabeth II, with the mining or ore, begins a new outlook, because of new ways of transportation. All along the north east Arctic is a rich iron belt. At Rankin Inlet there is a nickle mine, and coal is found in Baffin Island, a200 copper in the western Arctic. Soon will open along the coast of Hudson Bay. More claims have been staked in the north than in all of Alberta.

The Arctic ends where the trees begin which require a temperature of 50 degrees. The Eskimos have lived there for 4,000 years, and they can be taught.

TOURIST RENDEZVOUS

The Arctic could become a rendezvous for tourists with its different attractive scenery; its fine fishing grounds; game hunting for walrus and other sea animals.

In speaking of the life of the Eskimos, Mr. Phillips mentioned that there were 11,500 in Canada, and since the falling off of the caribou, they are having a hard time as they depended on the Caribou for food, skins for clothing, and boots, and in the Keewatin district starvation is threatening them. Already just 700 miles from Canada's plenty some have starved to death. There must be found some means of keeping the Eskimo alive. Modern technology may bring new horizons and new hope. Today the life span of the Eskimo is but 29 years because of the prevalence of T.B.; due to poor housing, and the lack of proper clothing. In summe- they live in tents, or shacks, the sun melts the ice, and the dampness does the rest.

The income which they recover from the white fox furs hitherto has gradually decreased because the style changed, and the white fox was not as 'chic' as in former times. Those Eskimo who left and came south became conscious of the white man's luxuries. Traders helped to make the change as did the missionaries who were of different faiths, thus mixing up their reasonings resulting in confusion of beliefs; they lost their folk tales and drum dance, folk songs.

KEEWATIN RE-ESTABLISHMENT

In the Keewatin re-establishment on the west coast of Hudson Bay, families have abandoned their igloos and live in simple houses; are well organized for hunting groups, mass harvesting of the sea animals, chiefly seals, and hunting. They are learning new techniques, communities are being formed with schools being built as 93 per cent cannot read or write, and English can open up a new world of learning. The public health will be looked after with nurses in attendance; new crafts learned, the sale of soap stone, and mineral resources, as an accordion, and the Eskimo will learn how to spend his money wisely. The Eskimo who live by the sea will be well off with food and clothing.

The speaker showed some Eskimo carvings, mentioning their superior artistry. Canadians can buy what the Eskimo makes, and so help to provide a living.

HUMAN RESOURCES

"Human resources are the people who are needed to open up the Arctic," said Mr. Phillipps, as he showed how Russia knew the value of her Arctic territory, as eleven years ago 1,000 towns. Unlike Alaska's Arctic, here has arisen and forever continued, he cited Alaska's defence as a job providing places to live, at higher scale than Canada's Arctic placed. Greenland is the other comparison, especially, more like the Arctic Canada. It is well developed, but the natives and its people live by the sea, and have schools, a national council, homes for the aged, a printing plant, publishes books, and papers. Denmark sees the value of human resources, while Canada's north land people cannot read. Greenland has public baths, filtration plants, town squares, and broadcasting in two languages and modern homes.

PRESERVE NATIVE CUSTOMS

They kept their, own folk tales, their own customs and communes, and are a religious people; their mayors are Eskimos, as are their health workers and nurses. Denmark had a responsibility to the people.

"How soon do we develop the human resources and its mineral resources? The question confronting Canadians is what sort of civilization will they give to the Arctic? Will it be mines, mines, teach a child and try to open the mind?" concluded the speaker.

Mr. Phillipps brought an outstanding enlightenment as to Canada's responsibility in the Arctic, coupled with the beautiful colored pictures of its people and country, as well as recordings of their songs, and dances.

He was introduced to his audience by the president of the club, Mrs. D. E. Fairman, who also expressed the thanks of the club, and of herself, for the fine address.

Tea was served following the close of the meeting.

Trip To Jordan Christmas In The Holy Land

Editor's note: The writer of the letter which follows is a former resident of Belleville who is now studying in Jerusalem on a scholarship. She is Miss Joan Allen, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Allen of Regina, Sask. Miss Allen attended the Belleville Collegiate and lived with her aunt, Mrs. Sid Gilmour, 226 Charles street. She went to the Holy Land in the late summer of 1955 to begin her studies at the University of Jerusalem and will complete her work there late this spring.

JERUSALEM — This letter is about a trip to Jordan. I arrived in Bethlehem on Dec. 24 and was met by my friend who was staying with the Anglican Archbishop. After a pleasant lunch we went out to see the Shepherds'-Fields where the angels supposedly appeared. The hills are fantastic, completely barren and dry, but the colors of the earth and stone are wonderful, from chalk white to rich reds and browns.

We then went back to Bethlehem, it is a little Arab village on a hill, with many churches, the most important of which is the Church of the Nativity with the manger in a crypt underneath. The church was built by the Crusaders, though remodelled many times since.

In front of the church is the village square, a little area tree growing in the centre, and decorated with lights, tinsel and of all things, snowflakes. It seemed not in order with the weather so warm. We had lunch in the cafe and then wandered around the town, packed with Christian Arabs, many tourists and diplomats. The Arab Legion band played and soldiers were hawking their wares, sticky oriental sweets and souvenirs. Everyone was gay and the scene was like a country fair.

Then we attended midnight mass in the Church of the Nativity. A most elaborate ceremony and very impressive. It was broadcast outside and in the clear midnight air the bells and trumpets of the Church from there one is supposed to be standing where Christ was born and into Heaven.

There are several churches there and one of the olive trees which could easily be 2,000 years old.

One looks down on the Garden of Gethsemane and across the valley to the walled city of Jerusalem, the Arab side, and beyond the wall is the Jewish side.

From the Jewish side one can see very little of the walled city except the walls themselves standing high and strong and forbidden, but from this side the whole of Jerusalem looks like white it or some fairy city which for beauty and atmosphere has no equal in the world. All around are the Judean hills, bare, rocky, and bleak.

Finally we came down along an old cobbled path and through gardens and pastures where goats grazed and women in traditional long black dresses and red headdress carry water jugs on their heads, down through the Garden of Gethsemane where there are several churches of different sects. One is on the site where Christ prayed, the place where He was betrayed by Judas, through the old Jewish cemetery where Jews have been buried for centuries. Many of the tombstones are uprooted and broken. Then on to the valley to the walled city of Jerusalem and is on the Via Dolorosa with the seven stations of the cross which leads to the Holy Sepulchre.

The next day we hired a car and went on a sight-seeing trip. First, from Jerusalem through Bethlehem, then Hebron where I had been at Easter time. It is one of the oldest cities in Palestine, sacred to both Arabs and Jews. Some enormous clay water jugs used by all Arabs to carry water and keep it cool in the house. Then we went back via the Jerusalem road through Jericho, which is near the Dead Sea.

The road has been, too, but it was interesting to see again, the road twists down from Jerusalem through hills that are round and chalky white. One passes the Good Samaritan and later you come to Jericho, a large oasis with orange groves and a large refugee camp.

Jericho is green, hot and lazy. It has three sections. The new part, an older city a few hundred years old, and an ancient city where they have excavated eight successive cities, one on top of the other. One of the earlier ones is that which Joshua defeated and the ruin is still there where Elisha struck the rock for water.

We went on to see the Jordan River where Christ was baptized by John and then back by another road leading down to the Dead Sea. The Dead Sea is weirdly beautiful, very blue and calm, surrounded by the mountains of Moab, bare and craggy. Here it was that Lot's wife died before reaching the Promised Land.

We pass a sign marked "sea level" and keep going some 1,20 feet,0 the lowest spot on earth. First we drove along the sea and back a bit to the mountains where the Dead Sea scrolls were found in caves. The caves are holes in the sheer face of the cliff. On the level area between the mountains and the sea, these has been found and excavated the settlement where the monks lived. We can see the dining area, bakery, huts and reservoirs. You would think you were in another world, so desolate and strange and the great salt sea with no sign of life in it or around it.

We then went down for a swim. It is warm but so salty it raises blisters. You can hardly swim for your feet keep popping out of the water.

We did not stay as long as we wished as no one lingers when one's guest is up and might and the great salt sea with no sign of life in it or around it. The no-man's land at the borders is barb-wired, mined and patrolled.

Thinks Liberals Can Offer More In Sask.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) Mrs. W. G. F. Scythes of Regina, the first woman elected to the Saskatchewan legislature in 1918, feels that "the Liberal party deals still have a great deal to offer for the betterment of this province," where a CCF government has been in power since 1944.

Mrs. Scythes, then Mrs. Magnus O. Ramsland, was elected member for Felly in a 1918 by-election made necessary by the death of her husband. She was re-elected in 1921, but defeated in the 1924 provincial election.

She was not the first woman legislature member in Canada, however. Mrs. L. C. McKinney and Miss R. McAdams were successful in the Alberta provincial election of 1917.

SPECIAL INTERESTS

While she was a member, she naturally was glad to represent women, she said here, but she wanted only to be regarded as an individual.

"I was however always interested in promoting legislation which pertained to the welfare of women," she said. "And I was keenly interested in the educational system, in which I felt there was much room for advancement."

She moved to Regina in 1920 and, before her second marriage in 1942, was a librarian.

Mrs. Scythes was in Prince Albert for the silver wedding anniversary of a daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Andrews. She has two other children, a son and daughter.

Her hobbies now are cooking and homemaking. She taught kindergarten in Minnesota before her first marriage, and takes a keen interest in modern pre-school education.

Poll Shows Ladies Should Take Part in Public Affairs

More than 900 YWCA members across Canada were polled on the question. Nearly all said women should exercise their right to vote, and 84 per cent said women should stand for public office and revamp outmoded social legislation, particularly affecting women, such as divorce laws.

But three-quarters of those replying said women are not more active because they do not know enough about public life. Half of the women polled said that becoming informed takes too much time, 23 per cent said women "couldn't care less," 19 per cent that public affairs are for men, and 15 per cent that there is prejudice against women in public life.

Asked "Do you approve of married women working for pay outside their homes?," 55 per cent approved, 43 per cent opposed the idea. Those against qualified their disapproval like this: 54 per cent approved if there were no children, 30 per cent approved if the women had special training, and 88 per cent approved if the money was needed for the family.

The group questioned consisted of 431 single women, 384 married women, and 46 widows and divorcees.

The survey also showed that only 65 of 372 women over 21 have a political party; only 36 of all those questioned had ever been public office; but 65 per cent belonged to church groups, 38 per cent were in educational and social groups, and 32 per cent belonged to sports groups.

Elegant Fur Topper

By TRACY ADRIAN

This handsome fur coat is of ebony Alaska seal. The skins are used generously to form elongated barrel lines that taper to a narrowly banded hemline. Other interesting details are the large, round, shiny buttons decorated with little velvet bows in their centres; sloping dolman sleeves, and a stand-up Peter Pan collar.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

The last meeting of January of the Women of the Moose was held in the Moose hall with Senior Regent Gladys Ritch, presiding.

A letter from A. S. Lewis was read asking for blood donors. Plans were made for the Lindsay trip on Sunday.

After the meeting the members of the planned going to Lindsay, practised the part they had to take at the conference.

Refreshments were served.

It was in loving memory and sorrow that the Women of the Moose draped their charter in tribute to Lena Connell, who passed away on January 9th. Lena was one of the charter members and the first Academy of Friendship member to break the Friendship Circle, and also the chaplain. She will be missed as she was always ready to help her chapter in any way.

Carolyn Stephens' Luncheon

by Mary Moore

Yesterday I mentioned Carolyn Stephens' luncheon where Marianne and I met some of the wives attached to our Canadian mission in Bonn. This was a happy, homey affair where talk buzzed of Ottawa, Regina, Calgary, Hamilton and many another beloved but far off Canadian city.

The menu had such an international air I must pass on to you as much atmosphere as our space will allow.

Imagine on Carolyn's lovely dining table an embroidered pink Viennese cloth with a circular centre filled with rosy cyclamens. The menu included French onion soup made by Anna the cook better than many a French chef makes it; Dover sole Florentine (see below); fluffy rice; toasted salad, hard rolls with sweet Danish butter; maple parfait from Canadian maple syrup, light Christmas cake made from Carolyn's recipe by Anna.

What I have selected from this gem of a menu for you to try and cherish are the sole Florentine and maple parfait.

DOVER SOLE FLORENTINE:

To serve five buy 1, 1-2 to 1 3-4 lbs. small sole fillets (or other small choice fillets) and 2 lbs. young spinach and you must have the ingredients for a cheese sauce — see below. Wash and cook spinach in a minimum of water, in a covered kettle until tender. If it is not young spinach chop it coarsely. Arrange in bottom of shallow 12 or 14 inch round baking dish. Carolyn's was a scalloped Rosenthal ovenproof casserole in Delft blue. Simmer gently the sole fillets in a little salted water until barely opaque. Carefully transfer to top of spinach in baking dish, arranging wheel fashion. To the fish liquid add enough milk to make it up to 1 1-2 cups. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, stir in 2 tablespoons flour until blended. Stir into this the fish-liquid and milk mixture until thick. Add 1-4 lb. grated Gouda or Cheddar cheese. Pour evenly over the fish fillets being sure that it flows down between the fillets. Dot with more butter, garnish with sliced stuffed olives sparingly. Bake in hot oven at 425 to 450 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes or until tinged with gold and bubbly. Carolyn tells me this has become her favorite fish dish and via her dining-table the favorite fish dish of many of her friends.

MAPLE PARFAIT NO. 1 (rich):

Six egg yolks, 3-4 cup maple syrup, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 2 cups heavy cream (1-2 cup crushed nut brittle is optional but not one bit necessary). On top of double boiler mix together the yolks, syrup and salt and cook stirring over boiling water until custard coats the spoon. Remove from heat and beat until cold. Whip the cream until stiff and fold lightly into the custard. If the nut brittle is used then it is folded in very gently now. Turn into refrigerator trays and freeze. This does not form crystals. It is velvet smooth.

MAPLE PARFAIT NO. 2 (less rich and less expensive):

Six servings. One-half cup hot maple syrup, 2 egg yolks, 1 cup heavy cream, 2 egg whites. Beat egg yolks until very light, then slowly add hot maple syrup, while you continue to beat constantly. Cook over boiling water, stirring until thick; then occasionally for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and cool. Whip cream until stiff and fold in. Whip egg whites until stiff and fold in. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm without stirring.

I hope that Helen P. sees and saves this for her husband George has a maple sugar bush.

GOOD MANNERS

SECOND MARRIAGE PLANS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In about two months I am to be married for a second time. This is my prospective bridegroom's first marriage, and we are both young (I am 23, and he is 25). We are planning to have a small candlelight ceremony with the reception immediately following. Since this is my second marriage, and I want everything to be proper, there are several questions I would like to have you answer, please.

1. I have chosen a simply-designed, street - length, blush - pink dress, and a small blush - pink headpiece. Would it be proper to wear a blush - pink face veil?

2. What kind of invitations would it be proper to send? Would this form be correct: — "Mr. and Mrs. John Robins request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Elizabeth Anne to Mr. Arthur Clark on" - - - etc.?

3. Would it be proper to announce my engagement by putting a news release in our local newspapers?

1. You have made a good choice of dress — the type and color — and of small headpiece. And it would be proper for you to wear a short face veil, exceeding, say, to just above your eyebrows.

2. You haven't told me whether you are a widow or a divorcee. In the case of a widow as young as you are, it would be correct for parents to send engraved invitations to your second marriage, like this:

Mr. and Mrs. John Robins request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter
Elizabeth Robins Lane
to

But if you are a divorcee, it would be bad form for you to send formal invitations to your second wedding. You may either telephone your invitations or send personal notes.

3. It is considered poor taste for either a widow or a divorcee to send announcements of the engagement to the newspapers.

ADDED GUEST

HALIFAX (CP) — Pigeons and crows coming indoors to escape the cold spell were reported in various homes here but one household was really disturbed when a crow took residence in a basement, already occupied by the cat and a rabbit.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. H. J. — Peter doesn't want to go to college.

Peter J. — I'll always be the black sheep.

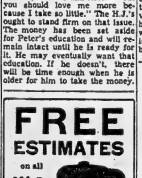
Mrs. H. J. — My husband and I are terribly upset about our son, Peter. He is 17 and says he doesn't want to go to college, even though he is a very bright student, and his brother and sister are both in college.

It never occurred to us we would have a problem like this, because my husband is a college graduate, and most of our relatives are in the professional class. Peter used to talk of becoming a lawyer, but now he says he doesn't know what he wants to be. He just wants to go into the service and "knock around" for a while.

We have had to work hard and stint and save for college educations for our children. The road has been far from easy. We have tried to show Peter how foolish and wasteful he is being of these important years of his life, but we can't budge him.

Peter J. — My parents don't realize the simple fact that I have always hated school and am fed up with it. Just because I've managed to do well in high school is no reason to have to prolong the agony another four years. I'm so fed up now I feel like quitting.

My brother and sister have always done everything my parents expected of them, but I'm different. I've always been the black sheep, and I guess I always will be. That's the way I'm built. I know that they are disappointed in me, but I can't help it.



I would like my parents to give me about one quarter of the money they saved for my education. They can keep the rest. I know they really need it. If I had a little extra money I could get a start in something when I get out of the service. I plan to do big things anyway.

The Council: The J. J.'s are making a big mistake by putting too much pressure on Peter. No student can get through college satisfactorily without some desire for this education. It is useless to force such an issue.

As a result of all this pressure, Peter is developing some giant-sized guilt feelings. He has the attitude that he is going to have to do "big things" to justify the disappointment he has caused his parents. This way of thinking and feeling can be a big roadblock against his making reasonable progress in life.

A far better course for the H. H.'s would be to take the positive position that they are willing to encourage their son in any reasonable plans. The idea of "knocking around" may not be too bad for a youth provided he does it in the right spirit. If he sets out in an adventure-seeking spirit he may learn about a lot of things and find his way toward a real goal in life. But if he sets out to prove that he is a black sheep or to prove he is worth something in spite of his parents' disapproval, he will go through much suffering and achieve little that is worthwhile.

By asking for one-quarter of the money his parents saved for his education, Peter may want to hurt himself and curry favor with his parents. In effect he is saying, "I'm worth so much less than my brother and sister — but you should love me more because I take so little." The H.J.'s ought to stand firm on that issue. The money has been set aside for Peter's education and will remain intact until he is ready for it. He may eventually want that education. If he doesn't, there will be time enough when he is older for him to take the money.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

ON THE AIR!

"I think your club is ready. You are hot and hungry and up. And when a team is that way it cannot be beaten. The big difference in a club's performance is its attitude. You have the right one."

Although it wasn't visible the Maes chesta might have justifiably expanded just a trifle as these words fell from the lips of Dunlops manager Wren Blair Saturday night.

An hour earlier the little man with the wandering forelock was doing a cross between a Zulu war dance, a Highland fling and a cha-cha in the press box when his beloved Dunlops were zipped wide open by the Maes who scored three goals in the first period without a reply.

Now he had cooled off. He sat in the Maes' dressing room after the game, wearing a hat that had been squashed flat at least six times during the game, when he hurled it to the floor and jumped on it. He was there at Coach Hildebrand's request to give the Maes some educational chatter on hockey in Europe, its teams, and other things pertaining to the world tournament.

"You will note," he said, "that the Dunnies played better hockey against you than any other team in the league. They were up for you. The records prove that. They did it because I told them to do so and I told them to go all out to beat you because I wanted to get you mad and bring out your best potential. It worked especially in the last three games, and I am glad that it did."

In Europe, he said, a Canadian team must be "up" all the time. "Don't have a let-down after you have beaten an easy team. Get all the goals you can. The teams and people don't mind. All they want to see is a Canadian team play hockey. And they like to see it clean."

He warned the Maes not to expect any favors from European referees. "They always give the underdogs the breaks, and you won't be that. Just stand there and take it—and don't argue. You will notice these officials at other games root for European teams. Don't think they favor any one club. They do not. They merely like to see European teams win, especially against Canada and the United States.

"Don't bother yourselves about other teams' scores. Just go ahead and beat any team you meet as badly as you can, and keep your goals against average as low as possible. That is very important.

"Last year the Russians were beating other clubs with about half the scores the Dunnies are piling up. They threw up their hands in mock horror. Don't let them fool you this way. They do it to put you off your guard and your game.

"The final last year proved that. The score was 7-2 with four minutes to go before we threw in the winning goals. Anything could have happened."

Blair urged Hilde brand and the players to study the styles, weaknesses and other characteristics of European teams when they are in action against other squads. "This will help you immeasurably when you come to play them," he said.

"Hold meetings the night before you play, and concentrate on the opposing team. And remember to keep the tournament in mind at all times. You will find it is a fast switch from an easy team to a hard one. Remember, if you are defeated, you are all done.

"Hit them hard but cleanly, and according to the international rules," Blair said, "for these teams are geared to sportsmanship a lot more than we are."

"You will find," he went on, "that these European teams never quit whether they are ten goals up or forty goals down. They are skating and shooting all the time. There are no icing rules over there and every two-minute penalty must be served to the time limit."

In a parting warning, Blair urged the Maes not to panic if they find themselves a goal down. "Don't lose your heads and get down on your game. The first thing you know, the opposition will be two goals up. Keep driving as if nothing had happened and be sure to stay on the ice."

"Winning the world tournament for Canada is the biggest thing you ever had in your lives. It was with us. The Stanley Cup is a battle between six teams with a mug at stake. You are doing something for your country," he concluded.

"Had publicity before the tournament did not do the Dunlops any harm. I see the Maes are getting the same done from the Toronto newspapers. It won't hurt you. It only helps to get you tensed for the tournament."

Blair outlined some of the international rules and plays of the various European clubs the Dunlops met last season before shaking hands individually with the Belleville team and wishing them good luck and bon voyage.

BINGO TONIGHT!

The Booster Club announced today the weekly Bingo game at the Maes' hockey games will be played tonight instead of Friday. Other commitments necessitated the change of dates.

Gord Howe, Moore, Beliveau Nudging Geoffrion, Bathgate; Recount May Tie Top Pair

MONTREAL (CP)—The heavi-est pressure on the National Hockey League's scoring leaders came last week from the three men who have won the championship the last three seasons.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens and Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers, who are still running one-two, each collected three points. Five-point productions came from the closing-in ex-champs — Dickie Moore of Montreal, last season's winner; Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings, winner in 1956-57, and Jean Beliveau, another Montrealer, who won in 1955-56.

The NHL's official statistics, released last night, show Geoffrion with 37 points and Bathgate with 36. There will be a recount. News reports from Sunday's Montreal-Detroit game showed Geoffrion had two assists, along with one goal. The telegraphed report from the official scorer showed one assist, not two.

Whether it's 37 or 38 points, Montreal's Boomer is still leading the red-hot race. Bathgate scored no goals but picked up three assists this week.

HOWE CLOSING IN

Howe improved his third-place position with two goals and three assists and with 32 points is crowding the leaders.

Moore scored one goal and four assists and took over fourth place from Chicago's Eddie Litzenberger, who drew a blank in three games. Moore has 47 points to Litzenberger's 45.

Beliveau, who has missed six games consequent to a knee for the other leaders, helped himself to two goals and three assists.

That was good for a share of the sixth-place tie of a week ago with Boston's Vic McKenney. Beliveau has the spot all to himself with 44 points while McKenney, scoring only one assist, has dropped back to seventh place with 41 points.

Bratchuk is at 40 points are Vic Stasiuk of Boston and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit. Delvecchio had two assists last week and Stasiuk a goal and a pair of assists.

Red Sullivan of New York, with 39 points apiece, is in 10th place with 39 points. Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal, idle because of an injury, is in a three-way tie at 38 points with Johnny Wilson of Boston and Ron Murphy of Chicago.

The week's play produced only one closing in the league standings. New York Rangers moved into a tie with Chicago Black Hawks for second place. The Rangers get preferred billing because they have only 8 games to the Hawks' 19.

The league-leading Canadiens are 16 points ahead of these two teams. But behind the Montrealers it's a tight race. Five points separate the other five teams.

Tigers Hot On Two Young Hurlers

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — You've heard about those "can't miss" kids, the kind who are supposed to be sure shots to make the big jump from the minors to the majors. Well, it appears Detroit Tigers will have two such specimens in spring training camp next month.

American Association officials who watched pitcher Jerry Davie erect a league-leading 2.45 earned run average while winning 17 and losing five for Charleston are convinced he will land a starting berth with the Tigers this year.

Southern Association officials are equally as high on Steve Demeter, a slugging third baseman who hammered 18 home runs and drove in 88 runs while building up a .310 average with Birmingham.

Davie, 23, is a six-foot, 180-pound right-hander. He is said to have a good curve and an excellent fast ball.

Demeter, who has been knocking around the minors for five years is said to be in only 25.

17 ROOKIES

The Tiger roster contains six rookie pitchers, one catcher, six infielders and four outfielders.

Don Lee, big right-handed son of Thornton Lee, former American League star southpaw, is back again after posting a 14-7 St. Clair, Ill., Cherokee. He fanned 99 in 116 innings, and his earned run average was an impressive 2.95.

Larry Osborne, a big first baseman with a good record in the minors, will receive a thorough test. He batted .327 at Charleston and walloped 81 doubles, 19 home runs and drove in 97 runs.

Maury Wills, a Negro shortstop purchased from Spokane, a Los Angeles Dodger farm club, is regarded as one of the fastest men in baseball. In six years in organized baseball he has stolen 366 speedster stole 251 issues. He batted .281 last season.

Bob Johnson, a 22-year - old third baseman, was purchased from Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League where he batted .242.

Earl Hersh, former Milwaukee chatitel, may be the best of the new outfielders drafted from Wichita, he didn't hit for average (.237), but he walloped 27 home runs and drove in 86 runs.

Rafer Johnson Said Greatest Of All Time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mantle of world greatness rests with dignity, pride and modesty on the muscular shoulders of Rafer Lewis Johnson, perhaps the greatest all-around athlete of all-time.

Many titles belong to this 23-year - old California giant, who stands 6 feet 3 and weighs a solid 200 pounds. But not all of them are registered in the realm of sports.

He is the holder of the world record in the decathlon, which he scored in fabulous fashion last summer in packed Lenin Stadium in Moscow.

He met and defeated the great Russian hero of track and field, Vasiliy Kuznetsov, who had world record pending at the time, by the amazing 8,302 points in the 10-Track and field events.

This tremendous triumph was the key that opened the door to a shower of national and international awards bestowed on big Rafe for the year 1958.

Wednesday night he will receive still another—the accolade of California's athlete of the year, as voted in an inaugural poll conducted by The Associated Press sports caucus of the state's newspapers, television and radio stations.

Rafer, president of the student body at the University of California at Los Angeles, was honored at a testimonial dinner where he was presented with a ring and his name inscribed on a perpetual trophy.

Break Contracts Get the Gate

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick has banned Willie Kirkland and Leon Wagner, San Francisco Giants outfielders, $250 each and banned them from other baseball for one year for breaking their Puerto Rican contracts.

This is the first time the commission ever has taken action against a player in Caribbean baseball.

Kirkland was playing with the Santurce team and Wagner with the Ponce in the Puerto Rican League. They left their clubs without consent Jan. 5, Frick said.

New York Will Honor Blind Golfer

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — Out of about 600 golfers who will attend the Metropolitan Golf Writers dinner tonight, there won't be anyone getting more fun out of the affair or out of golf than Charley Boswell.

Boswell, a big, good natured ex-football player who usually shoots golf in the 90s, didn't start to play the game until 1946. Tonight he will receive the Ben Hogan award of the Golf Writers' Association of America, given each year to someone who has overcome a handicap to play golf.

Charley, you see, can't see.

Boswell was blinded during the Second World War when he climbed back into a disabled tank to pull out a young driver. A shell struck just as he was about to dive from the top of the tank into a ditch and fragments penetrated his eyes. He first tried to play golf, a game that hadn't interested him before, at the Valley Forge, Pa., Veterans Hospital.

"I hit the ball the first time I tried," he recalled with a chuckle today. "I racked it real good. If I hadn't I probably would have thrown the club into the woods and never tried again. Boy, that was the best thing that ever happened to me."

Boswell is dead serious one minute and laughing the next about what the game means to him. Obviously he enjoys every minute of it.

Boswell first played in the national blind championship in 1946. He has missed only one since then and he has won the title 10 times.

Blind golfers have "coaches" who judge the distances, line up the clubs for shots and tell them how far to stroke putts. But they stick to the regular rules on all but one point. They're allowed to ground their clubs in sand traps.

Ferrell, Stengel Join Detroit Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Tigers of the American League have named Earn Ferrell, veteran catcher, as acting general manager.

Ferrell, a former major league catching star, will succeed John McHale, who took a post as vice-president and general manager of Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

Ferrell, 53, director of minor league personnel for Detroit, has been in the Tiger organization for nearly 10 years.

"Ferrell will assign some of his minor league duties to his staff and will assume all of the duties of the general manager as acting executive until time as he can name a general manager," said John Fetzer, chairman of the club's board of directors.

Turley Figures Other Yankees Taking Cuts There's Lots Left for Him

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Bullet Bob Turley today joined the lengthening list of malcontents with New York Yankees who think they are being squeezed in general manager George Weiss' austerity program.

He received his contract about 10 days ago, he said, and he isn't pleased.

"I see by the papers that Yogi Berra, Mickey Mantle, Gil McDougald, Whitey Ford and Moose Skowron were asked to take pay cuts," he said—Monday night. "I also read in the papers that the Yankees said their pennant was going to be about $700,000 this year, a record high.

"If all these fellows are going to be cut there must be plenty more for me."

Turley declined to disclose the pay the Yankees offered him for 1959. It is believed the world champions wrote down $29,000, about $5,000 more than Bob is said to have collected last year when he posted a formidable 21-7 record and a glittering world series performances.

$5,000 OBJECTIVE

Turley wouldn't say what he wanted. It was understood, however, that he would take no less than $35,000.

"I'm not complaining about the figure," said Turley, a mild-mannered fellow. "The club just sent me the contract to keep within the rules. I intend to take it up with them in New York."

Turley was the only American League hurler to win 20 or more games in 1958, and he thinks he can do it again.

Turley received the S. Rae Hickok award as the $10,000 diamond-studded gold belt—Monday night as the professional athlete of the year.

He was selected by a national panel of sports writers and sportscasters, finishing far ahead of Jimmy Brown, starry Cleveland Browns backfielder, and Archie Moore, the light heavyweight boxing king.

MATCH RAINED OUT

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) Marylebone Cricket Club's match against New South Wales was abandoned today as a draw. Rain, which fell continously from Monday's close, prevented any play on the final day of the four-day match. Final scores were: New South Wales 215 and 44 for no wickets; MCC 30.

Cepeda Faces Assault Rap

SAN JUAN (CP)—First baseman Orlando Cepeda, the National League's rookie of the year last season with San Francisco Giants, was charged Monday with assault and released on $500 bond, then was fined $200 by the Puerto Rican league president as a result of Sunday's playoff game riot.

President Carlos Garcia Nocedas levied the fine "for conduct detrimental to the best interests of baseball." Cepeda threw a ball at the fans after they had bombarded him with fruit, beer cans and bottles.

All the action came after right-hander Ruben Gomez of Philadelphia Phillies, Cepeda's San-turce teammate in winter league baseball, hit a Mayaguez batter with a pitch.

The game, fifth in the semi-final playoff between the two clubs, was halted and forfeited to Santurce in the eighth inning because of fog, demonstrations against Cepeda fid Gomez. Santurce, which led 4-0 at that point, scored a 5-2 lead in the forfeited seven playoff.

German Whips Danny Russo

NEW YORK (AP) — Stefan Redl, German-born welterweight, pounded Danny Russo of Brooklyn almost at will as he captured a lopsided unanimous decision in a 10 - rounder at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. Redl weighed 149½, Russo 151.

A 3-to-1 favorite, Redl earned a 9-1 margin on Judge Sam Iroen's card. The other Judge, Joe Lopez, scored it 8-2. Referee Mark Conn awarded Redl nine rounds and scored one even.

Redl is 21st victory in 24 starts. Russo suffered his seventh loss. He has won 15.

City Juniors Snap Two-Year-Jinx With 7-5 Defeat of Peterborough

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Belleville Lambert - Rollins snapped a two year jinx here last night when they handed Peterborough Latons a 7-5 defeat in Central Ontario Junior "B" play.

The win was the first for a Belleville junior team over a Peterborough club in at least two years and the loss was only the fourth for the Liftlock City club this season.

Lambert-Rollins were never behind, although the visitors tied the game twice in the first period, which ended 3-2. Belleville took the lead for keeps in the second period by 5-3 score and upped it to 6-3 midway through the third.

Peterborough caught fire for two goals in less than as many minutes before Roger Drake sailed the decision away with his second goal of the game. Coach Eddie Redmond of Peterborough pulled his goalie with 30 seconds left to play and threw on six attackers in a desperation move. An elbowing penalty to Horton at 19.45 killed the final ray of hope.

The game was one of the cleanest junior "B" fixtures played here this winter with only nine minor penalties called. The Petes drew six and the winners scored once with a man advantage while another of their goals came with the clubs playing five men aside.

Gary Rowbotham came through with a neat three-goal performance and added an assist for a four-point evening to lead the Belleville club. Roger Drake had two big goals in the third heat while Jack Elliott had a goal and two assists and Jerry Mann the other goal. Gary Goyer drew three assists, Ron Hull and Larry Mavety two each, Dennis Kerruish and Jim Jones one.

Horton topped the Peterborough attackers with two goals and one helper while Meagher getting one and one. Beatty and Joe English also scored while Ron Jewell earned three assists, Kelly two and Coombes one.

The Latons were without the services of their high-scoring ace Paul Wadley but had a Junior "A" recruit, Jimmy Dunne in the lineup. Former Belleville goalie Larry DePietro was in the nets.

Daly was setting out a tripping penalty when Jerry Mann's blueline slap shot opened the scoring. Meagher tied it but Rowbotham again beat DePietro with a good step shot. Horton evened the score before the period ended.

Rowbotham scored on a ganging play early in the second and Jack Elliott caught the rigging with a corner shot to make it 4-2. Rowbotham completed his hat trick at 9.36 and Beatty scored for Peterborough at 15.02.

Belleville missed a number of good chances to increase the lead early in the third before Drake took Elliott's pass out from the corner to make it 6-3 at 12.39. Horton drew the playing five aside at this point.

Peterborough hit for a pair of quick goals by English and Horton at 14.28 and 16.15 to cut the lead to one goal. Roger Drake sunk the clincher at 17.10 when DePietro was slow covering a corner shot. Bill Moreau made several good saves as Belleville protected the lead and took their tenth win against the same number of losses.

Lineups:

Peterborough — DePietro, Coombes, Beatty, Meagher, Watson, Kelly, English, Nichols, Jewell, Horton, Berrons, Daly, Fitzgerald, Dunne.

Stan Mikita Running Away In Junior Race

TORONTO (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees are running away from the rest of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league and Stan Mikita, centre, Stan Mikita, is doing the same with the scoring honors.

Official statistics released Monday including Sunday's games show he has scored 30 goals and 52 assists in 37 games for 82 points, an average of 2.3 points a game.

Although hampered by a cast on his right arm, Mikita has set a hot pace since breaking his wrist in the all-star game Jan. 7, picking up 22 points in his last eight games.

Second place is held by Peterborough Petes' Wayne Connelly with 27 goals and 43 assists for 70 points, five better than linemate Bill Mahoney.

With a 2.67 goals-per - game average, Jacques Caron of the Petes leads the goalies. He has allowed 80 goals in 30 games. St. Catharines, Dennis Dejordy moved into second spot this week with a 2.97 average.

Minor Hockey

A pair of four-goal performances and a couple of other hat tricks highlighted the minor hockey activity last night as Belleville moved one step in the squirt section of the BMHA.

Michael Smith of the Maple Leafs potted four goals, his team's total, but the Black Hawks still took a 6-5 decision. Hawk goals were shared by Bob Coleman, Ronald Hunter, Mike Goyer, Don Albright and Don Blaind.

The Bruins handed the Canadiens an 8-2 defeat with Jim McKenzie turning in a three-goal effort to spark the win. Other Barons goals went to Billy Hoard, Allan Lapinetta, Bobby Parsons and Wayne Dehl. Paul Goodfellow and Michael Hollinski were the Canadien snipers.

Larry Moore fired three goals to lead the Bruins in a 4-1 victory over the Bruins. Larry Tripp had the other Senators goal. Johnny Hayman and Wayne Muir replied for the Bruins.

Rangers took a 5-1 decision over Red Wings with Larry Fitzmamore scoring three of the Ranger goals, Ron Brooks and Philip Deevey added singletons. Teddie Drumm was the lone Wing marksman.

Out of town teams will supply the opposition against the best of Belleville's minors at Memorial Arena and the public is urged to attend.

The first game is scheduled for 6.00 p.m. with Stirling and Belleville squirts doing battle. The squirts are the youngest boys in the Minor Hockey setup.

Russ Favored Over Americans In Basketball

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The United States had the underdog role in the world amateur basketball championships today following its unimpressive victory over weak Nationalist China and Russia's one-sided triumph over Bulgaria.

The U.S. had to put on a strong second-half rally to defeat Nationalist China 88-69 Monday night. The Soviets rode over Bulgaria 78-58.

The winners boosted their records in the round-robin competition to 2-0. They meet Wednesday night. The Americans are not scheduled to play tonight, but the Russians take on Chile.

The Soviets' victory was marked by frequent booing and cries of "Hired, fixed, fixed." Fans threw coins on the court when Russia piled up its big lead with a flurry of baskets.

Garry Moore Show Steadily Showing Increased Ratings

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Among my distinctions as a television critic was the fact that I liked the Garry Moore night-time show when it opened last fall. Apparently I was just about the only so-called critic in America who thought it was fine.

"You had some company," Moore said, one other day. "I thought it was pretty good myself."

He recalled that after the opening of the CBS-TV show (Tuesdays, 10 p.m., EST) everybody around the studio was jubilant about it. A member of the network brass wrung his hand and said, "Garry, you've added a new dimension to television."

It made Moore think, he says today, that "if we're this good, we'll be off the air in a month."

STILL GOES ON

Well, the show not only is still on the air. It has a steadily increasing audience, the sponsors are happy, and the critics every where have been backtracking and saying it's a good show.

Moore says:

"We learned that every guest can't have something special created for him. We thought, for example, that it was a novel idea to have Tommy Sands singing Cole Porter tunes. But we learned that most people don't care for such novelty. They want to hear Tommy Sands singing his hit records."

How does it feel to do what you think is a first-rate job and then find yourself in the critical roasting pan?

"I was more disappointed in myself than in the critics," Moore grinned suddenly. "After all, this slow-starting of mine is the story of my life.

"In 1943, when Jimmy Durante and I started a radio show, we lost our sponsor at the end of six weeks and we got more sponsors and lasted for years.

"In 1950, when I started my daytime television show on CBS, Jack Gould, the TV critic of the New York Times, panned me. . . . The show started eight years.

"In 1952, when I started with I've Got a Secret, we lost our sponsor after six weeks. I've Got a Secret is still running strong."

Brando, Non-Conforming Actor, Not a Beatnik

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sorry, beatniks, Marlon Brando isn't one of you.

The non-conforming actor has often been hailed as a hero of the beat generation. His early film roles and erratic mode of living seemed in key with this band of Bohemians. So I asked him if he were one of the beats.

"Lord, no," he snorted.

"I can just see it when Im an old man and they'll say to me"—here his voice became creaky—"So you're Marlon Brando, huh? Well, where's your leather jacket and racoon?"

STAR AND DIRECTOR

Brando made the comments on a rocky cliff overlooking the Pacific near Malibu. He was having a Spartan lunch of fruit and goulash between his arduous labors as director and star of One-Eyed Jacks. He seemed antagonistic toward the convention-hating beatniks.

"Mere protest for its own sake can be a foolish thing," he remarked. "After a while, they lose sight of what they were protesting about. And you wonder if they would ever be satisfied even if life were set the way they want it."

Brando has been reported frequenting San Francisco's North Beach joints, where the movement started, but he said, walked by them one day, that's all."

It does like jazz, though he prefers Afro-Cuban music. And he has had a long interest in Zen Buddhism.

He softened his remarks about the beats somewhat: "I guess you can't blame them for wanting to seek some identity in this world. If they don't want to be Ivy League, then they'll be anti-Ivy League—anything to escape the banality of today's society.

"Man is a herd animal. He lives like the cow society, which is broken into groups called clans and then clans and then families, all travelling together. But there are a few who don't travel with the herd at all; they're called ridgerunners.

"In most of our history, there was always a frontier for the non-herd people to escape to. Now there is no frontier. I think we have to find our own different level."

AT THE BELLE — Jennifer Jones and Vincent Price are shown from a scene of the movie "The Song of Bernadette", which is playing for the last times today at the Belle Theatre. "The Song of Bernadette" was first produced in 1943 and has been re-issued to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the "miracle at Lourdes".

AT THE PARK — Striking Joan Collins has the most important role of her screen career in "Island in the Sun", the first Technicolor production filmed in the Twentieth Century-Fox release, now on the Cinemascope screen at the Park Theatre today and Wednesday. On the same program Academy Award winning best actress Joanne Woodward in "Three Faces of Eve".

Olmedo Threat To Aussie Tennis Hopes

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Harry Hopman, Australia's Davis Cup captain, said today Alex Olmedo's victory in the Australian tennis championships was a blow to Australia's Davis Cup hopes.

"Olmedo's play through the championship singles proved him a fine stroke-maker with terrific potential and a very great threat to Australian hopes of winning back the Davis Cup," Hopman said.

"After watching Olmedo's superb control against (Neale) Fraser and Ezri Buchholz' elimination of Martin Mulligan in the junior final it would be safe to predict that Olmedo and Buchholz will be back on the U.S. Davis Cup team."

Olmedo defeated Fraser 6-1, 6-4, 6-3 Monday to send the Australian title back to the U.S. for the first time in eight years. Buchholz won the junior crown, giving him a sweep of the Australian, Wimbledon, French and U.S. junior championships.

Dutchies Whip U.S. Nationals By 7-1 Score

It was the final game for the U.S. Nationals before flying overseas Wednesday to prepare for the world tournament in Prague, Czechoslovakia in March.

The Dutchies, upset 4-1 by the U.S. team in the 1956 Olympics in Cortina, evened the score by winning 8-0 last year. In Monday night's rubber match they had little difficulty after gaining a 4-0 first-period edge.

The U.S. team was 90 minutes late in arriving from Detroit and couldn't get untracked in the opening period when the Dutchmen had a 23-4 edge in shots.

Right winger Jack McKenzie scored three times for the Dutchmen, members of the Ontario Hockey Association-Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A-Series. Single goals went to Jerry Theberge, Murray Davison, Bob McKnight and Billy Flick.

Bob Turk tallied the only U.S. goal—in the second period.

The teams evenly divided eight minor penalties in the game which was played under international rules.

AT THE PARK James Mason, has one of the key roles, that of "Maxwell Fleury," in Darryl F. Zanuck's Twentieth Century-Fox release, "Island in the Sun," now at the Park Theatre today and Wednesday. On the same program Academy Award winning best actress Joanne Woodward in "Three Faces of Eve".

literature of the broad masses in the building of communism, extension of the functions of public bodies in matters of state importance, increase in the organizational and educational role of the party and the socialist state, and an all-out strengthening of the alliance between the workers and the peasants and of the friendship of the peoples of our country."

The Soviet aim in international relations, said Khrushchev, is "the consistent pursuance of a foreign policy aimed at preserving and consolidating international peace and security on the basis of Lenin's principle of peaceful coexistence of countries with different social systems."

GOOD WORD FOR STALIN

He paid tribute to the "guiding role of the party and its central committee, headed for many years by J. V. Stalin."

Khrushchev's tribute to Stalin was in marked contrast to his denunciation of the dictator at the last Communist party congress in 1956.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union's industrial output leads Europe and is first in the world — only to that of the United States.

"Bourgeois economists and politicians have often augured that the Soviet Union would be compelled to slow down its economic development after it rehabilitated its national economy after the war," Khrushchev said.

"All these predictions have burst like soap bubbles. The Soviet economy continues to develop at a rapid pace."

EFFICIENCY BETTER

The premier said the six own program to decentralize industry and establish regional economic councils had made the economy more efficient.

Khrushchev made special mention of the "outstanding successes" achieved by Soviet scientists in launching a space rocket satellite past the moon.

Khrushchev's speech was heard by newspaper correspondents, who were admitted to a party conference hall. Only a few foreign envoys diplomats were seen in the audience, however, and there was no indication that the western reporters would be allowed to attend sessions after the opening one.

SEVEN-YEAR PLAN

Khrushchev said the seven - year plan as stressed by Khrushchev is to give the Soviet Union the world's highest living standard by 1970 at the latest, surpassing the West in production and thereby —in the Soviet view—proving to the world that Russia's economic and political system is better than the West's.

Khrushchev said gross industrial production should be 80 per cent higher in 1965 than it was last year. Agricultural production is to rise 70 per cent.

As the conference opened, the Communist party newspaper Pravda appeared with a letter from 101 persons described as old Bolsheviks. The letter attacked the so - called anti-party group and praised the party for uncovering it. No punishment was mentioned.

He was charged with conspiring against Morejon came from a former aide and an active farmer's widow.

Carmen Vasquez, 24, told the court last April 30, the captain and two carloads of soldiers had come to her home in Guines, ordered Paso, shot her husband, mashing-gunned one of his brothers, then taken another brother and a cousin into the street and gunned them down. None of them was a rebel, she testified. The witness singled out Morejon from pictures presented by the farmer's widow.

Farmer Francisco Cabrales identified Morejon as the killer of his father and two others at Los Cocos on May 24.

Cubans Turn Attention to Outside World

By BOBBY BERRELLEZ

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Cuba's revolutionary government, after a hectic three-week organizing period, is turning its attention to the outside world.

Provisional President Manuel Urrutia's regime has been overshadowed — although not intentionally so — by revolutionary chief Fidel Castro and his war crimes trials of ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista's lieutenants.

Urrutia has had to find quail and pheasant to fill civil posts vacated by the mass cleanout of Batista supporters. He has had to act quickly to meet such urgent problems as getting the vital sugar harvest under way and repairing war-ravaged highways, railways and communications.

A growing criticism has been foreign criticism of the speedy military conviction and execution of accused war criminals and the carnival atmosphere in which the public trials opened in Havana last week.

PLANNING COURSE

Urrutia and his cabinet have been meeting daily and hourly, trying to work out the government's future course of action.

It is expected that Urrutia will broadcast to the nation Sunday, foreign minister Roberto Agramonte outlined the government's position on several matters.

He said his government is not contemplating diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and indicated that Communists would be excluded from the new regime.

Opposes Opening Springhill Mine

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — A three-man royal commission investigating the Springhill mine disaster at No. 2 colliery here has opposed the mine never should be reopened.

The inquiry, under commissioner Dr. Donald Cameron, Mr. Justice Hall, Monday heard Harold Gorman, chief of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's coal operations, advise in a brief that he would oppose using the mine as a testing ground to determine the cause of disaster.

It was a bump—lifting of the mine floor—that Oct. 23 trapped 174 miners, killing 39. Mr. Gorman was one of four witnesses at opening hearings on Dominion No. 2 held chiefly to determine if further investigation should be made to reveal the origin of bump.

on Sunday. The Globe and Mail's first Monday morning evening. Mr. Justice Rand presided over the CBC and CKEY broadcast regularly on Sundays.

The CBC, unopposed by the Ontario attorney-general on this view, claimed it was an agent of the Crown. But where they differed was in the CKEY claim that as a Crown agent it was exempt from prosecution under the Lord's Day Act.

Under the interpretation of the act, the broadcast could be affected by a statute unless "it is expressly stated in the enactment that the provincial act be bound thereby." If the Crown was so bound, the CBC claimed, neither was its agent.

C. F. H. Carson of Toronto, representing the Ontario attorney-general, argued that even if the Crown itself could be prosecuted for violating the Lord's Day Act, an agent of the Crown could be prosecuted.

SPEECH FORECAST

and treatment services, progressively reduce segregation or isolation and put the permanently mentally handicapped or infirm "in more suitable social surroundings."

New facilities would be provided for research, treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics, while education services would be extended.

In penal reform, Coleraio was leading the way in implementing the Fauteux report. As the program developed, the province would be responsible only for lawbreakers sentenced to six months or less instead of those serving terms under two years.

EMPHASIS ON REFORM

"For the first time, we will be able to devote our entire reform institution facilities to their true function anti objective, namely the rehabilitation of reformable persons who can subsequently take their place in society and lead normal, useful and law-abiding lives.

"The province will further extend its probationary services."

The speech mentioned a program to provide more camping and picnic sites and set aside large areas for forest propagation and wild life conservation.

Other legislation on natural resources would deal with sustained forest yield, mine safety, construction of access roads and designation of wilderness areas which would be left in their natural state for social enjoyment and forest protection.

ECONOMY ON UPSWING

The year 1958 closed with improved economic strength, there were increases in mining output, agricultural production, personal incomes and consumer sales to help lessen the incidence of unemployment.

Capital investment by municipalities, the province and its boards and commissions was proceeding 233,000 jobs. In 1958 there would be a record volume in new school, highway, hospital and other construction.

Skyways over the Welland Canal at St. Catharines, Port Colborne and Welland would be "pressed forward" along with the Fort Frances causeway. The government would present details of negotiations and agreements for international bridges at Queenston, Sault Ste. Marie, Fort Frances and Rainy River.

At Moosonee, the government was considering an airport in addition to the proposed seaport development.

MORE FOR UNIVERSITIES

In education, universities would receive increased assistance for School grants, increased to $135,000,000 from $8,000,000 in 15 years, would go still higher. There would be new plans for special classes of education such as schools for the retarded children.

Indians will benefit through new measures helping them "fit more readily into the main stream of life in Ontario." More government grants and special bursaries would be made available.

Increased welfare spending would recognize social welfare needs of Indians and older persons. Erection of homes for the aged in unorganized territories would be facilitated.

The speech indicated the government may appoint an Anti-Discrimination Commission provided under legislation passed at the last session but not yet set up.

There would be higher highway speed limits, measures to strengthen safety programs, economy drives for driver education in the schools, higher pay for jury duty and legislation to unify and simplify registration procedures while fully protecting individual rights."

ONE TAX CHANGE

The speech made only one reference to tax changes, saying an amendment to the Succession Duty Act would "increase the exemption for widows and their dependent children."

On federal-provincial fiscal arrangements, Ontario had agreed to an Ottawa proposal to continue studying tax-sharing.

The speech forecast changes in the civil service Superannuation Act by which a pensioner could be employed for 700 hours a year without losing his pension.

Canada's penitentiaries are overcrowded, the eight existing institutions now holding about 6,000 prisoners in space designed for 4,500. Federal officials are aware of the problem and now are laying plans for an intensive overhauling and reorganization of the penal system. Shown here are two of the federal penitentiaries. Top is the Maritime penitentiary at Dorchester, N.B., and bottom the Stony Mountain penitentiary near Winnipeg. There is only one women's prison, administered as part of the penitentiary at Kingston, Ont., although it is a wholly separate institution. (CP Photo).

Prisons Vastly Overcrowded, Some Prisoners Living Under Conditions Condemned Yrs.

The Canadian government has embarked on a broad program of penal reform. What are the situations this program will try to correct? How do today's penitentiary prisoners live and work and wait? A Canadian Press reporter has been permitted to tour six of the country's eight prisons. This article is one of five telling what he saw.

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's penitentiaries are vastly overcrowded. Some prisoners live under conditions condemned a quarter-century ago.

These facts of penal life were readily apparent in visits behind the walls of the country's penitentiaries to see how prisoners live.

In the eight existing federal institutions, about 6,000 prisoners are crammed into space intended for 4,500.

Authorities are aware of the problems and now are laying the groundwork for a mull-million-dollar overhauling and reorganization of the penal system. Major changes are possibly three years away.

A WAITING LIST

The space problem is so acute that there was a waiting list at the time of this reporter's recent tour. At least 125 convicts were in provincial jails awaiting room in federal penitentiaries, which house criminals sentenced to terms of two years or more.

The Penitentiaries Act says each prisoner is entitled to an individual cell. For lack of space some were living in cell-block corridors at one penitentiary. At another, some were in a prison classroom converted to a dormitory.

The pressure for accommodation is so great that cells condemned 25 years ago as unfit for human habitation still are in use. Cell blocks built in the early 1830s for temporary purposes continue to house prisoners. In the vintage cells at two penitentiaries the toilets are metla buckets with lids.

A western-style prisoner band in the British Columbia penitentiary at New Westminster played Jailhouse Rock in the choir loft of the Roman Catholic chapel because it had no other place to practise for the Christmas concert.

REFORMS HINDERED

Failure of prison construction to keep up with the growth in prisoner population in recent years has resulted in constant disruption of well-planned reform programs.

This situation produced the comment from many penitentiary officials that, at least in a practical sense, Canadians are not getting full vlue for their tax dollar out of the federal prison system.

Without taking into account humanitarian considerations, they said, it is an economic fact that you get more for your penitentiary dollar if a prisoner is out reformed. Eventully, nearly every prisoner returns to society, reformed or not.

The rate of recidivism—or repeater-prisoners entering Canadian penitentiaries in the year ended last March 31 was 43.2 per cent, up marginally from 44.97 per cent the previous year. This contrasted with 63.5 per cent for federal prisons in the United States in 1957 and 82.7 for that year in Britain. The over-all recidivism rate in Canada—for both federal penitentiaries and provincial jails—is about 80 per cent.

EXPECT BIGGER BUDGET

The penitentiary system's budget for 1958-59 totals $12,000,000. For the next fiscal year beginning April 1, it likely will be at least $15,000,000.

It is estimated to cost almost $2,000 a year to keep each prisoner in a penitentiary. This buys society protection during his imprisonment, but the only possible return for this investment is the prisoner's reform so he won't continue to be a drain on these tax-supported institutions.

At an October conference in Ottawa, federal and provincial governments reached agreement in principle on a course that Justice Minister Fulton says "should lead to great reforms in Canada's penitentiary system."

A justice department committee recently was appointed to work out the details but probably won't be able to present its plans for less than a year. The commission issued by the conference said concrete results might not be apparent for three years.

Meantime, teen-aged first offenders still are thrown in with hardened criminals.

PRISON STABBINGS

Stabbings still occur from confliction between two convicts, for the homosexual favors of a third. Lesbianism is a frequent problem in women's prisons.

Facilities are not available to segregate prisoners.

In recent years Canada's prison officials have become deeply aware of the need for modernization.

For the most part, they are doing their best to employ the latest ideas. But they are working with facilities substantially unchanged since the present penal system's inception more than 100 years ago.

They are hampered by a shortage of psychologists, classification personnel and teachers.

They are hamstrung even more by the fact all existing penitentiaries are walled—built primarily to keep the worst possible types in custody, with reform as an afterthought.

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Bob Johnston, of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moon of Frankford, were recent Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. David Hollinger.

Mrs. Berson Mills has been a patient in Belleville General Hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

The annual congregational meeting of Marsh Hill United Church was held Wednesday night at the church. Due to the bad weather the number attending was small.

GASPE FEATURE

The noted Perce Rock in Gaspe is 1,565 feet long, with maximum height of 290 feet.

Communism's Honeymoon With Nasser Appears at End

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Soviet communism's honeymoon with Arab leader Gamal Abdel Nasser may be nearing its end. An attack carried in Arabic in Moscow's Middle East service was significant in view of Nasser's drive to stamp out domestic communism in Egypt and Syria.

Moscow radio used the device of quoting another critic. The target, a dead one, monitored in New York by Radio Liberation, quoted the French Communist newspaper l'Humanite, which in turn quoted a Moroccan newspaper in Rabat called Nation.

The Moroccan newspaper, according to Moscow, denounced Nasser for his anti-Communist campaign, calling it a "phase against democracy aimed at weakening the unity of the Arab countries in their fight against the imperialists."

Moscow once attacked the leaders of the 1952 Egyptian revolution, including Nasser himself, as bloodthirsty fascists. About four years ago the attacks ceased, and the Soviet Communists began to woo the Arab nationalist leader. The object was to turn the force of Arab nationalism to the advantage of world communism and to weaken the West's position in the Middle East.

In 1955 the Russians arranged an arms deal under which Nasser received Iron Curtain munitions. Subsequently the Russians involved both the Egyptians and Syrians in a complex of loans and technical assistance programs for economic development.

In Syria, because of the reflected credit from these deals the Communists began to throw their weight about. They were additional and more direct attacks.

Release Women Demonstrators Against Base

LONDON (Reuters) — Three women campaigners for nuclear disarmament, including the Canadian mother of two young children, were released Monday from London's women's jail, after serving 14-day sentences.

They are Miss Pat Arrowsmith, 28, organizer of a group called the Committee for Direct Action against Nuclear War, Miss April Carter, 21, the secretary, and Mrs. Mildred Slater, a Canadian who now lives at Wanstead, near London.

They were among 17 people arrested in December following demonstrations at a guided missile base at Swaffham in eastern England and later imprisoned for 14 days for refusing to promise to discontinue such activities for 12 months.

Supporters met the three women as they left the jail. Hugh Brock, committee vice-chairman who also was imprisoned, said they are planning further demonstrations.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mrs. E. Crook was a dinner and evening guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Allan also of Mr. and Mrs. R. Crook, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Victor Boogard and Mrs. Milton Schmidt attended chapter at Amelisburg Thursday evening.

'Parity Prices' Motion Defeated At Farm Meeting

Agriculture Federation Convention Is Divided

Easterners and British Columbia delegates joined to defeat a motion on parity prices for agricultural products. The resolution was sponsored by Saskatchewan and Alberta delegates and had been endorsed by the western agricultural conference.

The Prairie delegates then challenged an Ontario-sponsored resolution suggesting a move to producer-directed farm economy. The latter passed after two attempted amendments.

J. A. Wood, from Alberta, said the debate emphasized the difference of opinion between Ontario and the West.

He said the resolution regarding the move to a producer-directed farm economy was strictly a matter for the Ontario people to decide through their own association.

E. Nelson, president of the Farmers Union of Alberta, said farmers are not getting parity of income. The gross income per capita in the province in 1957 was $1,829, but for the 2,746,000 farm population it was less than $800.

The amended resolution finally passed after a long debate recommended "adoption of policies moving towards a producer-directed farm economy, this to be carried on largely by the various commodity groups and co-operatives within a co-ordinated program."

R. Rintoul of the Ontario hog marketing board said they were feeling the impact of contract farming.

"Control of the agricultural industry could quite easily slip from our grasp if those engaged in it are willing and able to control the industry," he said. "We should not try to divide east and west on these issues. We in agriculture must stand shoulder to shoulder or we won't get anywhere."

H. H. Hannam, federation president said that farmers must become better organized to meet technical revolution in the agriculture industry.

He told the CFA that farmers must integrate individual farms into more profitable units and become better organized at regional and national levels if they are to retain control of agriculture and enjoy the benefits of increasing productivity.

Frost Promises Respect for Treaty Rights

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost has promised respect for treaty rights in the integration proposals he outlined mentioning in the throne speech.

He told a press conference Tuesday that the government would have "entire and complete respect for those rights, which I think have been disregarded too much."

Mr. Frost said the plans for offering increased education, welfare and job opportunities for Indians would serve only to give leadership to permit greater participation by Indians in modern society.

West Germany Offers 'Little Man' Shares in State-Owned Industries

BONN (AP)—In a novel share-for-the-wealth experiment, the West German government is going to offer 5,000,000 "little man" shares in state-owned industrial plants to the public.

This is the start of a program that may eventually place German workers in the Volkswagen works in the hands of small investors. Shares in steel plants, coal mines, oil wells, gas stations, a newsprint company and a shipbuilding yard also go on sale.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democrats came up with the plan as a counter to claims by the opposition Socialists that the government favored big business at the expense of the individual.

The plan will work like this: Shares with face value of 100 marks — $23.80 — will be put on sale. Nobody can buy more than

Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay, in full uniform for the opening of the Ontario legislature, makes a special trip outside his Toronto residence to greet group of children from school nearby. GOVT. ADVISES CBC PRODUCERS TO REOPEN TALKS

Members Disagree On Strike Legality

OTTAWA (CP) — The government — under attack in Parliament for refusing to intervene in the strike of CBC televisions producers in Montreal—has advised the strikers to attempt to reopen negotiations with the public-owned corporation.

Labor Minister Starr suggested the producers take this course after Liberal Chevrier—himself Lauzon) accused Revenue Minister Nowlan in the Commons of preventing settlement of the month-old walkout.

Mr. Chevrier criticized the government as about 1,500 strikers and sympathizers from Montreal marched on Parliament Hill in a demonstration to back up demands for collective bargaining and union recognition. The CBC opposes this on grounds that the producers are not "true employees."

A delegation representing the strikers, who arrived in Ottawa from Montreal on a 14 - coach train, met Mr. Starr and Solicitor-General Fulton (PC—Kamloops). No promise of federal action was given.

URGES NEGOTIATIONS

After the meeting Mr. Starr said he had advised delegates that that best bet was to get in touch with the CBC in an effort to open up negotiations going again.

Mr. Chevrier said in the Commons that Mr Nowlan is "the one who is preventing settlement of the strike, because he tells the CBC: Don't negotiate."

He spoke in the throne speech debate after Prime Minister Diefenbaker reiterated the government's intention not to intervene in the strike and after contradictory statements by Mr. Nowlan and Mr. Starr on the question of the strike's legality.

Mr. Nowlan, who reports to Parliament for the CBC, repeated a statement he made several days ago that the strike is illegal. However, Mr. Balcer maintained that the strike is not illegal.

DISCUSSES FREIGHT RATE

In another Commons development, Senate government leader Walter Aseltine said in the Senate throne speech debate that provincial governments would not be seriously hurt by any move to reduce the 20 per cent reduction freight rates on Prairie grain for export.

During most of the afternoon debate in the Commons the public-service unions defended those of the strikers and sympathizers. Their demonstration on Parliament Hill was peaceful and orderly lighthearted.

Mr. Diefenbaker called for immediate establishment of the Commons broadcasting committee to hear the views of the disputants.

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) said he might be wrecked if something were not done to end the strike.

Justice Minister Fulton attacked the Liberals for refusing to accept their share of parliamentary responsibility by making suggestions, to solve the unemployment problem mentioned in the throne speech.

He told a press conference Tuesday that the government would have "entire and complete respect for those rights, which I think have been disregarded too much."

Mr. Frost said the plans for offering increased education, welfare and job opportunities for Indians would serve only to give leadership to permit greater participation by Indians in modern society.

Opposition Gearing for Rough Session in Ont. Legislature

TORONTO (CP)—A rough-and-by his party six months ago, tumble session of the Ontario while the agricultural inquiry legislature seems in prospect.

The session opened Tuesday with the speech from the throne and opposition leaders immediately opened fire on the government administration in power.

Both Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer and CCF Leader Donald Stackhouse said the Progressive Conservative government of using their plans.

Mr. Wintermeyer called it "a hold-the-fort speech."

Critics of the government's debate after Prime Minister Diefenbaker reiterated the government's intention not to intervene in the strike and after contradictory statements by Mr. Nowlan and Labor Minister Starr on the question of the strike's legality.

Premier Frost's Progressive Conservatives, in power since 1942, hold 84 of the 98 seats. Liberals have 11 and the CCF three.

The throne speech forecast a new energy department and an inquiry into Ontario agriculture, plus a string of development projects.

Mr. Wintermeyer said it offered "nothing for the 600,000 unemployed workers in Ontario, for chronically - pressed municipalities or the shocking teacher shortage."

The Liberal leader said the new energy department was proposed sitting.

Despite Doubts U.S. Explores Red Talk of Thaw in Cold War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States intends to explore fully Russia's talk of a cold war "thaw" despite an officially expressed belief here that Moscow is simply trying to create an illusion of peace.

The U.S. and its chief Western allies are preparing for a wide-open, high-level East-West conference on German and related European issues. Diplomats now consider it will be held in about three months.

Secretary Dulles told a press conference Tuesday that so far the Soviet government has demonstrated "a very strong desire to delude us into thinking the cold war is ended," but no direct interest in proposals to end it.

Nevertheless, he said, he thinks it is timely to have another meeting either of foreign ministers or other high officials—possibly deputy foreign ministers—as a preparation for a possible, he said, to re-

KHRUSHCHEV OPTIMISTIC

The Paris Figaro Reminds moved toward a new East-West conference came Monday when Premier Nikita Khrushchev told a group in Moscow he thought "there is a possibility of a thaw in our relations" with the West.

He said he got that impression from the report he received on Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan's visit to the United States earlier this month.

But Khrushchev reiterated at the 21st Communist party congress in Moscow Tuesday earlier Russian insistence — rejected by the West—that West Berlin be made a free city and that East and West Germany negotiate their reunification between themselves.

Public East Soviet proposals for a German confederation, which would have East and West Germany as independent political units, and for a peace treaty to be signed by the confederation and the four World War II governments are designed not to bring Germany but "to perpetuate the partition."

At the same time he said the United States wants to avoid the new Soviet proposition aimed at intensification even though it departed—from the free-election formula.

PORT AT STANDSTILL

KINGSTON Jamaica (Reuters) — A go-slow strike of nearly 1,000 port workers called Monday night has almost brought the port of Kingston to a standstill. The strike was called on all wharves owned by the Jamaica Shipping Association because of a long-standing wage dispute between the association and three unions.

Wife Loses $50 Bet But She Is Glad

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Robert Wallace, 67, a Kansas City machinist, Tuesday picked up $1,638 which a court at Escondido, Mexico, had held for him since 1957.

The money was left in a court trust fund after Wallace moved to Kansas City and his Kalamazoo home was sold under a mortgage foreclosure. The sale price was $1,638 greater than the mortgage.

Wallace didn't know he had the money coming until last Saturday night.

"I've got another $50 coming," said Wallace. "My wife bet me $50 that the report about the court holding my money waiting for us was not true."

DEMERIT SYSTEM FOR MOTORISTS STARTS FEB. 1

Uniform Traffic Ticket to Be Used

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's new system of "quarantines" for bad motorists starts Feb. 1.

Three-month licence suspensions will be handed out to drivers on the basis of a scale of demerits for traffic convictions.

It marks a bid to continue reducing the province's accident toll—Ontario had 1,140 traffic fatalities in 1958 compared with 1,279 in 1957.

Under the demerit program warning letters will be sent to motorists with six demerits. At nine demerits they will have to appear before officials for interviews that could lead to either probation or three-month suspensions with 12 demerits.

STARTS FRESH

A driver will start with a clean slate after serving a suspension. But if he collects another 12 demerits within the following year he will get a six-month suspension.

The demerit scale:

Impaired driving, criminal negligence or obtaining a licence by false declaration, 6 demerits.

Leaving an accident scene, careless driving or speeding more than 30 miles an hour above the limit—nine demerits.

Failing to obey a stop sign or traffic lights, failing to report an accident, failing to yield the right of way or exceeding the speed limit by more than 30 miles an hour above the limit and all other moving violations—six demerits.

EXPECT 11,000 VICTIMS

Deputy Transport Minister John Collins says he expects about 11,000 of Ontario's 2,200,000 motorists will draw suspensions within the first two years of operations.

The interviews for drivers with nine demerits will be conducted by drivers' examination officials at centres throughout the province. Some are already stationed

Govt. To Request $250 Million For Housing Loans

Will Also Seek 'Certain Changes' in Housing Act

OTTAWA (CP) — The government gave notice today it will ask Parliament to provide another $250,000,000 for low-cost federal housing loans this year, boosting the 1957-59 total to $1,000,000,000.

Works Minister Green set parliamentary machinery into action with notice of a resolution to provide introduction of legislation.

The notice on the Commons order paper said also Mr. Green will seek "certain changes" in the National Housing Act.

This seemed to be in line with speculation that the government plans to take steps designed to keep the rate of housing building high and pep up trade in government-insured mortgages.

POSSIBLE DECISIONS

The "certain changes" may involve these decisions:

1. Boosting of the payment guarantee under government-insured loans to a full 100 per cent of the mortgage value from the present 98.

2. The possibility of granting the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation full powers as an approved mortgage lender.

Canada last year made a record 163,000 starts on new houses and 146,000 completions, also a record. Much of this boom was attributed to the expansion in federal housing loans.

CMHC's capacity to make loans was boosted to $900,000,000 from $150,000,000 in 1957 and last year this was increased by another $350,000,000 to $750,000,000.

Informants estimate that of this amount, CMHC has loaned about $550,000,000, leaving the corporation with only $100,000,000.

GIVE IT MORE

The plan apparently is to provide the corporation with another $250,000,000, giving it a total of $350,000,000 to spend. Some $300,000,000 of these loans which it would like to sell, using the proceeds to invest in new loans to make new loans.

Purchasers usually are trust and pension funds and other investors in long-term securities.

CMHC also hinted that existing legislation restricts the corporation's operations to buying and selling mortgages on the open market. These curbs also may be lifted under proposed amendments.

Start Picking First U.S. Spaceman, Will Soon Cut 110 Aspirants to 12

T. Keith Glennan, U.S. space chief, ordered the selection of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences with his disclosure Tuesday night.

The new federal space agency, he said, has asked the IAS to pick candidates for the first U.S. manned satellite to orbit the earth.

They will assemble in Washington for further tests, Glennan said, and be asked to volunteer for space flight. Within three months, the officials will be reduced to about 12.

He said he does not know whether the U.S. will get a man into orbit before the Russians.

The 110 potential space pioneers were not listed by name. Glennan gave these qualifications of the man who will finally be selected:

1. A university degree in physical science or engineering.

2. A graduate of an air force or navy test-pilot training school with at least 1,500 flying hours.

3. Superb condition, with the physiological characteristics attributes suited for space flight as determined by aero-medical scientists.

4. Younger than 40 and no more than five feet six inches in relation to the Duke of York's.

One of 5 Youths Named as One Who Used Knife

OTTAWA (CP)—The story of 20-year-old Robert O'Leary's death in a mid-town gang fight will continue to unfold today as the Crown resumes its case against five Ottawa teen-agers charged with his slaying.

One of the five accused, 17-year-old Jack McDermott, was named by his lawyer in Ontario Supreme Court Tuesday as the youth who wielded the steak knife that killed O'Leary in the Nov. 23 clash behind Lyndale.

Arthur Maloney, counsel for McDermott and Progressive Conservative MP for Toronto Parkdale, said the admission will be explained in full. Maloney indicated McDermott's defence will be that he was intoxicated and stabbed O'Leary in defence.

ALSO CHARGED

Also charged with murder are James St. Post, 16; and William Robert Post, Thomas John Drain and Henry Dupuis, all 19. All the accused live in Ottawa and each has his own defence counsel.

One of the first witnesses Tuesday, Anne Halchuck, testified that she and the victim, Eddie Champagne and another girl were in a booth in an all-night restaurant when several members of the McDermott group entered.

She said McDermott, Drain and James Post were using foul language to which she verbally objected. Then, she continued, McDermott reached into the booth and grabbed her boy friend's chuck, in turn, grabbed McDermott's hair. After being separated, a waitress ordered McDermott and his friends to leave.

Outside, Miss Halchuck said, McDermott and the others waited for O'Leary to leave, then Mc-Dermott told him: "You're dead man, you're dead."

Taxi driver Michael Sweeney, among an estimated 65 persons in the restaurant at the time, testified he spoke to O'Leary a few minutes later and O'Leary said, "I'm going to be s— out of him (McDermott)."

Coyote Dog Too Speedy, Breaks Neck

OAKLEY, Kan. (AP) — Bob Connley was bragging about the speed and savvy of his two-year-old hound, trained to hunt coyotes.

"I'll put him up as just about the best coyote dog in this part of the country," Connley said.

Kenneth Hemmert, impressed, bought the hound for $50.

Hemmert took the dog out for a test with four other hounds in his northwest Kansas area. They jumped a coyote, and Hemmert's new hound quickly gained 15 yards on the others and lunged for the coyote without slackening speed. But the hound slipped, tumbled, and lay dead with a broken neck.

Hemmert sadly remarked:

"He's about the best lap coyote dog in this part of the country."

2 Men Wounded, Another Beaten At Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A pre-dawn battle outside a mid-town night club today left two men in hospital with bullet wounds and a third with a possible skull fracture as a result of a brass-knuckle beating.

Police are holding one woman and a man for questioning and are seeking a second man, but six hours after the 3 a.m. affray had no explanation of why it began.

Emmett Kelly, 30, was wounded in the abdomen and is in critical condition. John Maguire, 30, was wounded in the left leg.

Jack Lutterman, manager of the Chez Paree night club on Stanley Street, said Kelly, a girl and two other men were sitting at a table in the club when Maguire and another man joined them. Moments later Maguire and another man, was at another table.

Police said they believe one group waited for the latter outside the club and the battle began as soon as the two met.

Witnesses questioned by police could give no motive for the affair.

New Legal Salvo Fired by Wife

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sterling Hayden's former wife has filed a new legal salvo seeking to have the actor—Tahiti-bound with their four children on a 65-year-old windjammer—held in contempt of court.

Her new petition, filed in Superior Court, asked that Hayden be found guilty of 17 counts of contempt, punishable by five days in jail or a $500 fine or both for each count.

A hearing was set for Monday, Superior Judge Emil Gumpert recently denied Mrs. Hayden, 36, custody of the children, aged 8 to 10, and ordered Hayden to take them on a proposed round-the-world cruise.

Philosophy of Education Used In Ontario's System Said Combination of 3 Attitudes

The philosophy of education used in Ontario's educational system is actually a combination of three different philosophical attitudes—those of the realist, the idealist and the pragmatist — stated Mr. Gordon Duffin, assistant superintendent of elementary education for the Province of Ontario.

Speaking at the initial dinner meeting of the Quinte District Foremen's Club in 1959, the speaker elaborated to explain the aspects of each philosophical attitude. The realist approach considers knowledge to be "a system of relations between ideas, such as psyneal science." The realist depends solely on science and scientific process as being the key to understanding. Discipline and reasoning by rote are the prime factors in relaying information from the teacher to the pupil. Interest on the part of the student is not necessary to the realist's method of learning, where things are more important than the will or personality.

The idealist, on the other hand, places the importance of the personality on the importance of the material thing, said Mr. Duffin. The idealist realizes all of the motives of human beings becomes the most important factor. The student's interest in the idealist's system of education, rather than the acquiring of a capacity to knowledge as in the realist's system. The idealist depends on the establishment and development of oneself and looks to the teacher to inspire the student to creative discussion and example. Stimulation of the students' natural interests, originality and understanding is the important part of the idealist's method of education, rather than mere memorization of scientific facts.

The third approach, that of the pragmatic is concerned with the psychological consideration of life, which he considers to be an everchanging environment and circumstances. The education of the student to re-adjust to changing conditions is the goal of the pragmatic, said Mr. Duffin.

The student is expected to graduate from the educational system as a worker or a specialist but as a master of many techniques. Teaching by doing is the core of the pragmatic system of education. The acquisition of scientific facts and of understanding human relationships in order to solve everyday problems and allow the students the means by which they can live a full life, are the pragmatic aims of education, he continued. Realism and idealism combined in the philosophy of education for Ontario schools, he explained, is described by the unofficial motto, "Learn to help the child to understand himself." Because of the realist approach, second, to child the child to observe and discover facts and models of conduct and endeavor which the Christian community considers approved," the idealist attitude. Finally, to "assist him the student to master those abilities that are essential to living in a modern society," the pragmatist viewpoint.

In addition to the above Mr. Duffin gave a brief history of the development of today's educational system from the time of Confederation. Introduced by Charles Lepore, the guest speaker was thanked by Abel Quinney and presented with a travelling clock as an expression of thanks by the club members.

In recognition of YMCA Week, which just passed, Hugh Jones gave a summary of the years of interest between the "Y" and Foremen's Clubs across Canada. He advised the club members that they would be extended to participate in the local "Y's" commitment to the erection of a new building.

Cecil Hulser, of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, spoke on the "Do It Now" campaign of the federal and provincial governments. He stated that there is less unemployment now than there was at this time last year and attributed this to the results of the campaign. He urged those present to create more jobs, if possible, to forestall any lay-off of personnel.

Two films were shown to the club members. One, a government film on new construction techniques to create more winter construction; the other, a Carling's conservation film, were well received by those present. Fred Hall, who was in charge of the entertainment, also had a sing-song for those present.

Canara A. S. McConnell gave a sermonette, based on his experiences as a chaplain in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War, illustrating that men could find God if they really wanted Him.

Frank Grandame welcomed the various members of the Quinte Valley Square Dance Club, while George Wichart relayed Mayor Hydo's respects to those at the meeting.

'Red' Berenson Joins Macs On Friday

Gordon "Red" Berenson, 20, former Regina Pats star, has been acquired by the Belleville McFarlands and will go overseas with them on Sunday, assistant general manager Billy Reay announced today.

Berenson, who played with the University of Michigan hockey club this year, will join the Macs Friday and play against the Cornwall Chevies that night.

The six-foot, 180-pound centre starred with the Regina Pats in the Memorial Cup finals against the Ottawa Canadiens last year and caught the eye of professional scouts. Headed "Baldy" Cotton rates the youngster, said to be the best prospect to come out of the west in years, as the best potential in Canada.

Montreal Canadiens' brass after seeing the youngster play in the cup finals, offered him a two-year contract at a substantial salary but Berenson turned it down, preferring to further his college studies.

Reay watched the boy play in the Memorial Cup series, and was impressed with his all-round ability. He said Berenson was rated second to Ralph Backstrom in the Canadien chain.

'Red' Berenson Joins Macs On Friday

Gordon "Red" Berenson, 20, former Regina Pats star, has been acquired by the Belleville McFarlands and will go overseas with them on Sunday, assistant general manager Billy Reay announced today.

Berenson, who played with the University of Michigan hockey club this year, will join the Macs Friday and play against the Cornwall Chevies that night.

The six-foot, 180-pound centre starred with the Regina Pats in the Memorial Cup finals against the Ottawa Canadiens last year and caught the eye of professional scouts. Headed "Baldy" Cotton rates the youngster, said to be the best prospect to come out of the west in years, as the best potential in Canada.

Montreal Canadiens' brass after seeing the youngster play in the cup finals, offered him a two-year contract at a substantial salary but Berenson turned it down, preferring to further his college studies.

Reay watched the boy play in the Memorial Cup series, and was impressed with his all-round ability. He said Berenson was rated second to Ralph Backstrom in the Canadien chain.

Hastings Rod and Gun Club Outlined to Kiwanis Members

The newly-formed Hastings Rod and Gun Club incorporated, the first club of its kind in Ontario, will be "the forerunner of similar developments to come," Belleville Kiwanians were told at the regular Tuesday meeting Tuesday, by the organization's public relations director Paul Morton.

The Toronto publicist and ex-newspaperman gave Kiwanis sports enthusiasts a brief sketch of the unique organization, including its operation and the facilities being offered sportsmen members and their families.

The club was formed when a group of Toronto businessmen with a good supply of capital bought nine and one-half square miles of land in north Hastings, bounded by Tweed, Marmora and Madoc township.

Anyone can be a member if he can pay the initiation fee of $185, plus $15-a-year membership fees. Club membership entitles the member to one-half acre of land in the club-owned development on which he may build his own camp, plus use of the clubs lodge which is now erected at a cost of $85,000, and club facilities, Mr. Morton explained.

Facilities for horse-back-riding, swimming, sailing, fishing and boating will be installed.

"Main bulk of the work will start March 1st," Mr. Morton said, remarking the cold winter has delayed the start of many of the building projects, such as a ski tow.

The speaker informed Kiwanians the club now has approximately 200 members, of which 90 of them are affiliated with the recently formed Belleville Branch of the Hastings Rod and Gun Club.

Kiwanians were given an opportunity to quiz the speaker, a noted former war correspondent, and several aspects of the new organization.

FORMER CORRESPONDENT

Mr. Morton was introduced by Canon A.S. McConnell who noted the speaker was a former war correspondent for the Toronto Star and prior to that was a reporter for Lord Beaverbrook's previous London Daily Express. He was thanked by E.C. "Mac" Millman and president Gerry Wishart.

It was noted that Mr. Daniel is a very energetic person, lecturer, radio talks, ministers to the sick and his children's activities and his ministry leading to many people not only within the church but throughout the district.

The Church Clerk, Miss Ethel Nurse, presented Mr. Daniel with a purse as a tangible expression of appreciation of his faithful ministry and esteem in which he is held. Mrs. Phillip Squire presented him with a gift from the junior choir.

Mrs. H. J. Payne, on behalf of the senior Women's mission circle, and Mrs. C. A. Campbell, on behalf of the missionary circle, presented Mrs. Daniel with gifts. Home Care and VON Subject Of Address by Kingston Nurse At Annual Meet of Society

The institution of home nursing care plans in more communities is needed to alleviate the problem of continually increasing hospital bed shortage, stated Miss Hazel Miller, director of nursing at Kingston General Hospital last night.

Miss Miller addressed some 85 people attending the annual meeting of the Belleville branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses held last night at the Hotel Quinte, on the subject of "Home Care and the Victorian Order."

In her informative address Miss Miller, a graduate of Winnipeg General Hospital and holder of a B.Sc. in nursing from Columbia University, described the need and advantages of instituting a home nursing care plan, which in Belleville, could be centred in the VON.

Miss Miller, who was formerly on staff of the national VON, first as a travel supervisor and then as an executive capacity, used as her guide the home nursing care plan pioneered by Reddy Memorial Hospital in Montreal approximately nine years ago. The speaker was on the staff of this hospital prior to attaining her present position.

She explained the Montreal hospital plan, for both indigent patients and those who are able to pay, employs VON nurses to carry out the home care duties.

Only other known hospital-centred home care plans are one in Toronto and one in Vernon, B.C., she said.

The home nursing care plan will alleviate hospital bed shortage and provide more equable allocation of hospital beds, she stated. "By removing non-specialized patients from hospital more beds are provided for those requiring specialized hospital care."

The speaker explained home nursing care provides 24-hour medical care at a reasonable cost, and is especially a boon to patients with long-term or chronic illness.

QUESTION BEING STUDIED

Advantages of the close medical supervision, a doctor available at all times, receiving hospital care at a minimum cost, in familiar surroundings, in addition the patient is with part of the family circle, and he has a priority claim to a hospital bed in the event of illness, the speaker discussed.

"To set up such a plan some source of income such as federal - provincial grant must be found," she said. "For the first few months, or until the plan is operating financially," she said.

The Board of Management at its 1959 is as follows: honorary president — Mrs. M. J. Bulger; honorary president — Mrs. Parker; honorary president — Mrs. R. H. Clarke; president — D. Ted Parker Again Named Chairman Of Parks Board

TRENTON — Ted Parker was elected to chairman of the Trenton Parks Board last night when the board held the regular bi-monthly meeting in the Municipal Building.

Other officers elected last night were: vice-chairman, Bill Ireland; secretary - treasurer, John Saylor and the planning committee will be composed of Miss Marion Baker and Bill Ireland.

The chairman suggested that for the coming year each member be given separate parks and that it will be their duty to "keep an eye" to these parks and to report at the meetings about them and any improvements they feel should be carried out from time to time.

The parks were selected on a voluntary basis and were allotted as follows: Fraser Memorial Park, Bayshore extension and the Library grounds will be undertaken by Mrs. Baker; Cottrell and Allison Parks, Chris Smith; Centennial Heights parks, John Saylor; Hinds Park, Bill Ireland; Mount Pelina and Gilmore Hills parks, Al Georgeson. All other smaller parks will be looked after by Ted Parker.

It was decided at the meeting that the new pedestrian gate erected by the board and workmen in the Hinds Park will be painted within two weeks at least. The board has three men working there trimming the out old trees which are either rotten or dying.

The planning committee will decide on the number of new benches to be painted in the park and where they are to replace the older ones.

It was also decided that the gardener, Bert Boers, (now the man who are at present working in the park and have been) remove the snow off the three existing tanks which were built by the parks board. Sergeant Ireland and shovels for this purpose will be borrowed from the Commissioner of Public Works. The firemen will then be asked to re-flood the ice surfaces.

The planning committee will hold a meeting this week and will bring in recommendations for the flower and tree needs of the board at the next meeting.

Town Gardener Hired Again At Higher Wage

TRENTON — Bart Boers, who has been town gardener for the past several years, was hired for another year at the meeting of the Parks Board held in the board room at the Municipal Building last night.

Mr. Boers was also given a raise in pay amounting to nearly seven percent. In making the decision of the board known to Mr. Boers, the chairman, Mr. Parker told him the board was well satisfied with the work he has done during the past year and was also pleased with the way he had carried the ever - increasing burden of more parks, and increased grass and flower areas.

Mr. Parker also told the gardener the members of the board greatly appreciated the willingness he has shown in carrying on any extra duties the board may have suggested from time to time.

He said the board also hoped to make a walk for the coming year a little easier through the purchase of more equipment and a new, power mower which will enable him to mow the grass in the parks much faster.

George Jones was named caretaker of the Hamm Park for another year and the board will purchase for him two shirts which will be made identical in position when tourists, or others, should inquire.

The meeting also decided that a letter of thanks be sent to Mrs. Delaney for many years of service with the board.

Morton-Parker Plans Addition To Its Factory

TRENTON — An 80 by 40 foot extension will be built on the side of the Morton-Parker Ltd. silverware plant on Dufferin St., it was announced last night by E. M. Parker, Jr.

The preparatory work for the addition is being carried out by C. H. M. Smith, engineering consultant. In conjunction with Alex Gilves, the plant superintendent.

The increasing business of the plant has made the present building too crowded and now that the firm has decided to build the extension it is hoped work can get under way by April 1st at the latest.

The new room will be used for the storage and shipping of finished stock and will leave a considerable amount of free space in the present factory building.

The original plant was built in 1945 and in 1950 the company made an addition to the rear of that building. At present the firm employs 50 workers and no increase in staff is seen for the immediate future.

It is expected the addition will be constructed of brick veneer.

Say Notoriety Prevents Him From Getting Job

MONTREAL (CP) — Relatives and friends of former restaurant owner Frank Roncarelli pay the notoriety he gained during his 11-year court battle with Premier Duplessis kept him from getting jobs even in the United States.

The 54-year-old Roncarelli himself refused to comment on the Supreme Court of Canada decision Wednesday which ordered Premier Duplessis to pay him personal damages of $33,123.53 and interest for revoking his restaurant liquor license.

"As far as I am concerned," he said, "the case is still before the courts. It would not be ethical for me to comment at this time. The decision will have to speak for itself."

RELATIVES TALK

But his relatives and friends were willing to talk.

"What exhilaration of the persimit did was never fully told," one said, "Many times he was virtually on the point of important jobs. Then, when his credentials were checked in Montreal, the answer suddenly was 'No'."

"They would find he was challenging the supreme power of Quebec. It sounded big for a person to go against a man of this stature. People always got the 'wrong perspective.'"

Since the pardon was revoked Roncarelli closed the restaurant his family had begun in 1940 and for four years lived off his savings and sale of real estate holdings.

"He was a very wealthy man at one time," a friend said.

LOOKED FOR JOB

Then five years ago and on his own initiative he took grown-up sons and a five-year-old daughter—moved from their expensive house into a walk-up apartment and he began looking for a job. "any job would do."

Unable to get back into the restaurant business because of his notoriety he got work in a field he had been trained in—heavy excavators.

New Vaccine Now Available For Children

Dr. McColl Metcalfe, Belleville's Medical Officer of Health, has announced that the new vaccine against poliomyelitis, the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories, is now available for all pre-school children.

The vaccine combines polio immunization with diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus immunization. All of these diseases are especially serious when contracted by children. The inoculation with the new vaccine helps a child's body to build up a resistance to the attacks by germs of these diseases, should he be exposed to them.

The vaccine is available at the Belleville Health Department. Clinics held every Thursday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m., at the City Hall office, and the first Wednesday of every month at the Holloway Street United Church Well-Baby Clinic during the same hour.

The inoculation series consists of three injections starting when a child is from three months old up to pre-school age, given one month apart. Booster doses are also given on the following schedules: (1) 6 months to one year after the original injection; (2) when child starts to school; (3) every 3-5 years until the child is in his teens, although this might vary with some doctors.

TWO REASONABLE RESOLUTIONS

The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, at its annual convention at Sault Ste. Marie, adopted two resolutions which are of particular interest in this district.

The Federation urged that the Water Resources Act be amended so that the Water Resources Commission could set the level of pollution permitted on a diminishing scale. At present, when pollution is discovered, the Commission must either order it eliminated entirely or else permit the pollution to continue unabated. It is not difficult to imagine what pressures would be brought to bear upon the Commission to prevent it closing an industry on which a community might be dependent for its very livelihood -- and even without such pressure we can be sure that the Commission would hesitate to take action which would impose economic hardships on people who were innocent of all wrongdoing. Yet, at present, there is apparently no middle course which the Commission can take between drastic action and allowing the pollution to continue unabated. In practice, we suspect the situation is somewhat different, that most industries are ready to co-operate and that where they are reluctant the Commission does bring pressure to bear by intimating that drastic action may follow failure to curtail pollution. What the Federation of Anglers and Hunters wants is an amendment which gives this procedure appropriate legal status. It is an eminently reasonable request.

The report from Sault Ste. Marie mentioned several instances of water pollution and about half of them were in this district. The discharge of phenol deposits into the Trent River was mentioned. We believe that there were suggestions last year that this pollution was a factor in the number of dead pickerel seen in the Trent at its mouth and Belleville residents will have no difficulty in recalling the peculiar taste in their drinking water which PUC officials here suspected was caused by phenol discharges. Pollution by a company at Napanee was cited and we believe this is a problem of long standing; it is pleasant to learn that the situation is being rectified. Industrial waste in the Bancroft uranium mine area was also mentioned.

Ontario's lakes and streams are amongst the provinces biggest assets and nowhere is this more true than in this district.

The second resolution passed by the Federation of Anglers and Hunters opposed the substitution of lift locks for the present marine railway system on the Severn River, part of the Trent Valley canal system. The Orillia Chamber of Commerce has supported such a project, maintaining, with probably sound reasoning, that it would increase the number of boats using the system. The Orillia Sports Club, however, takes the opposite view, fearing that not merely boats but smelt and lampreys would make their way from Georgian Bay into Sparrow Lake, Lake Couchiching and Lake Simcoe. This view, supported by the Federation, appears reasonable and provides additional evidence, if any were needed, that man should proceed with the utmost caution whenever he is tempted to tamper with nature.

TASK FOR WHARF STREET CLUB?

Mr. Mikoyan has called for the United States to adopt a "sensible approach" to end the cold war. The United States' state department has returned fire with a demand for the Russians to adopt a "serious approach" to the problem of resolving the current situation.

We do believe that the Americans are trying to keep their wits about them re the world situation and we do believe that the Russians are deadly serious about the same said situation. But we do wish that they would stop shuffling and fumbling about on the approaches and just get together for a good meeting.

Perhaps the Wharf Street Debating Club might hold a bun-feed for Messrs. Mikoyan, Khrushchev, Eisenhower and Dulles. This should serve to give them a sense of mutual direction.

JANUARY

It is difficult to feel the slightest degree of enthusiasm for January. Obviously there has to be a first month to every year, but this is the utmost limit of our concession—and it is made with an ill grace.—Montreal Gazette.

HE GAVE HIMSELF
By EDGAR A. GUEST

He put his heart into his work,
Forgot the bruises that it caused,
Forgot the little things that irk
And, so forgetting, never paused.
He gave his task the best he had,
Regardless this his fight was griefed,
And in the end the task, my lad,
Gave back the best li had to him.

He gave himself completely to
The work confronting him each day,
Forgetting, I'd be ever knew,
That others trod an easier way.

Battered and bruised and faint and sore,
He still put in the best he had
And from his work drew more and more
Of what was best, and he was glad.

He gave himself to life, and lived,
With all the strength that he possessed,
Its trials, seeking not in haste
To shirk its duties, or to rest.
Unwincing, uncomplainingly,
He bore the bitter blows of strife,
He gave his best to life, and he Won back the best there is in life.

Voters Look To Future

Montreal Gazette

Sir Winston Churchill does not speak very often these days. But what he does say are the words of one to whom duty is very wise with long experience.

A few days ago he made a little speech to the executive members of the party organization in his constituency. He touched upon many things. But he was mostly concerned with the approaching general election, and he thinks might take place this year. In speaking about electors he spoke as one who has learned to be very realistic about the emotions and the thinking of electorates.

Don't be said, think that the electors will put a party back into power because it has had a good record and has done many good things. The voters are never conscious for their gratitude. They are looking forward, not backward. They will vote according to what they think a party may do, not according to what it has done.

Sir Winston believes that the Conservative party in the United Kingdom has done enough to earn a great deal of gratitude, but he knows that even in his electors who in his case, most admirably, have had their chance.

It is a hard truth, no doubt. But Sir Winston is not cynical about it. For there is a good deal of human nature in it.

Those who insist on having gratitude for what they have done are making a mistake. People who ask only for confidence, have something to offer. And the public is very ready to never for an offer to a demand.

THE BUILDING OF THE QUINTE MISSION

The Quinte Mission had prospered during its first winter, small sum of money for the 1640. Jallez and Ragueneau visited the mission.

In their new home at Quinte, the "Gentlemen of St. Sulpice" had been maintained by the relished the "quiet life of the Cayuga people that winter, and community".

in the spring of 1669, M. de Perelon journeyed down to Quinte to speak as one who has returned to reimburse the Indians.

From time to time, Quinte Mission was visited by visitors from New France. In the spring of the Sulpicians. Then, in 1672, the noted explorer LaSalle stopped at Quinte.

Financial assistance was soon forthcoming, and it was decided to erect a permanent mission house at the Quinte Mission site (located somewhere in the Consecon area of Prince Edward County).

The rector of L'Assomption, Paris, M. de Bretonvilliers, in particular, "assumed the expense involved in sending out to Quinte lay workers to till the land and carpenters to build a wooden church and a farm house equipped with all the implements necessary for the Indians to become an unqualified success.

Unfortunately, the main business of the mission, the saving of souls — did not proceed as well as the Sulpicians had hoped. Although the children came to be baptized, the adults, particularly the men, "exercised indifferent, even antagonistic".

It soon became apparent that the Quinte Mission would not

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In recent years, many of us have experienced a vague shadowy feeling of depression when the thought occurs to us of how few are the men, all dead, who knew us when we have entrusted the destiny of the world.

There are three billion souls inhabiting this globe. The number who decide for us all whether we have peace or war, famine or plenty, freedom or conscript national servitude might conceivably be counted in hundreds. Maybe, counting parliaments and congresses, general staffs and councils, we could put this up to several thousand men who appear to have sway in the fate of three billions. But it's both the most important and the most benighted, this is an illusion. In this era of savage instantaneity, it is always be a handful of men, in any nation, that make decisions.

And the thought can give you the creeps.

What entitles them to this monstrous power? The vote? Or the death and subjugation of all their opponents? The fatuous goodwill of millions of democratic fellow citizens? The absent terror of all fellow countrymen? Do these things in some mystical fashion infuse greatness into otherwise common men?

Sometimes it looks as though we will have to go back to God.

Have Devised Health Lamp

St. Catharines Standard

Now it is known that investigators at the Westinghouse lamp division at Bloomfield, N.J., are experimenting with ultraviolet lamps that produce quantities of negative air ions. The tests have been in progress for about two years and were spurred by evidence that positively charged ions negatively charged ions have a detrimental or favorable effect upon human health and mental outlook.

Company engineers report that the findings by scientific researchers around the world have indicated that people who are charged with positive ions there is a noticeable increase in discomfort, evidenced by fatigue, dizziness, headache, asthma and sinusitis. An excess of positive ions has also been found to affect rheumatism and arthritis adversely. In contrast, negative ion ization, and to retard normal healing processes.

On the other hand, it has been found that comfort is favorably affected when persons of normal health are subjected to air having an excess of negative ions. Hay fever, asthma and sinusitis conditions were relieved to some degree, wounds healed more rapidly, and arthritis and Rheumatism pains were lessened.

It is far too early to say that generation of negative ions might have been the controlling factor in illness or mental depression. On the other hand, sufficient evidence does exist to establish beyond reasonable doubt that the atmosphere always present in our atmosphere play an important role in influencing our well-being.

While the ultra violet lamp is in the experimental stage, it is believed that the controlling factor of mankind's ills through proper environment.

Import Label No Solution

Sudbury Star

Fruit and vegetable growers in Ontario have been talking about the labeling of imports so the consumer the product is not of Canadian origin — that it is imported. The aim of labeling is to discourage consumers from buying non-Canadian products and vegetables when the Canadian product is available.

We are afraid that it is a failing of human nature to be guided by the country label, if it is imported, it must be good, say these disciples of the import market.

The nationalist labels in trade will not help much in the buying public. Britain tries to "Buy British" labels to encourage those products to stay at home and to attract the dollars of those of the British Empire who live in dollar countries. Lately, we have been seeing more and more of the "Canada First" label.

It is an old, old story in economics. It is impossible to erect trade walls to shut out imported goods. Restrictions have been imposed from time to time on the importation of various products when it comes to a matter of balance of trade.

Competitive prices and attractive packaging, supported by an advertising campaign tells the buying public what it wants to know, is the unbeatable combination that creates the demand. No longer does a label tell the public that an article is the "imported" kind that attracts the attention of a "curiosity - consumer."

Have Devised Health Lamp

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

FLU VACCINE HAS BECOME INCREASINGLY EFFECTIVE

Today's essay is inspired by 1 nothing — except some important facts that are long overdue for recognition.

As a matter of fact, I should have written this last summer, because I would have been in less danger of looking foolish. Or next summer. But not in the winter.

However, being human, and subject to human frailties, I'll be blunt instead of subtle, and barge in.

It's about influenza, colds, sniffles, wheezes, sore throats, aches, fevers and kindred "respiratory ailments".

I've been reading lately, as well as talking to some people who, in my opinion, are as well-informed on this sort of trouble as anyone I can think of.

And here's my conclusion: To date, there is no cure, and no "preventive" for the so-called common cold, but there has been some amazing progress in preventing flu.

It will be my luck to have this appear in the paper just when a flu epidemic is dumping people to bed by the millions. Well, I can't help it.

The point I do want to make is that if we can't prevent it we can also prevent a great deal of misery than is usually think is something else.

There is plenty of good evidence to lead us to believe that a lot of "colds" are mild flu cases, most assuredly that some "pneumonia" is flu, too, has gone berserk.

In approximately the last 15 years an enormous amount of progress has been made in studying flu and developing preventives to prevent or minimize it.

NOT 100 PER CENT

You know what I think about vaccines generally? It isn't very intelligent to believe that a vaccine is going to be perfect, and effective for an indefinite period.

But vaccines that can do an 80 or 90 or 95 per cent job are pretty praiseworthy and useful things.

It is my opinion that the effectiveness of modern flu vaccine has been very greatly underrated in public esteem. It hasn't had a tenth the publicity that some other things have had.

But mark my words, in another year, or two, or five, the public is going to realize how much has been accomplished, and in the years to come we are going to avoid millions — yes, I mean it — millions of days of illness per year.

It is going to become routine to go to have a flu shot every fall. And we'll find that it will be worth it to us, several times over, in avoidance of lost work, days of feeling miserable. And sometimes, especially in the people of 50, 60 or beyond, it will save years of life. For flu may be just a period of misery for a few days to those in the prime vigor of life, but a time of death to the very young and the very old.

Maybe I sound over-positive about this. But I do not think I have overestimated the value of flu vaccine one little bit.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read two booklets on vinegar and on molasses, and each indicated the need of some daily in maintaining good health and to help many common ailments . . . Mrs. H. W."

I shortened your letter, but you know from experience that I try to answer all letters. If you try the other, you'll find that he is, too) if anybody tried all the world and used this sort, you know what he'd get! Beliyache.

Note to Mrs. H. W.: You've done all you should do in the way of having your boy examined, and since nothing is wrong with him, I'd say that his complaints about having a "funny feeling" when you spank him are a shrewd child's method of giving you the business. But good!

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! To learn how, write to me in care of The Ontario Sun-Times, Bedford, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois, requesting my pamphlet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Poet Salutes Scientist

Ottawa Journal

Shivers down the spine sometimes invigorate the whole system. We have just had a good one, thanks to a piece of verse written by M. M. Darzy which Martin Levin has put in his column in the Saturday Review. It is a very much one-sided view of one of the things science is doing, it is perhaps grossly unfair, and of course it leaves unmentioned the plight we might be in if the democracies were unwilling to see dictators the development of atomic science. And yet, good verse is not good whenever it is not confined to what is broadly - based philosophy. Something is wrong somewhere, ably sound about M. M. Darzy's observations and we think one of the important functions of a poet is to arrest us occasionally, by some striking and startling devastation. Well, to get on with it, here are the lines he wrote

Loneliness is one of the tragic realities of life. Some people go through life their hearts continually heavy with loneliness. Perhaps you are one of them. Companionship could never be replaced died years ago. Perhaps one has to live in an outside of lost memory. Undoubtedly the most poignant suffering from loneliness is experienced by those who know their personalities are not particularly attractive. So they go through life wishing they had friends and knowing they have very few.

Yet there are many lonely people who live radiantly happy. These are the folks who appear to take hold of an unpleasant situation and make it work to their

Boosters Present $10,000 To Macs Overseas Fund

A spotlighted executive and rinkside members witnessed the climax of months of hard work.

They saw the presentation of a cheque for $10,000 presented to the McFarlands Overseas Fund .This amount was the objective set some months ago.

In presenting the cheque President Duffy said "Some time ago the Booster Club set an objective of $15,000 for the Overseas Fund. This week that objective was attained.

"It was reached through the hard work and determination of the executive and some members in conjunction with the fans."

Accepting the cheque, Mayor Hyde said "This contribution raised voluntarily through the efforts of the enthusiastic group of Boosters, is and will be the largest donation made to the overseas fund.

"The Fund Committee wishes to thank sincerely the Booster Club executive and those who helped with this marvellous contribution."

Mayor Harvey J. McFarland received a three-ovation from the crowd. "The Macs Booster Club deserves a lot of credit for this tremendous effort" he said. "I appreciate what they have done from the bottom of my heart As for myself I will do everything I can to help the boys. I have every confidence they will bring back the world championship to Canada."

Past President Dick Beare introduced President Duffy, and outlined some of his activities.

He announced that the Imperial Tobacco Company had donated 24 cartons of "Players for Players" to the hockey club.

"The company asked me if I would accept them" said Dick. "The answer was obvious."

Albert seniors' victory was their second in as many league starts. They led 30-13 at half time and were in command of the play throughout the contest.

High point man for the winners was Jim Watt who hit for 21 points. He was closely followed by Barry Crawford with 18, Earle MacDonald with 15 and Don McNevin with 14.

You can help remove the uncertainty which clouds the lives of so many of Ontario's 13,000 crippled children. You can offer them the hope of a brighter tomorrow . . . by giving today to the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre Building Fund.

Their greatest need — The Society for Crippled Children—in co-operation with local voluntary groups in 220 Ontario cities and towns provides medical advice and attention, nursing care, corrective braces and wheel chairs and many other special services. But much more is needed. There are no special facilities in the province for rare and difficult cases requiring long-term care. To solve these and many other problems, you are now asked to help build the new Ontario Crippled Children's Centre.

The new centre will be located near Sunnybrook Hospital in North York township. Crippled children from all over Ontario will be referred here for diagnosis and treatment. Its facilities will include physical, speech and occupational therapy, nurseries, in-patients and out-patients.

$4,100,000 is needed to carry out this project so vital to the crippled children of Ontario. This appeal is province wide.

Seven Mothers Share $2,500 In Stork Derby

TORONTO (CP)—Seven mothers with a total of 54 children will share the $2,500 set aside for the 1958 Stork Derby in the will of Thomas Foster, colorful former ma yoorf Toronto who died in 1945.

Mr. Fster, a member of a large family himself, provided $10,000 for the triennial derby because, he once said, mothers with many children had to watch their budgets carefully. The first $2,500 was distributed in 1955; the last will be doled out in 1964.

Receiving $1,025 each this time around will be Mrs. Marguerite Thompson, 28-year-old native of Lache Bay, Ont., and Mrs. Madeline King, also 28, each of whom has given birth to nine children in the last 10 years. The 10th Thompson child is too old to be eligible.

The other five women, each with seven offspring in 10 years, receive $20 apiece.

The derby was for Toronto mothers who have given birth to the most children in the last 10 years.

Access Road Program Will Cost $8,000,000

TORONTO (CP)—A price tag of nearly $8,000,000 has been indicated for the increased access roads program mentioned in the Ontario throne speech.

"Access road construction will be tripled," Premier Frost told a press conference Tuesday.

Officials of the highways and lands and forests departments said their departments plan to spend about $2,500,000 on access roads during the current fiscal year ending March 31.

The three-fold expansion pro-vided by Premier Frost would apply to the fiscal year beginning April 1. Most of the work would likely be eligible for a 50-per-cent contribution by the federal government.

Suspensions for 12-demerit offences already are being ordered by the courts.

The new system is expected to be speeded up through a uniform traffic ticket introduced in Ontario about 18 months ago and now in use by provincial policemen and municipal police forces in more than a dozen counties.

The ticket is in quadruplicate and is made out at the scene of an alleged offence. One copy serves as a summons, others go to the magistrate and the police, while the fourth is sent to the transport department if a conviction is registered.

More Women Taking Courses In Pharmacy

TORONTO (CP)—More women now are taking courses in pharmacy, says F. N. Hughes, dean of the faculty of pharmacy at the University of Toronto.

More than 60 of the 361 students in the four-year course are girls, studying chemistry, micro-biology, physiology, anthropology, botany, zoology and Latin.

They expect to work in hospital laboratories, public health units, pharmaceutical firms or drug stores.

Sometimes they also study male members of the course. And then, says Helen Atkinson of Clarkson, Ont., a desire springs up for mutual ownership of a drug store. She is engaged to a 1957 graduate.

PEN NAME

TUCK — KIRBY

A quiet but pretty double-ring wedding was solemnized recently in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, by the Reverend T. F. Townsend, assistant pastor of the church, when Sheila Iola Kirby, Belleville, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kirby of Trenton R.R. 5, became the bride of Robert Charles Tuck, of Belleville, R.R. 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tuck, Bronte chrysanthemums adorned the altar.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Richard Kirby, of Foxboro Road, Belleville, the bride was radiant in her white lace bridal gown fashioned with fitted lace bodice having a round, jewel neckline, short sleeves and pink satin cummerbund, with ballerina skirt. She wore a white feather headdress with silver sparkle, pink gloves and white accessories, with corsage of white carnations and pink roses.

She was attended by Mrs. Richard Kirby of Foxboro Road, aunt of the bride, as matron of honor, attired in cornflower blue embroidered satin with matching accessories and corsage of white carnations and red roses.

Her bridesmaid, Mrs. Ernest Tuck, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was gowned in pink crystalette with matching accessories and corsage of white carnations and pink roses.

Mr. Ernest Tuck, of Belleville R.R. 2, attended his brother as groomsman.

The wedding dinner and reception was held at the Queen's Motel, Kingston Road, where the bride's mother received wearing navy crepe with corsage of white carnations and red roses. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bride-groom's mother, attired also in navy crepe with similar corsage.

The bride's table, beneath a white wedding bell and pink and white cascading streamers, was daintily appointed with white damask and centred by a two-tier, pillared wedding cake with pink rosebud trim, topped by tiny bride and bridegroom figurines backed by a cluster of pink roses. A reflecting mirror divided the two tiers.

For travelling to points east the bride chose a paddy green wool dress, black topcoat, and shoes, red hat and accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Tuck are residing in their new home on the Marshall Road, Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville, Trenton and Picton.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Robert Morris and Mrs. Gordon Rice at the home of Mrs. Merritt Woodcox, 61 Orchard Drive, Bellevilleat a presentation by the Northern Electric. The bridegroom, an employee of McFarlane Gendron, was also presented with an electric fry pan and a pop-up toaster.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Going shopping?

For the past few days, the answer to that question must have been an emphatic 'No' to judge by the scarcity of people on the street during the cold days. One store owner said, "Thursday, Friday and Saturday aren't too bad, but we might as well stay closed the first three days of the week."

So, since you are not doing any extensive shopping these days, we will point a few trends in the furniture line that may be available for your future shopping. Gradually the Canadian home is becoming more colorful and merchants must answer the housewife's demand for exotic purples, turquoise and coral colors in her drapes, floor coverings and furniture. Upholsteries are appearing in turquoise, chartreuse, black, white, gold, red, yellow, mauve, blue and pink. Drapes will be seen in just about every color, with the bright ones predominating. Some carpets will be striped in bright colors.

Now that may sound new, but it would scarcely be new to Mr. and Mrs. Average Carburt who live on the Kingston Road just east of Belleville. In their home there are two very old, beautifully preserved pieces of carpet, made of wool from their own sheep. The wool was spun into yarn at the mill of William Lott which used to be on Station Street near where the Belleville Creameries stands. The yarn was brought home and put through many washings so that the dye would take better. It was dyed many bright shades by a woman in Bloomfield who then wove it into carpet.

This lovely carpet is striped in three shades of red, three shades of green, with contrasts of orange, brown and white. So, the old become new again.

FOLDING FURNITURE

We are told that the chesterfield suite is on the way out, to be replaced by pieces which can be arranged in more flexible and interesting ways. Furniture which can be folded and put in the closet at a minute's notice is coming to the fore. One folding piece looks like an ordinary living room chair, but folds flat with a twist of the wrist. Its foam rubber cushions can be used as TV-watching seats. There are even folding high chairs and folding tables.

The sale of "in-motion" chairs is increasing with the sales point that "in-motion" chairs are soothing to the emotions. Now they rock, swivel, tilt, adjust and recline. Just like rock-a-bye baby.

Very large, long, slender lamps seem to be in demand. The largest table lamp is over four feet tall but seems rather extreme. As a matter of practicality, the manufacturer is offering a wide choice in all items and is expanding the variety of designs, colors and combinations.

There is a change in wood finishes, the accent on more natural wood finishes than on high gloss and veneers. Woods are being combined again, for example, a dark and light walnut. Another combination is ebony and walnut.

It seems we mentioned the growing popularity of hassocks some time ago. To give them more adaptability, they may be found in many new shapes, rectangular, round, triangular, kidney - shaped, square, boomerang - shaped and oval.

Chesterfields may be going out of fashion, but on the other hand some sofas reach a length of 100 inches and more. This is supposed to be part of the oriental influence which is showing itself in furniture, slender styling combined with great strength.

MANY TRENDS

Designers have branched out in all directions and have given many trends to follow. Diversity is the thing, so take your choice.

This plan seems to have carried over into women's fashions. The good-news this spring is that you will be able to choose between two types of silhouette. One is romantic and resembling the empire line, lifted at the waist and shaped slenderly. The other is semi-casual and relaxed.

Accessories are always important, so here are some forecasts. Gloves appear to be much longer, in belts you have a choice between some as wide as five inches, and narrow belts that move up or down as the spirit moves you. Handbags, with rounded shapes, will be smaller but still commodious. And you may be pleased to know that heels will be lower. Look for clusters of artificial flowers along with those marsed necklaces and bracelets.

Good shopping!.

Daughter of Premier Nehru To Head Ruling Congress

By SUKMINI DEVI

BOMBAY (CP)—India is soon to witness what newspapers describe as an unprecedented and unique political event—the election of Mrs. Indira Gandhi, daughter of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, as president of the ruling Congress party.

Mrs. Gandhi, a slim and attractive 40, will be one of the youngest persons to hold one of the world's most powerful political offices. A survey shows the party has 4,000,000 "primary" members, each paying just under five cents annual membership fee.

Nehru himself was party president when he was 40, and his father held the post before that. Mrs. Gandhi will be the second woman to head the organization. The first was the late postes-politician Sarojini Naidu, one of the chief lieutenants of Mohandas Gandhi.

ACCLAMATION SEEN

The 64th annual session of the Congress party decided to call for nominations after party President U. N. Dhebar announced his decision to step down after a three-year term.

Reports make it clear that party branches in a majority of states favor Mrs. Gandhi and all major newspapers predict she will be elected by acclamation. Votes will be counted March 1.

Mother of two boys, she is the wife of Feroz Gandhi, a member of Parliament who is no relation to the late Mahatma. She says she is thrilled but a little frightened at the new development.

Spokesmen say Mrs. Gandhi will satisfy a persistent demand for young blood in the party leadership—the average age of the top echelon now is 63—and also help to check any drift towards the right.

VISITED CANADA

Like her father, Mrs. Gandhi is a fire believer in the party's goal of democratic socialism and has repeatedly declared that "socialism is the only path for India." She has not hesitated to make lash out at right-wing elements who would prefer to limit the expansion of the "public sector" in India's five-year plans.

She has visited several foreign countries, including the United States, Canada and the Soviet Union. She finds many good things both in capitalism and communism — again like her father—but maintains that India has to work out its destiny against the background of its own traditions and culture.

She has defined socialism as a "mixture of dedicated endeavor for the public good, respect for the human personality and Gandhian simplicity."

CUSTOMS CHANGED

Mrs. Gandhi went to schools in India, Britain and Switzerland but has said her main education came from her father. During his 9 years in prison while struggling for India's independence, Nehru made a point to write his daughter at least one "instructional letter" each week. They have been published as the book Glimpses of World History.

Mrs. Gandhi is chairman of the India Council for Child Welfare and through her efforts the government is opening a country-wide network of child welfare centres.

She has also campaigned vigorously against social evils, such as the "dowry" system and purdah—the ancient custom requiring women of some Hindu and Moslem communities to veil themselves.

United Church Congregational Meeting Held

SHANNONVILLE — United Church congregational meeting was held at the church hall on Friday evening and was well attended.

After the delicious supper provided by the ladies, Mr. John Robinson took charge of the business and reported the families under his pastoral care. Mr. Claude Clarke read the minutes of last year's meeting and gave the report of the collections and church expenses. Mr. Everett Stratton reported on the minister's stipend and Tom Hinchey gave the report for the Sunday School. Mrs. W. D. Robertson gave the secretaries report of the W.M.S. and W.A. Mrs. Asa Cook, treasurer, for the W. A. and M. and M. fund reported the financee of both. Mrs. William Ross, treasurer of the W.M.S. reported the income and expenses of the Auxiliary.

On behalf of the gathering Mrs. K. R. Vivian expressed appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Robinson for their kind and efficient leadership.

The officers of the W.M.S. and W.A. were installed by Mr. Robinson, who thanked all who gave reports and adjourned the meeting. All departments of church work had a successful and prosperous year in 1958.

Hostess Gown'

By VERA WINSTON

Elegance is expressed in this hostess dress of jewellone red or green suede-finish rayon fabric. It has an easy, graceful line tapering to a narrow hem, which has a kick-pleat in back. Interest is concentrated in the bodice, which is draped from a wide V neck to the half high under the bosom. A zipped closing and slit pockets are other features of this easy-to-don number, which also suggests itself as a gift for the convalescent.

Quintebells Hold Monthly Business Meet

The Quintebells business meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Nina Gault on January 13. There were 15 members present and one visitor.

The rules incorporating Quintebells with the Sweet Adeline Incorporated, were read. The application was drawn up and signed by the officers and is being forwarded to Tulsa, Oklahoma, U.S.A.

It was decided by the group to accept the invitation to sing on February 6 and 18th.

The Quintebells meet at the Army and Navy Hall, Front Street, every Tuesday night. To forget your troubles try singing. If you ladies and girls are interested call Mrs. Joan Kaye, WO 2-0495.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Rosemary R. — Rudy gets too upset by questions.

Rudolph K. — Women don't know what they want!

Rosemary R. — I am 23 years old and have been married two years. My husband and I have several single friends we have tried to match up — with not much success so far.

One friend, Rudy, has been a headache to us. We have introduced him to two girls. He liked them both so much that he asked each, in turn, to marry him after only a few dates. Both turned him down. He got so upset by these rejections that he said he doesn't want us to introduce him to anyone else.

We feel very bad about this because he is an extremely nice guy, has a good job and is everything a girl should want in a husband. In fact one of the girls admitted that she is a little sorry she turned him away so fast. She'd like to see more of him, but he won't call her again. We feel he is making a mistake.

Rudolph K. — Maybe I just don't understand women or am nothing, but I always seem to get nasty rejections from them. This isn't the first time Rudy has happened, but I'm hoping it's the last. I go out with a girl, she encourages me — and then the door is closed in my face.

The particular girl Rosemary speaks of gave me the worst experience of my life. She acted as though I insulted her when I asked her to marry me. She told me that I had a lot of nerve to propose after only a few dates. I thought she would feel complimented. Now she says she'd like to see more of me. Women don't know what they want!

All I can say is that I'm sick of the whole thing. I'll stay a bachelor.

The Council: Rudolph's problem is really with his own ego, rather than his relationships with women. When he fully understands this he will be better able to choose a wife.

Rudolph seems to pop the question too early in the relationship. Most men don't ask a girl to marry them unless they feel they stand a good chance of getting an affirmative answer. But Rudolph is too impatient to know how the girl feels about him. Before he has given the relationship a chance to develop, he rushes in over-hastily and the girl commits herself to him tentatively.

The girl caught unprepared, may be a little frightened by the sudden turn of events. The fact that she finds it necessary to be "nasty" in her rejection suggests that the proposal had a strong effect on her. She could then grow to love Rudolph and politely. Probably she was tempted by, but the sudden confrontation brought all her objections to the foreground. Now she wonders whether she did the right thing. She evidently would like a chance to know Rudolph better and to reconsider the question in the light of a better understanding of him.

Rudolph certainly is making a "mistake." But it's an even bigger mistake than Rosemary knows. The error is in loving his own ego so much that he doesn't give himself time to love anyone else.

Favorite Desserts For Canadians In Germany

by Mary Moore

Can you imagine me being in Germany and making anything as Canadian as a Lemon Meringue Pie and Apple Tapioca? Those are desserts Herbie wanted, so being an aiming-to-please please mother-in-law does are what he got.

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Kartoffelsuppe; Konigsberger Klops mit Kapernsosse; Gekochte Kartoffeln; Mohren in Butter; Eingemachtes Obst.

Potato Soup; Konigsberger Meat Balls with Caper Sauce; Boiled Potatoes; Buttered Carrots; Tinned Fruit.

Since my cooking thoughts are with you every mealtime, I am expecting you will welcome these reminders. As usual I've made a few changes.

LEMON MERINGUE PIE:

Note: I used Spanish almonds which are not as sweet as California-grown lemons. Our pie could have stood another tablespoon or so of sugar.

PASTRY:

For a 9-inch pie measure into mixing bowl 1 1-4 cups sifted but not sifted flour. Add 1-4 teaspoon salt and 1-3 cup plus 1 1-3 tablespoons bear quality shortening. Cut the shortening into the flour with a pastry blender or two knives until little pieces are the size of peas. Slowly mix in with a fork 2 tablespoons cold water. Press dough into ball. Roll out on floured board to fit 9-inch pie plate. Line pie plate with it and make a high fluted edge. Prick with a fork all over the bottom. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. until lightly golden all over. While the pastry shell is baking then cooling make:

LEMON FILLING:

In the top of a double boiler mix together well 7-8 cup sugar, 8 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-8 teaspoon salt. Stir in 1 3-4 cups boiling water, then cook stirring over the direct heat until thick and boiling. Transfer to double boiler and cook covered for 10 minutes, stirring once or twice. Beat 3 egg yolks (or 4 if you would like a richer pie) and pour a little of the cooked filling over them and stir, then return it to the double boiler mixture and cook three minutes longer stirring. Remove from the heat and add 2 or 3 tablespoons butter (or margarine) and 1-2 cup lemon juice and finely grated lemon rind from one lemon. Mix well and pour into pie shell. To the 3 or 4 egg whites add 1-8 teaspoon salt and beat until stiff then add 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 at a time, and beat till very stiff. Spread meringue over filling, making sure it touches pastry rim all around. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes or until meringue is tinged on the peaks with gold.

APPLE TAPIOCA WITH BROWN SUGAR HARD SAUCE:

In the top of the double boiler, stir together 1-2 cup quick-cooking tapioca, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt. Stir in when they are mixed stir in 2 cups boiling water over direct heat till boiling. Transfer to double boiler and cook covered for about 10 minutes or until tapioca is clear. (Note: If desired 1-2 cup pearl tapioca may be soaked in 1 cup water overnight and used instead of the minute tapioca and 1 cup water required above. It would need about 3 hours cooking in top of a double boiler and same contents of sugar and salt.) Pare and core 4 medium apples and cut into quarters. Gently cook them in about 1-2 inch of boiling water until barely tender. Drain and add to cooked tapioca, gently stirring them in. Serve hot with Brown Sugar Hard Sauce: Cream 1-4 cup butter and gradually beat into it 3-4 cup light brown sugar until it is smooth. Add 2 tablespoons cream, beating, then 1-2 teaspoon vanilla or 1 tablespoon sherry or brandy. Arrange in serving dish, score with fork sprinkle with nutmeg (or chili until hard. Serve hard and cold on hot pudding.

Uniondale W.I. Enjoys Fine Historical Talk

5TH SIDNEY — The January meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Striker, 5th concession of Sidney.

A table was set up for auditions which were the answer to the roll call, along with a description from the members.

Letters of thank-you's were received from Save the Children Fund, Ernest Anderson family and Mrs. Harry Bleecker.

Mrs. Haggarty, Federated President, informed the Institute that this was her final year, and a list of Institute members who were in standing for the 1959 presidency were read by the president: one on the list, a member of Uniondale, Mrs. George Burkett. Mrs. Suave has set March 10th and 11th as the days for club leaders to join their group in Stirling Community hall.

It was decided that $15 be sent to help toward Retarded Children Fund.

The president of the Historical Society of Belleville was approached by Mrs. Ross Dafoe to come to this January meeting and speak on "Historical Events". Mrs. Boyce, the speaker, is a history teacher at Quinte Secondary School. He gave a most interesting and educational talks on the towns and villages nearest members' homes. He gave the history of Frankford in 1800 when the population was only 700; also of the city of Belleville 100 years ago, and Trenton in 1837 when there were no bridges over the river. The main source of travel from Belleville to Trenton was by horse-drawn coaches. A tavern existed every few miles along the way; this made the travelling more exciting. He showed a picture to this effect. When horses were crossing the river by walking through it; also pictures of Belleville 100 years ago.

Mr. Boyce had in his antique collection a copy of the "Intelligencer" of 1834, and the front page of this paper consisted of continued chapters of a love story, verses of poetry, and perhaps a few notes of a song. (Much different than the "Ontario Intelligencer" today, 1959.) He also had a copy of the Trenton Courier, which was dated back a good number of years.

Mr. Boyce was thanked by Mrs. B. Bush for giving such a splendid display and talk on the early days of nearby towns and city. A small token was presented to him by Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

The February meeting will be held at Scott's Church Hall in the form of a pot-luck and family night, convener being Mrs. M. Sine. The topic will be "Succession Duties and Wills."

The minutes of the last vestry meeting were read and approved and the reports of the church treasurer and the officers of the various organizations were read and accepted.

The rector praised the people for their fine work during the past year, which was a difficult one, as the parish did not have a clergyman.

The following officers were elected to serve during 1959: people's warden, Arnold Peat, rector's warden, Jerry Sprigings; treasurer, A. B. Evans; lay delegate to Synod, A. B. Evans.

The vestry authorized the vestry council to take action on a new heating system for the church.

After the meeting was closed a special thank-you was tendered Mrs. Striker for opening her home. Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed by members and visitors.

ST. JAMES' ANGLICAN

TWEED — The annual vestry meeting of St. James' Anglican Church was held on Monday evening with the rector, the Rev. L. R. Hawkes, in the chair.

The meeting was opened with a reading of Scripture from Matthew 5:1-16, followed by a prayer.

The minutes of the previous vestry meeting were read and adopted.

The several treasurer's reports were presented by Mr. Ormond Rice, who, on request, explained various points of interest.

After discussion, these reports were adopted.

Mr. Burton Vance, who, with Mr. Leslie Brady, is in charge of the care of St. James' cemetery, reported on the improvements made and the work accomplished during the past year.

The financial report of the Woman's Auxiliary, as submitted by the treasurer, Mrs. Ernest Heidman, was read by the rector who commented on the splendid results of the year's work.

As superintendent of the Sunday School, Miss Ann Thompson gave her report. She spoke of the wonderful co-operation of the teaching staff, helped when necessary by the supply teachers who were always ready and available to fill in when needed.

Mr. Hawkes paid tribute to the valuable contribution to the church life made by the Sunday School superintendent.

The chairman of the building committee, Mr. George Owens, gave a detailed description of the progress made towards the completion of the interior of the church, and stated that it was hoped and expected that the work would be far enough advanced so that services could be held in the church on Easter Sunday.

Thanks to special contributions sufficient money is available to complete the panelling in the chancel and to erect an altar rail. These will be dedicated as memorials.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The next order of business was the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Mr. Hawkes re-appointed Mr. Leslie Brady as his warden.

On motion, Mr. George Owens was elected unanimously as people's warden; Mr. Ormond Rice was re-elected to the office of treasurer; Messrs. George Owens and Ormond Rice were elected lay delegates to the Synod, with T. H. Jarrett as alternate delegate.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE

The chairman then appointed Messrs. George Owens, Burton Vance and Ormond Rice a nominating committee for the purpose of presenting a slate for positions as members of the advisory council.

The committee brought in the following report, which was unanimously adopted, that the advisory council consist of the rector, the church wardens, the treasurer, the president of the Woman's Auxiliary, the Sunday School and the Guild and six elected members, who are Dr. W. A. Paul; Messrs. Burton Vance, Samuel Jones, Earl Thompson, Arthur Dickenson, and Howard Jarrett.

A proposal to establish life membership in the council, in recognition of services to the church, was deferred to the first regular meeting of the advisory council.

The people's warden, Mr. George Owens, moved that the appreciation of the vestry be expressed to the rector for his untiring efforts on behalf of his people. This motion was seconded and wholeheartedly endorsed.

The meeting was closed with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the ladies.

PIPE-SMOKING NATIVES

Women of the Lotuka tribe in the southern Sudan smoke pipes, but their menfolk seldom use tobacco.

Young Couple Feted By Many Friends

2nd SIDNEY — A happy time was spent at Harder's School on Saturday evening, when some 70 neighbors, relatives and friends met to honor Miss Karen St. Hilaire and Mr. Pete Jordan at a shower, arranged for them by friends, Mrs. E. G. Burrows and Mrs. Lloyd Bewley. Many more would have been present if the roads had not been so icy.

The convenors did a wonderful job of decorating the school for this event. Pink and white streamers and pink and white bells were everywhere, on the blackboard as well as the table. It looked like a labor of love.

A talk fest was enjoyed while waiting for the-bride and bridegroom-to-be to make an appearance. As they entered, they were taken to a special seat by the table. Mr. E. G. Burrows acted as master of ceremonies. Karen's girl friend, Miss Carol Hart, read an address to the happy couple, wishing them much happiness and asking them to accept the gifts as a token of friendship and also heartiest congratulations and best wishes for a bright and happy future in married life.

As they opened their parcels, Pete thanked each one separately for his or her special gift.

It was the desire of the convenors to make this a homey affair so there was no program, just a nice social evening. Miss Margaret St. Hilaire played the piano while Mr. Cecil Marchant played the violin for a square dance with Mr. Freddie St. Hilaire calling off.

Precious Jewels

By TRACY ADAMS

For important anniversaries there is nothing that would thrill a mother more than precious diamonds as reminders of the family's devotion.

Here is a beautiful brooch with matching earrings that would be a fine choice. The pin is in a leaf design of delicately carved translucent rock crystal. Diamonds of graduated sizes flow through the centre vein of gold, while another peeps near the leaf's edge. The leaf earrings are accented with four small diamonds.

Congregational Meeting

ST. MARGARET'S- ON-THE-HILL

The Rev. L. A. Page presided and gave a resume of the year's work in the parish: A young people's group was started in the fall and at the moment is doing nicely. Several new families were welcomed into the parish during 1958 and the number of families now exceeds 230.

TRIBUTE PAID

Tribute was paid to Mr. Carlton Miller for his exactitude and integrity in carrying out his duties as treasurer for the past three years.

The rector expressed the regret of the congregation to Mr. and Mrs. William Todd who are leaving shortly for Peterborough and to Mr. and Mrs. William Stovin who are leaving soon for Saskatoon, Sask.

Mr. Todd, who has been the envelope secretary for several years, was described by the chairman as the epitome of loyalty and Mrs. Todd graciously carried on the work with the "Little Helpers" and was of much value to the Evening Guild. Mrs. Stovin had worked diligently with the girls of the Junior Auxiliary as well as helping with the Sunday School.

BUDGET PRESENTED

Mr. James Ritchie presented an interesting budget for 1959.

Report of the Sunday School was given by Mr. Geo. Mountford. Sunday School leader. Enrolment is now over 200 and has progressed successfully during 1958. There is now a staff of 13 teachers. Gifts numbering 135 were forwarded to Bishop Martin at Prince Albert, Sask.

The W.A. will cater for the "Girls' Supper" in February when the speaker will be Miss Ruth Scott, principal of the Anglican Woman's Training College in Toronto.

Mrs. W. F. Roblin gave the report of the "Little Helpers". This work is now extensive enough to warrant more helpers and the Parish will be divided for this purpose. Assisting Mrs. Roblin in this work are: Mrs. Bruce Bishop and Mrs. Donald Boyce. The rector hopes to secure a helper at the eastern limits of the parish.

JUNIOR AUXILIARY REPORT

The Junior Auxiliary report was presented by Mrs. W. Slovin. Attendance is now 48. All members are completely uniformed. The girls attended a rally for juniors at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, 120 boxes of occasional cards were sold by the girls. Mrs. F. Huson will be the leader for 1959 with Mrs. J. Woodcock as assistant.

The report of the Afternoon Guild was given by Mrs. G. Corby, secretary - treasurer. There are now 23 members in the Afternoon Guild. Two bazaars were held. Catering was done for two suppers and one wedding. Clothes for bale were sent to Prince Albert, Sask.

Mrs. F. Platt gave the report of the Evening Guild. This organization has been given the opportunity to use as its project for 1959 the refinishing and renovation of the church Hall.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TO TIP EMPLOYEES OF PRIVATE CLUBS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm quite sure I made a real social error, and I'm writing you for your point of view and for your advice as to what I could do about it. About a week ago a friend of mine, who is socially very active and belongs to "the" exclusive private club for women here, invited me to have luncheon with her at the Club, and of course I was thrilled. This was a new experience for me, and as her guest I wanted to do everything just right.

After luncheon, when we went to the ladies' check-room where we had left our coats, I handed a generous tip to the attendant when she handed me my coat. She did not accept it, and said, very graciously, "No, thank you, very much." I guess my hostess saw my mistake, as she quietly explained to me that employees of the Club are not tipped. Of course I apologized, and now I am wondering if there is anything else I could or should do.

—Worried Me.

Don't worry—please, about this occurrence, which really isn't important, and which your kind hostess doesn't consider a bit important. Of course she knows you offered the tip because of your generous impulse. So don't even mention it again to your hostess or to anyone else, just remember not to tip an employee of a private club. Usually there is a notice published in the Club Bulletin board, or elsewhere convenient, reading something like this:

Employees of the Club are not permitted to receive gratuities. A fund is kept for the benefit of the employees to which members and guests may contribute at any time during the year. This fund is distributed at Christmas time to all employees."

WHEN THE MENU PUZZLES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle our differences of opinion. "A" says that when I don't know what the name of a dish on a restaurant menu means I just shouldn't order it, shouldn't ask the waiter or head waiter what the name means. "B" insists it's quite all right, really is taken for granted, for anyone, to ask what the term means. Who is right?

—A and B.

"B" is entirely right. It doesn't make sense not to ask what a men-term means. After all, why should one be expected to know all the names used for foods, particularly when so many of them are in languages with which one isn't familiar? No reason for us to be at all self-conscious or hesitant about asking for information so important to us. Moreover, even when the translation of the name doesn't give us the special information we wish (about some uncertain ingredient — curry or onion, for example), don't hesitate to ask about this also.

ADDRESSING ONE INVITATION TO PARENTS AND TWO DAUGHTERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I address a formal wedding invitation to a mother and father and their two grown daughters who live with them (age 18 and 20), should I address the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and family."

—Bride-to-be.

No - - - it is never correct to address an envelope to "Mr. and Mrs. - - - and family." Address the envelope like this:

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith
Miss Anne Smith
Miss Ruth Smith

(This gives a proper personal bow to each of the daughters, particularly courteous when an individual invitation is not to be sent to each daughter.)

WHY WE SHOULDN'T "CONGRATULATE" THE BRIDE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know you say we must not congratulate the bride (or say "congratulations") as we greet her in the receiving line at the wedding reception. But I can't remember that you have ever explained the reason why we shouldn't? So? — F.M.

So let's face it . . . we don't congratulate a bride at her wedding (or say "congratulations" to her) because this might just possibly seem to suggest that she finally "got her man."

"Bring another piece of 15-cent pie so we can divide the check by three!"

WMS Elects New Officers

The January meeting of Melrose W.M.S. convened on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. Bates (Sr.). Despite the inclement weather and slippery condition of the roads, a goodly number of ladies turned out to make the first meeting of the new year a decided success.

Mrs. Bates, (past-pres.) welcomed all and graciously thanked them for their loyal support during her term of office and quoted a timely poem "My Daily Prayer", after which Mrs. J. English with a few words of commendation installed the officers for the year 1959 as follows: — pres.—Mrs. J. Milligan; 1st vice-pres. — Mrs. C. Milligan; 2nd vice-pres. — Miss M. Bailey; treas. — Miss Mary McLaren; sec. — Mrs. S. Demill; community friendship sec. — Mrs. C. Bates; Christian citizen sec. — Mrs. E. Embury; supply sec. —Mrs. R. MacFarlane; Christian stewardship sec. — Mrs. Clayton Osborne; Mission Band leader — Mrs. W. Embury; Missionary Monthly sec. — Mrs. R. Baldrey.

The pres. Mrs. J. Milligan, took charge and expressed thanks for the confidence placed in her and urged the members to remember that it was a sacred responsibility to study, give and pray for the W.M.S. The worship service opened with the singing of "Standing at the Portal" followed by prayer and Scripture reading from Isaiah 11.

The subject, "Growing Magnanimity", was explained as greatness of mind, elevation of soul, and nobility, free from pettiness. This is shown in loving kindness, concern for others, justice and righteousness.

The group-leader, Mrs. C. Milligan, presented a most interesting program on, "Know Your Neighbours", under the heading "Health and Welfare" in dialogue form Mrs. L. Weese, Mrs. C. Usborne, and Mrs. S. Demill with the leader related the important part the church is taking along this great concern. The church made its most significant contribution in the medical field as "a pioneer", and now operates 13 hospitals in Canada. It offers a distinctively different service through its hospitals and welfare centres. The distinctive quality is the 'plus' factor of Christian love and concern for individuals.

"Christianity has taught us to care and caring is the greatest thing for caring matters most. There are other areas of unmet needs and steps to meet them are being seriously considered".

Mrs. R. Baldrey gave two short readings entitled, "The Hospital is a Mission Field", and "Hospital Ventures", after which Mrs. MacFarlane read on "Thoughts for the New Year". Mrs. E. Embury followed with a suitable selection, "Make it Count", which urged all to seek out deeds of love to brighten someone's way. Keep your eyes open and you'll find a lot who need you.

Mrs. Osborne reported that the allocation for 1959 was $250 and the Missionary for prayer, Miss M. Alexander, Pierna, Ontario.

Mrs. J. English kindly consented to have the "World Day of Prayer" at her home on February 13th.

The president thanked all who took part and quoted an appropriate new year's message.

The hostess served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Short And Sweet

By ALICE ALDEN

— Moss green lace with deep net edging laid over green crepe is the fabric formula used by Sophie for a short evening dress that is young, yet distinguished. The simple sleeveless bodice contrasts well with the triple-tiered skirt, the two linked by a sash of green velvet in a darker shade. Here is a versatile number that should be at home in any part of the world and is an excellent traveller.

Congregational Meeting

WHITE'S UNITED CHURCH

WHITE'S DISTRICT—White's congregational meeting was held at White's church on Tuesday with the Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., as chairman.

The superintendent, Mrs. Leonard Young, was in charge of the worship service, opening with prayer and the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Christian Science can make life worth living

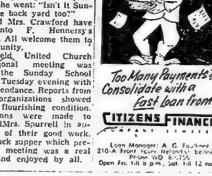
Beyond the demands of just "making a living" everyone wants to feel his life has purpose and usefulness. We all encounter this question: "What am I here for?"

Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy shows where the answer lies — in an understanding of what God is, and therefore what man made in God's likeness, must be.

This book shows the way to satisfaction, health and abundance as we learn how to live according to the teachings of Christ Jesus.



Science and Health may be read or borrowed at most public libraries. Send 35 to the address below for a copy postpaid.

Plan to List Gold Bullion For Stock Exchange Trading at Toronto Starting Feb. 3

TORONTO (CP)—Gold bullion will be listed for trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange starting Tuesday, Feb. 3, the exchange announced Tuesday.

Trading, for the present at least, will be confined in Canadian kilo bars—of approximately 32 ounces troy weight, of 999 parts per 1,000 of fine gold, and worth around $1,100.

They are made by Canadian Copper Refiners Ltd.—a subsidiary of Noranda Mines Ltd.—which operates a refinery at Montreal East.

Toronto exchange officials believe the listing will be the first such action by any regular stock exchange in the world.

A spokesman—asked if trading might be extended beyond the kilo bar—said:

"We're experimenting. We don't know what interest may be stimulated until we set up the machinery. We're doing it with the kilo bar, but if modifications fit into the market place, we'll make them."

The action adds a new facility to several already existing in Canada for gold trading, and follows a sharply-growing interest in gold trading—which has also developed in recent months.

All are part of growth of the Canadian government's action in 1956 which made gold a freely-marketable commodity which can be bought, sold, held, imported or exported—one of the few countries in the world in which this is so.

Canadian copper refiners have been selling gold to individuals in relatively small amounts since late 1956, and, with recently-increased interest, these reached $60,000 in December and $1,500,000 in January to date.

The Bank of Nova Scotia has been buying and selling gold since October, providing it in vaults and selling certificates which may be bought or sold without moving the gold.

A Bank of Nova Scotia spokesman commented:

"We have been selling kilo bars, but we are basically interested in transactions more consistent with the gold trade internationally—transactions in 400-ounce bars or multiples of it which are 'good delivery' in London.

"We have been trying to create a market and have bid and offered on quantities up to one ton (worth about $1,000,000) or multiples of one ton.

"We are offering gold that has been assayed or refined by the Canadian mint.

No figures have been announced concerning the amount of gold in the bank's vaults. One shipment last fall was worth $8,000,000.

The London bullion exchange, referred to by the bank spokesman, is the world centre for gold trading and is made up of bankers and refiners who set a price daily, but one which doesn't necessarily stand up for the day.

The London exchange deals in 400-ounce bars, kilo bars and coin, but 400-ounce bars are the standard and prices for kilo bars vary with the premium required for melting them into 400-ounce bars or making kilo bars out of the larger ones.

The exchange's action is believed likely to affect interest in "retail trade" from people interested in owning gold in smaller quantities than the 400 - ounce $14,000 bar.

Expected buyers are:

Those interested in gold as a hedge against inflation and who believe the price of gold will ultimately be increased.

Foreign citizens who would prefer to hold gold here rather than in other parts of the world.

Persons in Canada who wish to own gold but who are not permitted to hold it in their own country.

People who simply regard gold as a glamorous metal and who would like to own some.

Exchange officials said they expect little price fluctuation or opportunity for sizable profit. Chief interest in trading will be from day to day variations in the Canadian dollar's value in terms of the American.

Gold now is valued by international agreement at $35 an ounce in United States funds which means a lower current figure in Canadian funds because of the Canadian dollar's premium.

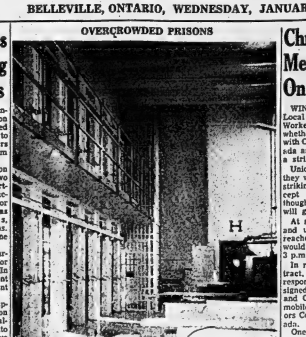
Government Acts To Curb Dumping Of Cotton Goods

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has taken restrictive action to curb imports of heavily-exported second-quality cotton fabrics to help Canadian manufacturers meet low-priced competition from the United States.

Federal officials said the action was taken during the last two weeks with the revenue department ordering a general reduction in allowable discounts for various types of fabrics, such as denims, pillowcases, sheets, twills, drills and cotton sateens. Official notice has already gone out to the trade.

The discounts, for duty purposes, are based on prices for similar top-quality fabrics. In some cases the allowable discount was trimmed to five per cent from 20.

In other words, a customs appraiser will be able to slap on dumping duties if a second-quality cotton fabric is brought into Canada at prices more than five per cent but not below prices for similar first-quality goods, as the case may be.



STUDIED INTENSIVELY

The action on discounts followed months of intensive investigation into pricing of imported cottons, particularly from the U.S. Under the new anti-dumping legislation, the government can act on information it finds that the price of any product does not include an amount for a reasonable gross price.

The Americans have charged this legislation is in violation of Canada's obligations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. The Canadian administration has rejected that view.

The investigation of cotton prices found prices of imported first-quality fabrics did contain a reasonable gross profit. But it was apparently it found this not to be the case in second-quality fabrics.

The original allowable Canadian discounts of 10 and 20 per cent were based on discounts prevailing in the Canadian market, officials said. They said customs minister Nowlan has power to revise them under a section of the new law carried over from old legislation.

OVERCROWDED PRISONS

Typical of the situation in many of Canada's eight penitentiaries is this scene in the New Westminster, B.C., prison. The Penitentiaries Act says each prisoner is entitled to an individual cell. But because of lack of space some beds had to be set up in the corridors of this prison. (CP Photo).

Main Features of Country's First Prison at Kingston Were High, Thick Stone Walls

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Canadian government has embarked on a broad program of penal reform. A Canadian Press reporter has toured six of the country's eight penitentiaries to see and describe conditions under which prisoners live and work. In this article he tells of overcrowding and of two modern prisons now being built. Tomorrow: living conditions.

In this age of rocket attempts to reach the moon, Canada's penitentiary facilities have changed surprisingly little since their inception in horse-and-buggy days more than 120 years ago.

Main features of the country's first prisons opened in 1835 at Kingston, Ont., were high, thick stone walls, heavily-barred windows and strong doors with sturdy locks.

These same features were built at Fleman Catholic convent in St. Vincent de Paul, Que., just outside Montreal, to transform it into Canada's second penitentiary in 1873.

ALL WALLED PRISONS

There now are eight penitentiaries in the country—all employing the same high - walled, maximum-security features and a walled women's prison.

A new $5,000,000 prison to be opened about next September, is being built at Joyerville, Ont., near Kingston. It is described by some penal officials as Canada's first without walls, but others point out that, although no walls surround it, in effect it will be a prison within a wall.

The entire plant, except for some barns, will be accessible under one supervising roof.

This is the most modern concept of prison construction currently apparent in Canada's federal correction system. Work is just starting on a similar penitentiary at St. Vincent de Paul.

The new Joyerville prison will have a capacity for 475 prisoners. The new institution at St. Vincent de Paul accommodates 500 and when it is completed in two or three years.

EIGHT PENITENTIARIES

Meantime, the country's eight penitentiaries are so full that some have a waiting list. The existing prisons are: Dorchester, N.B.; St. Vincent de Paul and the Federal Training Centre near Montreal; Kingston and nearby Collins' Bay; Stony Mountain, near Winnipeg; Prince Albert, Sask., and New Westminster, B.C.

Within their walls are some 6,000 prisoners. Originally, they were intended to hold only 4,500.

The worst crowding is at St. Vincent de Paul. The cells inside and the 120 - prisoner dormitory outside its walls are continuously jammed to maximum capacity of 1,378 and have been for several years.

When this reporter visited there recently during a tour of Canadian penitentiaries, some 125 men sentenced to prison terms were waiting in provincial jails for room in St. Vincent de Paul.

The neighboring Federal Training Centre, most modern of the institutions and intended primarily for young, reformable offenders, was filled to its 450-odd capacity. As a result, many prospects for the training centre had to be kept in St. Vincent de Paul.

AT NEW WESTMINSTER

The situation is almost as bad at New Westminster. It has a cell capacity of 550, but its average population lately has been 750. For months, about 89 prisoners have been living in corridors there, 10 to a corridor.

In addition, the prison's long-refined division has been converted into a quarantine station for William Head Victoria, into a temporary minimum - security institution to take up to 100 men from New Westminster.

Kingston, whose maximum capacity actually was 750, has been accommodating about 985 men for some time. Dormitories for certain prisoners, especially those nearing release, have helped to relieve the pressure a little.

COMMON ROOM, COTS

But the Collins' Bay prison, a few miles away, has been forced to house some prisoners on cots in a cell-block common room because of pressure at Kingston.

The women's prison, infamous for its jail of Kingston although it is a separate institution, has been within two or three of its capacity of 100 for months. It is the only Canadian institution for women sentenced to penitentiary terms—two years or more.

More new penitentiaries will be built, but the present capacity of penal reform agreed upon last June by federal - provincial conference in Ottawa begins to take shape in the next few years.

The program calls for agreement that the federal correction system assume responsibility for all prisoners sentenced to a year or more. On the basis of current prisoner population, this would involve a transfer of some 3,000 cells of federal penitentiaries from provincial jails.

LITTLE HOPE FOR RAISE

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker was reported to have given civil service federation spokesmen no real hope for immediate salary revisions during an interview with the government employees' organization Monday. The federation requested a general salary increase of at least seven per cent, effective from last Oct. 1, among other benefits.

Chrysler Union Members Vote On New Contract

WINDSOR (CP) — Members of Local 444, United Automobile Workers (CIO), vote today on whether to accept a new contract with Chrysler Corporation of Can. ada and make certain the end of a strike against the company.

Union officials said Tuesday they will recommend to the 3,600 striking workers that they accept the contract and it is thought likely the membership will go along with the proposal.

At noon Tuesday the company and union announced they had reached an agreement which would end the strike, begun at 3 p.m. Jan. 20.

In most respects the new contract, of three-year-duration, corresponds to similar contracts signed recently between the UAW and Canada's other two big automobile producers, General Motors Corporation and Ford of Canada.

One point where the Chrysler contract differs from the others is on the subject of retirement, a question which was reportededto be the main issue delaying the latter part of negotiations and which the union said was the chief reason for a prolonged strike.

The company had asked that it be given the option to retire a worker after 60 years of age instead of 65 if it considered that the worker was not maintaining production standards. The union objected.

In the pending contract, the company agreed to the inclusion in the contract of a new plan for retired at age 60 by reason of age.

Wage increases of six cents an hour for each of the three years of the contract will be effective next first will be retroactive to Sept. 11, one month after the beginning of the old contract. The new contract expires Nov. 15, 1961. Basic wage rate for the top classification was $2.05 an hour.

Other benefits include an improved formula of cost-of-living allowances, continuance by the company of existing full cost of medical, hospital, sickness and accident insurance, and a new clause in production standards.

Wes McKnight New Manager Of Station CFRB

John A. McDougall, chairman of the board of Rogers Radio Broadcasting Co. Ltd., the firm which operates the station, announced Tuesday that Mr. Sedgwick's resignation in 1955 and his successor, Wesley McKnight, has been with CFRB since 1935 and will continue as a director.

It was announced that Donald Skoore, station manager of CFRB, has retired from the firm in accordance with the company's retirement and pension policy and that he will continue with several other firm and is appointed vice-president. Mr. McKnight has been in with the station since 1937.

Eskimo's Split Personality As Individualistic Communist Causes Northland Dilemma

OTTAWA (CP) — The Eskimo has been described as perhaps the "strongest Communist in the world has ever seen" — and therein lies a dilemma facing northern authorities.

The definition came Tuesday from E. J. (Scotty) Gall of Yellowknife, member of the Northwest Territories Council in semi-annual meeting here.

The Eskimo is a strong individualist, said Mr. Gall, a Hudson's Bay Company trader who has spent his adult life in the North, and he combines that with an equally strong tradition of sharing.

Thus, council agreed, it is second nature to the Eskimo to flock settlements where friends have food and shelter, thereby posing an unemployment problem to the settlements.

But there was no general agreement on solving the problem set out earlier by Commissioner H.L. Nicholson of the RCMP in stating that a growth of petty crime including theft and prostitution is evident in some larger centres where the Eskimos are clustering.

He urged action to draw a 20-mile barrier for Eskimos around defence, mining or other white northern settlements if they lack both jobs and houses there.

Gordon Robertson, territories commissioner, said he doesn't think the Eskimo, as a Canadian with full legal rights, can be barred from going where he wishes. Moreover, how were Eskimos to get jobs if they couldn't get to the settlements?

Collapse of Italy's Cabinet Reminiscent of France's Fate

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The collapse of Premier Amintore Fanfani's Italian government is reminiscent in some respects of France's pell - mell political tender the Fourth Republic.

Perhaps Italian President Giovanni Gronchi is tempted at times to wish he had followed Charles de Gaulle who would restore political stability with a strong hand as has happened in France.

Italy, like France, has suffered from the Second World War from a multiplicity of political parties, including a strong Communist party hungering for power.

But the immediate cause of Fanfani's downfall, after less than seven months of power, was the unwavering of the Socialists. Similar Socialist, manoeuvring felled President Mollet after only 22 days in office, and Premier Antonio Segni after 22 months.

SOCIALISTS DIVIDED

Ironically, Nenni brought on the crisis by moving slightly toward the right. At a recent party congress he announced that his group henceforth will follow an independent line, breaking away from the Communists with whom Nenni has been allied since the war.

At the same time, however, he reiterated his opposition to the Fanfani government and declared that he would continue to battle any government dominated by the Christian Democrats, the centre group that has held a commanding position in Italian politics most of the time since the war.

REUNION POSSIBILITY

Nenni's action raised anew in Socialist hearts the possibility of a reunion between the two wings of the party — a dream that swept down for Fanfani's ouster. But government, Social Democrats, including Labor Minister Elio Vigorelli, hotted to the opposition, leaving Fanfani without a majority in parliament.

Other Left Democrats believe that Nenni's move to the right was slight and that they will do better to maintain their connection with the centre groups in support of NATO and Western policies in the cold war.

Fanfani's edge in the chamber was small although Italy's general elections last May gave the four parties — the Christian Democrats, Social Democrats, Liberals and Republicans — a sufficient working majority.

FANFANI HERALD

Fanfani wasn't able to include the Liberals and Republicans in his coalition and the cabinet survived as long as it did only because the Republicans refused to bring down him in parliamentary issues.

The May elections showed a significant increase in the Communist vote for the Christian Democrats, drawing substantially from the far-right parties.

The Communists advanced extremely little more in the previous elections — in 1953 — and the left-wing Socialists gained little more. The extreme right - wing rising two rival monarchist parties and neo - Fascist groups, suffered a collapse.

Finance Share Of New Hospital Without Taxation

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—The Ontario Hospital Services Commission has approved a plan to finance the city's $951,770 share of the cost of a $1,852,000 addition to the Civil Hospital without additional taxation.

The hospital management, believed the first of its kind in Ontario, the city will underwrite its share of the cost of the addition which will be paid off by hospital operating revenue.

A letter from Max Swanston, hospital board chairman, to city council said the board expects to pay off the debentures, estimated to run for 20 years, at 5½ per cent interest, will come from the hospital's 50-per-cent share in revenues from services and from private accommodation and the government's share granted at $150 a bed per year. The latter would amount to $300 when the addition is completed.

Federal and provincial grants will pay the $953,220 of the addition's cost.

Ontario General Election Virtual Certainty This Year

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario general election is a virtual certainty for this year, Donald Connery reports on the dais.

Premier Frost, who will decide whether to call the election and when, hasn't dropped a hint on the subject himself but those who come close during or shortly after the provincial legislature session which opened Jan. 21 and is likely to wind up about the end of February.

An election is not mandatory until the legislature's five-year term expires June 9, 1960. Expectation of a vote this year is based on recent by-election wins, the Progressive Conservatives believe, and the strength of the party in Ontario politics in this century, now at the high point. Ontario's 98 seats, a gain of one since the last election in 1955. Between them 11, CCF holds 12 and 12 elections since 1955 have been won by the Conservatives, one of them a gain from an independent MP.

All three parties are geared for an early fight. The Conservatives believe they may have to be ready by late May or early June with September a possibility. They discussed this on Thursday—a favorite voting day with Mr. Frost. Votes were cast in elections and 11 of 17 byelections

CCF Member Says Another U.S. Subsidiary Turned Down Trade With Reds

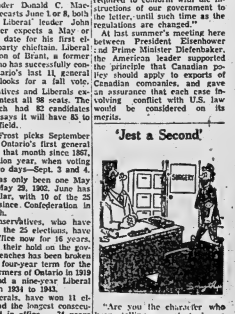
OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Commonwealth Federation member Hazen Argue says another Canadian company, subsidiary of a United States firm, has refused to trade with Communist China.

Mr. Winch, member for Vancouver East, told the Commons Tuesday that B. F. Goodrich (Canada) Limited had been tipped to the need of the rubber Chungking for conveyer belting to unload ships in the harbor there.

But he said that the parent Goodrich firm at Akron, Ohio, had replied it could not attempt to make a sale, or even supply catalogues and price quotations, because of the U.S. law against any business dealings with Red China.

However the president of the Canadian Goodrich firm, Robert V. Yohe, said Tuesday night at Kitchener his company had never been asked to sell belting to Red China and that the Canadian plant doesn't make that kind of belting.

WOULDN'T DISCRIMINATE.



"A purchase order from a broker for a Chinese purchaser or any other foreign purchaser would be treated exactly the same manner as an order from a Canadian customer," Mr. Yohe said.

Mr. Winch, in his speech, referred to two other instances involving Canadian companies whose American connections refused to trade with the U.S. law prohibiting business dealings with mainland China.

Early last year it was reported that Red China was interested in the Avro Arrow and it was known that Ford of Canada was prevented by the U.S. parent firm.

Recently Aluminum Company of Canada sold a $1,000,000 aluminum rolling mill to Red China because it didn't want to risk losing steady customers lost to make an immediate sale. The Canadian firm will recover the loss if the mill is confiscated, he knows of no foreign influence in the transaction, but opposition questioners in the Commons have

Aid For Some Ont. Crippled Close as Phone

TORONTO (CP)—The Rehabilitation Foundation for Poliomyelitis has opened treatment centres that bring aid for the disabled of five Ontario communities as close as the telephone.

Foundation President W. Denis Whitaker said the posts at Ottawa, Kingston, Hamilton, Windsor and the Lakehead shortly will be joined by 2 Toronto rehabilitation centre on which work will begin in May. There are plans for a seventh centre at London.

"It was evident that each district in Ontario needed one single source of rehabilitation services where any person needing rehabilitation could apply or be referred and could obtain all the services the case demanded," Mr. Whitaker's annual report said.

He said the March of Dimes contributed $120,000 to the establishment of the institutes in 1958 and an additional $150,000 has been appropriated for this year. The centres were set up by local rehabilitation organizations, encouraged by the foundation.

ONLY NEED PHONE CALL

Mr. Whitaker said in the five cities where institutes now function, "one phone call can bring to any patient all the services necessary to his rehabilitation including financial help where necessary."

He said $300,000 in March of Dimes funds will be used this year to pay for rehabilitation of the disabled at the centres. The foundation also looks out for the orthopedically disabled as well as polio victims.

"All other health and welfare agencies organizations, including government agencies," Mr. Whitaker said, "are co-operating in this move to co-ordinate rehabilitation services."

TRAIN THE DISABLED

Mr. Whitaker said the foundation also is working hard at preparing disabled persons to take responsible jobs and equally hard at educating employers to accept them.

"Individuals are only presented to employers when they have a skill to sell that can be measured by recognized standards," he said.

The foundation voted to set aside $15,000 for setting up in Toronto a pilot committee of the March of Dimes JOB (Just One Break) organization. The plan is to extend the service to other Ontario cities.

MARMORA

Installation Dinner Held By Kiwanians

MARMORA — On Monday evening the wives of the Kiwanis Club members were guests at a dinner in the Royal Hotel on the occasion of the installation of officers for 1959.

The meeting was opened and guests welcomed by the retiring president, Thomas Hanley. A toast to the ladies was proposed by Kiwanian Jim McCheaney, and responded to by Mrs. Jean Hanley.

A short sing-song was enjoyed conducted by the Rev. R. G. Fleming with Mrs. Alex Fraser at the piano.

Thomas Hanley gave a splendid report of the past year's work showing the club in good financial position, and that they had accomplished a good deal of work.

The management of the Dr. Crawford Arena was gratifying as they had operated at a profit and the outstanding debt on it had been paid off.

Nearly 4,000 bottles of milk had been supplied to the public and separate school pupils during winter months. A bag-of-bulbs sale campaign had been put on to aid minor hockey; a grant of $50, made to Marmora Public Library and $100, bursary given a High School pupil to further the educational career; the Hallowe'en shell-out and party with a free show and 500 bags of candy distributed; the club had assisted in the Santa Claus parade, also assistance had been given needy children.

Following the report, president Hanley introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Charles Smith, of Kingston, Lt. Governor of Kiwanis District 6 A, who after a few complimentary remarks proceeded with the induction of the officers of 1959.

The new president, Mr. Ed McNamara, spoke briefly and thanked the club for its confidence in him and hoped, with the aid of the executive, and members, they would be as successful as the past year had been.

At the close, Mrs. Smith, wife of the Kiwanian Lt. Governor, was presented with a silver cheese and cracker server. Mr. McNamara was given a specially inscribed "The World's Most Patient Wife," and each of the ladies present was given a souvenir of the occasion.

BROOKDALE FARM FORUM

6TH SIDNEY — There were ten members present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morley Sine when the Brookdale Farm Forum met there Monday evening.

In the discussion on "Who Holds The Reins?" in connection with vertical integration, they decided that each farmer should go on and farm on his own without integration. For a farmer who needed some financial assistance to carry on, he co-ops or some other organization working in the interest of the farmer, should form some system of credit whereby he, the farmer, could carry on on his own.

"In our group we do not plan to use vertical integration — at least not to the extent of losing our freedom of choice. We do not see any good arising from such a system — perhaps communistic is a strong word, but if we are not careful and seek necessary way out, such as selling our birthright for a mess of pottage, we may awake to the full concept of what is happening too late."

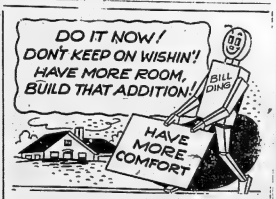
Robs Doctor, Then Promises To Repay Him

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Dr. Theodore Asnis is waiting for a letter from a robber.



The 36-year-old doctor was expecting a patient to show up for an appointment Monday night when a well-dressed young man came in with a pistol in his hand.

The robber bound the doctor's hands and ankles, but politely asked if the bonds were comfortable. Then he took $65 from the doctor's pockets, and, as he turned to go, said:

"I'll mail you the money later."

Resident Marks 80th Anniversary

ALBURY—Mr. Roy Williamson, of Albury, who still lives on the farm where he was born, celebrated his 80th birthday on January 23rd.

He is the third generation of Williamsons who have lived on the farm on the bay shore. His grandfather and father worked the farm before him.

Mr. Williamson married the former Lottie Adams of the 3rd concession, Ameliasburg township, in 1901. Mrs. Williamson is a charter member of the Rednersville Women's Institute and both are members of Albury Church.

Mr. Williamson leads an active life, doing chores around the farm, wood sawing being one of his favorite pastimes.

Some persons say a fox cannot be tamed, but Bill and John Fitzpatrick of London, Ont., have a female fox, Reddy, that they raised from a pup. The four-year-old animal likes chewing gum, is a television addict and, in summer, likes to ride the family boat, up front where she can see what's going on. Reddy isn't likely to be spoiled since the boys, ages 17 and 14, have 43 chinchillas, a pet rabbit and a duck.

Asks Extension World Series Air Pact

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick has been asked to extend the current radio and television pact for world series and all-star games three more years, through 1964, it was learned Tuesday.

The proposal was made by the sponsor. The current contract is a five-year agreement which does not expire until after the 1961 world series. It calls for a payment of $16,250,000 at the rate of $3,250,000 a year.

The same fee would be maintained through 1962, 1963 and 1964.

Sixty per cent of the fees, approximately $2,000,000, goes to the players' pension fund.

It was reported that major league player representatives Robin Roberts and Eddie Mathews are opposed to the extension, preferring to wait until the expiration of the current contract in the belief that baseball would be in a position to demand a higher fee in 1962.

May Decide World Champ In Basketball

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The United States and Russia meet tonight to decide the probable champion of the world amateur basketball tournament.

Even if the Russians win on the basketball court, they could lose the battle of politics and forfeit a title. A victory over the U.S. would give them a 5-0 mark.

They are scheduled to meet Nationalist China Friday night but have said they will not play the Chinese. The Russians contend the Chinese Nationalists represent a "country which doesn't exist."

The U.S., also undefeated in the round-robin play with a 3-0 mark, still has to face Chile, a 75-49 loser to the Russians Tuesday night, and Brazil. The Americans have been idle since Monday night when they defeated Nationalist China 85-69.

On the basis of tournament performances the Russians are favored to win.

Lilli Returns to Hollywood, Has New Husband, Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After an eight-year absence, Lilli Palmer is back with a new husband and a new career.

The Austrian beauty was here last to co-star with husband Rex Harrison in The Fourposter. Since that time, she and Rex split. He married Kay Kendall and Lilli wed the Argentine - born actor Carlos Thompson.

Lilli is here to play Clark Gable's estranged wife in But Not For Me. Producers William Perlberg and George Seaton doubtless hired her for charm and comedy talent. But she has the added value of being one of the top stars in the German film industry. That won't hurt the film's box office when it plays the lush German market.

STILL GOOD FRIENDS

The actress brought herself up to date during a lunch in the Paramount commissary. Among other things I learned: She and Rex are still the best of friends, and not in the phony Hollywood phraseology of ex-mates.

"Of course we're friends—why not?" she said. "No reason to be enemies just because we're no longer married. I don't think you can hate each other after being married 15 years. One year, perhaps, but not 15."

She said she has seen Rex several times in My Fair Lady and enjoyed it immensely. They often see each other socially and have a mutual interest in their 14-year-old son, Carey.

NEEDED A CHANGE

How did she get involved in German films?

"After I broke up with Rex, I felt the need for a change," she said. "The opportunity arose to do a picture in Germany, and I took it. Now I have done seven, and I have enjoyed them very much."

She reported that the German film industry is thriving. Its market being the prosperous German-speaking areas of Europe. At least one of her films even played in East Germany.

"I got the biggest reaction I have ever had from the East Germans," she said. "The mail was immense, and the letters said they knew I couldn't send them a picture but would I please write them a note. I suppose it was because the picture was a gay musical, and they see so little of that kind of entertainment."

MINOR HOCKEY WEEK!

Tonight is Minor Hockey Night in Belleville.

Tonight the spotlight is on the youth of the city and district in Memorial Arena.

Tonight the youngsters will play the sport that is a national heritage before, what they hope will be, a large crowd of admiring parents and others.

It will be junior's night "to howl."

A lot of them will be in their hockey glory, for many of them will be displaying their ice-lane prowess before the eyes of Dad and Mom for the first time.

Officials in charge of the big hockey show hope that parents in a whole turn out to watch their offspring, and others, play the game that does so much for them.

All winter long these youngsters have been receiving the instruction of the men who have their interests at heart. Men who give up many hours of their leisure time that your boy and mine can learn Canada's great winter sport and benefit from its advantages.

All winter long these kiddies have been playing under properly organized jurisdiction. The rivalry is keen. Nobody loves a winner more than a hockey-minded boy. And they are as generous in defeat as they are valiant in victory.

But you have to see it to believe it. And tonight is the night when these kiddies will be at their hockey best. Knowing that Pop and Mom are watching they will go all-out to give their best and battle their teams to victory.

And there will be more than a hint of pride in the men who have coached, managed and sponsored these youngsters.

Tonight they will receive their only payment. The shining faces of youngsters in hockey combat before the eyes of admiring fathers and mothers.

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association consisting of a small group of hockey-minded men, aided and abetted by a larger group of boys-conscious fellows, have arranged an outstanding program of hockey for the youngsters and parents.

Five teams from the district, two from Stirling, two from Frankford and one from Napanee will do hockey battle with their counterparts from this city. Five games will be played in squirt, peewee, bantam, midget and juvenile classifications.

The first game which features the squirts gets under way at six o'clock. The peewees follow an hour later. The bantams take the ice at eight o'clock, followed at nine by the midgets. The juveniles wind up the playing program at ten o'clock.

Children will be admitted free while parents and others will be tabbed twenty-five cents.

The slogan of "Minor Hockey Week in Canada" is. "Don't sock, TAKE your boy to the arena."

How better to remind Mom and Pop that their growing son will be aglow with pride when he sees his parents sitting in the stands watching him play. It is a meaningful slogan.

One of the problems confronting officials who work so unstintingly on behalf of the youth of our country is the apparent apathy of parents at times. Tonight minor needed the encouragement, interest and support of his parents it is in the growing years from nine to manhood.

Canadian kids love hockey. Belleville kids are part of the Canadian scene. In the winter they live, breathe and dream hockey.

Many a morning in the pre-dawn darkness of winter, when this reporter finds his way to work, hockey-carbed kids are en route to Memorial Arena awaiting the opening. Some of them are in organized action before Pop's alarm clock shrills.

While a lot of Dads are taking their well-earned Saturday morning "stiff" in bed, or around the home, junior is at the rink learning that hockey teaches him what it means to be successful, the value of a healthy mind and body new to lose as well as win and to have respect for people in authority.

You know, Mom and Pop, the boy is doing a grand job for himself with the help and guidance of fine men.

Why not take your son to Memorial Arena tonight! You will be proud to be a part of his recreational life.

Hot Trappers Muzzle Dogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

North Bay Trappers, riding their first hot streak of the season, knocked down Windsor Bulldogs 6-3 Tuesday night and served notice that they're still a club to contend with in the race for OHA-SOHA, Senior A playoff spots.

It was North Bay's fifth game without defeat but they still trail fifth-place Windsor by 11 points.

In the OHA Eastern Senior A loop Tuesday night Belleville McFarlands took their revenge on Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 6-2. Sunday at Hull the Canadiens hung a 4-1 loss on Belleville and ended the club's unbeaten streak at 13 games.

FLYING START

North Bay got off to a flying start before 1,898 fans with two goals 30 seconds apart in the first period and never had to look back. Three unanswered goals in the second clinched it.

Goalie Marv Edwards, who came to North Bay from Windsor in a mid - season trade deal, stymied his former clubmates with some sensational work in the nets. Windsor outshot North Bay 34-22.

The other player in that deal, Johnny Uzedaite, kept up his end of the bargain by scoring two goals to pace the Windsor attack. Bobby Brown added the other.

Cher Koscerzy, a powerhouse for North Bay this season, fired two goals while Jean Therrien, in 1949, added one.

ROUGH CONTEST

It was a rough contest at Belleville where the McFarlands, who leave Monday for a European tour and the world hockey championships, came out of their weekend slump with a roar.

Belleville fired the load all the way through they only outshot Hull 32-18. There were 15 penalties, 8 to the visiting Hull-Ottawa Canadiens 6-2. Sunday at Hull the Canadiens hung a 4-1 loss on Belleville and ended the club's unbeaten streak at 13 games.

Battle-Scarred Gadsby Long Service Defenceman

New York Ranger Rearguard Has Facial Service Stripes; Mug Resembles Railway Map

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bill Gadsby has been a National Hockey League defenceman longer than anyone else now playing in the league, and he wears his service stripes on his face.

The rugged New York Ranger rearguard is playing his 13th season in the big time and his battered face has absorbed so many stitches it would probably look like a railway map, were it not for the skill of the surgeons.

The Calgary native has lost count of the stick and puck cuts he's had sewn up during his years in professional hockey but his facial stitches have been conservatively estimated at about 150 and the count will probably be more than 200 by the time he winds up his career.

MATURES WITH AGE

That time isn't in sight yet, for though he's 33, an age at which many athletes think of retirement, Gadsby seems to improve with age.

This season in fact may be his best yet, from a statistical point of view at least, since he's well on his way to breaking the league record for most points by a defenceman.

That one is 57 and it was set back in the 1947-48 season by Toronto Maple Leafs' colorful Babe Pratt, who scored 13 goals and 40 assists in only 50 games.

HAS COME CLOSE

Gadsby came close to that one here in the 1955-56 season. His first full season in the league and he's with Chicago Black Hawks, when he scored 31 points on nine goals and 22 assists.

His concentration on the offensive aspects of his position has cost him whatever chance he might have had of comparison with such defensive greats as Harvey, but both he and Rangers think it's well worth while.

Gadsby figures it's made him, money, since strictly defensive defenceman doesn't have much chance of making the all-star teams. Records show he's made the first all - star team twice, the second three times.

To Rangers he's the hard-shooting, play - making defenceman every team needs, the man at the point of the key figures on the power-play.

And in cold figures his 34 assists this year mean he's had a hand in more than 25 per cent of Rangers' goals.

Game Means Great Deal to Blind Golfer

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—A big guy with a ready grin stood up in front of 600 golf enthusiasts Tuesday night and, with a voice filled with emotion told how much golf meant to him.

It meant a great deal, Charley Boswell said. It meant virtually a new life for a man who once had been considered killed in action during the Second World War and who had been blinded by a shell explosion in the war.

Boswell, a former football star at the University of Alabama and a baseball player good enough to earn a tryout with a top minor league club, is the national blind golfers' champion. He received the "Ben Hogan Trophy," one of the top awards, at the seventh annual $15-a-plate awards dinner of the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association Tuesday night.

FOR LIVING HANDICAP

The trophy is given by the Golf Writers Association of America each year to someone who has overcome a physical handicap to play golf. It has gone to such notables as President Eisenhower, Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Ed Furgol.

The other principal award, the Bob Jones Trophy, went to Oklahoma Charlie Coe, the United States amateur champion, as the man who has done the most for golf during the last year.

Boswell ran riot in the 90s consistently now, once had an 81 and he has won the blind championship 10 times in 12 years.

Coe, the lean Oklahoma City oilman who captured the 1957 U.S. Walker Cup team, was honored for his 1958 golf achievements. These included winning his second national amateur championship, taking the low amateur title in the U.S. open playing in the Americas Cup and world championship team events, tying for individual honors in the world team championship.

DINNER LIST LENGTHENS

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Rathmann, 32-year-old world - famed American racing-car driver, is the latest addition to sportsmen who will attend the annual Sport Celebrities Dinner here Feb. 4. Rathmann was the 500-mile race at Monza, Italy, last June on a track called "the fastest in the world." He has been competing in the Indianapolis Speedway 500-mile event since 1939, placing second twice and finishing fifth in the gruelling contest last year.

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — The three-day Canadian figure-skating championships open today with entries from Montreal to Vancouver, headed by Toronto's Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul, world pairs champions the last two years.

The two Toronto skaters have held the Canadian title since 1956 and, barring accident, they'll make it four straight when the day-long competitions end Saturday. Their strongest opposition probably will come from Lise Pelletier and Ian Knight of Montreal and Jane Sinclair and Larry Rost of Winnipeg.

NOTABLE ABSENTEE

One notable absentee from these 36-year-old championships will be 22-year-old Charles Snelling of Toronto, men's senior champion for five years. A medical student at University of Toronto, he is foregoing this tournament to devote more time to studies.

Possible heirs to his title are Don Jackson, 18, of Oshawa, and Eddie Collins of Toronto, who placed second and third respectively in 1958.

MANY ENTRIES

Possible contenders for the senior women's crown are Frances Gold, Ottawa, runner-up in the junior competition last year and daughter of Ottawa professional Otto Gold, and Sandra Towlesbury, Chatham.

The vacant junior women's championship is fought by Wendy Griner, 14, Toronto, who placed third in the senior ranks, including Joy Barnard, Sudbury and Linda McKeowen, Fort William.

North American dance champions Geraldine Fenton of Hamilton and William McLachlan, Toronto, will defend their Canadian championship against a brother and sister team, Svata and Mirek Slechtova, Toronto, who won the junior title last year. Geraldine and Bill were second in the world dance championships in Paris last year.

In the junior men's championships, Frank Clark, Vancouver, Larry Rost, Winnipeg and Don Knight, Stratford, vie for honors.

The junior pairs competition has three entries: Patricia Marr and Frank Clark of Vancouver; Gertrude Hamilton and Maurice La France of Sudbury, and Elaine Eberst and David and Mary Walls of Toronto.

In the junior dance competition, nine teams are entered. Judges will be Dudley Saunders and Ken Shelley, against Mari Jane Lennie and Karl Benzing.

Crafty Ole Archie Planning Final Shot at Heavy Title

By MURRAY ROSE

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP)— Archie Moore is at an age when there could be no more tomorrows for him in the ring. Yet the old warrior is busy plotting a campaign to get one final fling at the heavyweight crown.

It may not come until 1960 or even 1961, which gives you an idea how long Archie intends to stick at his trade.

The ageless light-heavyweight champion mapped out his schedule today but has one sure fight on tap for 1959. That's the return bout with Yvon Durelle, the rugged fisherman from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., who was knocked out in the ninth round of a memorable brawl in Montreal last Dec. 10.

"That's my bird in the hand," said Moore, here for a sports banquet. "But before I fight him I would like to fight Britisher Henry Cooper. He's been offered $150,000 to fight me. It'll take a lot—maybe $50,000. But I'll beat him and then I'll be in position to fight the winner of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship fight.

"The public will demand that. I've been biding my time for the right moment. I said after I lost to Patterson in our fight for the Art Wall, Jr. Wins Tourney

The 25-year-old carded 33-32—67 for a 36-hole total of 137—seven under par.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver also shot a 67 to finish with a total of 143 for a fourth-place tie and $412.50.

Boom-Boom Gets Lost Assist

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion's lost assist turned up Tuesday and the Montreal Canadiens star officially has his two-point lead over Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers.

The National Hockey League's weekly statistics, released Tuesday, showed Geoffrion with 37 points and Bathgate with 56. But news reports from the Montreal-Detroit Sunday game in Detroit showed Geoffrion with two assists, plus a goal. The telegraphed report from the official scorer showed one assist.

But the mailed report which arrived Tuesday showed the two assists and the NHL made the official change.

Geoffrion has 20 goals and 38 assists for his 58 points; Bathgate 25 goals and 31 assists for 56 points.

Bus Gagnon Looses Blast At C.A.H.A.

KINGSTON (CP) — A former member of world hockey champion Whitby Dunlops who toured Europe and played in the world tournament at Oslo last year, had some virsulent criticism for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Bus Gagnon, coach of the King ston Merchants Junior A hockey team, said in a statement to the club Tuesday night that the only way in which the existing method of selecting teams for the world tournament could be changed was if the Allan Cup champions of future years would refuse to represent Canada.

"This would force the CAHA to take positive action in forming a national team to go overseas," he said.

Gagnon said that with the great enthusiasm displayed by European fans for the sport it will not be long until Canada would have to take a back seat. The only way to combat this would be to organize a national team similar to the Russian team that toured the United States recently.

"But the CAHA doesn't want this. As long as the present teams will do what they say and represent our country, the governing body is off the hook if a team fails," he said.

Gagnon said a team should be organized at the beginning of the year and play together until it was time to go to the tournament.

Troubles Bother Swede-Paterson Bout Promoters

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The promoter of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship bout went ahead with his plans today but he was in the position of a fellow wondering when the roof would cave in.

Bill Rasmussen said bravely he saw no obstacles in the way of the fight and that contracts should be signed by Thursday.

But while he stood in the centre of the stage, there were various side men milling around in the wings.

1. Eddie Machen, a heavyweight who was stopped by Johansson not long ago. He is seeking a federal court order to keep Ingemar, European champion, from fighting Patterson before he gets a rematch.

SAYS FIGHT SET

2. London promoter Harry Levine. He says he has a title fight between Patterson and Brian London of England all wrapped up and that he received a cable from Patterson's manager imploring him to have patience.

3. Joe D'Amato, Patterson's manager, who has been holding all the cards. He is annoyed that Levene would release his private correspondence.

4. Johansson, the party of the second part. He says he made no return match agreements with Machen and furthermore, Eddie can get at the end of the line if he wants another fight.

Most of the parties are talking at the same time and waving legal documents.

YANKEES GET HINT

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel warned his New York Yankee players Tuesday to live up to the club's rules and regulations next year or they'll be sent elsewhere. Stengel hinted broadly that the reason some of the baseball club's players suffered pay cuts was because they broke training rules last summer.

Macs Resume Stride With 6-2 Win Over Canadiens

Pair of First-Period Goals Sent Ikemen on Their Way; Curtain Falls Here Friday

By GEORGE H. CARVER

The McFarlands, resuming their thrilling stretch drive after a temporary setback in Hull on Sunday, defeated the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens here last night by a decisive 6-2 score.

It was the Ikemen's 28th victory in 33 starts and they hope to make it 29 next Friday when they meet the Cornwall Chevies here in the final battle of their 48-game schedule.

Minus the services of Jean Paul Payette and Johnny McLellan through illness and thinly clothed in uniforms, only six of the city, the Macs were full value for their victory.

They took command of the situation with two unanswered goals in the first period and never looked backward. They scored 4-1 at the end of the second frame and took a 6-1 margin in the third heat before the Canadiens scored their second marker of the game.

Ike Hildebrand racked up his 29th goal of the season and Moe Benoit top goal-getting defaceman in the league, added another to make his total 13. Bart Bradley, Wilmer Brown, Al Dewsbury and Denis Boucher, who resumed play with the Macs last night, scored the others.

Bradley and Brown added two assists to their goals. Lou Smrke came up with three helpers with Dewsbury, Boucher, Crawford and Lamirande getting one each.

The Canadiens came up with their rugged hard-hitting style of play but they met their bumping matches in the Macs last night. Both teams tossed their fists around with reference Vern Goyer handing out 15 penalties, nine to the Hull crew and one misconduct to the Canadiens.

The arena was gaily decorated with signs posted by the Booster Club, best luck and bon voyage messages hit them at every angle. "Good Luck, Macs" was strung along the ice over the north end blueline.

A CBC announcement flitted about the arena taking film footage of play, players, boosters, personnel, presentations and the crowd.

The Macs lost no time in breaking the scoring ice. Ike Hildebrand racking up his 29th goal of the season on the first play of the game, with Bradley and Brown assisting. The time was 15 seconds.

They were having the best of the play when Lamirande was waved off and he was just back when the Ikemen broke out into a rash of penalties.

Menard, Crayford and Lamirande were chased within a minute of one another and the Macs played two men short for exactly nine minutes.

Brilliant penalty killing featured their defensive work and they kept the red-shirts at bay until they were back with four men.

Then Moe Benoit brought the crowd to its feet when, with his club still a man short, he took Lou Smrke's fine pass, slithered through the Hull-Ottawa defence and his high backhand beat Broward Delaney to the Macs two up.

The Macs took advantage of Black's penalty early in the second period with Bradley capping Crawford's pass-play to grab a three-goal lead. Hull's Black broke the egg when he threw home a rebound after Bell stopped two drives.

Annable and Menard were chased for roughing and a minute later on a power drive Boucher flashed in Lamirande's pass for a 4-1 lead with Smrke getting an assist.

Penalties cropped up for the visitors with Kealey getting chased at 14:00 and Longarini going off three minutes later with a minor and misconduct. Tempers frayed as the game roughened and with seconds to go Hildebrand and Bell were both getting the air for roughing.

The game became rugged in the third period with the Macs having the better of the toe-to-toe tossing. Al Dewsbury fell foul of the official thumb and was gated for after the minutes but the Macs defence from Gordie Bell out, that played identify all night, held off the Hull onslaughts.

Seconds after the big blueliner's exhibit, he climaxed a neat passing play with Boucher and Lou Smrke to give the Macs a 5-1 lead.

The Ikemen who had the better of the play for outshooting the redshirts 7-4 maintained their attacks and Wilmer Brown, getting a back-pass from Barton Bradley inside the point, blasted a slapshot that rippled over Bernard's shoulder for the sixth McFarland counter.

The Canadiens never stopped trying and they drove in repeatedly, finally clicking for their second goal at 12.33 when McCreary tipped in Black's pass from a goalmouth scramble.

MacDonald of the Macs and Bob Boucher of Hull rounded out the game's penalty parade but no damage resulted from either sentence. The Canadiens battled to the end of the game but the Ikemen threw back all their efforts until the siren shrilled game end.

Teepees Edge Hamilton 4-3

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Denny Jordan, 17-year-old goaltender for Hamilton Cubs, played a brilliant game Tuesday night but couldn't save Cubs from a 4-3 defeat at the hands of OHA Junior A leaders, St. Catharines Teepees.

Jordan, replacement for Carl Wetzel who was assigned to the professionals, was impressive as the Western Hockey League by Jack Adams, Detroit Red Wings' general manager, marked the first-up spirit of last-place Cubs as he saved 42 stops while his team roared back from a 4-1 deficit. He was the second 21 times in the second period.

The St. Catharines victory gave them a 13-point lead over a second - spot Peterborough Petes, who were upset 6-2 by Hamilton last Saturday.

Bob Corupe scored the lone first-period goal for Teepees and Larry Jeffrey making it 1-1 early in the second. Goals by Don Mikita, Doug Robinson and Ray Cullen in the same session appeared to put Teepees in the clear but Hamilton turned on the pressure in the final leg to give the league - leaders a scare moments. Bert Templeton and Larry Jeffrey got the other Hamilton goals.

16 Vancouver Women Work Hard to Get Funds to Take Part in Field Hockey Tourney

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sixteen Vancouver women will go overseas in March to represent Canada in a world field hockey tournament at Amsterdam.

To make the trip to the sixth tyrannical women's field hockey conference they have raised funds by collecting empty bottles, scoring city league basketball games, hiring out as baby sitters and staging dances and raffles.

Despite a three-year campaign each woman will still dig into her pocket for $400 toward the basic cost of the trip. The amount will be greater if a player plans to do a little sight-seeing after the conference.

COVE QUITS JOB

All will be forced to take leaves of absence from their jobs and one player, an elementary school teacher, resigned when the school board refused to give her time off.

The oldest player is Mrs. Sheila Larsen, 42, mother of four, and the youngest is Moira Colbourne, 18, a field representative for Medical Service Association. Four players are married.

Many residents here have been startled by the sight of the women, dressed in a varied assortment of shorts, gym suits or slacks, out on a long cross country run in training for the European tour.

It will be the second time Canada has been represented at a conference. In 1956 a Vancouver team travelled to Australia.

The Canadians finished in a seventh-place tie with Scotland in the 16-team tournament. The team, however, played only six matches, winning one, tying one and losing four.

Begin in 16 TEAMS COMPETING

Twenty-one countries — one of the members' countries is the International Field Hockey Association—will join 15 other teams at the conference at Amsterdam April 22-May 7.

Prior to the conference, which has no official champion, the Canadians will tour England, Scotland and Wales meeting United Kingdom teams.

At Amsterdam, Canada has been grouped with Ireland, New Zealand and Holland.

BASEBALLER WILL APPEAL

SAN JUAN (AP) — Orlando Cepeda, first baseman for Puerto Rico's Santurce clubs and for the San Francisco Giants, said Tuesday he would appeal for a hearing from Puerto Rican League president Carlos Garcia Nocedo before a $200 fine levied against him is made final. Nocedo was fined and charged with assault and released in $500 bond after a riot halted Sunday's playoff game at Mayaguez in the eighth inning. Cepeda threw a ball at the umpire after fans had showered him with fruit and bottles.

Marlies Name New Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Alex Davidson, who played defence with the now - defunct Toronto Marlboro Senior OHA club, was named coach of Toronto Marlboros of the OHA Junior A series Tuesday night.

President Harold Ballard of Marlboros said Davidson, a former Toronto Maple Leafs' scout for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, will take over the job today.

He is the fourth coach Marlboros have had this season. Tony Hiroda, former Maple Leaf goalie, had to give up coaching when stricken by a heart ailment early this month. Since then Bob Davidson and then Ray Haynes, another ex-Leaf, have coached the club.

Packers Have New Coach

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vince Lombardi, backfield coach of the New York Giants, will be the next coach and general manager of the National Football League Green Bay Packers, it report said Tuesday night.

The report said Lombardi's name was tossed into the speculation by the Milwaukee Journal.

Other names mentioned earlier touched Iowa's Forrest Evashevski and Jim Trimble, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four. Both professed no interest in the job.

In addition to Lombardi, The Journal's list mentioned Lombardi, Pool, now coaching Toronto Argos.

Dodgers May Not Open in New Stadium

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Legal clouds still hanging over Chavez Ravine may prevent Los Angeles Dodgers from opening the 1960 baseball season in their new stadium.

Dodger President Walter O'Malley said Tuesday construction on the 52,000-seat stadium will not begin before all legal obstructions are cleared.

Two weeks ago the State Supreme Court gave the Dodgers the green light, and O'Malley predicted Dodgers would open the 1960 season in a partially-completed park.

Since then, counsel Phill Silver, leader of the Dodger opposition, said he plans to appeal the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

TORONTO (CP) — Lew Hayhurst, director of football for Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football Union, today announced the signing of Ross Coyle, 6'1, 195-pound end from Oklahoma University.

Coyle who caught a pass and ran 79 yards for a touchdown in Oklahoma's Orange Bowl game, is a defensive end and a defensive halfback.

Argos said they have not confirmed an announcement by Ron Stover, linebacker from Oregon State who holds a Rose Bowl pass-receiving record, that he has signed with the team.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Johnny Wilson is a hard-digging Detroit Red Wings forward who never is mentioned in the same breath with Gordie Howe, Maurice Richard or Andy Bathgate. But he's building a reputation that could make him a celebrity in big-league circles, at least.

HEADING FOR RECORD

Johnny Wilson of Detroit Red Wings is heading for a record March 3 when his team meets Boston Bruins in a regular National Hockey League game. Barring accident up to that time, the hard-digging winger will become the NHL's new Iron Man with a record of playing in 502 consecutive games, one better than the 506 mark set by Murray Murdoch of the New York Rangers in the years before the Second World War.

Murdoch, now coaching Yale University's hockey team, set his record over a period of nine years before the 70-game schedule came into effect. He didn't miss a game starting from the opener of the 1926-27 season until he retired at the end of the 1935-36 campaign.

BIG ACHIEVEMENT

Wilson played in his 492nd consecutive NHL game Tuesday night.

His streak started Jan. 20, 1952, when he was elevated to the Wings from Indianapolis of the American Hockey League. He played the final 28 games with Wings that season and has appeared in every one since, including 146 games with Chicago Black Hawks during the 1955-56 and 1956-57 seasons after being traded to Chicago.

He returned to Detroit in a deal after the 1956-57 term.

Wilson is a rarity in present-day play. There isn't a player in the NHL who can come close to his iron-man record. In the helter-skelter, rough-house type of play practised in the NHL, there are only a few players who can make the lineup for every one of the 70 games over a season.

There's an uncanny similarity between Murdoch and Wilson. Both were 28 years old when their streaks started. Both are left wingers. They are the same height—five feet, 10 inches. Both were born in Ontario—Murdoch in Lucknow and Wilson in Kincardine.

Neither set the league on fire in scoring. Murdoch netted 84 goals in his 11 years and Wilson has scored 130 since he broke into the major league eight years ago.

The most penalties Murdoch received in any season totalled 32 minutes in 1931-32. Wilson's highest penalty total was 24 minutes in 1956-57.

Canadian Football League officials weren't kidding anybody when they said at the Winnipeg annual meeting a week ago that the 1959 Grey Cup final would be played in Toronto either at the Canadian National Exhibition or Varsity Stadium." The CNE has it hands down.

It's simply a matter of dollars and cents.

The 33,133-seat CNE stadium has 23,000 seats between the goal lines. Varsity can count only 13,000 of the 19,000 capacity in the same area. These seats sell for $10 each, so it's a matter of $230,000 against $130,000 for this space alone.

Warren Stevens, athletic director at the University of Toronto, is the first person to admit that Varsity hasn't a hope of getting the game. "We could offer the Leafs more and still lose out," he says.

The CNE has offered the CFL the loan of its flat $25,000 rental fee this year. If pro football is going to make Toronto the Grey Cup venue for the next five years, the price is $20,000 a year.

LONGDEN WINS 5,250th

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Longden of Tabor, Alta., rode the 5,250th winner of his career Tuesday. He won it in the sixth race at Santa Anita aboard the favorite, The Searcher. Earlier, he was the third-up rider in the first three starter. Played, trained by his son, Vance.

LOVE LAUGHS AT BIG TELEPHONE BILLS, TOO

It was an expensive courtship, but everyone is happy now, in Hamilton, Ont. Nick Frankow, a housepainter who emigrated from Poland in 1930, couldn't stand the suspense of being separated from his proxy bride, Marlana, and would telephone her in Cracow, Poland. Before Immigration authorities arranged her voyage to Canada, Nick had paid close to $1,000 in telephone tolls. But now, married for a second time to Marlana and this time not by proxy, he thinks it was worth every pfennig.

Company Says Never Asked to Sell to China

KITCHENER (CP) — B. F. Goodrich Canada Limited appears ready to do business with Communist China although its parent company in the United States is forbidden to by American law.

Following a CCF attack in the Commons Tuesday on export controls exercised by U.S. firms over subsidiaries in Canada, Goodrich Canada President Robert V. Yohe issued two statements, the second an elaboration of the first.

The second one said in part that "A purchase order from a broker for a Chinese purchaser or any foreign purchaser would be treated in exactly the same manner as an order from a Canadian customer."

There was no immediate comment from Akron, Ohio, headquarters of the giant B. F. Goodrich Corporation which is prevented by the U.S. Trading with the Enemy Act from selling goods to the Red - held China mainland.

CANADIAN SUBSIDIARY

Goodrich Canada, which turns out 33,000 products ranging from children's sneakers to tractor tires, is a wholly-owned subsidiary. It ranks roughly third—in a tie with the Dominion Rubber Company—among the Canadian rubber manufacturers behind Goodyear and Firestone.

Harold Winch, CCF member for Vancouver East, said in the Commons Tuesday Goodrich U.S. vetoed any deal when Canadian Goodrich proposed that advantage be taken of a reported need for conveyor belting at Chungking on the China mainland.

A few hours later, Mr. Yohe said the first he knew of "the alleged refusal to tender on the conveyor belting for Red China" was taken when a reporter asked him to comment on Mr. Winch's remarks.

He added:

"On investigation it is definite that B. F. Goodrich Canada was never asked to sell belting to China.

REFERENCE TO ARROW

"Someone in our organization was told that a possible market existed in China and this information was referred to our international company at Akron, Ohio, where our main belting plant is located.

"In Canada, we do not manufacture belts of the type referred to in Mr. Winch's statement.

"... However, if B. F. Goodrich Canada Limited received a direct request to tender on conveyor belting from Red China it would receive every considera-

Ontario Wants $87 Million Extra As Tax Share

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost says Ontario wants more than $87,500,000 extra on its share of national tax revenues.

He said at a press conference this is the purpose behind the proposal in Tuesday's speech from the throne in the legislature for a major review and revision of the province's fiscal arrangements with the federal government.

He said he has not departed from his measurement of $100,000,000 extra as Ontario's just share of taxes. Ontario now receives an extra $13,000,000 as a result of a temporary adjustment first year.

2nd Sidney

2ND SIDNEY — Mr. and Mrs. D. H. De Clercq are happy to announce the birth of their son at the Trenton Memorial Hospital on Jan. 26, weight 9 lbs. 1 oz. It is quite coincidence that Mrs. De Clercq went into the hospital on her birthday January 18 and came home on their wedding anniversary on January 25.

Mr. Wilmott Scott of Frankford spent Sunday dinner hour with Mrs. Sarah Acker and sons.

Mrs. Scott had been staying with her mother for a week, and returned home with her husband.

Mrs. Frank White is getting along fine at Trenton Memorial Hospital. The bandages are gradually coming off, although no visitors are allowed in to see her yet.

Mrs. Morris Stickle spent Tuesday night with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rose of Frankford and returned on Wednesday.

Mr. D. H. DeClercq shot a rabid fox in his cow stable one day this week.

Wednesday night's wind caused a lot of damage through this neighborhood, tearing steel sheets off barn roofs, taking barn doors off, tossing down T.V. antenna, as well as tearing a mail box off that had been put on with spikes.

The sympathy of this neighborhood is extended to the husband and family of Mrs. Lorne McEwen who passed away on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Norma Benton of Toronto is spending several days with her sister, Mrs. D. H. De Clercq.

CANADA REFUSES TO SELL JETS TO DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Vampire jet fighter planes, no longer used by the RCAF, will not be sold to the Dominican Republic following federal government refusal to issue an export license for them. At present they are exposed to the elements at Malton, Ont., and, though bought by a U.S. firm, are still under control of the Canadian government. The U.S. firm, even if they moved the planes to the U.S., would have to get U.S. government permission before selling them to a foreign country.

Rioting in Belgian Congo Big Snag to Africa's Progress

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The renewed rioting in the Belgian Congo during the weekend heats up one of the biggest snags to Africa's rapid progress: How fast should the change to independence from colonialism be?

In the last 19 years the map of Africa has been made over and in another few years the map of today will be outdated. Ethiopia and Liberia are the only two independent countries within native boundaries. During the last decade these others have been born: Egypt, Libya, the Sudan, Morocco, Tunisia, Ghana and Guinea. Soon to become independent are Nigeria, Somalia, the Cameroons and French Togoland. This accounts for most of the countries in the top-heavy-looking upper part of the map of Africa.

HATRED GROWING

Below the surface, the threat of violence to win what the native people are seeking is mounting. Besides the riots in the Congo, the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique appear quiet but, like Portugal itself, civil liberties are restricted. In South and East Africa while white racialists seek to continue their domination with stronger and stronger measures.

It seems impossible to agree on the amount of time which should elapse before independence should be made. Slowly, say the white colonialists. But if the pace is overly sluggish, anti-white riots such as the one that have flared in the Congo or a searing wave of hatred such as engulfed Kenya years ago could flare. May terror seem to be the result. This hatred is not far below the surface in South Africa, Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

TIMETABLE WANTED

Going too fast can also be dangerous. Britain pulled out of the Sudan hurriedly. The government was unsuitable for many years and only found its strength when Premier Nasser turned himself into become a new imperialist. Guinea voted to secede from the French Union. Hardly had the country been founded than Paris cut nearly all ties with her former colony. Guinea was left financially weak.

Taking the initiative, a meeting of the pan - African liberation movement in Accra recently agreed that the colonial powers themselves should fix the timetables for independence.

The meeting suggested that a number of nationalist leaders from the Congo attend the next meeting and may have organized the riots early this month to force Belgium to hurry in granting the move to independence. But a premature policy declaration to the Parliament in Brussels still gave only a hazy picture of the final goal and not the timetable to political independence.

The police report of the weekend disturbances at Matadi, the Congo's only big port, attributed the trouble to youths trying to take part in a demonstration on the colony's future that had been arranged between officials and nationalists.

It is perhaps a warning that Premier Adenauer wants to move definitely when he can take the reins into his own hands.

Canada Wants To Retain Potato Market

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP)—A Canadian economic mission has asked British Guiana businessmen to help Canada retain the important potato market here and regain usually important flour market.

The request were made Monday before the conclusion of formal talks between members of the 37-man Canadian mission and their British Guiana counterparts.

At a plenary session Monday Sir Patrick Hutson, governor of British Guiana, and Cheddi Jagan, leader of the majority party in the legislature, invited Canadians to establish branch plants here and invest in the development of this British colony.

C. Bruce Hill of St. Catharines, reporting for a committee on exports from Canada, asked that British Guiana give Canada the same preferential treatment with respect to tariffs on flour as Canada extends this country on sugar.

British Guiana pays sugar to Canada at a tariff $1 per 100 pounds lower than sugar from elsewhere. Canadian flour enjoys a preference here of only 29 cents per 100 pounds.

Mr. Hill said that in 1953 Canada held 90 per cent of the British Guiana flour market. Now she held only 25 per cent because United States flour could be purchased more cheaply. He also said of a subsidy paid by the American government on flour exports.

Mr. Hill also said that in 1958 Canada sold 10,000,000 pounds of potatoes, mainly from the Maritimes to British Guiana. However, recent budget boosted the tariff on potatoes to $3.00 per 100 pounds from 28 cents.

"That increase is tantamount to an embargo," said Mr. Hill. He asked British Guiana businessmen to try and have the tariff removed.

He was told the revision of the tariff was entirely a matter for people here to grow more of their own vegetables.

Eisenhower Aims To Reduce U.S. Wheat Output

Lower Price Supports Are Once Again Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today renewed his call for lower price supports to cut costs of federal farm aid and encourage better use.

In a special message to Congress he said price support programs are "excessively expensive" and crop control programs don't control.

Citing the big accumulation of surpluses and the huge outlay of federal funds of farm programs, the message said "the need to reduce the incentives for excess production has been explicit" in the three special messages on agriculture which he has previously sent to the capitol.

Dispatched to Congress with the message was a memorandum from Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson giving details regarding operation of present programs—particularly those of wheat, cotton and rice—and outlining possible changes in farm laws.

In general, Eisenhower's recommendations would make no drastic changes in present programs—calling for the agriculture department more flexibility in setting price supports. Under such authority farmer supports—and hence lower government outlays—would be expected to follow.

TO A CRESCENDO

Eisenhower proposed that prices for those commodities subject to mandatory supports be related to a percentage of the average market price during the immediately preceding years.

This would replace the 25-year-old parity standard for use in determining price supports. Parity is a standard based on the buying power of farm products in a past favorable period, usually 1910-14.

The proposal was advanced in Congress last year and met with strong opposition from Democrats, however, it was incorporated under a new program for corn enacted by the Congress.

Eisenhower said the change would set "a realistic and reasonable basis for unrealistic production, to move in the direction of easing production controls, to permit the growth of commercial markets and to cut the cost of federal programs."

Liberal Leader Welcomed to House by Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer will make a debut as Opposition leader in the Ontario legislature Wednesday, promising to carry out his responsibilities "forcefully and intelligently."

The 43-year-old Kitchener lawyer was welcomed by both Premier Frost and CCF Leader Donald MacDonald.

Mr. Frost said Mr. Wintermeyer was "a very fine contributor" to the legislature even before he succeeded Farquhar Oliver (L—Grey South) at a party convention last week.

The premier also praised Mr. Oliver and another one-time opposition leader in the Liberal ranks, former premier Harry Nixon (Brant).

Of Mr. Oliver he said: "He has made only a small contribution to this House, but the people of Ontario...."

Of Mr. Nixon: "He has always been a formidable leader, both in opposition and in government."

TO CRITICIZE OFFICE

Mr. Wintermeyer said he would make constructive criticism of the government, criticizing the office instead of the man.

"I hope it will never be said of me that I attacked the person of any member of this House."

Mr. Wintermeyer and the premier exchanged banter.

"I wouldn't think of stealing his platform," Premier Frost said with a smile, "I admire you that much. I'm very open to new ideas."

Replying, Mr. Wintermeyer noted the throne speech contained suggestions advanced by his party, but he said:

"We're not afraid of you stealing any of our ideas. In a democratic parliament there should be a frank exchange of ideas."

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — A gold strike described as the "most valuable recorded in the history of South African gold mining" was announced today by S. Spiro, chairman of the Free State Geduld Mining Company.

Gold values averaging about one ounce of gold from one ton of ore have been disclosed in a sector of a mine in the Orange Free State, Spiro said.

GOVT. PROPOSES PILOTS ON ONLY PARTS OF LAKES

Will Amend Canada Shipping Act

OTTAWA (CP)—In a move apparently aimed at ending a dispute over use of pilots on the Great Lakes, the government has proposed that pilotage be compulsory only on certain sections.

In other parts of the lakes ships would merely be required to have officers on board who meet certain requirements.

The proposal is embodied in an amendment to the Canada Shipping Act which was given second reading without debate in the House of Commons Wednesday.

Government leader in the Senate Walter Aseltine said the plan is similar to legislation which Lynn Hand to be contemplated by the United States government.

CABINET WOULD RULE

The bill also gives the cabinet would designate the sections in which pilotage would be mandatory, and would set out qualifications for officers which ships must employ elsewhere in the Great Lakes.

The bill—one of the first legislative proposals to be given attention—was referred to the Senate transportation committee. Representations of outside organizations are expected to be heard.

Last year the Great Lakes Pilotage was the subject of a dispute between the pilots' association and the Shipping Federation of Canada. The federation, representing shipowners, held that pilots need be used only on parts of the lakes. The pilots association demanded that pilots be carried throughout the lakes. Main area of controversy was the shipping routes from the Welland Canal to the sea.

The Senate also heard a suggestion by a former government leader in the Senate Thursday that the present government leader there, Sen. Gray Estey, K.C., be brought into Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cabinet.

Senator Wishart Robertson of Nova Scotia, Liberal member of parliament for the Senate from 1940 until 1953, said it is discourtesy to the upper chamber to have a member of the cabinet with the government no longer in power.

Senator Robertson said the Senate has greater merit of parliamentary precedent than the Commons. He noted the throne speech announcement that the government will have the Senate legislation to provide these posts.

Since Liberal Senator Haig (PC—Manitoba) relinquished his two posts to minister without portfolio and government leader at the beginning of the last session, the upper house has been without a cabinet representative.

Meanwhile, the Commons throne speech debate was brought to a close. Unless the government succeeds in some other business it will wind up Friday.

Inflation Greater Danger Than Communism Meet Told

TORONTO (CP)—Inflation is a greater danger than communism, depression or unemployment and may bring these and other evils in its trail, E. C. Gill, president of Canada Life Assurance Company, said today at the company's annual meeting.

He urged government to take courageous action and the public to support such action.

Life - insurance policyholders and beneficiaries alone—constituting more than three-quarters of the North American public—could, if they made their voices heard, convince government that it must give necessary leadership.

He attributed Britain's current "flourishing economy" to its "wisdom and courage" shown by her government in 1957.

And he had a word of caution for those who seek "hedges against inflation" in the stock market.

"Thirty years ago," he commented, "it was widely believed that the stock market was certain to go upward and four years forever. Far too many have forgotten the lessons of 1929.

"Equity (common stock) values can rise and fall. They depend not only on economic conditions but on a multiplicity of other factors which can result in losses as well as profits."

Mr. Gill said that while more Canadians were unemployed in 1958 than in 1957, more were also at work.

"One might have expected," he added, "that those who had work would have produced a bit more, particularly when their efforts were supplemented by new and efficient productive facilities. There is no evidence of this."

Gross National Product was up less than 1% in 1958 over 1957, but the increase was in price inflation, and volume was about the same.

Of the economic picture for 1959, Mr. Gill said:

"It is still too early to abandon caution. For the first few months of the year there will be little noticeable improvement in the state of business. There may even be some deterioration.

"By late spring, however, recovery should be definitely confirmed and by year-end production may be exceeding previous peaks."

Mr. Gill's comments were contained in the text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Loss May Reach $300,000 in Bothwell Fire

BOTHWELL, Ont. (CP) — Loss may reach $300,000 in a blaze which destroyed the village's early today in this farming town of 800 about 40 miles southwest of London.

A quarter of the main business section was destroyed before firemen from five communities got control. The blaze in Donnadstadill behind a triple fireWall. There were no reports of injuries.

The fire blaze broke out shortly before midnight in a hardware store owned by Frank Vernon. It spread into a dry goods store, a beauty parlor and a grocery. A fifth store and two apartments adjoining each other.

Bucking subzero fireman called brigades from Thamesville, Wardsville, Glencoe and Chatham.

Shortly after 3 a.m. the town fire service chief said almost empty by the demand of its fire hoses manned by more than 50 men. About 45 apartments were destroyed the pressure. Tank trucks also brought water from Thamesville, 12 miles away.

For a time it was feared the flames would break through the firewall to more stores and a new post office separated from the row of commercial buildings by a narrow laneway. Residents moved some of their goods from the stores and also emptied the other threatened buildings. Two families were evacuated.

Leader Asks Special Session Unemployment

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer Wednesday asked the Ontario legislature to go into special session to deal with unemployment.

He told the legislature it is "a matter of great public importance." About 200,000 were jobless in the province, affecting 600,000 including their families.

Premier Frost said he would welcome special discussion of unemployment if it were within the rules. "I regard it as a matter of concern and importance."

Speaker A. W. Downer said he would consider whether the House go into special session to consider a general question such as unemployment and he would rule on it later, probably Monday.

Mr. Wintermeyer made his request during the throne speech debate every member to make a 10-minute speech on any question—"a single specific matter of recent occurrence" — but forbids any motion for the rest of the session.

ALTERNATIVES

Without a special session, Opposition members could discuss unemployment at length during the throne debate. Also, the government decides the order of business during the session.

Mr. Wintermeyer said full-scale discussion of unemployment is needed because the allocation of 7,800 jobs have been provided by the federal-provincial program to combat winter unemployment by contributions to municipal works.

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald joined Mr. Wintermeyer in calling for the special session. He said he would like to hear suggestions from a party that had been elected mainly on unemployment" when it was in office.

Man Kills Self Because No One Would Hear Tale

VANCOUVER (CP) — A middle-aged Alcatraz Island man who was "thought he was joking" committed suicide by poison because he—could find anyone to tell his story to.

Police said Frederick Cousins, about 40, of High River, Alta., killed himself Wednesday night by drinking a solution of potassium cyanide in his hotel room.

Two hotel officials who "thought he was joking" identified as Cousins matter-of-factly swallowed the colorless liquid, collapsed and died. His body died with him.

"He told the boys," Cousins said after taking the drink: "It contains potassium cyanide. I'll be dead in less than hour."

He passed out immediately and pronounced dead shortly after in hospital.

Police, who checked Cousins' out-going phone calls, said he made calls from his room Tuesday night to several newspaper offices.

However, he did not give them a coherent reason for inviting them to his room, saying only, "I have a story for you."

ADMITTED SLAYER FOUND ASLEEP IN BED COURT TOLD

Evidence Shows All Boys Were Drinking

OTTAWA (CP) — Policemen testified Wednesday night they found the youthful admitted slayer of Robert O'Leary, 20-year-old victim of an Ottawa gang fight, fast asleep in bed only a few hours after the killing.

James McDermott, 17, one of five teen-agers charged with murder in O'Leary's death, was found in the same bed with James Post, another accused, in the dimly-lit crowded Post home a few blocks from the scene of the Nov. 23 slaying.

Detective Kenneth Duncan, testifying at an unusual evening sitting of the Supreme Court of Ontario, said he found a bloodstained towel there and a pair of McDermott's jeans which he described as "soaked in water and stained almost completely covered" with blood.

The trial which began Monday has heard McDermott's lawyer, Arthur Maloney, contend his client, who wielded the eight-inch steak knife that pierced O'Leary's heart,

HAD BEEN DRINKING

One witness has told of seeing O'Leary and McDermott in the fight with blood spurting from his eyes, nose and mouth. Others have testified that participants in the fight, including O'Leary, had been drinking heavily. The medical court had consumed at least six quarts of beer. The trial is expected to last all week.

Others charged are James Post, 17, Ronald Turpin and John Drain and Henry Dupuis, all 18.

Mrs. Edythe Post and her 15-year-old son Patrick both testified in the Crown Wednesday. Mrs. Post was unperturbed as she said the 13-man jury she "noticed my son had a record and knew he had been drinking" before the fight.

Patrick told how, when in the group of 10 youths with the accused he heard Duncan arrive at his home. He told how when the police asked why they were leaving the house to go to bed, they were going to search for Drain's missing wallet.

Medical and scientific experts testified O'Leary literally bled to death from severe internal bleeding—and that the rare blood type found on the knife was identical to that in the Post home matched O'Leary's.

'Communists Cannot Rule Forever' Says Bulgar, Training to Be King

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—"Communists cannot rule forever. Despotic governments always fail. Why should this one be an exception? It may be a long time, but in the final judgment the free people will come in the end. When I go back to Bulgaria. And I can wait, for I am young."

Those words came today from Simeon II, 21-year-old exile, as a Soviet satellite since the Red King was deposed.

Simeon is half way through a year of intense training, grooming himself for the day he hopes will be a return to the throne. Or if not that, then some other-than-despot service to his people.

At 21, he is one of the oldest of the last cadets to graduate at Valley Forge Military Academy. He is cramming two years work into one.

He is quick to point out that he is a king in exile, not an ex-king. A regency ruled for him after the Germans killed his father, King Boris, and until the Reds moved in.

In school, he is plain Simeon Ayidal.

His day runs from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., crowded with class periods, drills and hours of study.

"He'll hardly date or dance," one of his instructors declared.

"He shies from girls. You can't get him to relax. Even we see no young so dedicated."

He helps refugees with passports and money problems and find missing relatives. His countrymen, in North America call him king.

Simeon was crowned at the age of five but spent his childhood ousted him. He fled with his mother, two brothers and a sister, Marie Louise, who is married to a Toronto stockbroker.

Fulton Accuses U.S. Of Infringing On Sovereignty

Criticizes Anti-Trust Suit Against Canadians

NEW YORK (CP)—The United States was accused Wednesday night of intolerable interference in the domain of Canadian commerce in its prosecution of anti-trust cases relating to the activities of Canadian companies.

Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton expressed to the anti-trust section of the New York Bar Association Canada's deep and genuine concern over what he described as "the threat to our sovereignty over Canadian commerce."

In his criticisms of anti-trust actions in American courts against a great variety of Canadian firms, Fulton said:

"These cases involve on the part of the United States a more interference, and apparent assertion of a right to interfere, in commercial projects in Canada than is fitting or acceptable between two friendly sovereign countries."

The Canadian cabinet minister meets in Washington today with U.S. Attorney - General William Rogers to discuss a U.S. anti-trust suit charging three manufacturers with conspiracy, through Canadian subsidiaries, to restrain trade in radio and television sets between the two countries.

Fulton said the answer to the problem is not to be found in countries involved standing fast on their own legislation and insisting they are applicable on the basis of strict legalistic interpretation of international law.

He added:

"While we in Canada are genuinely and deeply concerned over the threat to our sovereignty over Canadian resources, and while I wish to make it clear that the Canadian government regards it as a primary obligation to preserve such sovereignty, we share with everyone which is free to feel the last vestige of action.

"We feel that the proper solution to the problem lies in the full realization by United States authorities of the direct and indirect effects of these cases abroad and in restraint in seeking remedies by means or using measures that interfere directly, substantially and deliberately with matters that are essentially matters of Canadian commerce within Canada."

CHANNELS AVAILABLE

"If the United States authorities entertain feelings of concern that practices carried on in Canada are unduly restrictive of international trade, it would appear that this concern should be expressed through the usual channels.

"And I should like to emphasize that we agree that it is entirely entitled to expects us to act in a similar manner should the occasion ever arise in reverse."

Fulton said Canadian patent law provides penalties such as loss of patent protection if the working of a patented invention in Canada is hindered by imports from abroad.

It was "extraordinary" that action could be taken in the U.S. "to force revisions of Canada to do something which may well be contrary to the intent of Canadian law . . . . . ."

Town Decides Starling Time Is for Birds

BRANTFORD (CP) — The post office clock here is going off starling time and back to Standard Time. Starling time is unreliable.

For years the birds have made a habit of perching on the minute hand of the ver-satile timepiece. After the hour their weight speeds up the clock; just before the hour it slows it down.

About every second day too many birds crowd around and the clock stops. Residents have given it up as a reliable guide.

Renovations now are under way and the clock soon will be protected from the starlings by a wire mesh or glass face.

Chrysler Union Accepts Terms Of Company

WINDSOR (CP) — Chrysler of Canada Wednesday ended overwhelmingly to end a seven-day strike in a mass membership meeting held here by the 3,600-member Local 400 United Auto Workers (CLC).

The collective agreement reached Tuesday by union and Chrysler was approved by 92 per cent of the members at the Wednesday meeting.

Shortly after the vote Chrysler issued a statement saying preparations for resuming production would begin today with truck production planning to start Friday morning, and car and engine plants resuming Monday.

The union's Canadian director, George Burt, told the membership meeting that the deal had been reached Sunday in the office of Mayor Michael A. Patrick of Windsor had proven instrumental in achieving the settlement.

It was very similar to agreements signed previously with Ford and General Motors in Canada, calls for six-cent increases in the old basic hourly wage rate for the first year of the three years the contract remains in force. The first increase is retroactive to Sept. 15.

The union had sought a two-year contract but settled for the three - year contract when the company agreed to continue paying the full cost of medical, accident and hospitalization payments. Chrysler had been demanding the workers assume half these costs.

A telegram from relatives had told him Pio, 24, was sick and wanted to see him. What the telegram didn't tell him was that his son was one of four persons killed in a gas explosion in the North York garage Sunday morning.

Relatives couldn't locate Mr. Ferranti at the airport. Realizing a mixup had occurred, a cousin, law returned home, found him, and told him the news of his son's death.

Fire Chief Dies Directing Men

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Fire raged for more than two hours in a fish processing plant here and early today before it was brought under control.

For a time it was feared the flames would break through the line and ammonia storage tanks, but firemen said they appeared to be out of danger.

All citizens had been ordered from the area but one street as the flames seemed to be spreading to the tanks.

The fire chief of nearby Sydney Mines, Lewis J. Jessome, collapsed and died during his men. He was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

The fire was in a plant of Leonard Brothers division of National Sea Products Limited.

Virginia at End Of Legal Line On Segregation

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Governor J. Lindsay Almond Jr. said Wednesday Virginia is at the end of the legal line in attempting to operate a racially-segregated public school system.

He conceded he knew of no other way to turn from the impending admission of Negroes to white schools in Norfolk, Arlington and Charlottesville.

And he proposed in a full-dress speech to the general assembly an emergency session of the Virginia General Assembly a program of transition to a new system in those areas that won't accept integration.

PROPOSES $250 GRANTS

Almond called on the legislature to provide tuition and living grants of up to $250 a pupil for those who decline to attend integrated schools. He coupled this with a call for repeal of the compulsory school attendance law.

He suggested that the legislators act on these stop-gaps to prevent state - owned schools closing and then recess the session while the governor works on a long-range program. This would include consideration of the state constitution's requirement to maintain a free public school system throughout the state.

Meanwhile, a federated judge in Alexandria turned down a request that the Fairfax county school board to delay until next September its order directing the admission of four Negro children to Stratford Junior High School next Monday.

Some Producers Think Hog Support Price Too High, Hurts Family Farm

SASKATOON (CP)—W. Bishop, a director of the Ontario Hog Marketing Board, told the Canadian Federation of Agriculture convention Wednesday that some producers in his province thought the present support price on hogs was too high.

He said these producers had doubts about maintenance of the support price at the present level, in the belief that it gave more help to the large producer rather than the small man on a family farm. Mr. Bishop said the present increased hog volume was coming mainly from the farms under vertical integration.

Despite this contention the federal government was commended for the formula used to set the support price of hogs. It believed that this formula of a yearly support price of not less than 80 per cent of the average price for the previous 10 years, be applied to commodities produced in Western Canada.

The meeting also resolved that a system of deficiency payments to hog producers, in application for the Prince Rupert district, be given serious consideration.

The delegates also called for the shipment of grain through the St. Lawrence Seaway and protested the present plan of toll charges.

Ontario Buys Two Bridges Over Niagara

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has bought the Whirlpool Rapids and Lewiston-Queenston bridges over the Niagara River for $3,560,000 it was announced today.

Labor Minister Charles Daley, chairman of the Niagara Falls Bridge commission, said the commission began operating the bridges Wednesday after completing negotiations with private interests begun in 1953.

The commission also operates the Rainbow bridge which it built in 1940.

Mr. Daley said the purchases marked the first step in a long-range program for construction of a new Queenston-Lewiston toll bridge by Ontario and New York state. When completed the program would offer travelling facilities "superior to that of any community on the international border."

The two bridges purchased by the commission have a combined gross revenue of more than $1,300,000 a year. Price for the Whirlpool bridge was $3,230,000, of the Lewiston-Queenston bridge $430,000.

Brig. Flanigan Receives Notice Of New Posting

Belleville will soon be losing another of its popular Salvation Army officers.

Brigadier Morgan Flanigan, Divisional Commander for the mid-Ontario division, received intimation Tuesday morning from Commissioner Wycliffe Booth, that he will be leaving this area around the middle of February.

Definite word as to the Brigadier's new position is expected to be received within a couple of days.

The genial Brigadier came to Belleville three years ago from Hamilton to assume command of the mid-Ontario division — an area stretching from Gananoque on the east to Whitby on the west, and from Fenelon Falls on the north to Picton on the south.

Salvation Army work in the various towns in the division has progressed under his command. Under his leadership many improvements have been made at the Salvation Army's Bobbin Lake camp, official site of the mid-Ontario headquarters staff said today.

A tireless worker, and an active and popular member of the community, Brig. Flanigan will be missed in many quarters of the city.

An erstwhile member of the Belleville Rotary Club for approximately three years, he was active in the work of various club committees, and was regarded by fellow members as a "sparkling speaker."

Prior to coming to Belleville Brig. Flanigan was Chief Secretary of the Province of Ontario division of Chancellor (second in command) of the southern Ontario Division, with headquarters in Hamilton.

10 YEARS IN ARMY

He has completed over 30 years as a Salvation Army officer. He held many appointments in western Canada before coming to the eastern part of the country.

The Brigadier was a public relations director for the Salvation Army's western Ontario division in London, and Windsor, and for the Toronto division.

He served as chapain for three years with the Canadian Army in Canada, the United Kingdom, and elsewhere, concluding his service with the Canadian Army of Occupation in Germany.

In 1952 he received the distinction of being the Canadian delegate to the International Staff College for Officers in London, England.

He also had the distinction of being the first civilian aboard the S.S Noronic when it burned in Toronto harbor a few years ago, and helping in directing identification of those who perished.

Labor Gets No Big Commitment From Govt

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian organized labor got no big commitments from the federal government in its annual submissions to the cabinet Wednesday.

It rarely does, no 1959 is no exception.

The rule is that the federal cabinet always receives "sympathetic consideration" to the recommendations of the unions and that is the end of groups of labor got this year.

Main promise received Wednesday by representatives of railway unions, was that there will be further consultation on government boards.

On other major submissions, a cabinet spokesman said Prime Minister Diefenbaker was either silent or non-committal.

SEEK MORE LEEWAY

The rail union men's meeting was concentrated largely on parliamentary railway policy and that group emphasized the idea of a stronger transportation policy that would give the rail companies more leeway in meeting competition from highway transport that has been cutting into their business.

They said the railways must be freed from "competitive disabilities" and given a better chance to compete on reasonable and financial positions.

Specifically the unions called for reorganization of the control of interprovincial and international highway traffic.

This has been a ticklish question with federal governments for many years.

Control lies with the federal government, not with every Council decision. But the former Liberal government turned it over to the provinces. The unions are suggesting the central government must use its court-awarded authority, an unlikely move.

SIDESTEPS QUESTIONS

LONDON (CP) — John Profumo, newly appointed undersecretary of state for commonwealth relations, side-stepped a question in the house of Commons Tuesday about Britain's attitude to the question of giving official recognition to the government of Communist China. Asked if he would consult with the Canadian government on the question Profumo said "any decision as to recognition of a foreign government rests with the government of the Commonwealth country concerned."

Turkey Industry Outlook Poor

HAMILTON (CP)—The outlook for the turkey industry is not promising for this year, A. D. Davey, chief of the federal poultry market service at Ottawa, told the Ontario Turkey Association's annual meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Davey said that despite numerous warnings the industry had increased production drastically. He said storage stock of turkeys was 50 per cent greater than last year. Tied to this was an increase in the number of poults.

The association unanimously endorsed a plan to institute a compulsory checkoff to raise funds for the organization and to promote the sale of turkeys. A cent a poult will be levied at the processors' level.

80 Per Cent of Total Visits By V.O.N. for Nursing Care

The Belleville branch of the Victoria Order of Nurses made a total of 3,020 visits of 478 patients during the past year.

This was revealed in the annual nurse's report given by Miss Gertrude Conner at the annual meeting of the V.O.N. Tuesday night at the Hotel Quinte.

Miss Conner stated this is an increase of two patients and 327 visits over 1957 totals.

She reported 80 per cent of the total visits made in 1958 were nursing visits as compared with 77 per-cent of the total visits in 1957, making an increase of 309 nursing care visits last year. The remaining 978 visits were home service visits to members, babies and children.

Patients with medical and surgical conditions, convalescent patients, chronically ill, and aged accounted for 78 per cent of the visits an 41 per cent of the patients.

"Chronic illness continues to be a major problem", she stated. "It is indicative of the trend of the times that 31 per cent of the patients cared for in 1958, and 39 per cent of the total visits made, were to patients over 65 years of age."

Although mothers and babies' cases accounted for 45 per cent of the total number of cases last year, they accounted for only 17 per cent of the total number of visits, she said. She explained modern trends in the care of maternity patients was responsible for the reduced number of visits by enabling the mothers to care for their infants sooner than formerly.

AVAILABLE TO ALL

"Through the Victorian Order part-time professional nursing care is available to everyone in the community at a moderate cost," she said. She explained the fee charged for nursing care is based on the actual cost of the average visit, but is adjustable to suit the financial circumstances of the family. If the patient is unable to pay, care is given free.

The report showed only 16 per cent of the visits were paid for in full, 43 per cent were paid at a reduced rate, and 39 per cent were made without charge.

"The V.O.N. is part of the total community health program, and works in co-operation with other health and social agencies," Miss Conner stated, in explaining the local branch last year assisted the local Department of Health at 31 weekly child health conferences at the Kiwanis Centre. In addition in the V.O.N. provided school nursing service to Holy Rosary and Cannifton — Corbyville schools, and serviced the Belleville Department of Health prior to annexation.

Miss Conner disclosed the V.O.N. also assists the student-nurse training program given at Belleville General Hospital by allowing students to observe V.O.N. visits and in addition assists in training nurses in public health nursing. Last year the Belleville branch provided field experience for three post-graduate students in public health nursing.

In tracing the history of the national V.O.N. which was organized 61 years ago, Miss Conner noted the local branch was organized in 1924 through the efforts of the Kiwanis Club. From a one-nurse branch the staff has increased to three full-time nurses and one relief nurse.

She stated the V.O.N. serves the city and a three-mile radius of the city limits, and since January 1st, the area has been extended to include Point Anne.

In her report, Miss Connor expressed appreciation to those who assisted the local branch of the V.O.N. in carrying out their work, to the members of the local branch, and to her co-lleagues. She particularly commended Miss Connor on the registry which gives the V.O.N. 24-hour telephone answering service.

Union Reaches New Agreement With Ferguson

TORONTO (CP)—Massey-Ferguson Limited today announced agreement with the United Auto Workers (CIO) has been reached on all matters in dispute including wages, about 12 hours before tonight's strike deadline.

A company official said a detailed announcement of the settlement was to be made later today after wording of the new agreement has been settled.

Nearly 6,000 workers at plants in Brantford, Woodstock and Toronto were ready to walk out the job if union demands were not met.

Nearly 200 non-monetary issues were settled in negotiations during the last week but the breakup had been reported in the vital wage questions.

WEEK $1.55 RATE

The union has not announced any change in its demand for a 31-cent hourly increase to raise the basic labor rate to $1.85 an hour, plus higher shadow and supplementary employment benefits and a job evaluation plan to provide a 10-cent hourly premium between job classes.

The farm implement firm said Wednesday it had offered a three-year agreement providing three annual wage increases.

Skilled tradesmen would get increases totalling 26 cents an hour in the contract period and non-skilled men 24 cents or 16 cents. Higher pensions and supplementary benefits were included but the amount of these was not announced.

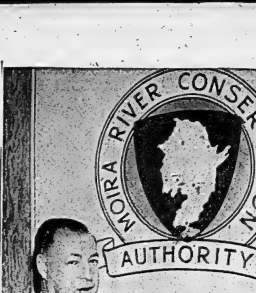
Temporary Zoning By-Law Ready for Council Feb .9

A temporary zoning by – law covering the newly annexed area is expected to be ready for consideration by city council for their Feb. 9th committee meeting.



Alderman Leslie Higby, chairman of the city council planning committee, noted today that at a planning committee meeting held Wednesday evening the material for the proposed temporary zoning by-law was agreed upon and will be forwarded to the city solicitor for preparation in by-law form.

Following approval by council the by-law material will be available at city hall for checking by interested persons from the annexed area. Also as a means of ironing out any complaints before the by-law goes to the municipal board for approval at least two public meetings will be held to allow residents to voice complaints.

Also before approval is given by the municipal board a public meeting will be called by the city council.

Likewise in course of preparation is a final land use plan for the entire city which is to be followed by a final zoning by-law covering the entire city area.

Mr. A. H. Richardson (right) chief engineer of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, congratulates Bruce Smith, on re-election to his sixth term as chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority at annual meeting yesterday. New crest for the Authority outlining Moira watershed is seen in the background.

Bruce H. Smith Chairman Of Authority for Sixth Term

Bruce H. Smith of Belleville was re-elected chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority at its annual general meeting held Wednesday afternoon in the Thurlow township hall at Foxboro. Mr. Bruce Smith's sixth term as chairman of the Authority.

Vice chairman Earl Sager, reeve of Madoc township, was also re-elected while secretary-treasurer Michael Chubb, field officer for the Authority, will also hold the position for 1932.

The meeting saw a total budget of $39,065.84 set for the year's work, of which $13,470 will be raised by municipal levy with the remainder to be matched by provincial grant. Balance of this year's budget will be made up from a bank loan. Provincial winter works grant amounting to $14,490.

The year's requirement for all phases of conservation work in the Authority is up from last year with the municipal levy also being increased — the first time since the inauguration of the Authority.

Mr. A. H. Richardson, chief conservation engineer for the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, presided over the election of officers and speaking generally on conservation matters told his listeners that no one had foreseen the growth of the conservation authority movement when it was inaugurated:

SEE NEW AUTHORITIES

Terming it truly a "people's movement," Mr. Richardson said that six new authorities had come into being last year, the total in the province now being 23.

Referring specifically to the recently formed Crowe River Authority, which will hold its inaugural meeting on February 8th, Mr. Richardson said he did not know just what was in the program but assured that "we will do something to get you started."

The speaker said keen interest had been shown by Authorities in expanding the reforestation parks program, noting that this worked in well with conservation projects. The Western Ontario much work had been done by Authorities in protection of river banks against erosion.

He called for greater distribution of the Planning and Development Department publication "Our Valley" which outlines the latest activities being carried on by river authorities across the province. He recommended that a copy of the publication should be in every school.

Mr. Richardson touched briefly on the proposed College Street ice control dam which has been held up due to lack of federal financial support. He noted that no word has as yet been received from the Federal government following the request of the Moira Authority and two other Western Ontario authorities for federal participation in dam projects.

CAN USE AREA

The meeting saw approval of an agreement between the Authority and the Belleville Boy Scout Association which will give Scouts use of the Col. Wilderwater Conservation Area at Thomasburg for Scouting activities. Addressing the meeting and expressing appreciation to the Authority was Mr. P. L. Allen, local Scout commissioner.

The 1959 executive of the Authority includes the chairman and vice-chairman, together with chairmen of the various advisory boards.

These men are: Reforestation, T. C. Graham; Water Control, George Wishart; Conservation Areas, Leslie McLaren; Public Education and Publicity, Cecil Ketcheson; Soil and Water, Bernard J. Hunt.

Mr. Chubb noted that a winter works program at the Col. Wilderwater Conservation Area had been temporarily held up due to weather and snow conditions. Planned for this area was brushing, repairing of fences, planting, etc., and 2,200 trees and construction of an access road.

ONLY TROUT LAKE

Mr. A. E. Northey of Northbrook, Authority representative from Kaladar, Anglesea and Effingham townships, requested investigation on the possibility of constructing a dam on Wolf Creek which he said would more than double the size of Joe Perry Lake, the only trout lake left in the area.

Development of the proposed pioneer village and museum at the Prince Conservation Area at Actinolite seems at least temporarily out with a communication being received from the Hastings County Historical Society indicating the Society was not financially able to undertake the development and maintenance of the pioneer village.

At the October meeting Authority members had voted to take no action on development of the museum but left the way open for the Historical Society to take on the project and maintain it.

Authority representatives from participating municipalities are as follows:

Many Buyers Believe Steel Strike Coming

NEW YORK (AP)—The drive to rebuild steel inventories is turning into a stampede, according to Iron Age, national metalworking weekly.

The publication says steel users are ordering steel for second-quarter delivery and at the same time placing orders for the first quarter.

The metalworking weekly says that of 31 major steel buyers polled on the steel labor outlook, all but three believe a strike is sure to come. The consensus is that it will last four to 12 weeks.

"There is also practically no doubt among steel buyers that higher prices will follow on the heels of a new steel labor contract," Iron Age says. "Estimates vary from $4 to $10 a ton." ning the station.

Holstein Sales Reached Record Levels in Year

TORONTO (CP) — Registrations and transfers of ownership of Holstein cattle in Canada reached record levels during the last year, the annual meeting of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada was told Wednesday. James A. Brown of Brockville, retiring president, said all departments showed substantial increases resulting in a record total production.

"We can expect an increase over the 1958 levels of our traditional export items to the United States including cattle," said Mr. Brown.

Directors approved higher type and production standards for dams of bulls. A bull now may be registered only if its dam has a record for milk and fat equal to the average of the breed and with a type rating of good-plus or better.

Resolutions passed request federal and provincial agricultural departments to provide for testing calf vaccination to control brucellosis and the employment of qualified helpers other than veterinarians to take blood samples to speed up the eradication campaign.

Association Secretary G. M. Clemens of Brantford reported membership at a record 12,917 of whom 9,000 were in Ontario. Registration certificates for 89,100 animals were issued, an increase of 4.5 per cent over 1958 and a record figure. Bull registrations were 15 per cent higher than last year.

Sam Rathwell of Cavan, Ont., and James A. McCague of Alliston, were elected directors. Fourteen Ontario directors with the exception of Ivan Thompson of Seeleys Bay, who retired, were re-elected.

Master breeder shields were presented to, among others, Norman Paul, Almonte, Mr. Rathwell, and Albert Wedrick, Nanticoke, Ont.

Plan New Radar Warning Station

OTTAWA (CP) — A new radar warning station likely will be constructed at Churchill, Man., area on the south shore of James Bay, it was learned today.

Informants said it will be one of several such stations planned to strengthen and widen the established Pinetree radar air warning system, running across the country just north of the Canada-United States border.

Some 100 new houses will be constructed in the Moosonee area for RCAF personnel manning the station.

Three Dogs, Two Cats Killed After Tangle With Fox

TRENTON — A double visit by what was believed to be a rabid fox spelt death for three dogs and two cats at the home of Matt Quinn in nearby Carrying Place at midnight Tuesday.

The sick fox unfortunately got away but is is believed it was so far gone that it would crawl in a hole somewhere and die from the disease which had maddened it.

The episode apparently started early in the evening when the fox came into the yard and started to fight with the dogs. The Quinn boys hearing the noises outside grabbed their guns and went out but the fox managed to get across the road and out of sight.

It came back later however and getting into the shed at the rear of the house killed a small puppy three cats which turned to the darkness of the other side of the road and the open fields.

On finding the dead puppy the Quinns also noted that it had been badly mauled and a large amount of froth believed to be from the fox's mouth covered the pup and the box in which it was sleeping.

It was then decided it was best to destroy the other animals which had been in contact with the rabid fox earlier in the evening rather than to take a chance on having the animals go mad themselves and spread the disease further, either to animals or humans.

H&S Club Holds Social Evening

TRENTON — Members of the Queen Elizabeth School Home and School Club enjoyed a social evening on January meeting, which was held yesterday evening in the school auditorium.

Mrs. C. E. Bull, president, welcomed the members, who came to the meeting in spite of the prevailing cold weather.

I.O.O.F. Founder Honored by Lodge Members

TRENTON—About 100 members and friends of Lodge 113, I.O.O.F. Trenton, gathered to celebrate Thomas Wildey night in their lodge rooms on Elgin Street last night.

Thomas Wildey was the founder of the IOOF in North America with the first lodge opening in the United States some 140 years ago and each year, some time during the month of January, all lodges of both the U.S. and Canada remember the founder in an evening of speeches and entertainment.

Last night the local lodge gathered for a supper prepared and served by the Rebekahs in the lodge room and later heard of the life of their founder from Nancy Mawson of Trenton. Noble Grand E. Todd and Mayor Ross Burtt also spoke briefly. The Noble Grand welcomed the guests and introduced the various people present.

The highlight of the evening was the presenting of a 35-year jewel to James Thow on Trenton by the Noble Grand, who also presented other jewels to members of the lodge.

Entertainment took the form of music and song and following this the meeting broke up. Mrs. Sylvia Hadley is Noble Grand of the Rebekah Lodge.

Discussion on a possible fund raising effort this year terminated in a decision to organize another "Variety Night" sometime in the early part of May, as it was felt that forthcoming expenses might necessitate some extra funds.

Keen euchre players then sat down to the tables and making some of the prizes, which were particularly useful ash tray in unusual design made and donated by Walter Smith. Other donations were Wally Bellamy, C. J. Heaslip and Mrs. Bull.

Gentlemen's first prize went to Mr. Bedford, with Charles Capern winning the second prize. Mrs. V. Bilgh was the ladies' first prize winner, with Mrs. N. Fairman second. Mrs. E.R. SNOW REMOVAL PROBLEMS

The other day The Canadian Press reported that the Waterloo, Ont., Council has decided to investigate the cost of snowplowing that city's sidewalks.

At a time when many Belleville residents are complaining about the condition of the streets and sidewalks here, this will come as a timely reminder that the residents of many other municipalities would consider themselves fortunate if they were as well served as we are.

This does not mean that there are not grounds for some criticism of conditions here, but this criticism ought not to ignore the nature of the problems involved.

We think, for instance, that the complaints about road plows plugging driveways, while perhaps understandable, are not realistic. We cannot conceive of any way in which a snowplow could be operated without pushing snow off the road into driveways, and we shudder to think of the extra expense which would be involved in having the city clear driveways, either through afterwiling or by the provision of jeep plow.

Having had some experience in the Ontario snowbelt, we can only say that those residents who now object to having to shovel out driveways, or a path to the street through snow packed by plows, are fortunate that this snow has not been deepened by a blower. They would find it packed twice as hard.

A snowblower, incidentally, would certainly improve the speed with which streets are cleared. It would be particularly valuable in speeding the loading of trucks when the works department gets around to clearing away snow pushed to the side of the street after big snowstorms. Skilfully operated, a snowblower could be utilized on top of the streets as the annexed areas without plugging up tediously shovelled private lanes and sidewalks. A snowblower, however, is an expensive piece of equipment. There are some cities, where snowfall is heavy, which find them essential. It is questionable whether the average snowfall here is heavy enough to justify such an outlay.

In our opinion there are two things which could be done to improve the condition of the sidewalks here, but we doubt whether these measures would meet with universal approval. These are the strict enforcement, with fines if necessary, of regulations which would require the prompt clearing by owners of sidewalks in front of property in the business area, and the prohibition of the shovelling of snow from public sidewalks in the residential areas. Snowplows do not do an adequate job in the business section and if shovels are to be wielded property owners should be responsible -- they could, if they desired, arrange to delegate such responsibility to tenants. In residential areas, on the other hand, if some property owners shovel the sidewalks bare, while others leave the job for the city-operated plows, the result is a succession of hills and valleys, resulting in unpleasant ponds after a thaw and treacherous miniature skating rinks following a freeze-up.

TURN DOWN FEDERAL AID

We see by an article in the Montreal Gazette that Quebec universities are eligible for federal assistance grants of $7,326,000. Under the present situation with M. Duplessis at the helm of the Quebec provincial legislature, and Quebec politics, the universities are not allowed to accept these federal grants. M. Duplessis has taxed the Quebec residents for moneys to allow the Quebec government to give university grants at its "discretion."

Presumably the reason for all this autonomous uproar was because M. Duplessis did not want government interference in the educational institutions and they might have satisfied any misgiving which the Quebec resident might have but the attitude seems somewhat incredible to the outsider. Quebec is not noted as an extremely wealthy province but it manages to raise enough money to allow its premier to dole out an amount almost equal to what the federal government would provide. It would seem that with the great need for more and more educated young men and women these days that the combined provincial and federal grants would allow Quebec institutions to really meet the challenge of providing the best possible facilities and space to accommodate their students.

Another aspect also comes to mind. Although the argument a la Duplessis is that there should be no obligation of Quebec's universities to the federal government, actually there isn't. The federal gifts are outright with no strings attached.

HIS TWO DECEIVERS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

She's begging for another dress,
She wants a new hat, too;
She throws her arms about my
And whispers: "I love you."
But well I know this burst of
Is but one of her tricks;
And well I know the game she plays
Although she's only six.

For one of tender age, she has
Mysterious ways and wiles;
She knows the value of a kiss,
The worth of all her smiles.

She's like her mother every bit,
She has her mother's tricks;
It is surprising what she knows
For one who's only six.

"I love you, daddy," baby says;
Her mother says the same;
They weave a spell about my head,
Although they play a game.
And though she's only six,
this,
Or, s'help me, the price of that,
She's just to feel their warm embrace
I'd always give a hat.

Are Cars Made For Florida?

Vancouver Province

In the two snowfalls of recent weeks, not a few drivers must have looked at their cars with a rather jaundiced eye and a suspicion that the engineers all lived in Florida or Southern California.

Granted it not be possible to reconcile style with rear-wheel cut-outs big enough to make snow appliances of chains easier?

Why do so few cars offer one of the most useful of all gadgets for those temporarily locking the differential, so that one wheel does not spin in snow, slush or mud while the other stays still?

Couldn't somebody invent a truly waterproof — and inexpensive freezing-proof — trunk lock?

How about a defrosting duct and even a wiper for the rear window?

And why are some fresh-air intakes still put where low, exhaust-filled traffic lam you breathe the poisonous exhaust of the car in front?

Motorists in the more frigid interior will probably have some further gripes about both basic design and optional equipment.

Some of them will certainly look back with nostalgia to the old Model A Ford, which had four of the real essentials of a snow-country car: good ground clearance, good traction, good ventilation, an engine which delivered its power at low speed and accessible wheels.

They Could Wear Policy

Montgomery Advertiser

In Chicago thieves are carrying away mink coats at the rate of more than $100,000 worth a week.

So likely is it that a mink will be stolen, in fact, Lloyds of London has refused to insure any Chicago mink owners $5 for coats worth more than $1,000 worth of fur theft insurance.

Thus the famous insurance company is willing to risk 79 to 1 that a fur piece or coat won't be stolen. The man stealing the mink has the influence of the city but not for the honesty of the people, nor the efficiency of the police force.

If the thefts continue to increase as they have in a few years the insurance will cost more than the coats. Since mink's principal appeal is as a status symbol to proclaim the prosperity of the wearer, perhaps Chicago's ladies will one day wear the insurance-policy and leave the fur in the vault.

Museum 200 Years Old

Stratford Beacon-Herald

This month, the British Museum in London claims its 200th anniversary, having first been opened to the public for a small fee in January, 1759. It was originally chiefly a collection of books left behind by Sir Hans Sloane, a Scottish physician, naturalist and collector of all kinds of things, who died in 1753 and bequeathed to the nation 50,000 books, 3,566 coins and medals, 20,000 natural history specimens and a great variety of other things on condition that Parliament pay his executors £20,000 — more than the value of the collections.

It is not surprising that the biggest room in the Museum is the Egyptian Index. It is vast, circular, domed room, the second widest in the world, being only a few inches narrower than the Pantheon in Rome. It contains an estimated 6,000,000 or more books, but nobody has really counted them. The catalogue comprises some 1,000 volumes, and it is estimated there are 80 miles of shelves. When authors and other persons seek data for material for a book or the warship Victory which Admiral Lord Nelson commanded at the Battle of Trafalgar, and of the collection of Egyptian mummies.

Pays Same, Eats Better

CFA Bulletin

It is an interesting fact that today's consumers spend about the same amount of their earnings on food, as their parents did. A generation ago, the average family spent 25% of its income on food. Today, the average family also spends 25% of its income on food, and it gets much more in return. As a matter of fact, we are told that if today's families were to get on with the diets of a generation ago, this could be bought with but 10% of the income.

In 1929, an hour's take-home pay of a factory worker would buy 1 1-2 loaves of bread, or 3 1-2 quarts of milk. Today, one hour's pay will buy 10 loaves of bread, or 7 1-2 quarts of milk. This is true in almost all of our foods, fruit, chicken, cereal, oranges, canned goods, an hour's work buys just twice as much food as a generation ago.

This is largely due to the fact that today's farmers are much more efficient. They are more efficient in producing food products, and they are more efficient in marketing. Output per man-hour on the farm has more than doubled in the last 25 years, and production per hire, per animal unit, has gone up more than 20%. At one time nine out of every 10 people worked to feed production. Today, one farmer produces enough for himself and 20 other people.

It is a paradox, but farmers as a group who have been so very efficient have been actually the real gains of it's efficiency. In fact, in the past few years, particularly the last few years, farm incomes have either dropped or remained static. Efficiency have watched the pay checks of grocery workers increase. Farmers have been so efficient that they have created surpluses, which have actually penalized those producers, and made cheaper food for consumers.

Penny Loses Popularity

Fort William Times - Journal

The British penny may become to a sad end. Dr.sc.hed by the meanings of the price of coinage since Roman times, the lowly penny is rapidly losing its popularity. The Royal Mint spokesman hints that a new issue will not be required this year. The reason? Partly because of its reduced purchasing power.

This is not to say that it is getting difficult to pick up a penny in Britain. Over 41 Million people estimate there are still 1,520,000,000 pennies in circulation.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIVE AND LET LIVE

How much happier we would be if we spent less time hunting for the faults of others or trying to make them over from what they are, or were meant to be, and more time in self-betterment. We are each unique. How much better to hunt out the good in another and try to make them our own.

I love my friends but I have no desire to change them from what they are. I have learned that the more I do to make a friend appreciate himself, the happier I turn out to be. Keeping friends is a simple process — just love them at their best.

Friends are essential to our growth and happiness. They make the pleasant seem endless. "Live and let live" and we can be assured of long, healthy and happy existence. In other words — success in the "grand manner".

We talk about the "assets" we have, but our greatest assets are the friends we possess, especially the ones we keep! They are our greatest asset in social life. Their dividends are declared oftener than any other type in this world. And none so liberal. They nourish our Soul!

The time for appreciation is now in our side is early youth. We then get that precious assurance that we carry with us throughout life, or indeed until the most ultimate of society leaves the stage to others, leaving only memories behind—memories that are so poignant as the last "stories" of a sainted Mother.

It has been written about Henry James, the father of William James and "Henry Junior's was", that father 'chose the best men of mind and heart for companions".

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

THERE ARE DIFFERENT KINDS OF HEART TROUBLE

"Dear Dr. Molner: When there is any article relating to the heart, there is always but one theme — a coronary. Then there is always a mention of high blood pressure. In any case, doctors say blood pressure is satisfactory but the trouble is a valve that does not work properly. Mine frequently goes floppety-flop-floppity flop for hours at a time. It reminds me of a loose cover on a kettle of boiling water being bounced by steam. Could you write an article on that? Incidentally I am within a couple of years of four score. — H. C."

Against my better judgment, I'm using your letter because between us we can get some things cleared up.

The reason I am doubtful about your letter is your statement that "there is always mention of high blood pressure." This just isn't so.

However, the rest of your letter is very interesting.

There are different kinds of heart ailments. One is the well-known coronary — meaning a "coronary occlusion", or shutting off of the blood supply to the muscle which makes the heart work.

Another category of heart disease, and not as frequent, is damage to one valve or to the four major valves in the pumping system.

The one type has relatively little to do with the other. The connection, as I have said, is remote. So for all practical purposes, regard them as being entirely separate.

A coronary occurs when a clot or similar obstruction occurs in the artery for some branch of it which energizes the "coronary muscle" or heart muscle. It isn't a matter of high blood pressure. Rather, it is a combination of hardening of the arteries plus the presence of a clot which is large enough to block it.

True, hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure frequently, and perhaps usually, go together. The hardening is because the high blood pressure. But that's the story.

A DEFECTIVE VALVE

On the other hand, you can have perfectly moderate blood pressure, and no hardening at all, and yet have a defective valve in the heart. For one example, this can occur with some types of "blue babies".

You have a faulty valve that makes your heart go floppety-flop. You are able to live with it. Your heart has done a pretty good job. And, even with the creaky valve, it keeps on doing so.

I suspect that you're worried about a coronary attack. If I were you, I'd forget it. Don't you agree?

"Dear Dr. Molner: Does the Adam's Apple change its size? I have the impression that it protrudes more in times of physical or mental stress, then after some weeks is normal again. Is there any real function for it? — E. E. S."

In an adult the Adam's Apple does not change its size. It is a thyroid cartilage, serving as a protection for structures in the neck. Any seeming change in size is merely due to muscle tenseness, or loss of flesh because of general loss of weight.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son who is 11 months old started chewing his lower lip when he first started teething. He has two lower teeth now and still chews his lip. Is this just a habit or what? I have tried to stop him from doing it. Will this affect his teeth? — W. A. M."

Lip chewing is a habit. The little fellow has discovered this part of his anatomy. Like most of the odd little behavior patterns of this age, he less attention you pay to it, the better it he bites himself and it hurts, he will stop. It won't hurt his teeth.

Panic Makes Drivers Flee

Chicago Daily News

Panic as we know, can be more dangerous than the danger it is fleeing from. This is true in fires — but it is true in hit-and-run auto accidents.

Most motorists are not cruel or cold-blooded. But they are frightened of the consequences before the hardships that are their fault. They flee from the scene in a panic of anxiety, and not because they are indifferent to human suffering.

Every motorist should make it clear to the motoring public that sympathy and fair treatment will be given to every motorist who accidentally strikes down a pedestrian. American law, be it said, always gets the benefit of the doubt.

Hit-and-run drivers are not as much despicable characters as are pathetic victims of their own frantic fears. In seeking to escape, they plunge themselves into the deepest of tragedies. Motorists must constantly remind themselves that facing the music is the fastest and cleanest way of getting out of a sudden catastrophe.

BRING LIFE INTO FOCUS

Some people never seem to get along very well in life because they lack something. It might call this "something" tact, gumption, common sense. People may possess it, they practically everything in the way of character, diligence and resolute purpose, yet they are never popular. They never make the grade socially, in business-wise.

The Bible has an apt expression which probably furnishes the key to a situation such as that. It speaks of "beholding wisely." Many Biblical characters are said to have behaved wisely — not just properly or righteously, but wisely. They not only did the right thing, they did the right thing at the right time and in the right way. They were wise and discerning — not only in what they did but in the way they did it and when they did it.

That thing called wisdom is rare indeed. It cannot be equated with book learning. It is something vastly more than the experience one may have accumulated over the years. It is something about it which appears to be God-given. If you are wondering why things have not gone with you as well as they might, ask yourself whether or not you have "behaved wisely." Have you behaved wisely in business? Is there unhappiness in your home because you have not behaved wisely? Do you behave wisely with reference to those whom you meet in business and social circles?

Behave you, but behave wisely. The how of it is mighty important.

Four hands reach out for the Carling's Red Cap Award for the winner of last Sunday's auto rally put on by Doug Fraser (right) of the Belleville Chapter of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club. The situation is being resolved with the presentation of identical mugs to each winner.

Goose Gosselin Joins Macs Goegan Goes to North Bay

BULLETIN

At noon today Billy Reay confirmed Gosselin's decision to go overseas.

NORTH BAY (CP) — Left winger George (Goose) Gosselin of North Bay Trappers will join Belleville McFarlands Friday and accompany the team to Europe and the world hockey tournament in Czechoslovakia.

The announcement was made at Belleville by assistant general manager Billy Reay and confirmed by general manager Drury Denyes in Toronto Wednesday night.

Ex-Trapper Fiori Goegan will replace Gosselin in North Bay, Denyes said.

Belleville plays in the Eastern division of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series and North Bay in the OHA-Northern Ontario Hockey Association series.

Gosselin was a member of Whitby Dunlops when they won the world championship at Oslo last year.

Goegan played at one time for the Louisville Rebels of the International League and NOHA teams.

North Bay manager Pete Palangio said he was unhappy at the prospect of losing Gosselin but would not stand in the way of the left winger making the trip.

Earlier Gosselin said he wouldn't join Belleville unless North Bay was given two players in exchange for his services. He also complained that Belleville officials had not talked to him about preparations for the trip.

FOURTH ADDITION

Gosselin is the fourth addition to McFarlands in the last few days. Others are Billy Graham of the Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, Denis Boucher of Cornwall Chevies and Gordon (Red) Berenson, 20-year-old centre now at the University of Michigan.

Berenson played last season with Regina Pats of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League and is rated as a professional prospect with the Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Johnny Albani, formerly of Sudbury Wolves of the OHA-NOHA and Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League will join McFarlands in Prague March 5 as a spare goaltender.

The Macs are scheduled to leave Sunday by plane for Europe to play exhibition games prior to the world tournament March 5-15.

Toronto Mystery Death Probed

TORONTO (CP) — The police homicide squad is investigating the mystery death Wednesday night of Barry Charles Brown, 22, in a garage on Queen Street West.

A police guard was placed on the garage after discovery of the body at 7:30 p.m.

Neighbors said Brown's body was found in a car. The door was open but the motor wasn't running, nor was the car's ignition key on.

An autopsy has been ordered.

Doug Phippen New Chairman Of Auto Club

Plans for the establishment of the Belleville Chapter of the St. concluded yesterday evening. A Lawrence Automobile Club were meeting of Belleville and district enthusiasts and the president of the St. Lawrence Automobile Club (St. LAC), James McCay of Kingston, resulted in arrangements being made for the Belleville group to become an official chapter on March 1st next, the beginning of the club's fiscal year.

An executive for the Belleville chapter was elected. They will take office officiate on the first of March. The chairman will then become a director of the parent body, which is an incorporated organization, and will have the powers normally incumbent with the club president so far as meetings of the Belleville chapter are concerned.

The executive-elect consists of Doug Phippen, chairman, Pat Percy, corresponding secretary, Doug Fraser, competitions director, and James Van Vliet, assistant to the competitions director.

Plans for the future activities of the club were discussed. It was proposed that an integrated schedule of club events such as rallies, driving skill tests, and navigational exercises be set up with the Kingston group. The suggestion that all events start in Napanee and end in the home city of the organizing group found favor with those present.

A synopsis of last Sunday's rally was given by its organizer, Mr. Fraser. Unfortunately four persons were tied in first place which presented some difficulty in awarding the trophy. Mr. E. J. "Al" Hardy announced that each winner would receive a Carling Red Cap Award in view of the extenuating circumstances.

The next meeting of the Belleville chapter will be February 25th. The members are presently looking for a regular meeting place. The monthly meetings will be held the fourth Wednesday of each month. This will allow members to attend meetings every two weeks if they so desire, since the Kingston group meets the second Wednesday of the month.

Girls Ask Aid To Get Through Iron Curtain

HAMILTON (CP) — Wanted: six gallant knights to help six damsels through the Iron Curtain.

The women, three Polish and three Yugoslavian, hppersantly regard marriage as the best way to get to Canada.

Mrs. Helen Krol received a letter from Kazimiera Spowskaw, 20, of Janowlubelski, Poland, saying she and friends, Wanda Futawiza, 23, and Maria Kosteczko, 33, would love to marry Canadians.

The girls are respectively, a blonde factory worker with a chemical engineering degree; a brunette secretary, and a dark-haired nurse.

The three Yugoslavs sent a detailed advertisement to a newspaper.

Sanovic Ljubica, 19, wrote she was tall and "well-built" and wants a man about 26 years old.

Yoi Piroska, 23, says she is tall and slim and also wants a man of about 30. Savanovic Evica, 34, said only that she is brunette and would like a 40-year-old man.

They gave their address as Sombor, Jojsodonska Br. 10, Yugoslavia.

Canadian immigration policies and those of Poland and Yugoslavian leave marriage the only way the girls can emigrate. They need an engagement ring and documentary proof of honorable intentions.

Sale of Vancouver Home Marks Passing of an Era

The house, with an estimated replacement value of $150,000, though it was built for $18,000 in 1912, was sold for $52,500 to A. Macdonald Robertson, president of the English Shop.

It was the Shaughnessy home of Mrs. Marion D. Laing, one of Vancouver's best-known hostesses of the 1920s and 1930s, when the Shaughnessy Heights district was among the city's most fashionable.

The 14-room stucco structure contains seven bathrooms, four fireplaces, some with Tiffany mosaic tiles, a renovated gas stove with 600 - serving capacity, and circular covered driveway, all on a one-acre plot.

GOLDEN ERA

The era that ended had its golden period in Vancouver between the First and Second World Wars.

It was the final fling of "comfortable" garden parties for 600, complete with wine punch and string ensemble; of "pink tea" where the gardens and the best guests' dishes all matched; and of old family retainers.

Mrs. Laing was the chatelaine of the house until five years ago when she became too ill to entertain. She died last November.

Mah Wing, the Chinese cook who stayed with Mrs. Laing through 43 years of parties, whose home was in the basement, was a forlorn figure as curious buyers wandered through the ornate rooms.

The visitors inspected auction tags hanging from such items as a Louis XV table and a Dresden china mirror, and fine editions of books.

FOND MEMORIES

He remembered Mrs. Laing as "a pretty young woman" when she first came to her, almost direct from Canton, in 1924. He remembered the garden parties and the house decked in Christmas as it was in the 1920s when tourists came from everywhere to see Mrs. Laing's house.

She was still Mrs. Foster Hunting then. In the 1930s, widowed, she was married to George F. Laing, former manager of the Bank of Montreal branch here. He died in 1935.

In the happy days, there were not only Wing and a chauffeur and housekeeper, but a housemaid, parlormaid and gardener, and lots of extra help and special caterers for big parties.

Mah Wing remembers those days, but he won't talk of them.

"I can't stand you to ask me about these things," he says, and his eyes turn away. He will go soon to cook for former Lieutenant-Governor Charles Banks.

Director Wages 1-Woman War Against Communism

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A one-woman war against communism is being waged by Marjorie Lamb, director of The Alert Service. The organization gathers information about the policies and operations of communism.

Miss Lamb formerly was president of Altrusa International, Inc., an association for executive and professional women.

Financed by grants from organizations like the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, the Catholic Women's League and individual donations, Miss Lamb combs through magazines, pamphlets and newspapers to find organizations that are a cover for communism.

MISS LAMB SPEAKS

From her information she is able to say just which Canadian organizations are "Communist-front" groups, those that are controlled by Communists and those that include Communists.

"Communists are very active in Canada—there are 700 that we know of in Toronto alone," she said. "They are infiltrating into local councils, school boards, even women's church groups."

They work under the control of Russia and they are bent on making Canada a Communist country like it.

Red-haired Miss Lamb first became interested in combatting communism in 1926 when she was studying at the Sorbonne in Paris.

A trained interior decorator she has worked in a munitions factory and as a secretary. After the war she took on the job of studying Communist organizations and their activities for a group of businessmen. The Alert Service grew out of that and was established in 1950.

STUDY NECESSARY

"We must study Communists to fight them successfully," said Miss Lamb who was president of Altrusa International from 1955 to 1957. She writes pamphlets about Communist operations in Canada.

Before joining an organization, she says, Canadians should make sure it is not a Communist-front group or is controlled by Communists. They should be certain the election candidate they vote for is not connected with such groups, and should beware of "disruptive persons who try to stir up trouble."

"Communists will often back a good cause—such as better housing or better sewers and can make political capital from it," she said. "The only way to fight this is to see that democratic groups espouse the good causes first."

She says Communists thrive on apathy, especially the type of apathy that enables them to become active in otherwise innocent organizations.

Parents should examine even the summer camps to which their children go.

"Communist-front groups have held summer camps for youngsters—and taken advantage of the opportunity for indoctrination," she said.

This was won by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ellis. The tables were then joined together and the bountiful lunch was served by the WI members.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Debbie F. — His brother is trying to burn me.

Howard F. — I can't refuse to contribute to my mother's support.

Debbie F. — My husband and I have been married three years and have no children yet, but we are planning to have a family. I am working and I have been working for the past six years.

My husband's brother is a bachelor and has been very successful in business. He has always disliked me, and I think he is trying to hurt me by suddenly demanding that my husband contribute half to the support of their widowed mother. He has been able to support her on his own in the past without making the smallest cut in his luxurious style of living.

If I weren't working we would have no savings at all, and the cut in my husband's income for his mother's support would be serious. I feel that his brother has no right to take my hard-earned money for the support of my mother-in-law.

Howard F. — Debbie is right in one respect. My brother seems to be out to make life difficult for me ever since I got married. He has been hinting around for some time about this support business although in the past he never mentioned it. Fred could easily support three mothers and still live well on his income — with no family to think about.

On the other hand, I'm in no position to refuse when he asks me to contribute. After all, she is my mother too and if he weren't so wealthy I would have had to contribute to this support years ago.

As a result of the fact that Fred was successful in business I was able to get my education without having to worry about my mother. I just can't give no for an answer.

The Council: Debbie's idea that her brother-in-law is dipping into her pocketbook for support of his mother is all wrong. The opposite is true. He has saved her pocketbook while he undertook the full responsibility for the mother.

Whether or not Debbie is working and whether or not Howard's brother is a millionaire, Howard owes a certain responsibility to an aged parent. If Fred were perfectly willing to assume the full responsibility, things might be a bit easier for Howard. But since Fred feels otherwise, Howard has no morally proper alternative to the act of forking over his share.

We also think Debbie's and Howard's easy evaluation of Fred's position is objectionable. It is quite possible that uncheerful brother doesn't plan to remain a bachelor forever and would like to save for his own family. It is also probable that he has had business reverses. It is also possible that he finds necessary compensation for his lonely life in his "luxurious style of living." It is also possible that he would like to retire early or to take an extended travel vacation.

One more possibility is that Fred may think it is time his kid brother acknowledged the fact that he has a responsibility toward their mother. Fred may have gotten tired of carrying this burden and of receiving little or no recognition for the service.

Neither Debbie nor Howard has the least right to be peeved on this score. Fred deserves a word of gratitude for all he has done until now.

GOOD MANNERS

WHEN PAPER FRILL ENCLOSES PIECE OF CANDY

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

For Christmas presents I received several boxes of candy, mostly chocolates. I have noticed that when I offer my friends one, some of them take the little paper wrapper also, and others just take the piece of candy and not the paper wrapper I am wondering what is the proper thing to do.

J. W.

A piece of candy should be taken with its little paper frill on, whether the candy is offered in a box or on a plate.

MAILING WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

My prospective bridegroom and I are both in our late forties, and our marriage, to take place soon, is the second for both of us, I being a widow and he a widower. We are following the suggestion you made in your column recently, and are planning to announce our marriage ourselves with the form you gave.

We were wondering if it would be proper to mail these announcements before the marriage, so they could serve also as invitations? C.

No . . . most definitely no. Marriage announcements should not be mailed until after the marriage ceremony has been performed. They tell the news that the ceremony has been performed. However, they should be all ready . . . engraved, addressed, stamped . . . so that they can be mailed directly after the ceremony, that same day, if possible.

Going By Train In Germany? Step Lively!

by Mary Moore

Your temporarily foreign correspondent is beginning to appreciate the comforts of home travel off the C.N.R. or C.P.R.

It was like this: I had been questioning one of Herbie's fellow officers about telephoning in Germany compared to telephoning in France. He assured me that the system was most efficient . . . if you spoke German. The same applies to train travel. If you know how the system operates you won't miss trains, or be taken past your destination.

Like innocents abroad Marianne and I started out from Soest to Bad Godesberg to visit the Stephens — a distance of less than 100 miles, but with two changes, four hours elapsed.

These changes presented a problem because of split-second timing. At Wuppertal by many gestures and a little pushing the conductor herded us down one flight of steps and told us "Zwei!" Naturally we thought this meant Track 2. We went to Track 2 and a little Toonerville Trolley was sitting there panting, with an ancient engineer half out of the window, I called "Bad Godesberg"? "Nein, Nein." We flew down those steps to the next flight and a train was just pulling out. We thought we had missed our connection and wondered if we could get a taxi to take us the rest of the way when Whoosh! A shiny red train slid to a stop beside us, people poured off. To the one official in sight I asked the same old question "Bad Godesberg?" "Ja, Ja." Oh joy! But there was no time for rejoicing — he pushed us on, slammed the door, train was off like a shot. We had to pay two marks extra for this crack train. On it we found a luxurious diner and had marvellous oxtail soup (see my version below) and Westphalian ham on rye. Wonderful.

We knew when we passed Bonn (pronounced bun) that we had to look sharp for Bad Godesberg was the next stop. But I decided to change from low to high heels. It was nearly fatal. In trying to replace the high heels in the low-cheek shoes we couldn't get one of the clasps on the suitcase shut. A charming German gentleman tried to help Marianne. Two German matrons in the next compartment urged us to get off. Marianne said "Mother don't panic."

THURSDAY

Spargelsuppe; Kasseler Rippespeaper; Gekochte Kartoffeln; Rotkohl; Rum Fruchte.

Asparagus Soup; Pork Ribs cured in brine; Boiled Potatoes; Red Cabbage; Rum Fruit.

SUNDAY

Klare Fleischbrune mit Markklosschen; Sauerbraten; Kartoffelkloesse; Gemischter Salat; Erdbeeris oder Erdbeeren mit Schlagsahne.

Clear Beef Broth with Marrow Balls; Roast Beef (sour); Potato Dumplings; Mixed Salad; Strawberry Ice Cream or Strawberries with Cream.

Nevertheless I left her to her fate and jumped off. The train started to move. In a second she appeared with her gloves in her teeth and the big suitcase hugged to her bosom. Two trainmen, running alongside, pulled her off to safety.

MORAL:

If you plan to travel by train in Germany, start training now.

OXTAIL SOUP:

(Serves 8 generously as a main course).

On 2-lb. oxtail disjointed with cleaver by butcher, 1-2 cup ing the vegetables in of course). sliced onions, 2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat, 8 cups cold water, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 4 peppercorns, 1-4 bay leaf, 1-2 cup each diced carrots, celery, tomatoes or tomato juice, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley 1-4 cup pot barley, 1-4 teaspoon rosemary crumbled or basil are optional. Optional: a paste of 1 tablespoon flour and 2 tablespoons butter to thicken it and 2 tablespoons sherry to give it the continental character. In the 2 tablespoons butter or bacon fat brown the oxtail and onions not burning them at all. Add the water, salt, peppercorns and bay leaf, cover and simmer for 4 hours. Then add the remaining ingredients (except the flour, butter and sherry if used) and simmer until the barley is tender. (German oxtail soup is rich and all vegetables are strained out. Just the meat is left in, but I recommend leavwith cleaver by butcher, 1-2 cup ing the vegetables in of course). If you want to thicken this broth, melt the butter, stir in the flour, and stir some of the broth into this roux and return it to the soup and stir until well blended. The addition of a little flavour characteristic of oxtail sherry gives it a full-bodied soup.

Congregational Meeting

CHRIST CHURCH

The annual Vestry meeting of Christ Church, was held on Monday evening. The various reports of the organizations were presented showing a successful year and that a good deal of work had been carried on by a large number of people.

The rector presented his report, which showed that there had been 50 services of Holy Baptism for a total of 150 adults and children baptized and when there was added the number of services for marriages and funerals, a total of 401 services had been conducted during 1958. Thirty four members of the congregation had passed to rest during 1958 and the members of the Vestry stood in a moment's silence as a tribute to their memory.

During 1958, eight plaques had been dedicated and placed on the Memorial Board. Further dedications during the year by the Rector:

Paten given by the Afternoon W.A. to St. George's.

Altar linen and cruets given by Mrs. Clare.

On March 30th, 1958, the Lord Bishop dedicated

Chancel Cabinet given by Mr. Ed. Sherry.

The new addition to the Parish Hall.

Mirror in the choir room in memory of Arthur Grenville Cherry.

The rector expressed his sincere appreciation to the members of the staff and the congregation for the efforts and appealed for their continued efforts and prayers for 1959.

A brochure of the memorial board is being prepared and will be circulated to members of the congregation.

The Wardens' financial statement was presented, which reflected a healthy financial position.

A resolution was presented and carried that the parish add to the staff of the clergy and engage the services of a curate as soon as possible. This action was deemed necessary because of family strength in the parish and the great need for youth work.

The officers elected were as follows: Rector's Warden, R. H. Goslee and People's Warden, Lewis Watson. Lay delegates to Synod for the ensuing three years: E. E. Palmer and Miss Wiggins.

Delegates whose term has not expired, Messrs F. Beeby, F. G. Creegan, L. G. Lennox and W. A. Mills.

Those elected to the council of the vestry: Messrs. George Mills, R. Colebourne, T. Carruthers, J. C. Miles, Charles Bishop, Ross Row, A. W. Hume, G. Tripp, James Wright.

Auditors George Mills, T. Carruthers, A. W. Hume.

Stewardship committee. The wardens and those who had retired as wardens over the past eight years.

Property committee: Ross Row, J. Ellis, G. Tripp, R. Quiacey, E. E. Palmer, J. C. Miles, Cecil Cherry, Ed Sherry and the wardens.

Memorial Fund Committee: F. Beeby, Sr., E. E. Palmer, Ross Row, George Mills and Mrs. Gerald Cherry.

Mr. A. G. Cooper resigned as chairman of the Sidesmen and the appreciation of the vestry was recorded for his faithful services. Mr. F. Beeby was elected as chairman.

A resolution of appreciation of the services of the clergy was presented, to which the rector and the Rev. E. P. Smith replied.

Canadian Girl Bullfighter Confident She Will Become Best Matador in World

QUITO, Ecuador, (CP)—Carolyn Hayward, Canadian girl bullfighter, is confident she will become the best woman matador in the world—if she can earn enough to stay in the arena.

The young veteran of 17 bullfights said "the only thing that makes me nervous before a fight is wondering if I am going to be paid." In Mexico she earned about $100 a fight, but she got $300 for one in Guatemala and is getting $200 for each appearance in Ecuador.

She was born in St. John's, Nfld. She won't say when: "It might hurt my career in another five or 10 years."

FORMER SECRETARY

She says she was like any other secretary for a while, working by day and keeping house by night. "But since I became a bullfighter I haven't touched a needle or looked at a saucepan."

Carolyn (they all call her Carolina down this way) was educated in St. John's and after high school went to Montreal where she found a stenographer's job. She didn't like indoor work so took her savings and set out.

After visiting England, France and Austria she went to Spain "because it is so exotic". There she began to study Spanish and attend bullfights.

Gradually she picked up some knowledge of bullfighting, which has an art and a philosophy as deep and involved as ballet, and came to know the minor figures who accompany bullfighters—the sword carriers and the horsemen who use the spears, and the men who fix the barbs in the bull's shoulders.

JUMPED INTO RING

One day in Toledo she leaped into the ring and made a few passes with the bull. Bullfighting countries are full of youths called "espontaneos" — the spontaneous ones—who sneak into the ring in the hope their skill will attract a manager's attention, a Latin version of the "rink rats" who haunt Canadian hockey rinks.

Her Toledo appearance didn't get her anywhere but her five foot, two inch figure was becoming familiar around the rings. Bullfight hangers-on became accustomed to seeing her short black hair, big grey eyes and constant smile.

There are few opportunities for a girl bullfighter in Spain so Carolyn went to Mexico. There she continued to study the technique and had a chance to practise with heifers. Bulls are never fought until they go into the ring. Heifers are fought for practice and so the owners of breeding farms can choose the most belligerent for brood stock.

She was running out of money in Mexico when she had the first two fights for which she drew pay. She did so well that the judges awarded her the ear of one of her bulls—a triumph in these circles.

"That was when I knew I was going to be the best woman bullfighter in the world," she says.

Her manager arranged for her present tour, which brought her here after the fight in Guatemala.

"I've still got a lot to learn," she admits. "I have to develop my own definite style.' Each novillada (she is still fighting yearling bulls on which young fighters practise) is a practical lesson. But the things that were hard a year ago are easy now."

SATISFIES URGE

Asked the real reason she took up bullfighting, she said: "At first it was an urge to do something different. The risk had its attraction. It was for the same reason a pilot does acrobatics in the air. Bullfighting satisfies some interior urge.

"Of course, besides this, I am ambitious to be good and—why not say so?—have to earn some money."

As to the future: "It would be stupid to stop fighting now, when I have worked so hard and the road to success is open. I would like to fight in Portugal, in the south of France, Africa, and after that Spain. But my greatest ambition is to have a fight at home in Canada."

So far she has not been gored, but she has been knocked down and bruised. "There is less of that now, because I am getting better with the cape."

CANADIAN BULLFIGHTER

Carolyn Hayward, a native of St. John's, Nfld., is confident she will be the best woman matador in the world — if she can earn enough to stay in the ring. Shown here wearing her bullfighting costume in Quito, Ecuador, Miss Hayward has had 17 bull fights. Educated in St. John's, she moved to Montreal and worked as a stenographer before touring England, France, Austria and Spain. She became interested in the sport in Spain, and then moved to Mexico where she started in the ring. — (CP Photo).

MADOC W.I.

MADOC — Mrs. Albert Empey, [illegible] Madoc W.I. for the January meeting on Friday, [illegible] with an attendance of 15. The president, Mrs. E. T. Nayler, was in charge. General business and communications followed. Mrs. Earl Burnside and Mrs. Forestell were in charge of the program. Mrs. Burnside gave a talk on the motto for the month, "Let us take time for all things, Make us Grow Calm, Serene and Gentle". Current events were handled by Mrs. Albert Empey.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Forestell introduced the guest speaker, Miss R. Payne from the Children's Aid Society office at Belleville. She told about her work and said their chief objective was to try and keep families together, no matter how unkept they seem, as the home is no place like home for a child.

Her address was much enjoyed as it took more of a form of a table conference.

Miss Payne was thanked for her talk by Mrs. Warren Hill, who also thanked Mrs. Empey, the hostess, and all who took part.

Refreshments were served and a happy social half hour enjoyed.

VICTORIA'S FAVORITE

Collies rose to fame among dogs after Queen Victoria expressed admiration for the breed.

THRIFTY BRIDE

CARDIFF, Wales (CP)—Patricia Jones, 17, huddled in the snow all night for a bargain sale at a local store. When the doors opened, slim, red-haired Patricia entered to buy a wedding dress for £2. She wore it at her wedding—six hours later.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 29, 1959

Monotonous Routine of Prison Life Is Spectre That Plods Corridors of Penitentiaries

A Canadian Press reporter has been permitted to tour six of the country's penitentiaries to see how prisoners live and work. In this article he describes the monotonous routine of prison life. Tomorrow: Group therapy.

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Morale-crushing monotony is the spectre that most often plods the corridors of Canada's penitentiaries.

Most prisoners spend 16 or 18 hours daily alone in a windowless cell. The average cell is five or six feet wide, 10 feet long and nine feet high.

A cot, a chair, a small writing table and a lamp plus toilet and wash basin with running water are usual cell furnishings.

A few cells still in use at St. Vincent de Paul, Que., and Dorchester, N.B., have only a metal bucket for a toilet and a metal basin for washing.

SOME IN DORMITORIES

Some prisoners, mostly those working on prison farms, live in dormitories. Virtually all the 425 odd in the Federal Training Centre at St. Vincent de Paul live in this type of accommodation.

Dormitory privileges usually go together, four at a table within the dormitory. Prisoners at the training centre eat in two large messhalls.

But most penitentiary prisoners sleep, eat every meal, wash, study, read, write letters, meditate and go to the toilet in an individual cell seven days a week.

They are allowed to write four letters a month, only to close relatives, and may have one half-hour visit each month from up to three close relatives at once. All correspondence in and out of prisons, is censored.

STRAP AND SOLITARY?

For discipline, the strap can still be used, but most often a prisoner is sent to a "dissociation" cell—as the solitary confinement area now is known. He can be put on a bread-and-water diet for up to three days or on bread, water, boiled potatoes and milkless, sugarless oatmeal for 21 days.

Dissociation cells shown this reporter at St. Vincent de Paul contained only a wooden slab for a bed and a cement block for a chair.

The average penitentiary vocational training course lasts about a year. There aren't enough to go around, so that many prisoners have to wait for the opening. In most cases at present, prison shops are overcrowded, with as many as three men at a job requiring one.

Living conditions and other problems are being considered by authorities now working on a broad program of penal reform. As a result of the overhauling, changes in the penal system will take shape in the next few years.

PRISON ROUTINE

6 a.m.—Prisoners get up.

6:30 a.m.—Released from cell to file past a slot in the kitchen wall through which meals are passed on a metal tray. The concealing slot prevents prisoners working in the kitchen from trying to give special service to their friends.

8 a.m.—After eating breakfast in the cell and returning the tray, they line up and go off to work with a guard in charge.

11 a.m.—Return to the done—each group of workers, be it one which all wings, or ranges, of the main cell block open—for lunch, eaten again in the cell.

11:30 a.m.—Allowed to sleep or to read a book or magazine from the prison library, or a newspaper if able to afford a subscription. Prisoners may also listen to one of two stations usually available on the radio earphones in each cell.

1 p.m.—Return trays to kitchen and go back to work.

4:30 p.m.—Return to done for the second time that day.

5 p.m.—Locked in for the night and counted for the fourth time that day.

EVENING IN CELL

During the evening prisoners are allowed to work in the cells, or work at hobbies such as leathercraft, until about 10 or 11 p.m.

From May to October—before daylight hours get too short—prisoners for the last couple of hours are then allowed to spend two or three hours an evening exercising in the prison yard, usually in slightly relay of a direction of the total population.

Sundays are like any other work, except at essential duties such as in the kitchen. Chapel services are held both Sundays for Roman Catholics and Protestants. Movies are shown for a couple of hours.

The general rule is that all prisoners must be locked up before dark.

AN EXCEPTION

The exception is the training centre, where all prisoners are allowed to go outside to the prison yard or into the recreation hall and library from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. regularly.

For recreation, prisoners play softball, touch football, basketball, soccer, hockey, tennis and other games, depending on the season and the facilities.

At the B.C. penitentiary in New Westminster, a high, sturdy fence with corner towers for riflemen has been erected around a recreation ground outside the prison walls. In the other seven penitentiaries, all exercising is done inside the walls.

Boxing and wrestling is another pastime. Weight-lifting and other body-building endeavors also engage a number of prisoners.

Doghouse Club For Husbands Going Affair

LONDON (CP) — The burdens of London's doghouse - dwelling husbands have been eased.

The International Doghouse Club, launched Wednesday night, is dedicated to this noble cause.

The idea is to have an occasional party in the doghouse.

But any member who expects the club to intervene in his domestic warfare is going to be disappointed.

"We'll never go that far," said an organizer. "Not ruddy likely."

Although this fraternity is essentially for husbands, it's not necessary for a wife to qualify your entry. Bones will do the trick, too.

The club's constitution says it is a "free association of sufferers who, by reason of their sporting, domestic, or other misdemeanors, have been committed to long or short banishment in the doghouse."

SUFFERERS TOGETHER

The two London businessmen who organized this institution, Clarence Schofield and Dick Brennan, said they were "up to our necks in the domestic doghouse" when they decided to bring fellow-sufferers together.

So they designed a "distress flag," or emblem, which must be worn after a member is relegated to the doghouse. Its purchase price is $1 per membership.

There are no plans for club premises yet. Schofield says that "if we get enough ties out members can meet on the street and swap their sorrows."

The organizers, with the help of a tie manufacturer, settled for a tie with a wine background with small silver doghouses. A pair of upturned feet can be seen in the "doorway."

"Wine is soothing," said Brennan. "This is a tremendously important factor."

"And it doesn't show lipstick stains," said Schofield.

Freak Accident Causes $100,000 Brockville Fire

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Fire touched off by a freak accident early Thursday threatened downtown business block late Wednesday causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

Twelve persons were left homeless and three were temporarily without homes because of smoke and flames in upper apartments, two unoccupied, a drug store and a cannery supply shop on the ground floor. Some stock and water.

Firemen said a power shovel excavating for a new water main was backing up when it touched overhead wires, completing a short circuit and fire in one of the unoccupied apartments which spread quickly up a stairwell to the roof.

All tenants escaped safely. Three firemen, including Deputy Chief Rod Larocque, were taken to hospital, one suffering burns to the face and the other men were overcome by smoke.

The business block is owned by David Flecher of Montreal, too.

Foreign Suppliers Have Tough Time Cracking U.S. Markets

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The case of the British turbines illustrates the difficulties foreign suppliers have sometimes run into trying to crack the American market.

It points up the problems they have to contend with when they try to compete against American-made goods, particularly when government contracts are concerned and congressmen have a chance to bring pressure to bear on the White House.

The case involves a government contract under two hydraulic turbines for a dam and reservoir in Arkansas. The bidding was open to foreign suppliers and a British firm — English Electric of London — submitted the lowest bid, for $1,450,700. The second lowest bid — $1,757,210 — was entered by the Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton Corporation of Philadelphia.

The British bid met all the requirements of the Buy American Act, which governs U.S. government purchases, and the contract by law should have gone to English Electric. Yet, without explanation, Washington's office of defence and civil mobilization reversed the procedure and awarded it to the Philadelphia firm for "security" reasons.

The action, producing the first cut in Anglo-American trade since the Suez affair, angered the British public and press here and prompted Sir Harold Caccia, British ambassador in Washington, to lodge a protest — though unsuccessful, protest with the state department.

The thing that irks the British is that the Eisenhower administration, in amending the guidelines of the Buy American Act, made a big bid mark in their provisions, to take the contract out of the hands of a British supplier and give it to a domestic firm.

Under the Buy American Act, the government can reject a foreign bid only if it is six per cent below the lowest domestic offering. If there is unemployment in the area, the foreign bid must be 12 per cent below. In this instance, the English Electric bid was 19 per cent below that of the Philadelphia firm. If the foreign bid meets these provisions, ownership of the contract is mandatory.

The case has heavy political overtones, going back to the campaign for the congressional election last November. At that time, Republican Congressman Hugh Scott, fighting hard for a Senate seat in Pennsylvania, announced he had been informed by the White House that the bid would go to the Philadelphia firm, despite the fact the English Electric bid was lower.

Two weeks ago, Scott's campaign prediction was fully confirmed when the defeace and civilian mobilization office decided to award the contract to the Baldwin-Lima - Hamilton in the Philadelphia area, even though since it was one of a limited number of firms with the required "security" clearance for his campaign fight and now sits as a U.S. senator.

U.S. Now Mass-Producing 1,500-Mile Thor Missile

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. is mass-producing one of its most reliable missiles in a form so simple that crews can fire them in volleys on 15-minute notice—even from mobile bases.

The missile is the 1,500-mile Thor, a combat - ready weapon that also is a workhorse in space research.

It can carry a nuclear warhead known as the "city-buster" — and it is stockpiled at bases in the U.S. and abroad.

But because of its limited range, the future of the Thor is uncertain.

REPORTERS ON TOUR

This picture emerged today after the first group of Thor production and testing facilities here and in Sacramento, Calif.

Reporters Wednesday saw parts of more than a dozen Thors on an assembly line in a huge aircraft plant here and 17 finished missiles in the open air.

At Sacramento they saw a demonstration that a Thor can be ready to be fired by its launching crews 15 minutes after the order to fire.

At the factory, officials showed how the Thor and its launching equipment are designed for mass production.

Prime contractor concrete emplacements are necessary to fire the Thor—even a volley of them—but beyond for the missile's tail rest on while it is being fueled, the missile is self - erecting mechanism, its control rooms and electrical generators are all on wheels.

A Thor squadron has 15 missiles which can be fired at once. Each missile receives only four men to fuel and fire it.

Fifteen successes out of 17 partial successes out of 31 firings mark the Thor's tests.

The missile is ready for use right now, air force Brig.-Gen. Donald Counsell told reporters but crews must be trained to use it. Counsell said the Thor's launching crews are undergoing training.

They also must have a tested within their reach. There are no potential targets within reach of Thor bases in the United States. Thor bases in Britain have not been announced as operational.

Cuban Regime Seeks Fugitives In Embassies

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa announced planned to meet today with chiefs of Latin American diplomatic missions in what can be an attempt to settle a growing dispute over diplomatic asylum.

The government is apparently trying to get hold of 40 or 50 associates of ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista who took refuge in Latin American embassies in Havana.

Simonds Predicts 1960 Crucial Yr. In Cold War

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, former chief of the general staff, predicted Wednesday that 1960 will be the crucial year in the cold war.

"If we can ride through 1960 we may have a good many years of peace," he told the Canadian Club.

Gen. Simonds expressed fear of Russia's increased missile power and its emphasis on it. He said Germany is the key to the picture, Russia feared a rearmed West Germany, but a rearmed West Germany is necessary if the free world is to defend western Europe but without rearmed West Germany the allies have not the strength to fulfill this pledge.

Gen. Simonds said the West German rearmament program is to reach full strength in 1960, and there will be the next presidential elections in the United States. "Many important decisions are made" and the year during which the Thor missile base will withdraw from East Berlin.

Comedy Team Not Interested In CNE Show

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto comedy team of Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster told Canadian National Exhibition officials Wednesday they would be "wasting their time" if they continued to attempt to sign them as the headlining attraction for the grandstand show.

Controller Donald Summerville said he would urged negotiations with the television comedians be resumed.

"We were never in the picture," said Wayne. "We have other commitments which make it impossible to devote several months to building and playing a CNE show. That is what we told Jack Arthur (producer of the grandstand show) and we still do."

General manager Hiram E. McCallum said the exhibition faces three difficult years because of construction on all sides of the grounds.

In his annual report he said the Gardiner Expressway behind the CNE grounds and the exhibition's proposed addition of 50 acres of lakefront would cause confusion until 1961 or 1962.

PUBLICITE CARD GAMES

LONDON (Reuters)—An information booth in Canada House opened Tuesday to try to get publicity from television for night. The centre, located in Berkeley Square, will give information on Canada and tricks and publicity gimmicks.

No Early End Seen for 32-Day CBC Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—The strike of television producers in Montreal today went into its 32nd day with no apparent early end in sight.

Representatives of the publicly-owned CBC and the producers met for 2½ hours Wednesday and later met separately.

A joint statement issued after the CBC-producer meeting gave no indication of any progress toward settlement or when the two sides would meet again. No statements were issued after the spokesmen and sympathizers who

The joint meeting was the first since mid-January between CBC officials and the producers' association—l'Association des Realisateurs (ACCL).

The 74 members of the producers' association walked out Dec. 29 to enforce demands for recognition of the association as their collective bargaining agent. The CBC refuses recognition on grounds that the producers are part of management under a ruling of the Canada Labor Relations Board.

The joint meeting followed a proposal late Tuesday by Labor Minister Starr that the two sides attempt to meet again with Conciliator Parrish.

LITTLE INFORMATION

Questioning in the Commons Wednesday by Opposition members brought out little information.

Mr. Starr said he has held no discussions with the CBC since the strike started. Revenue Minister Nowlan, who is responsible for government for the corporation, said the CBC board of directors has not met since the start of the strike but is scheduled to meet in Toronto next Monday. Its members are at Montreal.

It will be easy to determine who they were. "they would have been in the police courts long before now."

Mr. Nowlan was replying to a question by Maurice Bourget (CCF—Timmins).

Mr. Martin asked whether those who caused violence were picketers or "agents provocateurs." He is the 3,000-member delegation arate meetings.

The union's executive committee came to Ottawa Tuesday had been picketing.

2 English Girls Ready for Tough Auto Rallies

TORONTO (CP)—Pat Moss and Ann Wisdom, holders of the European women's touring championship, flew into Toronto Eveleyn Wednesday night to drive in the 1,000-mile Canadian winter auto rally.

They brought their stock-car racing—not touring—woollen dolls.

"We're looking forward to it as quite a holiday," Miss Moss, who pilots the course for driver Pat. They read reports in England of the CBC-producer meeting in Ontario and Quebec. "We found nothing there."

The girls have driven in rad weather before, but deep snow and ice is new to them and they're practise with the Austin A40 they'll drive in the rally by "running in" it out on some ice."

They are among local novices in this year's rally, run which takes place Feb. 6-8 through Northern Ontario. The rally, a test of endurance, is run between a series of check points with drivers penalized for arriving early or late.

Their arrival was a quiet flurry to a meeting called to launch the rally. A British sport columnist and racing driver, former boy racer, Peter Garnier, arrived to "knock on the bonk and well for the man who has been in some kind of religious work."

"BLIND" TAXI DRIVER

BARRIE (CP) — Police said Tuesday they discovered a taxi driver who receives a blind pension and has neither a driver's licence nor one to drive cabs. They said the driver will be charged with failing to produce before the city traffic committee for not having a cab drivers' licence. The taxi, his eyesight hidden by dark glasses, was discovered by police during routine checks.

Big Game Hunters Thinking Of Going to Africa for Sport Need Well-Lined Pocket Book

In this East African game centre at the foot of 15,000 - foot Mount Meru, professional hunters offer a one month's safari for $2,500—and that includes gun and licences extra.

Despite the cost, prohibitive to the average tourist, there is a long waiting list. From all parts of the world rich businessmen, film actors, nobility make the long journey to hunt here and in Mozambique, Sudan, Belgian Congo and French Equatorial Africa.

The most sought - after prizes and the highest-priced licences are for the "big - five"—lion, elephant, rhinoceros, buffalo and leopard. Tanganyika, general game licence, costs $146 a year but it costs an additional $210 to shoot an elephant, $70 to shoot rhino and leopard and $56 for a lion. In Mozambique (Portuguese East Africa) an elephant licence costs only $33.

Hunting seasons in Africa vary according to weather and local game laws. The best hunting season is during the dry months, January-March and June - mid-September. In Mozambique there is a closed season from October to March as a game conservation measure.

The success of a safari depends largely upon the experience of the professional guide or "white hunter." Their earnings are high and in Beira, a Mozambique guide, 36-year - old Antonio Augusto, said he made a net profit of $7,000 a year.

Gear for a safari tends to be elaborate and includes tents, mosquito nets, tables and chairs, food, spare water, gasoline, a washing and bathing tent, with open sides, movable roof for observation and gun racks. "Luxury" items are a canvas bath, refrigerator and portable cocktail bar.

Since game disappears under cover in the heat of the day, most of the hunting is in the early morning and before sunset. The safari car is used to find herds but the hunter, forbidden to shoot within 200 yards of the car, makes the kill on foot. For shooting the elephant the minimum calibre rifle permitted is .375 magnum.

Hunters usually keep the tusks and feet of elephant, or skin and bones of a lion as trophies. Elephant meat is sold to Africans for food, lion meat is left for scavengers.

Many sportsmen prefer to shoot with their cameras on photographic safaris. One organization advertises a 4,000 - mile tour through East African game parks and the eastern Congo for $2,278 but the cost diminishes if more than one person goes along. Another company offers to fetch clients in London and drive them right across Africa through the Sahara.

For other game watchers, a hotel at Nyeri in Kenya is built 50 feet above the ground in the branches of a fig tree, offering a monkey's eye view of big game at $22 a night. No rifles are made if buffalo, elephant or rhino are to be seen.

But thousands of tourists each year view game at a minimum of expense in game parks in Africa's national parks. Some of these reserves are on main highways, others are a little more remote but at Nairobi lion, zebra and giraffe stray at large in their natural surroundings within three miles of the city centre.

Top Legal Authorities Will Discuss Anti-Trust Suit Instituted by United States

WASHINGTON (CP)—A United States anti-trust suit involving radio and television manufacturers, operating in Canada, will be a going-over today by two of the top legal authorities of Canada and the United States.

Canada's Justice Minister David Fulton is to discuss with U.S. Attorney - General William Rogers a lustre department charging 11 radio and TV manufacturers with conspiring, through Canadian subsidiaries, to restrict trade in radio and television sets between the two countries.

Their one-hour meeting will be a follow-up to the recommendations of the Canada-U.S. cabinet committee on trade and economic affairs, which met in Washington in mid-January and which the two meet to discuss the "general questions" stemming from the suit launched in U.S. federal court in New York last November.

SHEPHERD DOG

While the radio-TV suit is No. 1 on their agenda, the two also are expected to discuss the restrictive effect on Canada of U.S. trade with Communist countries.

The Canadian government was asked in Commons recently, for example, whether it was considering trade with Red China might have effect on the Aluminum Company of Canada making a $1,000,000 sale of aluminum to the Chinese Communists.

Trade Minister Churchill said he knew of no foreign interference in Alco's decision not to ship the metal. Also itself said it turned down the order to avoid the risk of losing steady customers.

The radio-TV suit, which has produced three Canadian-domiciled protests, was filed against Canadian General Electric, Canadian House Electric—both U.S. firms—and N. V. Philips Gloeilampenfabrieken of Holland, which is manufacturer of radio, TV and other electronic equipment.

SUBSIDIARIES NAMED

Canadian subsidiaries of the three companies were named as defendants in the suit, which alleged that restraint of trade was carried out by the organizations by the Canadian patent pool, Canadian Radio Patents Limited, which prevented importation by others of U.S. radio and TV sets.

The Canadian government maintains that Canadian Radio Patents Limited, established in 1926, has been in no Canadian laws and that the object of the U.S. action appears to be to force Canadian companies to make changes in commercial practices which Canada regards as the concern of Canadian rather than U.S. law.

The U.S. justice department has taken the argument that, as a result of the operations of Canadian radio Patents Limited, Canadian manufacturers of radio and TV receivers has been

Shepherd Dog Attacks Teacher At High School

TORONTO (CP) — A German shepherd dog attacked a teacher at Runnymede Public School Wednesday, trapped an eight-year-old boy in a closet and held policemen at bay for more than an hour.

The dog was captured by a police dog service officer, after teacher Glen Whiteside, was given hospital treatment for bites on the hands and legs. The latter returned to his classes.

Police were called to police the dog had followed him to school and cornered him against the school yard fence. The children carried the boy inside the school and seeing the dog following, put the boy into a closet for protection.

The animal turned on Mr. Whiteside who escaped through another set of doors to the hallway. The boy was trapped in the closet for more than an hour before police arrived to arrive to trap the animal.

virtually closed to U.S. manufacturers since early 1927.

The suit, the department argues, is that U.S. manufacturers would normally have exported such products to the expanding Canadian market have been considerable manufacturer radio and TV sets in Canada.

It charged further that U.S. consumers have been adversely affected in that they have been deprived of the products they would have resulted from increased production for export in the United States.

At the Ottawa meeting, the Canadian government is concerned concern over what it called the "extra-territorial" effect of the legal decree sought by the justice department and the implications for Canada's trade control over Canadian companies acting in conformity with Canadian laws and Canadian commercial policy.

Canadian officials say frankly they are not sure what view the justice department has just recently decided to take on a commercial practice that has been in existence for more than 30 years.

They also wonder why the department has chosen to attack at a time when a Canadian royal commission—known as the Isley commission—is studying the laws and arrangements under study in Canada.

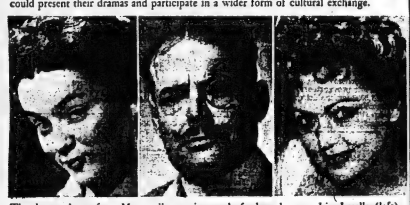
Finally, they wonder how the justice department, should it win its suit, would be able to force Canadian companies to change the decree of a United States court.

Montreal's International Theatre

Drama in 9 Languages

Ottawa born Janine Fluer is squeezed into a Victorian corset by Jeannette Gambini. Common use of sets and costumes by the various theatrical groups keeps production costs to a minimum.

Mme Beaubien discusses sets with Tally Reviv, who directed the theatre's first production, The Rainmaker. La Poudrière is unique in North America in that it presents plays in nine languages: English, French, German, Greek, Hebrew, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese and Spanish. Same play will be produced in several languages successively.



La Poudrière, Montreal's multi-language theatre, opened its doors on July 10, 1958 in a converted powder magazine — part of the historic 140 year old fortress of St. Helen's Island — ten minutes from the centre of the busy metropolis. Sparkplug and head of the international theatre is Mme Jeannine Beaubien (above left) who decided 4 years ago, after a trip through Europe, that Montreal was no longer simply a bilingual city and that there was a growing need for a theatre where Montreal's many ethnic groups could present their dramas and participate in a wider form of cultural exchange.

None of the original structure of the powder house has been changed. The theatre is long and narrow and seats a maximum of 200. The best possible use has been made of the tiny 19 foot stage with a revolving mechanism which permits scene changes in a matter of seconds. The acoustics of the old stone building are considered excellent.

Lise Lasalle, as Gigi, puts the final touches to her makeup with the aid of Margaret Desjardins. From the beginning the group has received strong support from Montreal's consular corps.

The theatre draws from Montreal's growing pool of talented actors. Lise Lasalle (left) who starred in La Poudrière's production of Gigi has played in Paris with Le Theatre du Nouveau Monde. Fred Doderlein (centre) played von Wehrhahn in the group's first German production, Der Biberpelz (The Beaver Coat). Roumanian actress Nina Diaconesco will shortly star in the Italian and French versions of "Trente Secondi D'Amore".

Farmers Seeking Fair Share of National Income

SASKATOON (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture has been told the object of the proposed mass delegation to Ottawa is to give the man in agriculture a fair share of the national income.

Charles Gibbings, second vice-president of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, outlined to the CFA annual convention Wednesday what he described as the position of the western grain farmer.

"The objective of the mass march on Ottawa by western farmers seeking deficiency payments on cereal grains is an effort to help the federal government do what it says it wants to do—give the man in agriculture a fair share of the national income."

Mr. Gibbings' comments came in a panel discussion with Dr. K. A. H. Buckley of the University of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Buckley said newspaper editorials regarding the farmers' position always omitted the most important thing—"the large gap between farm and non-farm income."

Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan told a luncheon meeting that anyone who would not protest the serious crisis facing agriculture should be described as "irresponsible."

He criticized a member of Parliament who, he said, had declared in the House of Commons that Saskatchewan farmers are "irresponsible people" whipped into hysteria for the proposed trip to Ottawa.

Mr. Douglas said farmers should be given similar opportunities as industrialists, retail merchants, bankers, labor, the railways and others to present their case to the federal government.

Mr. Gibbins said it was price in relation to costs that placed the grain farmer in his present position, now lack of production, deliveries or markets. The grain farmer's plight would affect farmers across Canada.

The Dairy Farmers of Canada said there was a record volume of milk in 1958 but producers had not received increased prices to offset higher costs.

Explorers Tour St. John's Church Learn Symbols

TWEED — This week on Monday the Explorers group of St. John's United Church met at the church for their 11th. expedition.

A game was enjoyed and the girls prepared for their business meeting on conclusion of which and the subsequent worship service, they were ready for their expedition.

The explorers took the form of a tour of the church, the group being conducted by their pastor, the Rev. Douglas Loude, and their leader, Mrs. C. R. Pettit.

Starting in the basement, Mr. Louis invited questions on the various points of interest as they progressed to the various rooms and finally to the church.

Mrs. Pettit confessed that she had prepared some questions for them but was pleased to note that the girls themselves asked numerous questions, showed their interest in the tour.

Mr. Louis, emphasizing the theme, "The Church is a Place of Worship," enlightened the girls on the significance of the church body, the various groups in that body which carried on the work of the church to continuing success.

He explained the Session and the Board of Stewards to them and noted up the outlets for activity for the many age groups in the congregation.

CHURCH EMBLEMS EXPLAINED

On the way through the building the emblems of the church were explained — the Dove, representing the congregational church; the Burning Bush, representing the Presbyterian affiliation, and the Open Bible for the Methodists, all joined together to form their United Church.

The letters I. H. S. on the pulpit cloth and on the communion table, Jesus, Saviour of Men," and on the communion table were carved the word sof our Lord, carved the words of our Upper Room—the first communion.

Various memorials, gifts of faithful members of the church were examined, and included the minister's bench at the communion table, stands for ferns to beautify the church, the Union Jack and the church flag, a beautiful memorial window, and a bronze plaque on which were inscribed the names of the heroes who fell in the battle in the First World War. This plaque was of particular interest, being made of bronze from Hebell of the old church.

CORNER STONE

A viewing of the corner stone which was laid in 1892, and the pipe organ which was installed in 1916 concluded the very interesting tour.

The regular ceremony of prayer and hymns brought the 11th expedition to a close, but the things seen and learned will live long in the memory and will help these heirs of the valuable achievements of their forbears to a sense of the beauty, inspiration and dignity of their spiritual home.

Four Games Added to Eastern Sked

WHITBY (CP) — Four games are being added to the 46-game schedule of the Eastern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League, Wren Blair, manager of Whitby Dunlops, said Wednesday.

Blair said extension of the schedule was decided in Belleville Tuesday night at a meeting of the league's five participating clubs.

He said the games are being added to fill a gap in the schedule created by the withdrawal of Belleville McFarlands who leave Sunday for the world hockey championship games in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Complaints by players of long playoffs between games were another reason for extra games, Blair said.

Kingston Merchants will play the first additional game at Whitby next Tuesday and Whitby will travel to Kingston Feb. 18 for the other.

Cornwall Chevvies and Hull-Ottawa will play their additional games in Brockville. The dates have not yet been set.

Lambert-Rollins Record 11th Win By Downing Port Hope Club 5-3

Sparked by the high-scoring line of Elliott, Kerruish and Drake, the Belleville Lambert-Rollins scored a 5-3 victory over Port Hope Ontarios on the latter's ice last night in a Central Ontario Junior "B" fixture.

The victory was the second this week for the local boys and gives them a season record of 11 wins and 10 losses. Their next game will be played here Tuesday night with Prince Edward Combines providing the opposition in an 8:30 game.

Port Hope took a 2-1 lead in the first period last night but Belleville roared to the front with the only two goals of the second stanza. The winners sewed it up with a 2-1 margin in the third period.

The Drake-Kerruish - Elliott combination clicked for 11 of Belleville's 13 scoring points in the five performances. Jack Elliott scored two goals and drew two assists, Roger Drake also scored twice and helped on another marker while Dennis Kerruish earned four assists. Gary Rowbotham potted the other goal on a pass from Ronnie Hall.

Ted Watts, Highfield and Dave Greenaway were the Port Hope scorers while Martin, Lafferty and Harris picked up single assists.

Belleville also held an edge in the penalty department, picking up seven minors, a major and a misconduct. Port Hope had five minors plus a misconduct and major. Douglas drew the losers ten-minute sentence in the opening period.

Tempers flared in the third heat. Barry Titterson of Lambert-Rollins picked up a minor and misconduct while Belleville goalie Bill Moxon and Port Hope's Sharpe drew majors for fighting. Moxon also took a minor penalty.

Elliott opened the game's scoring in the first period on a play with linemates Kerruish and Drake. The Ontarios surged into the lead before the period was over on goals by Watts, Dave Martin and by Highfield from Lafferty and Harris.

Elliott fired his second goal of the game, to tie the score at 2-2 in the second, on a passing play with Kerruish. Roger Drake then put his club in front to stay with his first goal after a good play with both linemates.

Drake hooked up with Kerruish and Elliott again in the third period to score a 4-2 Belleville lead. Team captain Gary Rowbotham closed the victor's scoring, on an assist, before Dave Greenaway fired Port Hope's final goal unassisted.

World Champs Beaten by Senior B Club

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Niagara Falls Motorville Rockets came up with three goals in the third period Wednesday night to upset Whitby Dunlops of the OHA Eastern Senior A 6-5 in an exhibition game.

The Senior B Rockets, who play in the Niagara-Metro league, got some sensational third - period goaltending from Donald (Nip) O'Hearn who took over midway in the game when Whitby was ahead 4-1.

Alex Hunter scored the winning goal on a breakaway rush, pulling Whitby's John Henderson neatly out of the nets. It was Hunter's second goal. Other Niag-

Alice Faye Never Had Desire To Return to Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Miss acting" Not on your life. I've never been happier than since I quit."

This was mellow-voiced Alice Faye speaking. Thirteen years ago, she turned her back on a career as one of the screen's brightest stars. She never returned.

"I was never really wild for a career," she explains. "I didn't mind it when I was working because there was a nice gang of people at Fox.

"But after I married Phil Harrisi, it became a rat race. When I wasn't working, he'd be out on the road with his band. When he came back, I'd be making a picture."

PLAYED STRAIGHT DRAMA

Though she was famed as a musical star, her last film, Fallen Angel, was a drama. "I had some great scenes in it," she said, "but they ended up on the cutting room floor. That was when they were building up Linda Darnell, and they threw the picture to her."

Alice had long been unhappy with the studio boss. So she quit. At first, she and Phil did a family radio series. Then she retired altogether to become Mrs. Phil Harris and mother of their daughters, now a couple of beauties of 16 and 14.

The Harrises live most of the year at Palm Springs.

"I never get bored," she said. "There's too much to do. I play a lot of golf, and I swim."

BACK BEFORE CAMERA

She left her idyllic existence for a return to show business. Next Friday she appears on an NBC spectacular starring Phil. Betty Hutton and Dean Martin. Alice is a bit uneasy about the show.

"I don't have much acting," she said. "That camera isn't like the one I used to know in the movies. It's more like a monster."

But she's getting used to it now. I hinted that she might even like it enough to make it a habit.

"Oh, no," she replied. "I'm having too good a time the way life is now."

AT THE BELLE — Leslie Caron and Louis Jourdan (seated), Maurice Chevalier and Hermione Gingold are four of the principals in MGM's say musical "Gigi", which is highlighted by Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe's first score since "My Fair Lady".

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand of the Macs who has a yen for black eyes and hat tricks, won't rule the perch as the leading goal-getter of the Eastern senior "A" league, but at least he will be a king for a day.

Isaac Bruce, who seems to play better when one eye or the other or both are draped in heavy mourning, due to too much bodychecking with his eyeballs, is the king-pin in the sniping department at the moment.

He is not doing badly in the over-all points-getting department either, according to the official statistics just released.

He has rattled the rigging behind opposing goalies twenty-nine times in forty-seven games, and has helped team-mates improve their scoring records with 33 assists for 61 points, just eight behind the top-spot Robert Alexander, he of the Whitby Dunlops.

Ike can become the first thirty-goal getter of the circuit if he can park one or more behind Jumping Gerry Devaney in the Cornwall nets tomorrow night.

Of necessity Ike will give way to both Alterslay and Sid Smith of the Dunlops, who have thirteen games to play in the schedule. Smith has racked up 28 goals and Alterslay 24 to date. Bobby Boucher of the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, has 25, while Kingston's Moe Savard has claimed twenty-two targets.

Lou Smrke, Barton Bradley and Wisner Brown are the line other twenty or more goalgetters. Lou has 25 to his credit, not to mention 26 assists; Bradley has twenty and twenty-eight, while Wisner has potted 21 and helped in 26 others.

Jean Paul Payette, who unfortunately missed his first game of the season against Hull the other night due to illness, has scored sixteen times and has 29 assists for 45 points. Paul's ambition at the start of the season was a points-a-game. He maintained this record pretty well throughout the schedule drive, but now with a game missed he needs must make up three points tomorrow night to realize his wish. Last season he missed by three, scoring 49 points in 51 games.

Hildebrand's affinity for shiners and goal clusters of three this year sees him wind up with a much better league record than that of last season. He finished with 15 goals and 39 assists for 54 points. But ah, brother, remember what he did in the playoffs.

Moe "The Falcon" Benoit, who has had a terrific season back thar behind the blueline, is the league's top goal-grifling defenceman to date with fourteen twine tickets to his credit. Add nine assists to that and you have 23 points. Harry Hinkley of the Dunlops is the smartest approach to Moe with eight goals to his credit.

"The Falcon's" eye had an eagle gleam this season, for Moe's hot blasts were finding the target much easier than they did a year ago when he racked up nine goals and 34 points for 51 of the 52-game schedule.

Floyd Crawford and Al Dewsbury head the blueline "help your brothers" campaign, Floyd having a 6 - 30 record thus far as against 7 - 23 last season, and "Big Dew" recording a 7 - 30 mark in his debut as a McFarland.

In the over-all picture the Macs have four twenty-goalers this season as against three last year. In 1957-58 Barton Bart Bradley was the only thirty-goal getter with Wisner Brown and Minnie Menard getting 28 and 22 goals, respectively.

There are no thirty-goalers yet, but as was mentioned before Hildebrand can do it with a net hero Friday night. Other twenty-goalers of this season are Smrke, 25; Brown, 21, and Bradley 20.

It is believed Hildebrand set something of a league record with his five hat-tricks, even if fate demands that a third eye is the payment. Actually that is lone-some unless one of his optics is black-bordered and he would willingly sport another ebony-tinged optic if he could sink another threesome tomorrow night.

According to statistics, the McFarlands were about on a par offensively as last year, but defensively they are much better. Last season in 52 scheduled games they scored 314 goals with 195 scored against them. This season in 47 games they have racked up 308 goals with 158 against.

Squeezed Out Single Point In Hawks Win Over Rangers; Loss Drops Blues to Third

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Andy Bathgate had his chance Wednesday night and missed. But Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion gets his chance tonight.

The two right wings are waging a see-saw battle for the National Hockey League's scoring championship with Geoffrion currently holding a one-point lead over his New York rival.

New York managed only one goal in losing 3-1 to Chicago Black Hawks in the lone game Wednesday night, and Bathgate helped set it up. The assist, his 32nd this season, brought his points total to 57.

Geoffrion has 58 points, and a chance to make it more tonight when Detroit plays at Montreal.

BROKE A TIE

New York's loss didn't just postpone Bathgate's chance to overtake Geoffrion, it bounced the Rangers out of second-place tie with Chicago.

Hawks, after four winless games, got their first effort each of four veteran stars to earn their 19th win over the season and sole possession of second place, two points up on Rangers.

Eddie Litzenberger, Ted Lindsay and defenceman Pierre Pilote each scored a goal and got one assist. Ted Dobson got two assists.

New York's promising 3-0 lead, earned in the first period on shots little Camille (The Eel) Henry connected off passes from Bathgate and Dean Prentice, was wiped out in the second period when Pilote swiped in a low 20-footer.

Later in the same period, Litzenberger drove in his 25th goal of the season, catching Ranger goalie Gump Worsley off guard with a shot from 50 feet out.

Lindsay flicked in a sharply-angled lift shot from the left wing at 2:55 of the third period to add the insurance marker.

CHANCES GOOD

Geoffrion's chances to score tonight look good. Detroit will go along with either Terry Sawchuk or Bobby Perreault in the nets.

Sawchuk has a shoulder sprain and would have to wear special padding. Canadiens already have proven what they can do against Perreault.

Perreault had allowed only two goals in his first NHL game and got a shutout in his second. Then he met Montreal and was slaughtered as Detroit lost 7-2.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal centre, was credited with much of the victory. He is said to have told his teammates that Perreault, in his and Beliveau's days as junior players, was weak on low shots.

Seven low shots beat Perreault.

Four Teams Play Off In OHA-NOHA

KITCHENER (CP) — OHA-NOHA Senior A teams have voted 3-3 on a proposal to include all six teams in league playoffs. Four-team playoffs will be continued because of the lack of a majority, it was announced Wednesday.

Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, senior group administrator who conducted the voting, notified Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen business manager Ernie Goman of the decision.

The top team will face the team third in the standings and the second will play the fourth in the best-of-seven semi-finals. Winners will meet in another best-of-seven series for the playoff title.

Windsor, North Bay and Sudbury voted for the proposed six-team playoffs while Kitchener-Waterloo, Chatham and Sault Ste. Marie voted to retain the present arrangement.

YOGI BERRA SIGNS

NEW YORK (AP) — Catcher Yogi Berra signed his 1959 contract with the world champion New York Yankees Wednesday, apparently taking a salary cut of about $2,500 to $44,500.

Russians Wallop Americans In World Basketball Final

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Russia has caught up with the United States in basketball.

A Russian team Wednesday night beat the Americans for the first time at the game when they pulled off a 62-57 stunning victory in the world amateur basketball tournament.

"This victory will live in our memories for a long time," said Alexandri Gomelski, one of the Russian coaches.

When the final whistle sounded the Russian players took Stepan Standarian, another coach, and tossed him into the air in a blanket.

The Russians' victory means they can defend the world title won by playing Nationalist China Friday night.

Even if they lose to the Chinese, who have not won a game, they would take 3rd place on the basis of points average. Wednesday night's victory was their fifth in as many starts. All other teams have lost at least one game. The U.S. plays Chile tonight and dangerous Brazil Friday.

However, the Russians have said they will not play the Chinese because of political reasons. The International Basketball Federation says if Russia doesn't play Nationalist China it will forfeit all previous games.

In the event the Russians do not play the Chinese, the tournament winner probably will be decided when the U.S. plays Brazil. Brazil matched the Americans' 5-1 record by beating Puerto Rico 99-71 Wednesday night.

Representatives of the U.S. team—made up of air force all-stars—say this was not the best they could be sent. But the only one available since college teams and the best amateur clubs had schedule commitments.

Dutchies Turn for Loop Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen toppled Chatham Maroons from the top of the OHA-NOHA Senior A race Wednesday night, the 3-2 eighth time in a month the clubs have swapped places.

It was Kitchener's game all the way after the high-flying Dutchmen jumped into an early lead. Things may be different in the return match at Chatham Friday night.

Sudbury Wolves cut down the visiting Windsor Bulldogs 3-2 throwing another clamp in Windsor's drive to reach a playoff spot before the schedule runs out.

SIX-TEAM PLAYOFF OUT

Wednesday league officials announced rejection of a proposal to put all six clubs into the playoffs. Windsor and North Bay are now the tail-enders.

Kitchener's Ken Laufman took a hand in four goals and vaulted into a tie for the league's scoring leadership with Ted Tower of Chatham who picked up two assists.

After jumping into a 4-1 lead in the first period Kitchener matched two Chatham goals in the second and another in the third to preserve the margin.

SHIFTED TO WING

John Bobeyko, shifted from centre to right wing to centre only a few days ago, produced the winning goal for Sudbury just 32 seconds after Windsor had tied the game in the third period. It was Bobeyko's first goal since Jan. 7.

The win moved Sudbury six points ahead of the idle Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds. A Windsor win in the Soo tonight could knock the Soo out of fourth place.

It was a fast-moving game with the verdict in doubt all the way, particularly in the final 20 minutes when veteran Lou Crowdis gave Windsor some solid goaltending.

Armand Lemieux and Sam Betto fired the other Sudbury goals. Bob Brown drew credit for the first Windsor goal when his puck bounced in off his skate. Fred Hildebrand got the second.

Cooper Whips Pancho Gonzales

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Wimbleton champion Ashley Cooper defeated Pancho Gonzales 9-7, 6-1 10-8 Wednesday night in the first meeting since Cooper turned professional.

In other matches on the second night of the pro series here Ken Rosewall defeated Tony Trabert 4-6, 4-6, 6-3 and Lew Hoad beat Trabert defeated Frank Sedgman 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Hall of Fame May Settle In Toronto

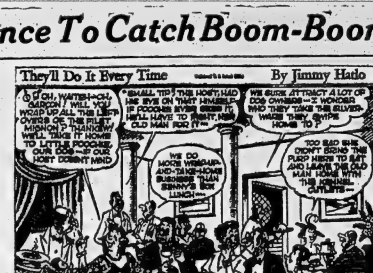
TORONTO (CP)—The hockey hall of fame, organized in Kingston in 1943 but never with a permanent home, may finally settle down in Toronto next year.

National Hockey League governors have tentatively approved plans to give the hall a home on the grounds of the Canadian National Exhibition. The setup would be financed by the NHL.

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, said Wednesday much "has to be done by the CNE or the City of Toronto to put the proposal into shape so that it can be dealt with."

A site for the building has been agreed upon, he said, and finances have "been discussed." The proposal needs final approval of the NHL board of governors, expected at their meeting in Florida in March.

The late Jim Sutherland, who first proposed the hall of fame in Kingston in 1943, never saw it become a reality in the form of a shrine to hockey's all-time greats, although the hall did exist in theory.



Land was donated for the building and talk of getting construction started for years, but enough money was never realized and the museum never did come into being.

Harry Price, president-elect of the CNE, said Wednesday plans are well under way for the hall and "we hope to have it ready by 1960."

Tardif, Lagace Will Join Montreal Royals

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League announced Wednesday that defencemen Andre Tardif and centre Michel (Mike) Lagace of the Ottawa-Hull Canadiens will be with the league-leading Royals today when they play in Chicoutimi.

Left winger Fern Perreault will return to action after an injury layoff. Defenceman Ernie Roche will be given more time to nurse his injured shoulder. Playing coach Floyd Curry, a forward, will take Roche's place on defence.

Bisons Start To Pull Away From Field

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons, who threatened to make a runaway of the American Hockey League at the start of the season, once again are showing signs of pulling away from the field.

With Hershey Bears and Cleveland Barons faltering, the Bisons have opened up a three-point lead, with two straight victories. The second-place Bears suffered a fourjury-riddled third - place Barons have lost two straight.

Two spot-goal goalies gave the Bisons a 3-1 decision over Rochester Wednesday night while the Bears dropped a 5-4 game to the Springfield Indians. Buffalo got a 2-0 lead on Hunter MacDonald's goal but Dave Creighton tied it in the third. Forty-one seconds later Larry Wilson put the Bisons ahead to stay. Their final goal was by Gerry Foley after Rochester had taken out goalie Gerry McNeil.

The Indians, with high scoring Ken Schinkel scoring the deciding goal at 18:40 of the final period, moved out of the cellar with their victory over Hershey. They got another from Floyd Smith in the final seconds after Buffalo had pulled goalie Bob Perreault.

Willie Marshall got two Hershey goals and Jim Anderson the same number for the Indians. Dunc Fisher and Ike Hildebrand were the other Hershey scorers; Bill McCreary and Bruce Carmichael were the other Indian marksmen.

BENEFIT FOR DOBBYN

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—An exhibition hockey game between Buffalo Bisons of the American League and a team made up of National League players will be played here Feb. 17 for the benefit of Bill Dobbyn, Bison defenceman who lost an eye in a game in Hershey Dec. 27. The 23-year-old's playing career presumably is over.

Yogi Accepts Second Slice Gloom Envelops Yankee Pack

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that catcher Yogi Berra has given in, apparently accepting his second salary cut in two seasons, will the rest of the New York Yankees fall in line?

There's supposed to be all sorts of unrest among the world champions, who figure they shouldn't be expected to accept a decrease in salary.

Mickey Mantle, Gil McDougald and Whitey Ford are a bit miffed. So is 21-game winner Bob Turley, although the pitching hero of the world series has been awarded a raise.

Berra's signing Wednesday came a week after manager Casey Stengel chewed his players out for lack of hustle and successive night life.

The contract is believed to call for $42,500, a $2,500 cut from Yogi's salary last year and about $7,500 below the $50,000 or so he picked up in 1957.

Berra, who drove in 90 runs last year in one of his poorer seasons, wouldn't venture an answer about whether he had been cut.

"I'm satisfied," he said. "let it go at that."

Veteran outfielder Hank Bauer signed last week, for somewhere around $25,000. That represented one of the "token" raises the Yankees hope to get away with.

District Teams Help Make Minor Hockey Night Success

Minor Hockey Night in Belleville was termed a success by members of the local executive when a five-game exhibition schedule at Memorial Arena last night attracted 325 paying customers.

As far as the hockey part of the evening went, it too must be considered successful, as Belleville teams won four games and emerged with a tie in the other one.

The exhibition schedule, with city teams playing clubs from Napanee, Picton and Stirling, was arranged in conjunction with "Hockey Week in Canada."

Belleville won the squirt game by a 4-0 score over Stirling, the peewees defeated Napanee, also 4-0, the bantams blanked Picton 8-0, the Belleville midgets downed Picton Juveniles 5-1, while Stirling and the local juveniles battled to a 3-3 tie.

In the juvenile contest Belleville held 3-0 and 3-1 leads before Stirling came back to collect a tie. Larry Westfall had a pair and an assist for Belleville and old team-mate Peggy Kellar, Wayne Wallis also scored while Larry Dow, Doug Morsea and Larry Rowbotham drew assists.

Roger Smith starred for Stirling, scoring two of their goals and assisting on the third. Garry Wright was the marksman on the final goal.

Russ Soule's strong midget club had little trouble in disposing of the Picton Juveniles 8-1. Pete Weston, Bob Duggan and Stu Mulstead combined to form the winners' big scoring line. Weston scored twice and drew three assists. Duggan had two and one, while Mulstead had assists on four goals. Jerry Jones fired two goals, Hugh Painter and Garry Reid one, Duvall, with two; Blakely and Richards, picked up assists.

Kennedy saved Picton from a shutout by scoring their lone goal on a play with Wentz and Storms.

The bantams looked impressive with their 8-0 decision over the Picton bantams. Dennis Ray fired two goals and helped on another pair while P. Emerson had a brace of goals and one assist. Dennis Hull scored once and drew two assists. Gerry St. Denis, A. Lucas and Carl Boomhower each collected one and one. B. Skinner picked up three assists.

Belleville peewees used a fine team effort to shut out Napanee 4-0. The goals were divided among B. Pursey, P. Williams, Ethier and Dilks. McLean drew the game's only assist.

Eight players picked up a single point each in the squirts' 4-0 decision over Stirling. A. Lupinetz, K. Mullens, G. Sharpe and L. Finnamore were the marksmen; B. Hannah, S. Thorne, D. Meagher and J. McKenzie drew single assists.

Gosselin Not Sure About Joining Macs

"Goose" Gosselin has had another "indefinite" turn of mind.

A news wire story early today out of North Bay said that the Trappers left winger was joining the Macs here Friday night, with Flori Gosselin going to the Trappers.

Gosselin phoned the Macs assistant manager Billy Reay in Toronto at 11:30 last night, that he was indefinite about the matter.

Reay in a phone conversation this morning said it would not be known until tomorrow if Gosselin would join the Macs.

NORANDA, Que. (CP)—Hard ice, the downhill—literally—on many figure skaters, has been causing concern to some competitors in the Canadian figure skating championships which open here today.

E. R. S. McLaughlin, president of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, reported that some skaters are finding the ice too hard after training or soft ice in their home towns.

"But if necessary the brine temperature can be raised four or five degrees to make the ice softer," he said, indicating this may be done for today's opening events.

Most of the record 75 entrants for the annual event spent Wednesday in practice.

The three-day championships open with the junior women's singles. Pre-liminaries in the senior women's singles will be held until Friday evening.

Bill McLachlan, 20, of Toronto and his ice-dancing partner Geraldine Fenton of Burlington, say they are not worried about the outcome of the Canadian ice dancing championship title they defend Saturday.

They are determined to defend their title and become champion-ship-and take part in the world championships whatever the outcome of the Noranda contest.

At a civic dinner Wednesday night, Mr. McLaughlin said Canadian skaters have high hopes of winning the North American figure skating championships in Toronto next week.

"Canada has 35,000 active skaters," he said. "Competitively, we are second only to the United States and I think next week we shall change that."

Willie Pep Hangs Up Gear

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Willie Pep, former world's featherweight boxing champion, Wednesday night announced his retirement from the ring.

The 36-year-old fighter said he made his decision en route home from Caracas, Venezuela, where he lost a decision to Sonny Leon Monday night.

Pep established a record by winning his first 62 fights. Then he suffered his first loss and tallied 72 more fights without a defeat. The latter stretch was marred only by a draw.

Pep took part in 16 title bouts and won 10. He lost only four decisions in 233 fights and was stopped nine times. Three of the knockouts were administered by one of his chief ring rival, Sandy Saddler.

Tiger Jones Gets Nod Over Joey Giardello

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Ralph (Tiger) Jones won a split decision over Joey Giardello Wednesday night in a 10-round fight.

Giardello weighed 162½ and Jones 156½.

It was the first time in three meetings that Jones, a 30-year-old middleweight, was able to earn a decision over Giardello, ranked fourth in the class.

Jones, ranked No. 10, opened a cut over Giardello's left eye early in the fourth round and proceeded to pound away at it the rest of the televised fight. Giardello, also suffered a cut over the other eye late in the fight.

Referee Paul Machney scored the fighting 48-43 for Giardello. Judge Tom Nuckles had it 46-45 for Jones and Judge Walter Beck gave it to Jones 48-47.

Lombardi Is Packer Coach

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Vince Lombardi, whose offensive coaching wizardry helped New York Giants to National Football League success, won the nod Wednesday as head coach and general manager of the floundering Green Bay Packers.

Lombardi, 45, said he had agreed to a five-year contract covering both jobs but refused to reveal his salary. He said other details would be worked out at a meeting in Green Bay with team officials Monday.

He succeeds Ray (Scooter) McLean as head coach and Verne Lewellen as general manager.

Western Hockey

Eddie Dorohoy is bolting away in the Western Hockey League's individual scoring race.

When Calgary Stampeders beat New Westminster Royals 6-3 Wednesday night, Dorohoy had two goals and three assists for the Alberta team to increase his point total to 76, eight points more than Seattle's Guyle Fielder, the defending scoring champion.

Dorohoy's scoring helped Stampeders gain their 15th straight skid consolidate their hold on first place in the Prairie division. Meanwhile, Edmonton Flyers were shut out by Winnipeg Warriors 6-0.

Pin Boys' Day May Be Over

TORONTO (CP)—The familiar face of the pin boy may soon disappear from Canadian bowling alleys.

Announcement Wednesday of development in Canada of the world's first automatic five-pin setting machine may be the answer to the pin boy problem of Canada's bowling alley proprietors.

The announcement was made jointly by D. C. F. van Eendenburg, president of Philips Electronics Industries Limited, maker of the machine, and Harry Hertzman, president of Automatic Pinsetters Limited.

The machine, designed for use on Canada's bowling lanes where the five-pin game is popular, took three years to develop. It is a counterpart of the automatic 10-pin setting machine now widely used in the United States.

TEN NOW IN USE

Ten of the machines now are in use in two Toronto bowling alleys. They are operated by push buttons controlled by the players and scored. Between each pair the player presses a button near the ball rack to clear the alley of dead pins and reset the standing ones for his next ball.

When the scoring stand button is pressed, the machine returns the ball and sets up new pins for the next player. The whole process takes seven seconds.

Machines operating in Toronto have cut 20 minutes from the time usually taken to play three league games.

Refuse Boxer Fight Permit

MONTREAL (CP)—A Superior Court judge Wednesday refused to order the Montreal Athletic Commission to grant a professional boxer's permit to Marcel Lachapelle, 31, on grounds Lachapelle's life might be endangered by fighting.

Lachapelle had applied for a writ to object to the commission's renew his professional boxer's status, cancelled in 1950 after two doctors reported it would be dangerous for him to box.

Mr. Justice Charles Edouard Ferland noted that during a fight in Quebec City in April, 1950, Lachapelle fa i l e d "in circumstances judged extraordinary by his agent and members of the Quebec Athletic Commission."

Eastern Senior A League Scoring Statistics

Belleville playing-coach Ike Hildebrand closed in on Whitby's Bob Attersley in the Eastern Senior "A" scoring race according to statistics released today, but with only one game left to play Hildebrand's title bid will prove too late and too little.

Attersley leads the league with 69 points, including a top assist mark of 45. Hildebrand, who leaves for Europe this weekend, is in second with 61 points and also tops all goal scorers with 29. Moe Savard of Kingston is third with 58 points, while Sid Smith, Whitby, is fourth with 55 and Belleville's Lou Smrke is fifth with 51. The McFarlands will have five of the loop's top ten pointmen when they leave on their world title quest. Whitby and Kingston each placed a pair this week with Hull taking the other position.

Long John Henderson of Whitby has the league's best goals-against average of 2.95 in 37 games. Gordie Bell, Belleville, is second with a 3.44 mark in 42 games. Both are tied with Kingston's Lynn Davis for the shutout lead with two each.

Marcel Goyette of Cornwall, leads the Macs' Al Dewsbury in the penalty parade by three minutes. Goyette has served 100 minutes and Dewsbury 97.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. Rebecca Sine, who is a patient at "The Green Rest Home," celebrated her 96th birthday anniversary on January 22nd. She was the recipient of numerous felicitations and gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Bedford were recent guests at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George Striker and Mr. Striker, Frankford, when the former was the hostess to Belleville Women's Institute.

Mr. Alfred Livingston, who has spent the past few months with relatives in Rochester, New York, returned to Stirling last week.

The new Stirling Ranger group, under the auspices of the Girl Guide Association, held a successful bake sale on Saturday.

MR. TWEEDY

by Ned Riddle

"This trick mirror will allow us to secretly observe the two men who are applying for the job."

TWEED

Agricultural Society Headed By W. McCrae

TWEED — The annual meeting of Tweed Agricultural Society was held last Saturday afternoon with a splendid attendance of officers and members. With the president, Mr. B. J. Hunt, in the chair the meeting was called to order.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read.

The president, in his remarks, thanked the officers and members who had worked so unstintingly to make the 1958 fair one of the best in the history of the society.

In a discussion period many suggestions were made for further improvement of the show in 1959.

Mr. H. Rush, treasurer, gave a detailed statement of the finances.

Mr. H. M. Coulter, chairman of the cattle committee, reported that there had been a satisfactory showing at the last fair.

The race committee chairman, Mr. E. Hodgins, reported that the interesting portion of the fair program was well up to expectations.

Mr. William McCrea, chairman of the horse committee, reported a fine showing of horses in all classes.

In the field crop competition, Mr. H. M. Coulter reported a satisfactory number of entries.

CHEESE COMPETITION

Special comment was made during the afternoon on the cheese competition in which eight makes competed with a showing of 40 cheeses. In the junior section of this competition it was noted that the excellent work of Mr. Don Deline and Ivan Simpson won the Simpsons Sears trophy.

Another feature of the fair, which will be repeated in 1959, was the baby show which drew 30 entries last year.

During the meeting tribute was paid to the memory of the late Mrs. A. McCrae, a long time member and officer of the society.

The meeting expressed the hope for the early recovery of Mr. Wilfred Scharge, now a patient in Belleville General Hospital, whose work on the fair board in past years has been invaluable.

DELEGATES NAMED

Delegates were named for the Agricultural Convention to be held in Toronto in the near future. It was decided that the incoming president be a delegate.

Delegates were also named for the Central Ontario Fairs Association convention, which will be held in Belleville, February 6th.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr. B. J. Hunt's term of office of three years having expired, nominations were called for the office of president.

It was regularly moved and seconded that Mr. William (Bill) S. McCrea, last year's 1st vice-president, be president for 1959.

There being no other nominations Mr. McCrea was elected by acclamation.

Mr. S. R. Curry was named 1st vice-president and Mr. Wilbur Bateman 2nd. vice-president.

Mr. John O. Sager was re-elected secretary and Mr. H. Rush again acclaimed as treasurer.

A BIT TOO LATE

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—Asa L. Droll didn't need his new furnace to warm his six-room house Tuesday. The house was hot, from a fire caused by a defect in the old heating plant which Droll intended to replace. A truck hauling the new furnace arrived as firemen fought the blaze, which caused $5,000 damage.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mr. and Mrs. George Hilson spent Tuesday with their daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Sharp, Mr. Sharp and Dennis, at Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Alyea and family, of Pleasant Bay, were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. Victor Sangord.

Mrs. E. Crook was an overnight guest of her sister, Mrs. Charles Haight and Mr. Haight at Belleville, on Thursday, and attended the visitation on Mrs. Haight at the Collegiate.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hutson, Glenn and Brenda Lee, of Roslin, were Saturday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hutson. Mr. Hutson returned home with them to spend the weekend.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, January 30th.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Steer clear of any meetings with executives or Bigwigs today. The day is better suited to social pleasures and comfortable hours with true friends and staunch supporters. Have a delightful and easy day for a change.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Don't endeavor to jump into new ventures with new friends until or unless you feel you understand all situations thoroughly. Study and be well-informed and prepared. Handle all obligations in most efficient and sensible fashion.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Be careful not to get entangled in some important affair that could last for a long time to come — on the advice of some authority who does not have real picture of your financial standing. Follow advice of scrupulous people.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Avoid that associate who, although intelligent, is a bit too curious about your personal affairs. Then the day is fine for looking into bills that must be paid, monies to be collected, security records adjusted, taxes, etc.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Any carelessness on your part where your health is concerned will be very detrimental today. Give your undivided attention to your job. Later you can have an enjoyable time with dearest friends at the sports or amusements you like best.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Don't give in to that temptation to leave important work behind so you can trip off with some fascinating individual. The prospects are fine for accomplishing much both at home tasks or in business world. Be factual and wise.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Matters at your residence do not appear to your liking throughout day and evening. Step out with close ties and business contacts to some charming spot for confabs.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22)—Now you have a day when you can have an interest in your affairs as well as help your close ties with theirs. Be careful of any aside remarks, however. Take utmost care on the road or in motion anywhere.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Today you can analyze your financial position and look at condition of property so that you know where to invest or adjust for increased profits and abundance. Avoid overly dynamic partners or you stand to lose much.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Realize that you cannot rely entirely on own judgment in important affairs and seek the advice of higher ups or personal advisors now. Show affection for them and they help you out of present problems.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Private anxiety is really getting you down. Be out and about with those persons who take things in their stride and have the "know-how" at all times. This lifts your spirits, you regain poise and can make this a profitable day.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—A good day to be by yourself for a while and concentrate on how to become more popular with others so that you can make real strides earnwise. Avoid a pugnacious comrade who wants to argue and spoil your digestion.

If your child is born today ... The fine child born today is the enchanting type who will ever find favor with others because of the innate warm and charming personality. But early in life there will be also a propensity for needless arguing, which you must curb at earliest onset to bring out the real sunshine in this nature. Teach that sweetness is the most cherished quality needed in the world, especially if progeny is a girl.

Fair Board Sets Dates, Elects Officers and Hears Reports

PICTON — Prince Edward County Fair at Picton will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 24, 25, 26 this year. It was decided at the annual meeting of the Agricultural Society. A large midway has been signed. Problem of securing dates which do not conflict with other district fairs engaged the attention of directors for some time. It was felt a September date is required to assure participation by school and 4-H Club and better agricultural products exhibits.

The 1958 fair was reported a success with admission amounting to $5,353.85. Other sources of revenue included $881 from railway, $17,140 in government grants on permanent improvements, $12,623 in other grants and donations. Receipts totalled $36,513.16.

A total of $5,537.35 was expended for general prize money, $731.00 for club work, $1,548 for entertainment, $772.50 for commercial features, $17,782.20 for improvements to buildings and grounds.

HAD GOOD BALANCE

Expenditures totalled $47,890.37, leaving a balance at the end of the year of $622.79. When grants on buildings are received and loan repaid, it is expected the society will have $7,200 on hand.

The report of the secretary-treasurer was presented by Phil Dodds.

In reviewing the year, president Arthur McCornock mentioned the new floor in the Agricultural Centre; new floor in the Crystal Palace; new sheep and swine pens and much levelling and fill being done. As a Class "B" fair, the Society receives 75 per cent of these costs in government grants.

Appreciation was expressed by the president to all who contributed to the success of the fair, including exhibitors, prize donors, school teachers, county council, and the directors. With 6,872 entries, the over-all exhibit had never been exceeded in either quantity or quality, he thought.

Delegates named to attend the Central Ontario Fairs Association annual in Belleville were President McCornock; vice-presidents Creighton Lockyer and George Atkinson; secretary-treasurer Phil Dodds, E. W. Henderson and two ladies. Several others also expect to attend.

Delegates to Ontario Association convention in Toronto Feb. 25-26, will be the same as at Belleville.

ELECT DIRECTORS

Directors and associates elected were: S. P. Dodds, George Atkinson, Clifford Wilson, Chris Lockyer, Leland Doxsee, Tom May, Gordon Parks, James Alexander, Leslie Jones, Willis Sills, Harold Spencer, W. G. Willis, Harold Bartman, Harry Gorsline, Brian Dodds, Creighton Lockyer, Mr. and Mrs. C. Fletcher, Ross Foster, Robert Williams, Mike Pinnegan, A. McCornock, D. O. Reynolds, H. E. Spencer.

At a directors' meeting all officers were re-elected, with A. McCornock, president; Creighton Lockyer and George Atkinson, vice-presidents; Phil Dodds, secretary - treasurer.

Farm Federation Asks Reversal Of Rail Rate Ruling

Suggests Subsidization While Inequities Studied

SASKATOON (CP)—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture Thursday requested that the federal government reverse its decision to give the railways a 19 per-cent freight rate increase. The federation proposed instead that the railways be subsidized pending completion of an investigation of the freight rate structure.

The federation's 23rd annual meeting commended the government for its decision to make a study of the "inequities of the freight rate structure."

The CFA recommended that the support price on hogs be maintained at present levels in Toronto and Montreal with more appropriate differentials at regionalized centres across Canada.

Central Canada dairy delegates voiced solidly in defeat an amendment from Alberta which called for a uniform price support of $3 a hundredweight — present Toronto-Montreal price—right across the country.

The federal government was requested to allow complete freight assistance on feed grains.

For the benefit particularly of southern Ontario farmers, the government was requested to extend a comparable freight subsidy on Ontario corn moving eastward to other parts of that province, to Quebec and the Maritimes. Ontario delegates said the subsidy was necessary to allow competition with U.S. corn imported into that part of Canada.

Among the resolutions, it was agreed that "farm improvement loan" privileges now enjoyed by banks be extended to credit unions.

Murder Trial Of Teen-agers Ends Suddenly

OTTAWA (CP) — The joint murder trial of five Ottawa teenagers charged in the steak-knife slaying of Robert O'Leary ended suddenly Thursday with acquittal of three 19-year-olds and conviction of two younger boys for manslaughter.

Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow, directing the verdict to a 12-man jury, held that James McDermott, 19, and James Post, 16, were not guilty of murder, but merely guilty on the lesser charge. They were remanded to Tuesday for sentence.

Freed were James Peter, 19, brother Robert, and Henry Dupuis and John Drain. McDermott and the younger Post showed no emotion in hearing the decision, but their parents broke down and rushed from the courtroom.

GANG FIGHT

O'Leary, 20, suffered a deep chest wound left at 1 a.m. Nov. 23 gang fight involving 14 youths. He died in a Somerset Street gutter only seven blocks from the spot where a 17-year-old boy was kicked to death a year earlier.

Mr. Justice Barlow said the joint trial, which began Tuesday, could serve as a warning to Ottawa parents to keep their children "off the streets at night."

His decision followed completion of the Crown's case and applications for acquittal by the five defence lawyers.

Arthur Laverty, McDermott's counsel, had sought his client's murder acquittal in return for McDermott's guilty plea to a manslaughter charge. Early in the trial Mr. Maloney admitted it was McDermott who actually stabbed O'Leary.

The other four defence counsel had sought outright acquittals.

DIRECTED VERDICT

Judge Barlow, in his directed verdict, allowed all applications except the one on behalf of James Post.

Evidence had shown that the youngest Post had taken a chair rung and a .22-calibre rifle-minus its barrel into the battle, and knew that McDermott had the knife. There was no such evidence against Robert Post, Dupuis or Drain, Mr. Justice Barlow said.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A well - developed storm moved across Michigan into Ontario this morning bringing heavy flurries, rain and occasional wet snow to all southern areas. Some more snow was reported in Central Ontario, particularly near Georgian Bay. Strong winds were experienced as far north as Kapuskasing. Strong northwesterly winds and much colder weather were to arrive in the wake of the storm late Friday and early this afternoon, chancing the rain to snow flurries in Southern Ontario and dropping temperatures by 15 to 25 degrees. Heavier snow squalls considered a definite possibility for a time in the Lake Huron - Georgian Bay snow belt. Skies will be generally clear and the winds decrease in most areas this evening. Saturday with temperatures remaining below the seasonal average. Outlook for the north is for more snow with some easing of the winds and temperatures. Southern Ontario looks mostly cloudy with a sunny but cold day Saturday.

Rescue Diver Trapped for 6 Hours In Torn Suit Under Chicago Street

CHICAGO (AP) — A veteran diver, trapped for more than six hours in 75 feet of icy water under a Chicago street, was rescued Thursday after a desperate battle.

Death was only inches away when Frank Hefling, 55, was pulled from a 12-foot, 179-foot-deep shaft leading to a water tunnel.

His diving suit was torn and filled with water up to his chin. Only the pressure of his air hose kept the water from filling the helmet and drowning him.

His own efforts and those of a fellow diver who went down and descended into the murky, near-freezing water finally freed the husky Hefling.

Hefling was trapped when he descended into the shaft during a routine check of the tunnel. He found a stuck valve and check a by-pass gate set into a five-ton watertight door leading to a 16-foot water tunnel under construction.

Hefling found water was pouring through the bypass gate.

A series of mishaps followed in quick succession. Hefling's air hose became entangled in the gate. The bosun's chair on which he was descended caught on the edge of the shaft. It cut the air hose and this pulled open the gate valve.

The increased suction drew the diver toward the gate. His leg was drawn through the opening and held there as though in a vise. He was trapped.

For more than six hours therafter rescue efforts went on. Two fellow divers and a bosun's mate got him into a steel bucket of a dragline rig after that was lowered to the bottom.

WORLD-WIDE FREE TRADE PROPOSED IN SPEECH DEBATE

Liberal Member Says Idea His Own

OTTAWA (CP) — A Liberal member of the world-wide free trade and a government forecast of new development projects at home have livened the waning days of the Commons throne speech debate.

Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity) presented his own proposal Thursday for an international trade agreement to eliminate tariff barriers in 50 years.

Works Minister Green dropped a few announcements in a speech Thursday night, including word that work will start soon on a new $5,500,000 grain vessel terminal at the Lakehead and that a report is expected to be made shortly on the feasibility of the much-discussed causeway to Prince Edward Island across Northumberland Strait.

VOTE DOWN MOTION

The throne debate was wound up the ninth day of its throne speech debate by voting 174 to 48 against a Liberal non-confidence motion accusing the government of "continued economic deterioration" and "lamentable indecision" in dealing with grave national problems.

The debate concludes today with the 10th interrupted days of talk—a debate which one member said Thursday should be "brought hereafter to a maximum five days. David J. Walker (PC—Toronto Rosedale) said MPs can say all there is to be said in that period of time.

Mr. Hellyer, who bounced back into the Commons in a Dec. 15 by-election from Toronto Trinity first in 1957, said the idea of universal free trade is his own.

FREE-TRADE PLAN

He said the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade should be replaced by a world pact in which agreeing countries would have two tariff schedules — a lower one for "most favored nations" and a general one for all other countries. The new scale would apply annually to all signatory countries who had improved their average in the three preceding years at least 90 per cent of the amount of their exports.

That would provide "a real and tangible incentive" for countries to lower their relatively high tariffs. Once the countries agreed to that principle, the number of participating nation tariffs by one-50th every year and general tariffs by one-100th. After 50 years they would thus be ended among trading nations.

"What a prospect. The whole world as one market," said Mr. Hellyer. "The possibilities are staggering and unlimited."

It would provide employment in Canada and raise living standards everywhere because "Prosperity depends on trade."

HIGHWAY FUNDS

Mr. Green also gave the Commons formal notice of a government bill to add another $100,000,000 to the present $250,000,000 authorization for federal spending on the Trans-Canada Highway.

The new bill would provide a variety of other suggestions and opinions.

J. O. Gour (L—Russell) suggested:

U.S. Agrees to Consultation In Future Anti-Trust Cases

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States, which has antagonized Canada with anti-trust actions lapping over into what the latter has termed direct interference in Canadian commerce, has agreed to a need for prior consultation in similar cases.

This was disclosed in a reaching agreement that in future there would be some process of consultation," Justice Minister Fulton of Canada said Thursday after talks with William Rogers the U.S. attorney-general.

Rogers said his department's responsibility was merely to enforce U.S. laws — Canada has complained against prosecution of companies operating in Canada in conformity with the Dominion's laws and commercial practices—and added;

"I'm sure our friends understand that."

The Fulton-Rogers talks were prompted by Canadian concern over a U.S. anti-trust suit charging three trade and 77 manufacturers—two American and one Dutch — with conspiring to restrain trade in radio and television sets between Canada and the U.S.

Canadian subsidiaries of the three firms are named as co-conspirators.

An American reporter asked Rogers whether the suit still was likely to proceed.

"I am not going to say anything about the suit itself," Rogers replied.

He said there were no definite plans for future meetings between him and the Canadian minister, but both Fulton and Rogers said their discussions had produced "better understanding" on both sides.

Canada has registered three diplomatic protests against the U.S. anti-trust action, and Fulton, in an address Wednesday night before the New York State Bar Association, charged that U.S. anti-trust cases involve "more interference, or apparent assertion of a right to interfere, with commerce subject to Canada than is fitting or acceptable" between two friendly countries.

Guatemalans Destroy Bridge, Arousing Anger of Mexicans

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Hostilities toward neighboring Guatemala mounted in Mexico today as the result of a report that Guatemalan demonstrators had destroyed a border bridge and Guatemala planes had been flown over a Mexican city.

The international police charged in turned that 20 armed Mexicans had crossed the border Thursday and plundered the village of Santa Ana.

Mexico's government Party of Revolutionary Institutions (PRI) called on federal persons to assemble in Mexico City tomorrow before the presidential palace to demonstrate their support for President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

Lopez Mateos broke diplomatic relations with Guatemala last week after President Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes charged Mexican protest against the strafing of Mexican fishing boats. Three fishermen were killed. Guatemala claimed they were smugglers.

Several thousands residents held a meeting Thursday night in Acapulco to back Lopez Mateos.

Reports from Tapachula, larger Mexican city on the 40-mile border and military headquarters for the district, said a Guatemalan plane flew southeast over the Guatemalan side of the Suchiate River and out of control bombed. It resulted in destruction of the bridge linking Ayutla, Guatemala, with Ciudad Hidalgo, Mexico, the reports said.

Tapachula also reported that a squadron of Guatemalan planes flew northeast over Mexican territory almost daily.

Guatemala has complained to the United Nations and two inter-American organizations that Mexico is concentrating troops in the coastal border area.

The PRI gathering on December, with Guatemala complaining that U.S. and Mexican boats were fishing illegally in her Pacific waters. Ydigoras Fuentes charged that "bandits and pirates" would be fired on. Strafing followed.

High Costs May Lose Canada Leadership in Export Trade

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada is in danger of losing her world place in world export trade through her own inflated costs, a leading banker warns.

A senior Bank of Toronto, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said also Thursday night that Canada's trade is threatened with isolation in trade by the formation of "exclusive trading clubs" throughout the world.

In a strongly-worded address to the Vancouver Board of Trade, the Scottish - born banker said Canada is showing a disturbing tendency of becoming a high-cost economy.

"Like the United States...we are gaining about all the export markets. For Canada, at any rate, this poses a serious problem ... for our export trade is to a point of explosive danger.

"All one has to do is to look at a TV program advertising identical goods here and in the United States to see how our costs have eroded away and beyond that of the United States . . . the whole Western world is in the grip of inflation and Canada is among the worst."

Mr. Muir made these suggestions to expand Canadian trade and "make it more competitive, stronger":

1. Look our costs squarely in the eye" and gain productive efficiency while cutting protective tariffs.

2. Look to the Commonwealth for natural group of trading partners and consider carefully relations with the other countries of North and South America lest Canada "become the true North in—Europe and—Far—East."

3. Consider a policy of free trade within certain industries or industrial groups, which might be less frightening than Britain's recent proposal of full free trade between Canada and the U.K.

Four Teams Will Play Extra Games In Senior Loop

CORNWALL (CP)—Coach Ray Miron of Cornwall Chevies said today his team will play two extra-season games against Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, scheduled for Feb. 18 and tentatively for Feb. 19.

Whitby Dunlops and Kingston Merchants are playing additional games Feb. 2 and Feb. 18. The games are being added to fill a gap in the Ontario Hockey Association Eastern division schedule as a result of the withdrawal of Belleville McFarlands. The Macs have Sunday for the world championship at Czechoslovakia.

Miron said the Feb. 18 game will be a Cornwall home game, played either in Cornwall or Montreal. The Feb. 19 game will be played in Hull but both clubs will collect gate receipts on that date. The Feb. 25 date is not yet definite.

Miron also said that as far as Cornwall was concerned right-winger Ron Boudrias would be going to Europe with the McFarlands.

He said Drury Denyes, McFarlands manager, has promised Cornwall first crack at defenceman Boucher '24,' was originally the property of Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League but was sent to the Cheviex by Montreal Canadiens. Montreal Canadiens farm director, with the approval of Denyes, would be loaned to the Macs for the European trip.

Denyes is to let Miron know tonight, after the Chevies-McFarlands game in Belleville, whether the replacement is available.

DEMERIT SYSTEM NOT IN EFFECT UNTIL MARCH 31

Plan Starts Sunday On Trial Basis

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's driver demerit system is to go into operation March 31 instead of this Sunday.

The last-minute switch was announced by Transport Minister Yaremko in the Ontario Legislature Thursday. He said the two-month delay will give time for plans to increase speed limits in Ontario and the court dispute over the province's careless driving charge.

The demerit system, providing three-month licence suspensions for motorists collecting 12 demerits in any two - year period, assesses five demerits for careless driving, two for exceeding the speed limit by more than 10 miles an hour and two for exceeding it by less than 10.

Mr. Yaremko said the plan will start Sunday on a trial basis, giving his department more time to educate the public and take out the "kinks."

FROST APPROVES

Premier Frost said he views the trial run "with considerable enthusiasm" because "it gives us the opportunity of educating the public before it becomes effective."

The new speed limits are to be increased on secondary highways Yaremko said, and hence the two-demerit speeding offence will not be started against motorists until August, four months after the point system begins operation.

Speed limits on some sections of divided highways would be increased to 60 miles an hour from 55 before April 1, and the limit on certain one-lane highways increased to 55 from 50 before Aug. 1.

TRUCK LIMITS

The limit for trucks would stay at 55 on divided highways but be increased to 50 on two-lane highways so there wouldn't be too much passing of cars.

Mr. Yaremko said eventually some two - lane highways will have limits of 60 or more where warranted.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer argued the March 31 date is unrealistic because the careless driving charge might go to the Supreme Court of Canada and take six or eight months to settle.

Attorney-General Roberts replied he expects a settlement before then. He said he expects there is a favorable decision — and no further appeals — from the Court of Appeal Court on Chief Justice J. C. McRuer's ruling which declared the careless driving charge law last November.

The speed limits were questioned by A. H. Cowling (PC —Toronto High Parks) and T. D. Thomas (CCF—Oshawa).

Premier Frost emphasized they will not be general. For instance, he said, the limit on Highway 401 where it passes through the Belleville area would be raised to 60 but reduced to below 50 miles an hour.

LAKES MAY HONOR DEAD

TIMMINS (CP) — Lands and forests department officials and members of the Timmins Rod and Gun Club were told Thursday that thousands of Canadian lakes, designated by geographers, may be named after Canadians who have greatly served the province.

The proposal was a good one.

Choking Clouds of Smog Rolling Poisonous Way Across Britain

LONDON (CP) — Choking clouds of frightening smog lifted slightly from London today but still rolled their poisonous way across the rest of Britain.

Forecasters said the slight break meant there would be no repetition of the "yellow death" that killed 1,000 persons in London in 1952.

The capital's airport, 20 miles from the city, was closed completely closed in.

Flights were diverted to Gatwick Airport, south of London, until fog closed it down Thursday, stranding 6,000 airliners.

Government scientists warned the smog contained concentrated and poisonous fumes in the fog already were worse than on the first day of the killer fog seven Decembers ago.

Weather experts predicted no early break in the fog belt

Brockville Chief Called To Tell What He Knows

Put All Men on Case 'If Facts Warrant It'

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Roberts said today the entire provincial police criminal investigation branch will be employed, if warranted, in connection with a Brockville police report that a group of supposedly respectable persons is masterminding crimes in Canada.

The report was made Wednesday by Wilmot F. Young, Brockville's police chief. He said the multi - million - dollar robbery of the Brockville Trust and Savings Company last May was the work of a highly-organized group of criminals — "many holding positions of trust."

Mr. Roberts said Chief Young has been called to Toronto today to tell what he knows about the case.

"If the facts warrant it, we will take the necessary steps," the attorney-general said. "In any case, we'll use every detective we have to get to the bottom of this."

Mr. Roberts said the references by the Chief Young's report to the Brockville police commission were the first he had heard of a big-time criminal ring.

Chief Young told the commission that "it is alarming and unfortunate that such a group is operating in Canada and masterminding enormous crimes while hiding behind the cloak of respectability."

Rene Martin, 23, of Montreal, was sentenced to 12 years for his part in the Brockville robbery but the police chief said Martin was "only a messenger employed by supposedly respected persons."

Robber Irate About Way Ball Bounces

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP)—A bounding tennis ball led to the arrest of a man in connection with a $9,600 robbery.

Boys were bouncing the ball when it bounced in the window fabrics of a garage Thursday.

When they went to retrieve it they found a man counting $640.

Police arrested Donald McMath, 27, a tenant of the garage and a driver for a bakery that was robbed early that day.

He was charged with being an accessory to the robbery and receiving stolen money.

STUDY PARTY WORK

TORONTO (CP) — Liberals in Toronto and Ontario are preparing schools of "practical politics" in preparation for the expected provincial election next year, A. A. Scott, Liberal executive director in Ontario, said Thursday that 150 persons are attending the weekly classes in Toronto designed to teach volunteer party workers the fundamentals of political organizing. About 35 are attending classes in Toronto.

Majority Report Does Not Mention Wage Settlement

OTTAWA (CP)—The majority report of a conciliation board on a union contract dispute at Canadian Corporation Limited, Sarnia, has made no recommendation on a wage settlement for some 1,800 employees involved.

The report, made public here Thursday, said "no good purpose would be served" by its third-party views. It recommended only that the Crown-owned company and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC) meet and settle their wage dispute.

The union had asked for a 10-per-cent increase. The company argued its pay rates already were high. It estimated them at an average $2.40 an hour, or $2.74 counting fringe benefits, and said an increase would harm the export business.

The majority report was signed by the board chairman, Prof. C. B. Haig of Queen's University, Kingston, and the union nominee, Gordon Milling of Toronto.

Doctor Pulls Boy's Tooth From His Ear

LONDON (Reuters) — The story of a nine-year-old boy who hid a tooth in his ear for a year is told in a letter to the British Medical Journal.

When a school doctor looked in the boy's ear, she saw what she thought was the end of a plug of cotton baling. She sent the boy to another doctor, who could see the object and found it was a tooth.

Dr. G. G. Nooit said the boy admitted having put the tooth in his ear a year previously "for safe keeping."

Department Will Not Oppose Retention of 14-Man Council

James Hunter New President Of Labor Council

The regular meeting of the Belleville and District Labor Council was held last evening in the Odd Fellows Hall, Front St, Belleville. The election of officers was the big item of the evening. The following were elected for the year 1939: president — James Hunter; 1st vice-president — Ernie Gibbs; 2nd vice-president — John Harwood; corresponding secretary — Daisy La Rue; financial secretary and treasurer — Frank Pinkney; sergeant-at-arms — Eugene Hatch; while the executive committee includes D. Burshaw, Art Firth, W. Wenham, H. Pointer, P. Bridges.

The retiring president, D. Burshaw in his remarks to the delegates related some of the major items that the Council performed during 1938, the main one being the whole-hearted support the Labor gave to the local United Appeal of the total collected was roll deductions or weekly payments accounted for around $29,000). So he as a member of the United Appeal was highly pleased and stressed continuance of this worthwhile cause. Another item was the report of Bro. H. Pointer who is the Labor Council's representative on the "Do It Over" committee. Bro. Pointer said that the Council could help by asking the various locals to have their members not to buy "moonlight" or work all day and to others get out of work at night which there is a lot being asked for to bring this into effect.

The president D. Burshaw before calling the meeting open at 8 o'clock had the delegates stand and pay a silent tribute to one of its members Bro. Art Reed of the Cordt Lock Co. He was a good trade unionist and will be sadly missed in the Labor Council. The meeting adjourned at 10.20.

Contrary to the inference gained two weeks ago, the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs will present no opposition to the application of the city for a private bill to retain the present size of council at 14 members and a mayor.

This was assured today in letter received by City Solicitor H. A. Pringle, following an interview with department officials in Toronto yesterday.

Present for the interview with J. W. P. Carter, Deputy Minister of the Department of Municipal Affairs was Mr. Pringle, City Manager Drury S. Denyes, and W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings, West.

Two weeks ago in city council members were informed by City Clerk Mrs. Anne Haggarty that she had been informed through a telephone conversation with municipal affairs officials that the department would oppose the city's application to retain the present size of council.

Yesterday after the interview with local city officials and Mr. Sandercock Mr. Carter verbally informed the delegation that his department would not oppose the city's application and today this was confirmed in letter.

This Department has no opposition in respect to maintaining the present size of city council and considering the territory provision which would allow this size to 1950," was the text of the letter.

A copy of the letter will be forwarded to the city solicitor with requests to advise council.

A year ago Belleville electors voted to reduce the size of council to eight members and a mayor and a private bill was asked for to bring this into effect, but it failed.

At the 1938 December election, however, the question was again put to the Belleville electors approving the retaining of the present size of council at 14 members and a mayor. The majority to retain the present council was 1,506.

BCI Drama Club Presents Spicy English Farce

What happens to the English boarding school system in post-war-time when the "Ministry of Embarkment" mistakenly assigns St. Swithin's School for Girls into their educational premises with Hilary Hall School for Boys, is the theme of a hilarious three-act play presented by the Drama Club of BCI'S which opened last night for a two-day run.

An audience of approximately 500 forgot their worries and cares for two hours and 15 minutes and roared with laughter as members of the cast competently rollicked through John Brighton's sparkling satirical farce, "The Happiest Days of Your Life".

The three-act comedy was presented in BCI'S auditorium and will be presented tonight, commencing at 8.15 p.m.

The hilarity of the play stems from the problems involved when a very masculine domicile, Hilary Hall, is suddenly invaded by some 30 female students, the principal of which is Miss Gossage, Miss Evelyn Whitchurch, and her two assistant mistresses, Miss Fevoy Pond, quite perturbed over the invasion of her feminine premises with another boarding school, was expecting St. Swithin's Hall to be a select boarding school.

The over-worked "Ministry of Devacuation" in assigning the bombed-out schools to share Hilary Hall, had failed to look at the end of the war, had "goofed".

The plot is further complicated by the simultaneous arrival of the two principals who are to visit their daughter, the other to see their son, and check up on their respective schools.

The cast was well rehearsed, Director Miss Evelyn Whitchurch, principal of St. Swithin School for Girls; Deidra Doran, as Miss Gossage, the awkward, athletic senior assistant Mistress of St. Swithins; Trina Janlisch, as Joyce Harper, a student visiting Spain; Mistress; David Leech, as the mischievous Hilary Hall pupil, Phillip Hargreaves; Sylvia Schwab as the bouncy, friendly St. Swithins' pupils, Barbara Cahoun; Judy Vermilyea, as Mrs. Peck; Ian MacMillan, as Rev. Edward Peck; Irene Hrachovec, as Mrs. Sowter, and Richard Fluke, as Edgar Sowter.

The play was directed by Kathleen Morrison, assisted by A. G. Beach, and produced by Betty Gardiner. The set, designed by J. C. Ritchie, was constructed under the direction of L. Lambert. Edward Pranchuk was in charge of properties, and the prompter was Elsie Sobie.

Furnace Oil Up Half Cent Gallon in City

Announced by major oil companies earlier in the week, a slightly increased price for furnace oil has caught up with Belleville householders during the past two days.

The price increase at Belleville is on the basis of one half cent per gallon, bringing the delivered price to 10.5 cents. For some retailers the new price went into effect on Tuesday and others on Wednesday morning. In the latter case the average householder the increased price may possibly be an additional $2 or so for the balance of the winter.

But the exceptionally cold weather during December and also long periods of zero weather in January will more added fuel bills.

The local dealer estimated the increase in fuel consumption so far this winter over the normal year to be at least 15 per cent.

Inquiry Told Bumps Grew Worse and Worse

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — Mine overman Arthur Nolles, one of 174 men trapped in last October's Springhill mine disaster, told the McInnes royal commission inquiry Thursday that there seemed to be four bumps, each harder and harder" the night the men were lifted 30 of his fellow workers in No. 2 colliery here.

He said that after the last and heaviest bump he looked at his watch. It was 8.45 p.m.

Mr. Nolles told the commission that at 8.40 on the fateful night, he "felt a terrific bump" but returned to work after mine engines stopped hoisting.

The three-man commission under Halifax lawyer Donald McInnes started hearings Monday. So far, 27 of 32 witnesses have been heard.

The commission expects to conclude sittings today.

Herbert Zorychta, the federal mines department's resident engineer, told the inquiry he "wouldn't want to see No. 2 colliery put back into operation.

Dosco coal chief Harold Gordon testified earlier that No. 2 should never be reopened even for survey purposes. Mr. Zorychta said transportation equipment has registered one or two underground disturbances a day since the Oct. 23 bump.

Students Will Stage Model United Nations

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian political leaders with international interests are to play an active role in the coming model United Nations which is to draw students and diplomats together here in April.

In panel discussions and sessions modelled on those of the UN, the delegates and special guests will debate international issues with the aim of giving the students — and the public — a better insight into the workings of the UN.

Three evening sessions will be highlighted by addresses by General Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, Finance Minister Donald Gordon, who toured Asia last year, and Liberal Opposition Leader Hon. R. Pearson, former minister of external affairs.

At least 300 students, 50 of them women, are expected as representatives of 43 U.S. and 17 Canadian universities will attend the mock General Assembly, Security Council and International Court of Justice. They will be briefed and assisted by official diplomatic representatives of the project by permanent missions to the United Nations, Ottawa delegations and embassies in Ottawa.

TO REPRESENT NATIONS

More than 50 of the United Nations' 81 member states are to be represented by their diplomatic missions. Harvard has been assigned the part of the United States, the University of California takes on Russia's role, and Yale is to be the United Kingdom.

McGill and the University of Montreal are to represent China, and U. of M. in addition will provide voices for France, Spain and Ethiopia.

Assumption University of Windsor, is to represent Norway; Queen's University, Cuba; Royal Military College, Kingston, Uruguay; University of Toronto, Salvador; Carleton University Sudan; University of Toronto, New Zealand.

Most sessions are to be held at the University of Montreal's social centre.

Cuban Trials Are Being Held In Three Cities

HAVANA (AP)—Further trials of Batista officers are under way in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Cuba's easternmost Oriente Province, Vicente Ruiz, an army lieutenant, was ordered to death there Thursday.

War crimes trials resume in Havana today after a three-day break. The names of those to face the military court in Havana have not been disclosed, but they were believed to be lesser officers.

Two tribunals were planned in the capital, one in La Cabana fortress where most of those under trial are confined, and the other at the Camp Columbia army headquarters.

The supreme revolutionary tribunal also meets late today to rule on the appeal of former army captain, Pedro Morejon, from the death sentence given him at Camp Columbia earlier this week.

The appeal of former major Jesus Sosa Blanco, condemned to death last week in a showcase trial still is pending.

Trials also were resumed Thursday at Matanzas, capital of Matanzas province. A Roman Catholic priest, Rev. Domingo Lorenzo, is acting as defense counsel there for three men accused of murder and looting.

Father Lorenzo consented to represent them after lawyers refused the assignment.

Revolutionary leader Fidel Castro said in a speech Thursday night that any official of the new regime found stealing from the government will be punished "without mercy."

Addressing representatives of Cuban sports associations, Castro reiterated earlier pledges that the provisional government will operate honestly. He declared no one in the government is there to get rich.

With the city's added area as result of annexation, construction in the city for 1939 is expected to take a big jump.

CLC President May Intervene In CBC Strike

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — President Claude Jodoin of the 110,000-member Canadian Labor Congress may intervene today in the strike of 1,000 broadcasting employees in Montreal.

Mr. Jodoin conferred Thursday night for two hours with a union union delegation from Montreal and Toronto and left early Friday to Ottawa to see him.

After the meeting Mr. Jodoin told only that "I may have something to say tomorrow."

Mr. Bradley Nunn and Fernand Quellin, president of the Association Des Realisateurs (CCCL), said the whole strike situation was discussed at the meeting.

STILL STALEMATED

The conference followed three other developments Thursday:

1. The CBC said the walkout of 1,000 employees has reached a stalemate and that no solution than when it started Dec. 29.

2. In Montreal, Jean Ducepps, president of the Union des Artistes, said that the 1,000 striking broadcasters and sympathizers that CBC officials referred to as showing "no excitement" at a meeting Wednesday with himself and Mr. Quirion in Ottawa.

3. R. C. Fraser, CBC director of public relations, confirmed in Ottawa that the CBC did not refuse to discuss a settlement because a conference was not arranged for that purpose. The meeting was held to discuss views and grievances which might lead to a solution of the strike.

Mr. Ducepps and Mr. Quirion were members of the delegation which met Mr. Jodoin.

NO MEETINGS PLANNED

After the meeting both said they had no knowledge of any further meetings with officials of the publicly-owned CBC. A CBC official said no representations to the board were made for a further meeting.

The strike of 74 producers, which has disrupted CBC television production in Montreal, was called to enforce demands of the producers for recognition of their association as the collective bargaining agent. Recognition is refused by the CBC which claims the producers are part of management under a ruling of the Canada Labor Relations Board.

Speaking to the Montreal mass meeting, Mr. Ducepps said he and Mr. Quirion were asked by Revenue Minister Nowlan, who is Minister of Parliament for the CBC, to again meet representatives of the executive. However, he described the Wednesday talks here as "just a block. He couldn't get anywhere."

Mr. Fraser said Mr. Ducepps's statement gives a "false impression" of the Wednesday meeting. Any suggestions put forward for settlement by Mr. Quirion and Mr. Ducepps were discussed at well as items brought up by CBC officials.

Curbside Mailing Now Available For Some Centres

Although Postmaster, the Honorable William Hamilton has announced that curbside mailing "is now available for the convenience of the public," it is not expected that the new postal facility will be provided in Belleville at least in the near future.

This was suggested today by Postmaster Arthur Vanderwater who said he did not think that curbside mailing would be provided locally at least until the new post office on Station street was ready.

Inauguration of such a service would be on the basis of public demands and other such considerations as city traffic condition, lack of parking facilities, and the co-operation of civic authorities in facilitating the placing of the curbside mailing boxes.

It was noted that the curbside mailing boxes have been in use in several Ontario cities.

NEW BOX DEVISED

In making the announcement, Postmaster-General Gardiner said considerable progress has been made available. Mr. Hamilton stated the post office department had been in consultation with various types of receptacles and a satisfactory type curb box had been devised.

The new installation is a specially designed large-size red mail box having a funnel receptacle facing the road for motorists, as well as the conventional flap-type opening facing the sidewalk for pedestrians' use.

QUICK MAILING

The motorists need only draw up to the side of the road, reach from the auto and deposit their mail in the "curbside" or funnel receptacle, and then drive on. The new device is considered more advantageous when installed on a one-way street, located on the driver's side.

The advantages of this facility are apparent, in that persons quick mailing without the driver having to leave his car. It saves him the trouble of finding a parking spot and then walking his car back to the postal lobby or at an ordinary mail receptacle. It helps speed up posting by eliminating the crowding of postal lobbies and will serve to relieve traffic congestion; all of special consideration in these days of speed.

Deputy Speaker Reprimanded by Liberal Leader

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario legislature's new deputy speaker, William Murdoch (PC — Essex South), ran into controversy Thursday only a day after his appointment.

Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer complained as Mr. Murdoch twice refused to rebuke G. E. Jackson (PC—Leeds South) for statements about Mr. Wintermeyer and Oliver Crockford, Liberal candidate in York - Scarborough.

At first Mr. Murdoch asked the House to await the return of the Speaker, Rev. A. W. Downer, from a funeral so a ruling could be made but Mr. Wintermeyer protested.

"Yesterday you stood in this House and said you would deal impartially with any matter that came before this House."

DERISIVE REMARKS

Mr. Wintermeyer's complaints came during the traditional motion for an address in reply to the speech from the throne, moved by Mr. Jackson and seconded by Rene Brunelle (PC—Cochrane North). Both Conservatives made derisive remarks about Mr. Wintermeyer and Liberal Leader Donald MacDonald.

"The London member accused Mr. Wintermeyer of 'irresponsible and destructive criticism' and referred to Mr. MacDonald's platform as a "lanzied mass of windy verbiage." Mr. Brunelle called the Liberals "the prophets of doom, the merchants of discontent and disunity."

Mr. Wintermeyer objected when Mr. Jackson said the Liberal leader's statement that qualifications of Ontario teachers are not what they should be "will not be forgotten by this large and hardworking body of devoted men and women."

CHARGES INNUENDO

This was an "innuendo" and "a reflection on me personally," said Mr. Wintermeyer.

"The honorable leader of the Opposition is little too sensitive in this matter" Mr. Murdoch told him.

The second complaint came when Mr. Jackson said Mr. Crockford was accused of "imprudent and irregular" behavior by Judge Robert Forsyth in an inquiry into land speculation in Scarborough when Mr. Crockford was reeve.

Mr. Wintermeyer said it was unfair to criticize a man who wasn't present to defend himself. But it was pointed out that Mr. Jackson was quoting from the Toronto Star, which asked in an editorial comment Jan. 15 about Mr. Crockford's selection as a Liberal candidate.

Beggs, president of the Dufferin School Home-School Assn/s, Trenton (left), and E. D. Magnus (right) who is a member of the national executive of UNICEF. Mrs. Tory was the guest speaker at the Home and School meeting at Dufferin School, Wednesday, and she gave the many who attended a closer insight into the work UNICEF is doing for the millions of suffering children in the world. She also explained to the parents the many uses the money they give to the children on Hallowe'en night is put to in this regard. Films were also shown during the evening. (Staff Photo).

ANAF Veterans Induct Eleven New Members

The Army Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, Branch 201, held induction ceremonies for eleven new members yesterday evening in the ANAF Hall. J. C. Lundberg, branch president, assisted by C. Brown, membership chairman. Over 85 members were present for the impressive initiation ceremonies. Presently at a membership of 620 people the local branch is hoping to reach an enrolment of 900 members by the end of the year, according to Mr. Lundberg, who is also second vice-president for the national body of the ANAF.

The next induction of new members will probably be on May 24th when it is expected that the Ottawa branch will be joining in the Victoria Day festivities with their pipe band.

Armand Duffy played Reveille and the Last Post. New members were piped in by John Haggerty.

Following the ceremonies a social gathering and buffet luncheon were held, during which the presentation of a cheque was made to the Mac's Booster Club by Branch president Jack Lundberg.

Committee Chairmen Named By Community Centre Board

TRENTON — Naming of the various committee chairmen for the coming year featured the first meeting of the Community Centre Board under the new chairman, John Farrell. All members of the board were present with the exception of Councillor Vagn Lange who is vacationing in Florida.

The committees are as follows, with the first named to be chairman: finance, Councillor Vagn Lange, Norman Bantleman; building maintenance and equipment, Councillor Howard Aziz, Lyle Carr; advertising and promotion, D. R. "Nick" Fraser, Councillor Howard Aziz; personnel and public relations, Jim MacDonald, Cliff Baker; rental and contracts, Cliff Baker, Jim MacDonald; publicity, John Farrell, Councillor Vagn Lange.

In speaking on the duties of the various committees the new chairman, John Farrell, said that a press release concerning the Community Centre may be written up by any member of the board but must either have his signature or that of Councillor Vagn Lange, vice-chairman of the board, before it can be passed on for publication.

He said the purchase of tobacco by the manager of the rink would also be eliminated. He informed the group that any official complaints about the Community Centre or the board of the manager of the rink will be forwarded to the chairman and only the chairman would reprimand the manager if it should become necessary.

He placed a financial report before the board for the month once a month and that meeting will be held the second and fourth Thursdays of the month.

ICE THICK

In the absence of Walter Bowen, temporary manager of the rink, gave his report to the board and mentioned the various jobs which had been done during the past month. He said that the board he felt the ice was getting too thick and may have to be chipped down soon.

Mr. Bowen said they have planned on the opening of the rink Wednesday night between an airforce team and a team from the Royal Military College which he felt would be a big attraction. Hockey is favored fans in Trenton. He said admission prices have been set at 35 cents and 25 cents and he felt this alone would be a big help in filling the rink on that night.

He also praised the work of Al Hockaday, saying he has done things in the line of regular work which should have been done yearly.

In discussing the matter of the thick ice the board gave the committee concerned the power to bring in an ice chipper for a sum not to exceed $150 and have the ice chipped down when it became necessary.

Lyle Carr stated that the ice was now nearly four inches thick but that as long as the cold weather held it would be alright. If a mild spell should come then it would be necessary to bring the ice chipper in and have the ice chipped down to about an inch. Normally it should be from three quarters of an inch to an inch he said.

The board will also study the possibilities of buying an ice chipper to have when it is needed. It was stated they cost between $1,000 and $1,200 but would pay for themselves by keeping the ice trimmed down and thus making it easier for the ice plant to keep a good hard surface on the ice and less ice power.

Several suggestions were brought forward regarding bringing some form of entertainment to the fans during the remainder of the winter and for the next season including wrestling in the near future being suggested. The suggestions were turned over to the chairman of the advertising and promotion committee, Nick Fraser.

WEEK NEW MANAGER

The question of a new manager for the Community Centre was brought up by the new chairman and Councillor Howard Aziz said he felt the job should go to someone in the immediate area. The matter was turned over to Jim MacDonald, who was requested to bring in some recommendations on this at the next meeting of the board.

On the question of insurance for the building and the contents, Nick Fraser, of the Fraser and Fraser Insurance Agency in Trenton which handles most of the town's insurance, said that the Community Centre and the machinery in it is all insured against fire for the sum of $250,000. He also told the board that before the premium for this insurance had, in previous years, cost over $4,000 it will be let only about $900 for the same insurance in 1959. He explained this large reduction was due to the installation of the sprinkler system and said that it would pay for itself in a very few years.

The board approved the purchase of a white "step-on can" for the use in the St. John Ambulance Room, as well as a mat for the same place.

Tom Bardell was re-elected to the post of secretary-treasurer.

Quakers Defeat 6 Repair Depot By 42-33 Count

TRENTON — The Belleville Quakers chalked up another victory last night in a basketball game against an RCAF team at the No. 6 Repair Depot in Trenton. Using not quite the friendly persuasion approach the local team played an up and down game. Getting off to a very slow start in the first six minutes of the game, during which neither team scored a point, the Quakers got rolling with three quick baskets by Bob Elliott and led 7-2 over the RCAF quintet by the end of the first quarter. The Air Force team came back very strong in the second quarter with Lyall Swansburg sinking three baskets and a free throw for seven of the ten points for his squad. At half time the score stood at 16-12 in favor of the Quakers. The second half opened with the big drive being put on by the RCAF boys to score 10 points to the Quakers six. The third quarter ended with the RCAF team ahead by a score of 33-22. In the fourth quarter the Quakers took command of the scoring end of the game however. Stan Jackson and Bert Faulkner connected for the points apiece to lead the Quakers to victory and win by a nine point margin for a final score of 42-33.

High scorer for the game was Lyall Swansburg of the RCAF squad with an individual total of 20 points. There was a close way tie for second highest scorer in the fix and also for the top scoring honors for the Deacons, Bob Elliott, Dave Deacon, Stan Jackson and Len Parkhurst all connected for individual tallies of eight points. During the game, which became quite hard-fought at times, five technical fouls were called on the Quaker team by referee Gord Stewart.

Lineups:

Quakers: Faulkner 7, Parkhurst 8, Deacon 4, Elliott 8, Jackson 8, Walmsley.

RCAF: Swansburg 20, Massell 4, Taterchuck 2, Riley, Marshall 4, Rice 6.

Referee: Gord Stewart.

1,000 Members Year's Goal for Canadian Legion

TRENTON' — One thousand members is this year's goal for Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion in Trenton, it was announced recently by the chairman of the membership committee, Carman Livingstone.

The new goal is the highest in the history of the branch which is already the largest in Canada for any town of comparable size. This is an increase of approximately 150 from the previous record high set last year, when the Branch's target of 850 members was exceeded by 11, the final official total for 1958 being 861 members.

Having initiated 21 new members during the January Branch meeting and with more than 60 applications for membership on hand awaiting processing, members of the Membership Committee are confident of reaching and even surpassing their lofty target.

Already in the planning stage is another "Air Force Night," which proved so successful the past two years. Only a qualified and still serving RCAF personnel will be initiated on that occasion and it is expected that Comrade (Air Commodore) James D. Harvey, Chief Staff Officer of Training Command, RCAF, will officiate during the initiation ceremony.

Assisting Chairman Livingstone on the Membership Committee are Comrades Neil Black and F. J. Martin.

Overproduction Could Reduce Support Prices

TORONTO (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harkness says the federal government will be able to keep paying "reasonably good" support prices "as long as no serious overproduction takes place."

Speaking Thursday to a meeting of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association, Harkness said:

"If overproduction does occur, serious problems present themselves."

These wheat surplus continued to be the country's chief agricultural headache. There also was a glut on farmers' cream and skim milk and a potential surplus of butter.

Canadian egg production is increasing beyond the ability of outside markets to absorb them and there is, of course, difficulty with hogs", he added.

Ontario livestock commissioner W. P. Watson said earlier in the day that farmers are failing to make less from livestock this year than last.

He said cattle prices would be determined in Chicago, not Toronto or Winnipeg, and would probably be lower at the end of the year than in January.

Top Canadians Endorse Ideals Of Brotherhood

TORONTO — Brotherhood Week, sponsored each year by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews has received the endorsation of the Prime Minister of Canada, a business executive and a jurist. The Rt. Hon. John G. Diefenbaker, the Honorary Chairman of Brotherhood Week and the Co-Chairman, Mr. Joseph M Pigott and J. Alex Prud'homme of Montreal urge Canadians to put into practice the ideals of brotherhood.

Mr. Diefenbaker stated, "It is well for us to set aside each year a week dedicated to the appreciation of what brotherhood means to each and everyone of us in our daily lives. To me, brotherhood in its simplest every day 'form is exemplified by the good neighbor whose love for his fellow man transcends all racial, religious or social differences."

Mr. Pigott, Chairman of the Pigott Construction Company, Hamilton, Ontario, points out the fact that people are the foundation of the nation and the relationship of these people who are divided into many racial, religious and ethnic groups is basic to the future of Canada. "In order as these groups strive for unity without uniformity, for unity within diversity, this nation will remain strong and continue to play a leading role in international affairs," states Mr. Pigott.

Mr. Prud'homme draws attention to the limitation of the law, "Law, as it is well known controls only outward behavior. Its efficiency becomes questionable when it is not sufficiently understood and when it runs counter to popular sentiment. The actual respect which it commends depends in large measure on the sanctions which support it. In our world harassed by conflict at all levels of human society, Brotherhood alone can guard the freedom of individuals and nations."

Jack Lundberg, right, president of Branch 201 of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, presented that group's donation to the Macs' Booster Club to Jim Matthews (left) and Armand Duffy (centre) of the Booster Club.

The Belleville McFarlands will have a mascot to accompany them on their trip to Europe. "Archie" the new fellow sitting on the contribution box, will be under the care of Macs' captain Floyd Crawford during the trip. Responsible for "Archie" are these members of Branch 201 of the ANAF: (left to right) Don Lee, Mrs. C. Lundberg, Ray Fletcher, Pat Boyle and Fred Poole. Absent, but quite active in the project, was J. J. Lee. Over $100 in coppers and small change was raised by the "Archie Fund" campaign for the Macs' Overseas Fund.

Mayor Gerald Hyde received another contribution for the McFarlands' Overseas Fund yesterday morning. Mr. Jim Williamson (left) presented a cheque on behalf of the O'Keefe brewing firm to Mayor Hyde. The fund currently stands at $22,000 and is expected to grow considerably before the Macs leave Sunday morning.

LIPSTICK NECESSITY?

"In the Commons," observes the Ottawa Journal, Miss Margaret Aitken contends that lipstick is not a luxury, which is a tenable point provided it is not slapped on apparently with a trowel."

A statement like that could be the starting point for some searching deductions. If lipstick is not a luxury, we could argue, it must be a necessity. If lipstick is a necessity, what kind of a society have we when we regard the artificial coloring of lips (presumably women's lips) as unessential?

This line of thought, though, runs aground on the Ottawa Journal's use of the word "tenable." The Journal is not the kind of journal which uses a word without meaning it and if the Journal says that Miss Aitken's argument is "tenable" there must be more to it than meets the eye at first glance.

Suppose, for the sake of argument, that lipstick suddenly became unavailable in Canada. Would there be any sharp repercussions on our economy? We doubt it. But suppose, again, that an individual woman was deprived of lipstick. Would there be drastic changes in her life? There could easily be, and this might extend to her finding it difficult. One can think of a variety of occupations in which an unlipsticked woman, faced with competition by others of her sex not similarly deprived of artificial coloring, would find her chance of advancement reduced, if she did not, indeed, face the danger of getting the sack. To such a woman lipstick is not a luxury, any more than a tie is a luxury for a bank clerk.

Our immediate reaction, though, having reached this point in our wrestling with the question, is that we need some intermediary word between luxury and necessity. Alas, consulting the dictionary proved that this contention, unlike Miss Aitken's, is not tenable. The dictionary makes it very clear that in the circumstances which make a thing a necessity can be manmade, that they do not have to be the result of natural law. A woman's lipstick and a man's tie have just as much right, under certain circumstances, to be considered necessities as has our daily bread. We would, however, insist that lipstick and neckties are not necessaries, a nice distinction in the meaning of two similar words in which, we think, the dictionary will support us - - for once.

WHY THIS WINDOW-DRESSING?

The twenty first congress of the Communist Party of the USSR opened in Moscow Tuesday. There is not the slightest doubt but that it will endorse the policies of Nikita S. Khrushchev. It will assert that it, and not Khrushchev, really rules the country, but it will make this assertion not because it is a fact but because it is a fiction which Khrushchev, for reasons of his own, wishes to publicize. Its very assertion of independence will be a proof of its subservience.

In his insistence that he acts at the dictates of the party, Khrushchev differs from Stalin, who ruled for long periods without calling any party congress. It must be presumed that Khrushchev, who is not a man given to idle gestures, believes that there is some advantage to be gained from making the party a front for the ruling hierarchy. What could this advantage be? Two possibilities suggest themselves - - the party could be made the scapegoat if things go wrong, or the party could decide any future struggle for power.

Let us examine the first possible use of the party. Does anybody believe that the average Russian would be likely to absolve Khrushchev and his clique from blame in the event of a national disaster, on the economic front or in a war? Surely the answer is in the negative.

There remains the possible role of the party in averting chaos at a period such as followed the death of Stalin. Certainly a party with real power could be a stabilizing force settling the claims of rivals for the mantle of leadership. But if Khrushchev believes that a puppet party could fill the same role, he would appear to be over-optimistic.

The only other alternative explanation which occurs is that Khrushchev believes this window dressing of collective, rather than individual, leadership will deceive some, at home and abroad. In this he would appear to underestimate the impact of his own forceful personality. It is impossible to accept him in the role of the servant, rather than the master, of the party.

The latest appointments to the Senate list a Buchanan, a Higgins and a Hnatyshyn. The upper chamber as yet lacks a representative of Chinese extraction, and an Eskimo, but it seems to be becoming a cross-section of the diverse Canadian population, particularly as, unlike the Commons, it already contains an Indian.—(Ottawa Citizen.)

Listen to Wrong People

Ottawa Journal

The Manchester Guardian, that outspoken British newspaper, has laid a most serious charge against the British Foreign Office. It is a charge which from lack of details of the evidence we hesitate to lay, but it seems to have a good deal of circumstantial evidence in its support. The charge is that the British and the American and Canadian foreign affairs authorities are themselves at least somewhat vulnerable to the same charge. And for Canadians the charge must also be read with an awareness that in many parts of the world, especially the Middle East, Canada has no representative of her own but depends substantially on the Foreign Office.

The Guardian asks how it was that the British government could have been so ignorant of what was going on in Cuba prior to the success of the Castro revolt. It recalls that recently as November 10 Mr. Hugh Delargy told the Foreign Secretary that "civil war is raging in Cuba" but that Mr. Selwyn Lloyd replied that "there is not a good deal of disagreement" about what was taking place. And four weeks later Mr. Delargy to satisfy another request of Miss Delargy for further explanations of arms be made to the British government. That was only two weeks before Batista fled.

The Guardian goes on to this severe conclusion:

> Were we to believe the Government has been taken by surprise. It is wise to blame the British Ambassador in Havana, who is not responsible for our discomfiture. He is not to blame, nor our persistent misinterpretation of events in the Middle East. The disorder goes deeper; it seems to be built into the whole structure of the Foreign Office. It is not that our representatives should meet too few people; the trouble is that they meet the wrong ones. They would often be better employed if they had but to sit at home reading the newspapers.

Mr. Alistair Cooke was not particularly near the Eastern borders of Cuba, but readers of his despatches (to the Guardian) from New York will have gathered that he knows better than Mr. Selwyn Lloyd. They at least will have known that there was a war on. Similarly the commercial profits to be made from supplying arms to government's like ex-President Batista's so enormous as to outweigh the supplying arms to governments (the morality of such deals?) of the Middle East, unlike not merely from the supporters of Dr. Castro but among men and women in most of Europe and South America who are hoping for his success. How many other dictators are we supplying, and what is their estimate of us? Again, we have had better not go to the Foreign Office for an answer."

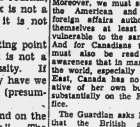
The gravity of that last sentence is not to be mistaken. The Guardian is no scandal-mongering newspaper that delights in "exposures." It enjoys a very high reputation for editorial integrity. It says, "we had better not go to the Foreign Office for an answer."

We do not know the whole truth in this. Too often have the people of the democracies been told half-truths or lies in foreign lands not by our foreign affairs authorities but by the military reporters whose despatches have been slighted by the authorities or put "under wraps" altogether. The Guardian mentions its own Mr. Alistair Cooke as Cuba; can it not also be said, for example, that Mr. Blair Fraser accurately reported the trouble brewing in the Middle East; and was The Journal's L. Norman Smith wrote an "I told you so" in 1950 about the upsurge in Asia that only now seems to have provoked Western government leaders to real concern? We remember, moreover, that when the latter reporter wrote from Yugoslavia and Russia of the power and progress of the Communist countries he was attacked even from pulpits for being a fellow traveller or for having been misled by clever Communist propagandists. We think too, of parts of the growing despatches from Korea and the East that came from Mr. Bill Stott, of The Canadian Press, and of how some people in Ottawa and in the Commons dismissed his disturbing truths as tales of a young fellow trying to stir up trouble.

It is hard to believe it but it seems true nevertheless that the democracies' diplomats abroad do tend to listen to the wrong people. It is equally hard to believe but it seems true that when some of our diplomats have sent home despatches of stern warning the home authorities in their turn have been inclined to ignore them on the grounds that, perhaps the envoy is "too close to things to make wise judgment." It is likewise hard to believe, but true, that even when the departmental authorities have been convinced of a state of danger and so reported to minister or Cabinet, the political chief, faced with conflicting views, certainly prior to World War II as evidenced by Ottawa's remaining of reports from Europe.

The Journal will not go so far as the Manchester Guardian and say that "we had better not go to the Foreign Office for an answer." But it does say that the department and too little on the ministerial level is open to ample evidence that large portions of our public are not disposed to face unhappy truths but find in world unrest only a challenge to be met with even shorter hours and earlier retirement.

The Guardian's charge should be a broader one, should be addressed outside the people of the democracies and their elected representatives.



British Bid Is Rejected

New York Times

If the Army Corps of Engineers maintains its rejection of a British company's low bid on a contract for two hydroelectric dams for an Arkansas dam the American taxpayer will be taxed an additional $5,000,000. The British bid was that much less than the one put in by a Philadelphia company. The contract was legalized by the so-called Big Ayres rivers bill. What happens to be so vague that although the Congress knows who thinks his business will be injured by the introduction of British machinery and equipment contract can make an issue of it.

The issue, under the law, is whether or not the national security requires the encouragement of foreign equipment. Special application is made to areas in which there is no direct defense interest. Sir Harold Caccia, the British Ambassador, has protested over what seems to be the practice of inviting outside bids and then rejecting them. Sir Harold finds it hard to believe "that the security of the United States will be imperiled if two turbines were built by her rather than by us."

It is evident that the Buy American Act is one way of raising the protective tariff to a much higher. It is also one way of making it difficult for the British and other allies to get dollar exchange here which they might use to buy American products in these matters of international trade we usually hurt ourselves when we hurt our friends. And, of course, the taxpayer pays the bill. Three hundred thousand dollars is not much in this year's budget, but it represents a kind of item that can run into big money and make it harder to keep the Federal state in line with the Federal income.

Mrs. John Luscombe spent the day with friends in Northwood.

The Rev. Father Twomey, parish priest at St. Michael's Church in this city died after a brief illness. He was born in County Cork, Ireland, on April 1st, 1858, and came to Canada in the year 1873 and immediately entered St. Michael's College, Toronto. Later he studied at the Grand Seminary, Montreal, and was ordained priest in the year 1882. From the year 1905 he came to Belleville from Tweed to assume charge of St. Michael's parish. The beautiful church had just been destroyed by fire and the new magnificent rebuilt church stands as a monument to him. The handsome new separate school upon the hospital lot was also built mainly as a result of his enthusiasm and great energy. He was a warm-hearted Irishman and his death has brought sincere feeling of regret to all his parishioners and citizens in general.

Changed Times

Hamilton Spectator

We have come a long way since the days of our grandparents when to be in debt was a disgrace and a reflection on a person's stability of character. A change of belief this generation has transformed debt into credit and made it thoroughly respectable. Society has sanctioned the change and be material rewards appear to have confirmed it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"OPEN DOORS"

William James, the beloved philosopher, in remarking to his students on a house that was once his home, remarked: "Oh, it's the most delightful house you ever saw. It has fourteen doors, all opening outwards" and to which his sister commended: "Brain fairly limited to fourteen, perhaps unfortunately."

Fourteen open doors are none too many for comfort in this world! They can also pour their light and energy invisibly from each door in the inside life. People are not afraid to open up their hearts where perhaps a great gathering of doors spring into action.

I am reminded of a book entitled "The Open Door". All books that have a touch of greatness have open doors to them. They are travelers, revealing themselves. Closed doors to mind are idle, cold, and uncommunicative, but when given their freedom they invite the world.

The untroubled mind throws its doors open to the four winds of the universe. Clean air is the result. Nature is not so modest. Let us call it the Mother of Doors. Certainly without doors of a minor character we would be deprived of most of the beauty of life. Doors are the first to welcome. All her doors open outward, where the space is greatest, and where freedom reigns.

No intelligent person would choose to live behind locked doors, as many do, but without their consent. Our freedom is our heritage, and we should be proud and ready to protect it, and help others to own it.

By GREGORY CLARK

After years of struggling along from hand to mouth and from annual deficit, many a social service organization or other association dedicated to worthy causes such as conservation or public welfare in some branch or other comes to the conclusion that what they want on their board of directors is a prominent and successful businessman, somebody who knows how to get things done.

And after a lot of artful search, they at last persuaded a big gun to come aboard and give their worthy organization the hard-headed direction it needs. Very often it is through his wife that he is commandeered.

As a rule, he wrecks the organization. By the time he has grown sick and tired of his well-meaning, good-hearted but dither-headed fellow directors, he has bullied many of them into a huff, reorganized the office on a sound business basis which the funds can't afford, and the sweet old voluntary workers have all vanished.

One group in which I have long taken an interest has not, however, a resounding success. It has a prominent public man who has been the life and soul of it what the secret is, as far as getting anywhere has not been made clear to the outside public. The big shots in shanghaiing a wealthy man into an association," he said, "is to have him shanghai other wealthy men into it. Wealthy men are great hero-worshipping bulldozers, as a rule. Even when they have the money, they get one wealthy man, get twenty, or fifty. And then she hums."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME PEOPLE CAN BE ALLERGIC TO COLD WEATHER

"Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, aged 8, is super-sensitive to cold weather. Soon after she becomes chilled, she develops hives. After certain tests, the doctors advised that I continue giving her capsules and stated there wasn't much else to do. When I asked if she would outgrow this, he was evasive. There is no history of allergy other than eczema in one member on my husband's side. — Mrs. M. W."

I'll be evasive, right along with your doctor. I don't know!

It is true that some people are allergic to cold, just as others are allergic to chocolate, ragweed, dust or almost anything else you can mention with the possible exception of money.

It is not often, however, that a case as clear-cut as your daughter's appears, as sensitive to cold. I presume the capsules you mention are some form of antihistamine, to control the hives when cold sets them off. I can't give you better, or different, advice, except to remind you that the best answer to allergy is to avoid the allergen which excites it. In other words, the little girl must learn to keep warm even when she goes out. The eczema in the child may be another form of allergy. Are you sure you have no cousins, great-aunts, or others who had hay fever, hives or some other allergy?

"Dear Dr. Molner: I hope you won't think I'm awful but how can I learn to sneeze without asking questions? When I sneeze I feel as one the uterus may have to be removed. Can this also mean the ovaries? — Mrs. E. K."

Oft-times the dumbest people on the outside are too stubborn to admit that they don't know everything. Anyway, there is no reason why you should know the answer to your question, I suppose. The answer is this: It depends on the case. The uterus is not removed, except in the case of women who have not yet reached menopause. For them, the ovaries are removed, also, except in cases, even though it no longer is possible to have children.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a ringing sound in one ear. How can I cure it? By turning my head in a certain position, it will stop. Please let me know the cause of this and the remedy. — M. K."

I can't give you a flat answer, if you are suffering from noises, or "tinnitis", I'd suggest that you read a booklet that I've prepared on tinnitis and deafness. (Readers wishing for the "ear noise" booklet may send a self-stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 188, Dixie Station, Chicago 9, Ill.) There are a lot of causes of this sort of annoying noise, and an understanding of the causes usually serves to lessen worry — and sometimes may stop the noise, too.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Something has been bothering several of us teenagers for quite a while. Some of our mothers have refused to let us go horseback riding because they say it causes a person to lose virginity. Is this true? — B. R."

Pardon my saying so, but some of your mothers have their facts badly scrambled. There is a membrane known as the hymen which partially closes off the vagina. It can be broken by horseback riding or from some other incidental force. And sometimes it remains intact, no matter how much riding you do. But the breaking of the hymen is of no particular significance, and it certainly does not mean loss of virginity. I've told you the answer, but I'm afraid that you haven't convinced any adamant mothers. Still, I tried.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told that my tubes are closed. It have a son, 9, and a daughter, 7. How much hope have you ever heard of them opening by themselves? — M. S."

If tubes are obstructed because of infection there is little likelihood of their reopening, and sterility is the result. However, if they are closed because of a spasm, known to occur under emotional stress, release of the stress may sometimes cause pregnancy can be possible.

Attention all women! For my booklet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues", send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10c in coin to me in care of Syndicate. The booklet will help you!

Proposés U... Honors List

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Now it's Sir Alec Guinness — or Queen Elizabeth will be so charmed by the versatile film and stage actor will be happy that Queen Elizabeth has conferred knighthood on a world favorite. Those who know him portray a British colonel in a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp in "The Bridge on the River Kwai" will never forget the performance. Those who have seen him in other films remember his amazing ability to play roles that make it outstanding.

New Year's honors, conferred by the Queen, are announced anxiously and quite possibly create an inspiration to the entire British nation.

Here in America, have no knights, no royalties, no peers, but we do have citizens who have made outstanding contributions to their country and to the world. An annual New Year's honor list is prepared by the President of the United States, might not be such a bad idea.

Strength for the Day

COUNT THE COST

There are few things in the world in which people put more stock, seek after more avidly, or appear to look more highly on, once they have secured it, than social position. Even in the social register of a large city there be the acknowledged social leaders, and there are a reflection on a person's stability of character, a change of belief this generation has transformed debt into credit and made it thoroughly respectable. Society has sanctioned the change and be material rewards appear to have confirmed it.

There is no question but that the social position has its advantages. We have only to look at the top of the heap and then the bottom? Yet if one has to pay too much to get on the top of the heap, then the whole enterprise is a dismal disappointment. People sometimes break their health in their struggle for social standing. They lose their happiness when someone succeeds in crowding them out of the set they stands brazenly and expansively at the head of the procession and will let no one pass.

If social position comes as the result of personal grace, of ability, of goodness, of character, then it is something ardently to be desired. But when it costs the burning pangs of jealousy, or the relinquishment of honor, it is of the devil in all his devilishness.

Ask yourself the question: How much does social position cost? Is it worth the cost?

Scouting Provides Interests for Handicapped

By CHRIS F. LEGGAT

"Scouting is for all boys!" This is not just a slogan or a theory, it is a fact. Across Canada there is a total of 35 Scout groups operating with blind, deaf, crippled and mentally retarded boys. In addition there is a great number of handicapped boys attached to regular groups.

The Ontario School for the Deaf numbers a group of 60 boys with five leaders. Their meetings are always well attended by eager, happy boys anxious to learn Scouting from competent, interested instructors. The adaptability of the Scout program is perhaps nowhere better demonstrated than when it is used with handicapped boys. Let's look at a few dramas.

DRAMA ONE:

The cookies were not quite cooked, the bread was chopped in chunks and not neatly sliced. Grace was said and cheerful chatter resounded throughout the lunch period. Due to the presence of guests, the chatter was subdued but now and then it flowed over the bog leader or of the Patrol had to quieten it down.

There was nothing unusual about the afternoon program. Some of the Scouts were preparing to leave on their 14-mile hike. Others had made up a team and were having a noisy game of football. On one corner of the field a well constructed monkey bridge (quite a pioneering project) stood ready for all comers. All in all, it seemed like a happy, typical Scout camp.

Really, the only difference was that these Scouts were mentally retarded boys from the Hospital School Troop at Smiths Falls.

DRAMA TWO:

It was an exciting ball game. The rules were stretched a little because the pitcher and catcher were in wheel chairs, the batter was on crutches and first-base man had both his arms in a cast. However, his feet and legs were good and he fielded the ball cleverly and kicking it to anyone who could pick it up and throw it to home.

One of the most successful graduates of this Group is now an active leader in Alberta. As a Scout he showed his first class cooking using tinfoil and a hotplate. For his first class map-making, he drew a scale plan of the hospital wing in which he was located, putting in all details, position of beds and names of occupants, number of wards and what each room was used for.

Those were the boys of the 25th Scout Group located at the Red Cross Hospital in Calgary.

DRAMA THREE:

The cubmaster walked patiently for Ricky to quieten down. As he watched, he thought back to when Ricky first joined the Pack. How quiet and attentive the boy was at that time and now, after a few meetings, how much more natural and unrestrained the boy had become.

However, enough time lost, time to get on with the program and a word to the Cub next to Ricky focused Ricky's attention back on the leader.

The Cubmaster sighed and shook his shoulders. Ricky didn't like to wear ties hearing aid at the Pack meetings for he wanted to and did join in all the activities with the other Cubs.

DRAMA FOUR:

It was a very active game and possibly Ian shouldn't have taken part. But with such an energetic and persistent youngster, it wasn't right to leave him out completely. So the Leader had said, "Ok, Ian, go ahead, join in but be careful."

Now the game was over and Ian sat on the floor. His left leg and foot sprawled at a most unnatural angle. It didn't bother him and he didn't want any help so the Cub meeting carried on. He retired to a secluded area of the hall, readjusted the belts and braces of his artificial limb and came back to join in the closing activities of the Pack meeting.

Ian, like Ricky, was happy to be a regular feller and belong to a regular Pack.

Prisoner Rehabilitation Being Studied by Govt. In Program of Penal Reform

Prisoner rehabilitation is being studied by the Canadian government in its program of penal reform. In this article, reform treatment at two prisons is described by a Canadian Press reporter who toured six of the country's eight penitentiaries.

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In the language of the prison yard, it was a group of cons in a rewiring session with the bug doctor.

Senior psychologist Maurice Gauthier was conducting a session in group therapy for seven prisoners at Kingston penitentiary.

Under discussion was the question, chosen previously by the prisoners themselves: "Do we steal for monetary gain or some other reason?"

PRISONERS TALK

Mr. Gauthier, a graduate of the University of Montreal, let the prisoners do most of the talking. The idea is that through discussion among themselves, guided by the psychologist, they may gradually unearth the reasons for the behavior that led them to commit their crimes.

Despite the prison slang glibly used to refer to the sessions, they are popular. This form of treatment is voluntary and many prisoners have asked for it than there are personnel to provide it.

As the meeting went on, and the prisoners discussed what they thought to be the reasons they had turned to such pursuits as forgery and assault, the men seemed less prone to talk freely. It appeared they were beginning to recognize the weaknesses in themselves, failures in their characters, that would have to be corrected if they were ever to leave the penitentiary and lead law-abiding lives.

Prison authorities, aware of the saving in public money for each genuinely reformed convict, nevertheless know that a man's habits cannot be changed overnight. At least 18 months is considered essential for such treatment to have a lasting effect.

ONE ASPECT

Psychological treatment is only one aspect of what would be a workable program of rehabilitation. Facilities for such a program are inadequate but they are being developed in some places.

For example, the Federal Training Centre, across the road from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary outside Montreal, has a notable record for reducing the repeater rate among inmates. Since it was opened in 1952 the percentage of repeaters, men who have returned to crime and been caught has been 19 per cent compared with 42 per cent in all federal institutions.

Like the Collins Bay institution near Kingston, Ont., the centre is not strictly speaking a penitentiary. No one can be sentenced to either of these institutions. Prisoners are selected from Kingston and St. Vincent penitentiaries.

The centre is for offenders between 16 and 27 who appear amenable to reform treatment.

"The majority of them have never known the affection, security, peace and joy of a normal life," said J. B. Martineau, the fatherly director of the centre. "In most cases, their parents—either ignorant or unworthy of their sacred obligations—are responsible one way or another for their downfall."

COVER WIDE FIELD

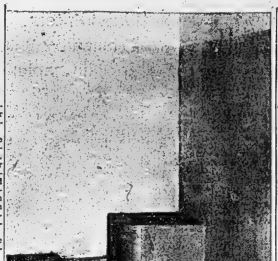
Ten-months vocational training courses are offered in almost 20 callings, including bricklaying, cabinet making, furniture finishing, industrial drafting, motor mechanics, plumbing and welding.

Prisoners are allowed more freedom than in regular penitentiaries. They eat in mess-halls, can earn the right to have their own room which they may decorate to their own taste, may spend summer evenings exercising outside the buildings in the prison yards, and may use recreation facilities up to 10:30 nightly instead of being locked up at nightfall.

The atmosphere was more like that of a strictly-run boys' boarding school than a prison.

While this sort of institution emphasizes the general preparation of a prisoner to meet the problem of finding work after his release, it does not diminish the shock that many experience on suddenly finding themselves free men again.

In an attempt to find a way of meeting this situation, an experiment in gradual release has been under way for several years.



The diary of a man released from St. Vincent de Paul after 5 years emphasized the difficulty of adjustment.

"To feel free makes a very queer impression," it said.

Some 20 convicts have been prepared for their release by being taken on simple outings—to buy clothes, to a restaurant for a meal, to a hockey game, to somewhere before being set free.

The first prisoner released this way was from the women's institution about 3 1/2 years ago. A lapse of 3 1/2 years followed before it was tried again. The experiment had been a drug addict. At last report she had not returned to her addiction nor been in other trouble.

A visit to the hair-dresser, to someone's home, a movie, a shopping expedition — such experiences resulted "in a calmer and better integrated inmate on release," said Mrs. Marion Blaizone, social worker at the women's prison. "Consequently the chances of their success are increased."

Most prisoners in Canada's federal penitentiaries spend 16 or 18 hours every day alone in a windowless cell, the average of which is five or six feet wide, 10 feet long and nine feet high. Most of the facilities are outdated and overcrowded, making morale-crushing monotony a major problem. Any discipline the prisoner can be strapped or sent to "dissociation" such as this one at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary in Quebec. Rough bed and concrete block for chair can be seen. (CP Photo).

SHELL'S OILPRINT ENGINE TEST!
...the new way to get the jump on engine trouble!
Developed by Shell Research...proved in Canadian commercial motor fleets! Shell's Oilprint Engine Test is now being brought to the public.
Another exclusive service offered by your Shell Dealer. And it costs you nothing.
LOOK WHAT ONE DROP OF OIL CAN TELL ABOUT YOUR CAR!
Is your cooling system leaking? The Shell Oilprint Engine Test will indicate the presence of water or anti-freeze in your oil. This is important because even a few miles of driving with anti-freeze in the engine oil can cause sticky valve lifters or engine seizure.
Are you wasting fuel?' Oil from a car engine that's burning too rich a mixture, either from improper carburetor setting or too much choking, quickly becomes over-loaded with carbon. A Shell analyst can detect this condition upon examination of your Shell Oilprint Engine Test Card. Once you correct this condition you'll enjoy better mileage and more power.
Shell's Oilprint Engine Test takes the guesswork out of oil drain periods. A single Oilprint Test tells whether or not your oil needs changing at the time of the test. Tests at regular intervals will help tell you how many miles your car can be run between oil changes.
TAKES LESS OF YOUR TIME THAN AN OIL LEVEL CHECK.
Your Shell station attendant can take an Oilprint Test at the same time that he checks your oil level. He simply lets one drop of oil from your car's dipstick fall on a specially prepared card. The card with your oil sample is then sent in for analysis. The results will be ready for you in five days.
REMEMBER, YOUR OILPRINT ENGINE TEST IS FREE!

Miss Grace Kenny opened the meeting and extended a welcome to members and guests. Miss Sylvia Burwash, secretary, gave an interesting summary of the activities of 1958.

Miss Kenny announced that the allocation had been met and $1,200 forwarded to the Presbytery.

A minute of silence was observed in memory of Mrs. T. Burwash.

Mrs. Betty Colden presented her report as Christian stewardship secretary and announced that Miss Aileen Batt, of Hollowfax, would be the missionary-for prayer in 1959. Other reports included those received by Mrs. Lola Wilkins, Mrs. Leona Wilson, Mrs. Second O'Neill, Miss Joy Nichols; Mrs. Greta Morden; Miss Daisy Young, and Mrs. Leckie. Mrs. O'Neill told of the work being done and the co-operation given by the members in the past year.

Miss Grace Kenny, retiring president, expressed her thanks to the executive and to all members for their help and co-operation for the past year.

1957-8.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The installation of officers was made by the Reverend Harry M. Rowe, who congratulated the officers of 1959 adding that the fine success of 1958 gave great encouragement to the incoming officers of 1959.

"Missions are necessary because there are hungry hearts and souls without Christ. A person who does not believe in missions does not contribute time, services or money, which would result in the recalling of the missionaries. A slacking of efforts or contributions means the Kingdom of God cannot increase. The spirit and more energy, prayers and contributions and the salvation of souls are the things that Christians should keep in heart and mind thus bearing out the command of the Great Commission, thus fulfilling the Lord's, 'go ye'

Mrs. Grace Anderson, president for 1959, thanked Mr. Davis for his inspiring address, and closed with prayer.

NEIGHBORS' AID

2ND THURLOW — The January meeting of the Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Harry Thomson last Wednesday. Despite the slippery condition of the roads and heavy snow-filled lines, about 22 ladies and eight men were present.

Mrs. Chumbley was in charge of the meeting. The secretary, Mrs. William Lazaruk, read thank-you notes received from those receiving sympathy cards and boxes at Christmas, from Mrs. J. Huff, Mrs. F. Melbourne, Mrs. Dan Whalen, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bennett, and Mr. J. Bunnett.

Miss Laura Bunnett with a donation of money for the Aid. Mrs. Ingram, also a letter from the South Thurlow Area School Board to the Aid, offering them a choice of 5S No. 3 or 5S No. 6 for a community hall. The ladies voiced appreciation and a letter is to be sent to the chairman, Mr. Dave Bunnett.

The February meeting of the Aid will be held at the home of Mrs. Don Leeming with Mrs. M. Dent to arrange the program.

Mrs. William Lazaruk conducted the meeting. Mrs. F. Mitchell read an appropriate poem for the New Year; Mrs. Robert Johnson read the opening talk, leading up to the topic, "Are We Thee Who Bind". She outlined the various workings of the W.I. from the branch to district, area, provincial, the F.W.I.O. and A.C.W.W., linking 150 countries with the world thoughts and aims. She mentioned the Neighbors' Aid and various organizations that have and good deeds in the community. She also gave many worthwhile thoughts on national and international affairs.

A vote of thanks was given on conclusion of the talk. A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess and Mrs. Johnson for her home.

The men folk enjoyed euchre and a social chat in Mr. Donaldson's part of the home.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and Mesdames M. Dent, A. Graham, J. Chumbley and H. Thomson.

Work Being Done For MRC Outlined at PTA

Two interesting films were shown.

The guests were thanked by Mr. MacDonald and presented with a cheque on behalf of St. Joseph's P.T.A.

Miss Durkin's class won the attendance prize.

The grade three mothers were in charge of the refreshments of the evening.

Swiss to Decide if Women Should Have the Franchise

BERN (Reuters)—If a woman is happy, what do politics mean to her? If she is unhappy, will politics make any differences?

This slogan, emblazoned on posters throughout Switzerland, was a topic from Aarburg to Zurich today as the country's 1,500,000 voters were all summoned to decide whether Swiss women should have the franchise.

Voting takes place Sunday, and it appears certain that the women will lose. Conservative estimates here give the anti-feminists a two-thirds majority.

It will be the first nationwide referendum to decide whether Swiss women should have the right to vote in federal affairs, to be able to vote for the federal parliament or be appointed to the federal cabinet.

LONG TRADITION

But tradition in Switzerland dies hard, and tradition for the past 1,000 years has decreed that only the men, as the bearers of arms in the country's defence, shall have the right to vote. Equal rights for women in Switzerland today means equal rights to pay taxes—and that is all.

For nearly 40 years, suffragettes and their supporters tried to edge their way into political equality by introducing referendums in the country's 22 semi-autonomous cantons, which would have given them the right to vote in district affairs.

After failing in 25 such referendums between 1920 and 1956, the suffragettes switched their attack, and in 1957 succeeded in having the right-to-vote motion introduced in the federal parliament.

Many of the "no" campaigners are women. They argue that a woman's ambition should be to get married, to stay in the home and bear children, and not to meddle in politics.

Soviet Union Ahead of West Using Women in Engineering

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The Soviet Union is ahead of the West in using its women in engineering and architecture.

But women engineers in the West have a better chance than they do here as there aren't enough men to fill all the jobs.

These are conclusions from a 38-nation survey on the occupational outlook for women. The UN Secretariat prepared it for the Commission on the Status of Women, meeting here March 9-20.

The Soviet Union reported it had 233,000 women engineers in 1957, representing 29 per cent of all engineers holding degrees.

The United States had its women engineers in 1950 numbered 6,632, or 1.2 per cent of all engineers. The 1957 census figure it had on practising engineers.

It said that among engineering students in 1957, there were fewer than 1,000 women and 253,000 men. Only 98 women got engineering degrees in the United States in 1956.

Canada reported that in 1956 it had 11,700 male engineers and 24 women engineers. Enrolled in Canadian engineering schools in 1957 were 10,375 men and 36 women.

Most statistics showed that women made up 24.6 per cent of Soviet architects and fewer than 1,000 per cent of those in the United States. Canada reported 96 women architects of a total of 3,827.

The survey involved questionnaires to governments and women's organizations.

It said:

"Several replies emphasized that the shortage of qualified engineers in both countries as Canada, the Federal Republic of Germany, Switzerland and the United States provided greatly increased opportunities for women.

"Chemical engineering was the specialty most frequently mentioned as attracting most women engineers; aeronautical and electrical engineering, applied physics and civil engineering would also appear to offer promising opportunities for qualified women."

Britain said employers did not want to assign women architects to supervision of building jobs because "this may involve the climbing of ladders, a traditional barrier to the employment of women."

The banquet of the evening, the Rev. C. W. Coleman, spoke on "Memories of Scotland," and told of personal experiences and family life as he remembered it then.

Jim Rapino delighted all with his numbers on the bagpipes.

President Judith Moynes thanked the entertainers and speaker.

A social period was enjoyed.

The thanks of the club were expressed by Al Locke to the executive for planning the meeting.

A social circle and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S HOSPITALITY TIP - - - TO THE HOSTESS

The hostess who makes us happy is the soft white pale so much cordiality and warmth in her greeting that she immediately establishes the hospitality-personality of her party. The charming grace and sincerity with which she says "Hello, Dorothy, I'm so delighted to see you!" or "Bill . . . welcome! I'm so happy you could come!" gives a high-hearted wilcome, a sparkling prologue to the party. She makes each guest feel that he or she is an important addition to the party.

SHOULD SHE SEND GIFT TO WEDDING OF HER BROTHER'S WIDOW?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My brother's widow, who has no children, has just announced her plans to remarry. I'm very much puzzled as to what to do regarding a wedding present. She has a beautiful home, exquisitely furnished, and has every conceivable modern gadget. In this case, just what can one choose? Would a money-gift be proper? I have been told that a gift is not expected for a second marriage. Is this true? I am very fond of my sister-in-law, and want to do the correct thing. — Reader.

In my judgment I should say that it would be her taste for you not to give a wedding present to your brother's widow. Later, after the wedding, you might, if you wish, give her a present under less significant circumstances, a certain present, something you think they both might welcome. This would bring her the message of your devotion to her, with no wedding - present connotation.

Since she "has everything" for her housekeeping, you might like to consider giving them a "Mr. and Mrs." subscription to a magazine most thoughtfully chosen as being of special interest to both of them. Actually it is true, as you have been told, that a present is not usually sent for a second marriage, but I have a feeling that you would, in this case, like to make a gesture of devotion.

However, it would be in the worst possible taste for you to consider sending a gift of money as a wedding present . . . under the circumstances, she might very well not approve of this idea, and certainly her new bridegroom might not be pleased. If you send any gift, keep it on the more or less impersonal side.

ABOUT SENDING A SILVER WEDDING-PRESENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine is to be married soon, and I want to give her an important silver serving-piece she once mentioned, in the same beautiful pattern as the flat silver she has chosen. However, I don't at all know how she is having her silver marked, that is, whether with the initials of her maiden name (which at one time she did consider) or with the initials of her married name, and with what type of lettering.

I'd rather not ask her about this, in these days so busy for her. So would it be at all correct for me to send my present unmarked and in an enclosed note inform her that I have made arrangements with the store that at any time later they will mark the piece just as she would like? — L.F.

Yes, this is correct, very wise and practical.

SEATING TWO GUESTS OF HONOR

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Two very dear girl friends of mine have announced their engagements within the past two weeks, and both are to be married soon. I am planning to give a luncheon (an after-lunch function) at my home for ten guests, with these engaged girls as the two guests of honor. How shall I seat these two guests of honor, without offending either? — G.W.

Seat both guests of honor next to you, one on your right, and one on your left. If one is perhaps older than the other, seat the older one on your right. Or, if you wish, seat on your right the one with whom you best known longer. As a matter of fact, since they will know you are honoring both, neither will, I am sure, feel any distinction between them as to seating arrangements.

WHAT DRINKS TO PROVIDE FOR COCKTAIL PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my husband and I give a cocktail party, are we supposed to provide more than one kind of cocktail? (Martini, for instance.) And what other drinks? — New Hostess.

You needn't provide more than one kind of cocktail (martini the usual choice for "the one") . . . but tonic it is customary also to provide an alternative to the cocktail. Soft drinks of, say, two kinds of tall drinks or on-the-rocks daiqua (bourbon and scotch the customary choice). And of course be sure to remember to provide a non-alcoholic drink for those who prefer them . . . tomato juice, for example, or a fruit juice or a soft drink.

QUESTION:

Have recipe I want to use. Published Pressed Beef . . . My mother used to cook the beef slow and for a long period . . . We are interested in what sort would be used, cooking time, seasoning, and whether you put it into the crock hot or let it cool in the water. Have also inclined to think you shred it apart and put it in the crock hot, and then put a plate over it (with 45 old fashioned iron on top) and let it get cold, and the juices rises up over the plate, and it is most delicious when sliced cold . . . Hazel M.D.

scribe is about four to two. That is if you have four cups of meat you will need about 8 cups broth. But you can change these proportions if you wish, adding more or less gelatine. Pour into small crock or loaf pan or pyrex or earthenware bowl, pie plate or saucer on top. Cover with wax paper, then weight down with heavy clean stone or brick.

QUESTION:

I never miss a night to read your wonderful recipes and want to thank you in this first letter . . . I have one daughter married with 3 darling children, little girls, and a fine handsome husband, who are always home Christmas day. She asked me if I would bake Poinsettia cookies that I have made for two years, but can't find the recipe. You roll them, cut them in squares, then cut each corner in an inch or so towards centre . . . and put half a red cherry in centre . . . I wish you would write a cookbook . . . Isabelle W.

ANSWER:

...Well, Isabelle, I wish I would too, but time seems to be too short.

POINSETTIA

COOKIE DOUGH:

One-half cup soft shortening, (or 1-4 cup each butter and shortening), 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons thick cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Cream shortening (or butter and shortening) well, then cream sugar into it, then beat eggs into it. Stir in cream and vanilla. Sift the flour, salt, and soda together and stir into the first mixture. Chill dough. Roll chilled dough out to 1-8 inch thickness. Cut into 3-inch squares. Place on lightly greased baking sheet. Cut with a sharp knife from corners of each square to within 1-4 inch of centre, making four triangular sections in each square. In the centre place a half of candied cherry (or 1 teaspoon raspberry jam or prune or apricot puree). Pick up corresponding corner or each triangle section, and fold over to the centre filling. Press gently to hold points together. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 8 to 10 minutes. These amounts make about 5 dozen "poinsettias".

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Marjorie T. — I didn't marry to become a servant, Donald T. — A woman is happier if she realizes her place is in the home.

Marjorie T. — I am 33, my husband 34. After a year and a half of marriage, it looks as though we are all washed up. Things have been going from bad to worse for a long time.

Don seems to think that a wife is supposed to wait on him hand and foot like his mother did. I have been home with about ten minutes before he does, but he always comes in asking, "Is dinner ready yet?" He expects me to look out for his clothes and flies into a temper if he can't find his cuff links, or his suit isn't back from the cleaners.

This "honeymoon" has been the most miserable year of my life. I didn't marry to become a valet and a maid servant. I'm willing to do my share but there are limits to everything!

Donald T. — Before we got married, Margie's mother told me that she was very spoiled and didn't like doing things in the home. She told me I'd better break her in right. Partly she was kidding, but I soon realized there was plenty of truth in it too. My wife doesn't know how to do a darn thing in the house and what's more she doesn't want to learn.

It's true that Margie works, but certainly she has to have some home responsibilities, too. I do the harder jobs like heavy cleaning, and I help her with the weekly shopping and with the dishes. I think she should learn, to be responsible for the cooking and care of clothing.

I feel that a woman is happier if she realizes her place is in the home.

The Council: Marjorie and Donald seem to both be the victims of the same kind of "spoiling."

It is sometimes assumed the spoiled child has received too much love and attention. Actually the reverse is true. Unselfish parental love would not smother energies and initiative of sons and daughters. It would encourage the preparation for independence and for a giving of oneself to others.

Donald's idea, to train his wife according to a certain formula that happens to fit in neatly with his own needs, is as childish as Marjorie's resistance to her home responsibilities. It is too bad that Marjorie didn't get adequate training for marriage, but it is not her husband's job to give it to her. If he gave up that idea, Marjorie might be a little more desirous of improving herself as a wife.

Whatever her initial inadequacies were, we can't blame Marjorie for resenting the lies that she is expected to toe a certain mark for a severe critic. Undoubtedly she expected affection and understanding from her husband. Without these, her unaccustomed duties become a heavy burden indeed.

This, of course, works both ways. Possibly Donald expected his wife to show her love by taking on certain wifely duties without a little enthusiasm. Her avoidance of these things probably seemed to him to indicate a lack of love. If Marjorie had offered her husband little attentions and had shown pleasure in taking on her responsibilities Donald wouldn't have had to worry about "breaking her in" to be a good wife.

This marriage isn't "washed up." It has never really begun. Marjorie and Donald ought to try starting all over with the idea that they'll be severe with themselves but tolerant and loving toward one another.

Teamed For Travel

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A smart team for resort or college wear is this cardigan and skirt, the cardigan in white or in matching skirt colors. Brass buttoned, it reaches to just below waist length. The skirt is pleated all around, is in sun yellow linen if it worn with a matching short-sleeved silk blouse. The sweater should see plenty of service later on as a cover-up.

URGE ACTIVITY

Women in Canada are being urged to be more active in public affairs, to withstand the blandishments of top-pressure sales talk and to be discriminating in buying goods for the home," she says.

"The only way they can do these things is by discussing their ideas with other people, and then taking action through an organization.

"If women want something done—and they always do—they should get their thoughts in order over the back fence first, then take their views to an organization for action. It can be a church group, a service club or social organization—just a number of women ready to say what they think."

The CAC is probably the best organization to consult if topics of particular interest to women, such as food or clothing, are under fire. But their groups affiliated to the CAC can pass on recommendations, said Mrs. Savage.

TORONTO (CP)—All that gossiping over the garden fence, or the telephone tie-up for a neighborhood yakkety - yak, can be made to pay off, says Mrs. J. L. Savage of Toronto.

"Women are renowned for their talking, gossiping and nagging," she said. "But it's a good thing. It's the way crusades are launched."

Mrs. Savage is an active member of several organizations—a vice-president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, a former president of the Young Women's Christian Association and a former president of the University Women's Club of Toronto.

Groups working with the Canadian Association of Consumers include the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, Business and Professional Women, and the Canadian Federation of University Women.

"It is only through working in groups that we can bring about changes," said Mrs. Savage. "Gossip over the garden fence is a good thing — but complaints must not stop there."

Mrs. Savage came to Canada from England in 1915. Her mother was a militant suffragette.

"Canadian women seem to regard politics as dirty work and something to be avoided," said Mrs. Savage. "Perhaps it is because they have never had a real fight on their hands. But that attitude is changing slowly, although we need many more women in public life."

1554 miles for only $19.50

Hamilton, Ont.

General Motors Products of Canada, Ltd., OSHAWA, Ontario.

Gentlemen:

Recently I completed a trip on my vacation which took me through the following cities — New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia, covering a distance of 1554 miles in my Vauxhall Six Cyclone Velox Custom Coupe, at a gasoline cost of $19.50 most of which was the starting figure. In round figures the tank and filling it up on my return. In round figures the cost per mile was a shade better than one and one quarter cents with no oil or water added. I feel you will be interested in these figures as they represent real economy for a six cylinder car and the comfort in the ride.

In closing, I would like to say that this letter is unsolicited and written purely from a point of being satisfied with my Vauxhall and your service.

Yours very truly,

G. F. James

G.F. James

Mr. James' experience is yet another example of Vauxhall's amazing economy! Read his letter, then consider that this is typical of reports coming in from Vauxhall owners, coast to coast. The story from them is . . . Vauxhall saves money and does it in real style.

And this is so true! Take the luxurious Cresta and the vigorous Velox for example. Here are two, roomy six-passenger sedans powered by a modern six-cylinder engine that performs and saves money on gas the way a "Six" should! And Vauxhall takes the savings even further in the 4 cylinder Victor Station Wagon. These five-passenger, budget priced beauties combine lively performance with truly amazing economy . . . giving you up to 40 miles-to the gallon. Follow the lead of so many economy-minded, style conscious Canadians. See and drive the Vauxhall of your choice at your local dealer's.

Sawchuk Shows Canadiens He Is All-Star Calibre

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A tip to the Maes — Don't go all-hog in Frog—just bring home the bacon.

Tonight in Memorial Arena, McFarlands' director Ike Hildebrand and his all-star cast of puck-pushers, make their final appearance "in the sticks" before heading for the "big time."

The last of the seasonal ice-lane dramas is expected to be played before a packed house. Playing the "heavy" role will be the Cornwall Cheviles.

Perhaps in this final appearance of the Canadian champions the "stage performance" will be anti-climactic. Pushing aside the puck-duel on the ice will be the fans' farewell to the grand bunch of guys who will represent them in Europe.

Word has reached this department that not a few will be in the pews tonight, who have not seen a hockey game this winter.

The red-berated Boosters will be out in force. "Snipe's" familiar "I Like Ike" will be heard for the last time—well—for six weeks at least. Senator Clagbarnes's regular dissertation from his rinkside pew will get its final airing — for six weeks.

It is going to be awfully "hockey-lonely" around the village until the Maes get back lugging that battered world championship trophy on battle-toughened shoulders.

Duffy will tell the boss he is still on the job now that rink binge, draws, raffles and Booster worry have been sidelined. Dick Beare will say to Cookie, "Remember me?"

Pat Matthews tells us "Snipe" has erected a wire netting in the kitchen so he can occasionally push his nose against it and yell "More, Maes, More" just to keep in shape.

Jim Ward insists he will continue to sell tickets on travel draws, if only on return jaunts to Zwick's Island.

Barbara Graham will again devote her attention to brother Ralph's law business. She can quit calling out Booster members' names in her sleep.

Joy Bowerman can again concentrate in getting Steve's meals. For the past couple of months, the old man said, all he heard was "Under the 'D' combine."

There will be variable fare before, during, and after the hockey game.

Prior to the tee-off certain players will be honored.

The Belleville Hockey Oldtimers will present the Bill Green Memorial Trophy and replica to the "most valuable player." Bobby Green, son of an illustrious hockey father, will make the presentation, aided and abetted by Oldtimer Association executives Johnny Hibbard and Hank Fenn,

The beautiful Lee Grills Trophy to the most gentlemanly player will also be awarded.

And some lucky so-and-so will trip home with a free ticket to Prague or a cheque for one thousand dollars in his or her pocket. The draw for the "ten-dollar" tickets will be made.

And that is not all.

After the game the Booster Club is holding a reception in the Elks hall for the Maes. It is a farewell party for Ike and the boys and their wives. Boosters alone will be admitted—by membership card. The tab is on the house.

And no wise cracks, please, about Duffy's Tavern.

Tomorrow will be packing day for the Maes. There will be no more puck-chasing until they cross hockey raiders with the Paisley Tigers in Paisley, Scotland, Monday night.

They leave the city at five a.m. Sunday from Memorial Arena by bus, wives included. They take off from Malton Airport, Toronto, non-stop to Prestwick, Scotland, at 10.25.

The Maes will get a kick out of this story from the west:

Out Kelowna way they're calling Big Russ, "Wrong Way Kowalchuk." The other night in a game against Kamloops, the Packers were leading 6-0. Suddenly for no rhyme or reason, Russ suddenly whirled in front of his own goal and let go a rifle drive that beat Jerry Gatherum and spoiled his shutout. It was the first time the Packers scored seven goals and only won by six.

Patterson Will Fight Swede Where, When Not Decided

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The "secret" finally is out. Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson is going to fight Sweden's Ingemar Johansson.

Some 10 days ago promoter Bill Rosenshon said the match was "90 per cent made." A week ago it was all set but the signing. After protracted negotiations by a staff of legal hairsplitters, two wary boxers finally signed Thursday in the shadow of the smorgasbord at a Swedish restaurant.

The date and site are to be announced within 30 days. At the moment, Rosenshon says New York and Los Angeles are the winter book favorites with Colorado Springs a strong third. He can stage the bout anytime between now and Sept. 30.

Within the next week or two, Rosenshon will visit Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Indianapolis, Colorado Springs and Los Angeles.

WILL HAVE TUNEUP

There is one slight problem, as far as Rosenshon is concerned. The contract permits Patterson to take another fight before Johansson. And there is no such thing as a non-title bout for a heavyweight champ.

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, says "Floyd will have a sharpener one way or another." That could mean an April match with someone like Brian London as promoter Harry Levene of London has been trying to arrange. Or it could mean one of Cus' secret fights in the gym.

The Johannson match is being heralded as a "sure million dollar gate" by D'Amato, who has no thought of missing out on such a bonanza by losing the title before then.

MACHEN SUING

Meanwhile, Eddie Machen, knocked out by Johansson in September, is suing to force him to go through with an alleged rematch agreement. Papers have been served on the fighter and Edwin Ahlquist, Swedish promoter and adviser to the European champ. However, Rosenshon and all concerned claim they have been assured the threatened suit will be no problem.

Johansson, first Swede to box for a world ring title, is a handsome 26-year-old with a 21-0 record as a pro and a 15-0 knockouts. He vaulted into the No. 1 contender position by knocking out Machen in one round.

Patterson called the Swede the most dangerous opponent he has met.

It will be Johansson's biggest pay day for he gets 20 per cent of the gate and TV-radio money or a $100,000 guarantee. Patterson gets 40 per cent or $300,000, whichever is larger. The rematch agreement calls for a return within 90 days at 30-30 percentage if Johansson wins. To make sure he will go through with such a rematch, Johansson must put his entire purse in escrow.

Rosenshon said no TV plans had been made.

Marks Return to Guard Duty With Outstanding Effort In Wings Victory Over Habs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

When a couple of hockey players suddenly get "hot," nothing can help their opponents—even when they're the Montreal Canadiens.

Canadiens, leading the National Hockey League by 16 points, ran into some aroused Detroit Red Wings Thursday night and were defeated 4-1 right in the Montreal Forum.

Canadiens hadn't lost to the Wings in nine previous games this season and only last Sunday trounced them 7-3. But a couple of Wings playing at their peak threw all the evidence out the window.

First there was John Archibald McIntyre, a 28-year - old left winger who had scored only seven times in 34 games. Thursday night he set up Wings' second goal and then scored twice in the last period to knock Canadiens back on their heels.

Secondly there was goalie Terry Sawchuk, who had been returned after missing three games through a shoulder injury and who had scored his 46th shutout. worst games this season against Canadiens.

He stopped 33 shots, 16 of them in the final period when Montreal was coming on like gangbusters. His selection to the first all-star team at mid-season over Canadiens' Jacques Plante took like good picking, despite a five-stitch cut over his right eyebrow in the first period.

Plante himself was no slouch. He also made 28 saves.

All-star rearguard Marcel Pronovost put Detroit ahead to a 1-0 lead in the first period on a pass from his fellow partner Red Kelly, who was playing up to his old-time form.

Henri Richard put Canadiens even on passes from Bernie Geoffrion and Doug Harvey. Three seconds after Pronovost was penalized.

HABS APPLY HEAT

In the second Norm Ullman scored on McIntyre's pass and in the third Opened Canadiens turned on the pressure.

But as it turned out, Bruins, Bruins, Ont., native, got relays from Kelly and Norm Ullman and beat Plante. Eight minutes later he did it again on a play set up by Ullman and Gord Howe.

The win moved Detroit past Boston Bruins into fourth place with 41 points, one more than Bruins and two less than third-place New York Rangers.

No games are scheduled until Saturday when a full weekend slate begins.

Queen's Horse May Enter Plate Race

TORONTO (CP)—The Queen's racing colors may be represented in the 1959 Queen's Plate here June 20, it was reported Thursday.

Mayor Nathan Phillips said he will do all he can to make it possible should the Queen show any interest, but thought it would be presumptuous of him to suggest any such move.

Though regulations state all horses entered must be Canadian-bred, a Canadian owner could lend a horse to the Queen to race under her colors.

The Queen is an enthusiastic racegoer with a stable of champions. Her horses have run in the Grand National, the Epsom Derby and the Ascot races.

On the Tracks

LONDON (AP)—Mr. What, 30-length winner of the 1958 Grand National steeplechase, has been weighted with 23 extra pounds for this year's race over 4½ miles across Aintree course March 21.

The eight-year - old gelding, owned by Kitchener sportsman Jones Coughlan, was assigned 163 pounds, second to top-weighted Kerstin.

Kerstin, winner of the 1958 Cheltenham Gold Cup and 11th again after suffering from an injected foot, was allotted 166 pounds.

Few experts expect Kerstin to duplicate his 1958 victory in the national. The nine-year-old brown mare again has the Cheltenham Gold Cup as her main objective March 5.

It is doubtful if Kerstin's handlers will subject the mare to the gruelling Aintree race over 30 obstacles only 16 days after competing at Cheltenham.

Mr. What is the current 14-1 betting favorite to win again. Only four horses have won the national two straight times in 112 runnings.

Hamilton Nips Biltmores 5-4; Petes Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Cubs of the OHA Junior A series pulled another game out of the bag Thursday night.

Last-place Hamilton, on their first points-getting streak of the season rolled up a 3-0 first-period lead against Guelph Biltmores and went on to edge the fourth-placers 5-4.

Guelph's loss robbed Bills of a chance to take Toronto St. Michael's Majors third spot as Majors went down 4-3 to Peterborough Petes. In other action league-leading St. Catharines Teepees continued their winning ways, crushing Barrie Flyers 8-1.

St. Catharines still has a 13-point edge over second - place Peterborough. Hamilton are eight points behind sixth-place Toronto Marlboros but have two games in hand.

SLUGGING CONTEST

Larry Jeffrey, Bob Brown, Stu McNeill, Neil Forth and Bob Dillabough shared the Hamilton goals in a game punctuated by a second-period slugging contest between Bob Nevin of Guelph and Cubs Keith Walsh. Both were suspended for major misconducts after they continued the fight in the penalty box. Jeffrey and Walsh drew match penalties when they mixed it in the final session.

George Ustulo connected for two Guelph goals and Bob Chisholm and Rod Gilbert netted singles.

Peterborough dominated the first two periods of play, but St. Michael's came back with a three-goal rally to fire the three goals. Wayne Boddy, Hugh McGonigal and Fred Dart put Peterborough ahead in the first with McGonigal scoring a second in the middle frame.

BRILLIANT NET-MINDING

Majors' offensive began with a goal by Gene Rebellato early in the final session. Jim Somoski and Bob Nevin counted Biltmores' Mikes pressed hard, pulling their goaltender in the last minute in search of the equalizer. Brilliant net-minding by Petes' Jacques Caron prevented the tie.

Chino Maki paced the TeePees' attack against Barrie as he scored a pair and assisted two more. Peter Pilot had their hosts 2-0 after the first and were ahead 5-0 going in the final period.

Fred Hills, George Harris, Pat Stapleton, Stan Mikita, Don Grosso and Larry Hillman notched the other TeePee goals. Marcel Tessier saved Flyers a shutout before 1,500 fans with a goal early in the third.

Pair Leads San Diego Golf

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Veteran Mike Souchak and unheralded Bob Duden led a mass attack on par Thursday, carding seven-under-par 65s for the first-round lead in the $20,000 San Diego open golf tournament.

Both shot 33-32 over the par 36-36—72 course.

One stroke back were Bo Wininger, who toured the 6,700-yard course in 31-35 despite an aching shoulder, and Doug Sanders with 66.

Masters champion Arnold Palmer, runner-up to Souchak in the Thunderbird invitational at Palm Springs, Calif., and winner here in 1957, started off a bit with a 34-38—72. U.S. open champion Tommy Bolt settled for even par 36-36—72.

Tied at 68 were Stan Leonard of Vancouver, 34-34; Doug Ford, Jack Burke and Bob Rosburg.

Of the other Canadian entries, George Knudson of Toronto carded 35-37—72; Gerry Magee, Toronto 35-40—75; and Moe Norman, Kitchener, 37-41—78.

Hull-Ottawa Edges Chevies Hounds Throttle Bulldogs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds drew their largest home crowd of the OHA-NOHA Senior A season Thursday night and showed their appreciation by trouncing Windsor Bulldogs 7-3.

After a scoreless first period the Soo gave 4,543 fans a rousing second period as they fired two goals within 27 seconds and stormed on to take a 5-1 lead into the third.

Sault Ste. Marie's clinched the Hounds' hold on fourth place, which Windsor was threatening, and left them four points behind third-place Sudbury Wolves.

In the eastern OHA Senior A division Hull-Ottawa Canadiens defeated last - place Cornwall Chevies 3-1 to tighten their grip on third place.

The Greyhounds capitalized on six second-period Windsor penalties as they outshot Bulldogs 21-8 in their big rally. Birger Dimma paced the Soo with two while Lou Dietrich, Tom Walker, Jim McBurney, Sammy Offidzal and John Lumley added singles.

LACK FOUR REGULARS

Irwin Glen scored a pair for Windsor, playing minus four regular performers, and Bob Brown rounded it out.

Ottawa - Hull and Cornwall shared scoring honors in the first period as Bob Boucher fired the opener for Canadiens and Bryan McKay tied it two minutes later.

Ottawa-Hull clinched the game in the third on markers by John Annable and Dick Dumouchel. Canadien goalie Gerry Brassard drew a misconduct penalty at the 18:30 mark of the same period for yelling at the referee. The visitors outshot Chevies 34-30 in a quiet game.

Up to Owners Whether Teams Play in Cuba

MONTREAL (CP) — Havana Sugar Kings president is expected to give a sweet outlook for the International League today on baseball prospects in Cuba.

A report from Roberto Maduro is expected to give assurance that there is little to fear in playing games this season under the new revolutionary regime.

He and team general manager Paul Muller head their delegation to the annual meeting here of the 16-year-old league.

Both are reported confident of sustained interest in baseball under the Castro regime.

At least one club, Buffalo Bisons, was reported opposed to playing in Cuba, where the Sugar Kings have held a franchise since 1954.

BUFFALO WORRIED

John Stilgmeier, Bisons' general manager Wednesday said: "I hear people are stockpiling guns down there and it's still a dangerous situation."

Commenting "on the general management climate, Il Presidenti Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy said the question of playing in Cuba is for the club owners to thrash out at today's meeting.'

Shaughnessy said winter baseball has flourished in Havana throughout the revolution, with so many major league stars playing for Cuban teams.

Stilgmeier said Thursday he favors having Havana games played in Jersey City, N.J.

Today's meeting will be asked to approve the transfer last week of the Richmond franchise to the New York Yankee organization. The American League club acquired the franchise last week. No opposition is likely.

Winnipeg May Be Site of Pan-American

WINNIPEG (CP)—Alan McGavin, chairman of the Canadian Pan-American Games Association, says facilities and public enthusiasm are the factors that will decide which Canadian city will be host to the 1963 games.

Mr. McGavin, touring Canadian cities which have bid for the 1963 games, told a press conference Thursday there is no doubt that Winnipeg has shown great enthusiasm.

Other cities seeking the games include Toronto, Montreal, Vancouver and Saskatoon. The international Pan - American Games committee already has decided that the 1963 competition will be held in Canada if certain standards can be met.

Main stumbling block in Winnipeg's bid for the games is the lack of an Olympic - standard swimming pool. However, a Manitoba sports committee has said such a pool can be built in time for the games.

Argos Cannot Claim Roberts Says Mr. Bell

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, said Thursday night he knows of no written contract that would enable Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four league to claim playing rights to halfback C. R. Roberts for 1959.

Bell said Roberts, who has signed a 1959 contract with New York Giants of the NFL, was given two games' pay last Oct. 15 as settlement for his 1958 contract with Argos when he was cut.

An Argos spokesman said in Toronto his team felt they had a claim on Roberts' option for 1959 despite last year's cut.

Bell said there was nothing in the stipulations on the matter he had about Roberts' 1959 options or which team he should belong to.

The commissioner added that he knew nothing about a Toronto report that he was going to rule on the contract on its "moral" obligations.

There is nothing in writing to the Roberts to the Argos, he said.

Argo general manager Lew Hayman said the release provected Argos' 1959 setups on him and "we want him thh season even though we had to cut him last year. We think he can become a great player."

The case is also being considered by G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg, Bell's Canadian counterpart.

Halter, in Winnipeg, declined comment. He said only that he had received no word from Bell.

Roberts joined Argos in 1958, coming from the University of Southern California. He was cut in mid-October and given $1,500 for the final four games in the 14-game schedule.

Bombers Trade Day for Morse

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union today announced a straight one-for-one player trade with Calgary Stampeders with no cash involved.

Herman (Eagle) Day, 25, will go to the Stamps for halfback Jim Morse, 22.

Morse graduate of University of Mississippi, joined Bombers in 1957 handling both the quarterback and punting duties. He sat out the 1957 season with a kidney ailment. He rejoined Bombers last year but was cut in favor of Michigan star Jim Van Pelt.

Morse, captain of the 1956 Notre Dame team, scored five touchdowns for Calgary in 1957 but only one last season as he was hampered by a leg injury.

Pete Conacher Will Be Here Tonight!

Pete Conacher, former National Hockey Leaguer, will be in a McFarlance uniform when the team takes to the ice against Cornwall here tonight. He is expected to be "cleared" by midnight.

Billy Reay, assistant general manager of the Mats made the announcement here today.

Conacher a controversial figure since the Mats first sought his services has been waived out of the American Hockey League.

His services were secured through the co-operation of the Buffalo Bisons Hockey Club's owner 'Ruby Pastor' and general manager Fred Hunt.

Also co-operating to the fullest extent were the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. Canada, and the House of Seagram with which Conacher is associated. Seagrams granted the starry left-winger leave of absence for the overseas jaunt.

Conacher quit professional hockey this season because of business reasons, it was stated.

Pete is a scion of an illustrious Canadian sports family. He is the son of Charley Conacher, well-known hockey star and member of the Toronto Maple Leafs famous Kid Line with Harvey Jackson and Joe Primeau.

Pete made his debut in the National Hockey League, four ut them with the Chicago Black Hawks before with the Rangers. He played with the Bisons during his American League career.

Like his father, Pete is said to have a terrific shot.

Folley Whips Alex Miteff

DENVER (AP)—Zora Folley of Phoenix, Ariz., stabbed Alex Miteff of Argentina into a bloody mass with his left hand and punched out a unanimous decision in a 10-round heavyweight bout Thursday night.

There were no knockdowns. Folley weighed 194½, Miteff 204½.

A near-capacity crowd of more than 7,600 fans who paid $24,051 watched a battle that was a lively punching exchange from start to finish.

Under the relentless pounding of Folley's left, Miteff began bleeding profusely under the right eye as early as the fourth round. He finished the bout with the eye nearly shut.

The turning point came in the fifth when Folley, No. 3 challenger to heavyweight titlist Floyd Patterson, came out with a furious attack.

Referee Mac Barr scored it 49-45 on the five-point must system, Judge Joe Ulmer saw it 50-45 and Judge Bob Sauer 49-43, all for Folley. The AP card was 49-43, also for Folley.

Champs Mark Figure Skating

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — The usual polished performances of the country's top pair and sparkling efforts by a trio of juniors launched the Canadian figure skating championships.

Geraldine Fenton of Burlington and Bill McLachlan of Toronto, Dominion pairs champs, placed first in both their events Thursday night—the qualifying rounds of the senior waltz and ten-step.

Wendy Griner, a 14-year-old from Toronto who finished third last year and reads mystery novels between skating sessions to keep calm, led the compulsory figures for the junior women's singles.

His services were secured through the co-operation of the Buffalo Bisons Hockey Club's owner 'Ruby Pastor' and general manager Fred Hunt.

Also co-operating to the fullest extent were the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. Canada, and the House of Seagram with which Conacher is associated. Seagrams granted the starry left-winger leave of absence for the overseas jaunt.

Yanks Can Win Backdoor Title In Basketball

By BRIAN BELL

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The United States can cut tonight whether the world amateur basketball championship will remain in the country where the game originated more than 50 years ago.

If Russia goes through with its announced decision not to play Nationalist China, the Yanks will win the title by defeation a strong Brazil team tonight. The U.S. has a 4-1 record, Brazil is 3-1 with the U.S. and a most non-strong Chilean team still on its schedule.

UP TO RUSSIA

Should the Russians decide to take the floor against China, the U.S. has no chance. It makes no difference whether the Russians win or lose. They now have a 5-0 record and the best goals for and against record which will decide the issue in event of a tie. They beat the U.S. 62-37 Wednesday night.

Officials of the International Basketball Federation have announced that all of Russia's games will count and if they do not play the Chinese.

Should the air force personnel representing the U.S. win the title it will be an unpopular victory. Chilean fans, dissatisfied with the club's poor calibre, let the Americans know it as the U.S. rallied for a 61-55 victory over Chile Thursday night.

CHEERS FOR RUSSIA

The fans peppered the team with paper, coins and fruit and yelled "Russia...Russia."

Police escorted officials from the court and 250 policemen escorted the team out.

With no college or AAU club teams available, the U.S. players were selected through an advertisement published in an air force paper asking for volunteers.

Albert Splits Hoop Victories With Picton

Albert College juniors squeezed out a narrow 47-45 victory over Picton in an exhibition basketball tilt yesterday while in junior action the visitors from Little Spain took an easy 44-15 decision over Albert.

The senior affair was close all the way with the lead changing hands a number of times. Picton led a 24-22 edge at half time.

Earle "Sonny" MacDonald was the Albert College sparkplug, hooping 14 points, with 12 of these coming in the second half of the game. MacDonald sank five successive set shots from outside the key at one point in the game and Coach Ed Bellamy went ahead it was he sparkling play that regained the lead for Albert.

Barry Crawford with nine, Don McIntyre and Watt with seven each, aided the Albert scoring cause. Gus Rodgers hit for 19 of Picton's points while Harold Prowse collected 16.

The junior game was no contest as the taller Picton boys took command from the opening jump and were never threatened as they marched to their 44-15 victory.

Jim Taylor had 12 points for Picton but it was good team work all the way that produced the win. Cedric Anderson was best in a losing effort with nine points.

AT THE BELLE — Leslie Caron, Maurice Chevalier and Louis Jourdan head the cast of MGM's "Gigi", a musical version of Colette's novel by the same composers as "My Fair Lady". Much of the picture was shot in Paris and in this scene the story's lovers are taking a carriage drive in the Bois.

AT THE PARK — You've never seen a two-faced, fast-shooting Western hero like the one Glenn Ford portrays in his new MGM action-drama, "The Sheepman", showing today and Tuesday at the Park Theatre. For the laughs come thick as the bullets in the unusual comedy-stained story of a wary sheepman who uses his wit as well as his wits to outsmart a band of hard-case cattle rustlers. Shirley MacLaine has the feminine lead. On the same program "Merry Andrew", stars Danny Kaye and Pier Angeli. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE PARK — Danny Kaye appears in his first movie in more than two years in "Merry Andrew", rollicking comedy with songs, telling the story of a shy schoolteacher who becomes a circus clown. Here he is shown with Angelina, chimpanzee member of the circus troupe. Pier Angeli plays the feminine lead in the Sol C. Siegel production for MGM showing today and Saturday at the Park Theatre. On the same program "The Sheepman", stars Glenn Ford and Shirley MacLaine. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

Marlon Brando Is $250,000 Over Budget in New Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando is already $2,500,000 over budget on his new picture, but he isn't worried.

"The studio (Paramount) isn't, either," he claims. "Otherwise, they'd be leaning against me."

It seems reasonable that a film could cost so much more than anticipated, but that's what the man said. He reported that One-Eyed Jacks, budgeted at $1,500,000, will end up costing $4,000,000. Reason for the expense is that much of the early footage was been reshot, new scenes have been added and the schedule extended a full month.

It's Marlon's debut as a director and he added that he will direct work again under such conditions.

"In the first place," he said, "we had to start without a finished script. I didn't want to, but this comedian we'd been hanging for three years, and I wanted to get rid of him.

"One of the major problems is dealing with inexperienced actors. Karl Malden and Katy Jurado are the only other trained actors in the cast. With Karl, I can say 'push orange button No. 8,' and he will produce the emotion I want. But the others aren't push-button actors. I have to work hard to get what I want out of them."

Best western in a long time is The Hanging tree, Gary Cooper plays a real character in this one, not just the stalwart man of the West. Maria Schell gives the film real dimension with a fine acting job. Newcomer Ben Piazza should be the next sensation of the teen-agers.

Deborah Kerr and Yul Brynner continue their Anna and the King of Siam relationship in The Journey, but not with as propitious results. The story of the Hungarian revolt was beautifully photographed in Austria, but the human values are too often muddied.

Anthony Meets Reuben Vargas

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Anthony opens a 1959 campaign he hopes will earn him a lofty ranking in the heavyweight division when he faces Reuben Vargas of Richmond Hill, N.Y., in a 10-rounder tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The 23-year-old New Yorker already is No. 1 contender in the light heavy class ruled by Archie Moore. Instead of waiting for another crack at Moore, who stopped him in September 1957, Anthony wants to make his big move in the heavies. He is a 3-to-1 favorite over Vargas.

Mike Elik Joins Barons

TORONTO (CP)—Centre Mike Elik of the University of Toronto Varsity Blues signed with Hershey but he will leave the intercollegiate league team after tonight's game to join Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

Elik, a three-year veteran of the Blues, said he will commute between Toronto and Cleveland. He now is in his final year of mechanical engineering.

Elik, 23, will be in Barons' line-up Saturday when they meet Rochester at home.

Marlene Wins First Round

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (CP)—Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Montbill and Ann Casey Johnstone of Mason City, Iowa, Thursday won their first-round match in the women's international four-ball golf tournament.

They defeated Mrs. George Wilcox of Miami and Mrs. S. A. Emerson of Dayton, Ohio, 5 and 4 over the Orange Brook Country Club course here.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, January 31

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Rather poor judgment on your part in monetary matters during the day could cause you to be suspicious of a very true friend. Tension often does this, so beware your guard, think, and let practical sense win the day for you.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — One of those days when you get into a hassle with dynamic associate who could become an enemy if you don't use real wisdom now. Fortunately, a practical matter needs attention which smooths things over. Be most thoughtful and kind.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Get busy putting residence in A-1 condition now and keep out of mischief's way. Clear out all debris for maximum efficiency of living in the future. P. M. don't get entangled in complicated new schemes. Rest and take it easy.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Since you want to have a day of fun and frolic, get beauty and other treatments early and be on the go. Latter part of day, some rather strange people try to get you interested in peculiar matters. Steer clear of such.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A. M. can be very peaceful and profitable provided you do not make sarcastic remarks to close ones. Also, guard your words and manner with associates and outsiders, especially in P. M. Safeguard your reputation and standing in community.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — It may be that you interpret incorrectly something in today's correspondence. So, don't let it bother you. Be generous and give the other fellow the benefit of the doubt. Tonight, take care you do not have unnecessary mishaps.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Don't permit yourself the annoyance of worrying about property or financial matters. Think lucidly and all will be well. P.M. have fun, but do not be extravagant with hard-earned savings.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Provided you keep nice sense of balance you will make the right decisions in all important affairs. Any nervousness will be very harmful. P. M. close tie could really give you a bad time, if you do not analyze cause of ire.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Attempting to judge others when you do not know the reasons for their actions would be very bad today. Be most kind and thoughtful with those in need. P. M. is the right time to complete shopping, other errands.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Look for the reasons behind the actions of friends, associates or relatives. In this way you avoid criticism and get to the bottom of things properly. P.M. set up a better budgeting system for yourself. Increase assets.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Particular care must be taken today in matters of good name and increasing popular appeal. And ultimately you will realize that some change must occur in you if you are to get the very best results of today's thinking and acting.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — The ideal A. M. to know what your real ambitions are and how to take the right steps in that direction. Personal anxieties can then be solved by introspection. P. M. you realize that a pal treated you rather shabbily because of personal worry.

If your child is born today — The delightful child born today will however have one failing which you must quickly curb, and that is to leap before thinking, which could get him or her into a peck of trouble. The nature is unusual, too, for there is a definite humanitarian streak in your progeny, although the love of money is also there. Best outlet is where both can be combined satisfactorily, as in best charitable institutions, for a salary.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming), speaking of inflation, said union attempts to obtain higher wages often brought undeserved criticism that these were a cause of inflation.

James W. Baskin (PC—Renfrew South) said Canadians now are developing the North, 'not counting on the Americans to do it. The former Liberal government "clung to the 49th parallel with an ostrichlike blindness, and whenever they did raise their eyes it was to the South."

Sunday School Lesson

Prejudice Saps Democracy

By ROY L. SMITH

In any society that is governed by clamor, it is easy to trace the governing forces back to prejudices. The weakness of democracy is the alacrity with which we surrender to prejudice and noise; the strength of democratic government depends upon our ability to keep our emotions under control and to think clearly in the presence of our prejudices.

THEY FEARED PEOPLE

This week's Sunday School lesson pictures the leaders of Jerusalem as being men who were actually afraid of the people. During much of the time the people have good cause for fearing their leaders — the authorities they have set over them — but there comes times when the leaders are more fearful than the people are.

There have been many times in history when the people have been willing to go forward, but the leaders have been afraid to lead. There have been other times when, confronted with a great moral choice, the leaders have been afraid to do evil lest they incur the wrath of the people.

The leaders of the Jerusalem Jews were a crafty crowd who were anxious to have Jesus out of the way because He had interfered with their vested rights. But they were afraid of the people because they knew His popularity with the masses. Moreover, the leaders knew that the people did not share their prejudices.

THEY SENT SPIES

The dangerous thing about any spy is the fact that he tries to bring back to his overlord the information that overlord most wants.

The individual who listens to a lecture, a sermon, or even a scientific address, for the purpose of finding some fault is usually successful. Those who go out hoping to find evidence of disloyalty or unfaithfulness can in most cases hear statements which can be twisted to their purpose.

A newspaper photographer of a few years ago described his experience in trailing a certain candidate for the presidency. He had been instructed by his managing editor to get a picture that would show the candidate—an unusually kindly man—in some repulsive attitude or mood. After taking more than a thousand pictures, he succeeded in capturing the features of his subject in an expression that could be construed as evil and with that he ended his search.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for February 1: "Jesus Questioned About the Tribute," Luke 20:19-26.

Years afterward he showed the picture he had taken to the candidate, the latter having been elected to the presidency. "I took a thousand pictures before I got that one," he explained, whereupon the President said: "Then I am very well satisfied." If I only look that way once in a thousand times, I must not be so bad the rest of the time."

Spies seldom want the truth. They only want circumstances that can be made to look like evidence.

SHOWED HIM A COIN

It was a rule in the ancient East that if a man could get his coinage circulated, it was a symbol of the fact that he was the one who was to be obeyed. Any man carrying one of Caesar's coins was, by that very fact, acknowledging the authority of Caesar.

Inscribed on one side of the Roman coin was the profile of the Emperor who had issued it. In the case of the coin handed to Jesus it was probably either Augustus or Tiberius. In either case, the name of the emperor was coupled with the words which announced that he was god — that he was entitled to worship as a god would be.

To most citizens of the Empire that caused no difficulty, for the average individual might have many gods. But to a Jew it was an outrage. He could acknowledge no man as God — only Jehovah, the God of his fathers.

When Jesus, therefore, said "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, He was calling upon the people to support orderly government. But when He said "and unto God, the things that are God's," He was rebuking Caesar for pretending to be God.

There is a very thin line running down through a man's loyalties, separating his loyalty to his government from his loyalty to his God. And he is a very wise man who is able to trace it in all its long and varied course.

There are times when, to be loyal to the highest in one's government, we must hold out against it. There are other times when, to be good citizens, we must renounce our own predilices and be loyal to our government even at the expense of our own opinions.

Haunts, Habits, Uses of Animals Told to Club

PLAINFIELD — The regular monthly meeting of the Quinte Field Naturalists, was held in the lecture room of the entomology laboratory, on Monday evening.

The president, Miss Joy Nichols, welcomed the guests who almost out-numbered the members, and the club also received several new members.

The past meetings have been varied and intensely interesting and the program for the coming season promises to be rewarding.

After the routine business, Miss Nichols, introduced Mrs. Alma Wallis, taxidermist and naturalist who explained naturalist habits and haunts of several of her beautifully mounted animals, from the tiny white weasel to the white baby harbor seal and Arctic hare from James Bay.

Her lovely colored slides of wild life, and her knowledge of their habitat, was enjoyed.

A pleasant social half hour closed the meeting.

Two Men Killed As Cars Collide Near Brighton

R. Ashbury, Belleville, G.I. Vanslyke Victims

TRENTON — One man was killed instantly and another died in the Trenton Memorial Hospital about an hour after their cars met in a head-on collision about three miles east of Brighton on Highway No. 2 early this morning.

George Ira Vanslyke, 39, of Brighton and father of two children was definitely killed in his car as he was proceeding towards his home in Brighton. His car was a complete wreck.

The second victim was Richard Russell Ashbury, 18, 137 Catherine Street, Belleville, who was driving in the opposite direction. Ashbury died in the Trenton Memorial Hospital.

But there was no indication that the board would be able to settle the squabble between the publicly-owned corporation and its French-Canadian producers, which has disrupted network operations out of Montreal since Dec. 29.

Informed quarters here said there was no likelihood of a settlement at least before the CBC's board of directors meets in Ottawa Monday.

The dispute could go on. It also could stop abruptly. There is some poker playing, for big stakes. The producers are not showing their hands.

CLC TAKES UP CASE

At meetings on Friday, with the CBC, the striking producers got the powerful Canadian Labor Congress to take up their case.

President Claude Jodoin of the 1,150,000 - member CLC talked with the CBC after a long session with Labor Minister Starr.

The upshot of the conferences, at least for the moment, was nothing.

After the Starr-Jordan meeting, there were non-committal statements from each, mainly to the effect that they had met and talked.

Then, Mr. Jodoin hustled down Parliament Hill to meet Acting President E. L. Bushnell of the CBC.

After that, from Mr. Jodoin: "I made certain proposals that are to be taken into consideration."

Mr. Bushnell:

"Certain proposals have been suggested, which are to be taken into consideration. At this moment, there are no further comments to be made."

Little Prospect Of Settlement In CBC Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—There appears little prospect of a weekend settlement of the battle between the CBC and its striking Montreal producers.

Informed quarters here said all there was no likelihood of a settlement at least before the CBC's board of directors meets in Ottawa Monday.

But there was no indication that the board would be able to settle the squabble between the publicly-owned corporation and its French-Canadian producers, which has disrupted network operations out of Montreal since Dec. 29.

Mine Inquiry Hearings Ended

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (CP) — A formal inquiry into the Oct. 23 underground upheaval in No. 2 coal mine here ended Friday but heavy work for its three investigators still lies ahead.

A lawyer, a mining engineer and a former coal miner will study the evidence of 29 witnesses and several lengthy briefs before they publish the findings on the "bump" in one of North America's deepest coal workings.

Commission chairman Donald McInnes, Q.C., a Halifax lawyer, said "we have a big task on our hands but we'll do it, with it the best way we can." He said the royal commission "is very conscious of the three disasters which have struck Springhill and of the great spirit and tenacity of purpose of the citizens. We hope that good economic conditions will be restored to you."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:

Twenty to thirty below zero temperatures extended across Northern Ontario and the Prairies from Kapuskasing to Edmonton this morning. A cloud cover which drifted off Lake Huron helped keep temperatures in Southern Ontario well above zero. Very cold weather over the American midwest and is pushing into the southern states although in Florida it is cool to enjoy summerlike weather.

THRONE SPEECH DEBATE ENDED, CARRIED 176 TO 6

Economic Issues Well Discussed

OTTAWA (CP) — With the 10-day throne speech debate over, the Commons got down next week to the brass tacks of legislative business, starting with new supplementary spending estimates totalling $27,954,667.

After a Monday sitting carmarked for debate on private members' resolutions, the House will deal in turn with the estimates, timing, government legislation on federal housing loans, fisheries improvement loans and the trans-Canada highway.

Economic issues dominated the throne speech debate, ended Friday night with a vote of 176 to 6 approving the customary address in reply to the address thanking Governor General Massey for delivering the throne speech at the session opening January 15.

Liberals supported the motion, apparently on grounds that the vote does not imply confidence in the government. The CCF voted against.

MOTION RULED OUT

Earlier, Speaker Roland Michener ruled out of order a CCF motion—technically one of confidence—that the government—urging investigation by a Commons committee of the extent to which Canadian companies are made subject to United States law and business policy.

Mr. Michener ruled the motion because the CCF leader Hazen Argue, did not follow the traditional form of challenging government policy.

Finance Minister Fleming, announcing new estimates, defended the government's $6,400,000,000 economic policy. He pledged that summer, strongly criticized earlier in the day by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker (L-Ottawa West).

Mr. Fleming said Canada is deriving "great and timely" benefits from the conversion loan. Without it, Mr. Fleming said, more than $1,000,000,000 in war debt which would have matured this month in a time of rising interest rates and a weakening bond market.

CAPS "OPPOSITION"

Paul Martin (L-Essex East) said the government lacks during the throne speech debate had been to "convert itself into an opposition to the opposition." Cabinet ministers had made personal attacks on opposition members.

He said Trade Minister Churchill had tried to create the impression that Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was not a supporter of the Commonwealth.

Yet British Prime Minister Macmillan in a speech last year had paid tribute to Mr. Pearson's service as external affairs minister.

Pension to Healthy Airman At Age 30 Worries Auditor

OTTAWA (CP)—The usual bag of accounting irregularities has been dug up by Auditor-General Watson Sellar.

In his latest report to Parliament, tabled Friday and covering 1957-58 government accounts, he questions the award of a $964-a-year life pension, to a healthy 30-year-old officer forcibly retired for inefficiency.

He delves into election goings-on, questions the use by a chief of placement a scrap of family allowances and muggs pointedly about a pension to a retired senior officer of the armed forces who left to become lieutenant-governor of a province.

Both the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives held office during the period covered by Mr. Sellar's report. The fiscal year ended April 1, 1957. The Liberal government was replaced by the Conservative administration June 21, 1957.

In his reference to the life-pensioned young air force officer, Mr. Sellar comments:

"One has to question whether Parliament contemplates that section 49 of the (pension) act may be used to grant a pension of $964 annually to a 30-year-old officer in good health."

He said the treasury board accepted an RCAF certificate that this officer's retirement would "promote economy or efficiency."

He reported that the armed forces pension account now is $300,000,000 in the red.

Mr. Sellar, Parliament's financial watchdog, also referred to a senior officer who, when he retired to become a lieutenant-governor was awarded a tax-free $10,000 annual pension although the Pension Act says an officer who retires voluntarily after 25 years' service must take a 20-per-cent reduction in pension.

In this case, the treasury board concurred in a defence department ruling that the officer was being retired compulsorily.

The audit comments," said Mr. Sellar, "is whether it is appropriate to regard appointment to a civil position as an issue to invoke 'retired compulsorily' provisions in the Defence Services Pension Act."

Mr. Sellar also reported that in some electoral districts in last May's federal election, the auditor-general's department "Planning offices to appoint special constables was used "extensively".

Women were among the appointed constables and one constable was described as an is valid on the electors' list.

Mr. Sellar ceases brought out by Mr. Sellar:

The Canadian Red Cross gave $500,000 and the Ross Cross $50,000 for hurricane relief although the government had already allocated for the $500,000 remaining from the $1,000,000 given the Canadian Red Cross for Hungarian refugee relief must be used only for refugees.

One child placement agency which has accumulated $140,000 in child welfare allowances invested the money at interest as high as six per cent while crediting the account of each child in its care with bank interest of 2½ per cent.

The government refused to authorize $25,000 for help-payment on a Picasso painting, then relented and accounted for the payment under "unforeseen expenses."

GOVT. SPENDING LIKELY TO REACH ALL-TIME HIGH

Further Rises Are Anticipated

OTTAWA (CP) — Government spending this year is estimated to climb to an all-time high, topping the wartime spending record of 1943-44. Further rises are anticipated before the year ends March 31.

Latest demands on the treasury were unrolled by Finance Minister Fleming Friday as he presented Parliament with $27,954,667 in new supplementary estimates, bringing the forecast total budget bill for 1958-59 to a record $5,324,070,310 so far.

This by itself would exceed the record $5,322,300,000 set in wartime 1943-44, when estimated old age pension costs of $555,000,000 were added, the outlays run to a total $5,241,000,000.

But information say still more requests for money are likely. Before the year ends, the budget-ary bill may run to more than $5,500,000,000 and the total bill—including pensions—to more than $6,000,000,000.

BUDGET NEXT WEEK

Next week Mr. Fleming likely will unroll the budget-spending program for 1959-60, and indications are it will exceed this year's record-sized blockbuster.

But with the economy on the upswing, government revenues also may rise and the deficit for 1959-60 may be cut from the forecast $700,000,000 deficit for this year, practices high. Mr. Fleming told the Commons Friday he saw no reason to depart "very far" from this estimate.

Supplementary estimates are additional requests for money to stop the main government estimates of each year's expenditures.

WORKS PROGRAM

Biggest single item in Friday's supplementaries — the third set this year—was $15,000,000 under the federal agreement to pay one-half the payroll costs of special winter municipal works to ease unemployment.

Other additional expenses arose out of the 17-per-cent freight rate increase last December; the $11-acre payment to prairie grain growers; relief for victims of hurricane Carol to Canada; the CBC deficit; the Commonwealth share of the new Board of Broadcast Governors; and the big Ottawa midtown expansion job, which recently literally wrecked a government building.

Danish Vessel Sent SOS After Hitting Iceberg

Planes, Ships Scour Sea Off Tip of Greenland

HALIFAX (CP) — High seas and polar winds hampered search today for the Danish ship Hans Hedtoft, feared lost with possibly 130 aboard after hitting an iceberg off the south tip of Greenland.

A U.S. Navy radar patrol plane circled above the 20-foot waves in the North Atlantic and found no trace of the ship or lifeboats.

Ice packs were closing in from the north, adding to the hazards for other ships steaming north from the North Atlantic shipping lanes to join the search.

The Greenland navy command advised the U.S. coast guard the Hans Hedtoft carried life rafts equipped with radios that sent out a continuous beacon signal. But none of the ships in the area reported hearing such signals.

The little German vessel, the Johannes Kreuzo, continued the search after reporting the Danish ship had struck ice and was sinking with a loss of 1,398 lives by a German submarine on May 7, 1915, off Kinsale, Ireland coast of Ireland.

The collision between the Canadian Pacific Steamship Empress of Ireland and the Danish collier Storstad in the St. Lawrence River coast 1,024 lives on May 29, 1914.

NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest ship-iceberg disaster in history was the sinking of the Titanic with a loss of 1,517 lives in the Atlantic on April 15, 1912.

The White Star liner, like the Danish vessel Hans Hedtoft just struck an iceberg today, was on her maiden voyage.

The 852-foot Titanic, of 46,328 gross tons, was en route from Southampton to New York with 2,224 passengers and crew when she sideswiped an iceberg.

The Titanic sinking, one of the most dramatic sea stories of all time, was not the greatest in loss of life.

SIX THOUSAND LOST

Six thousand Germans died in the Baltic in 1945 when Soviet submarines sank the liners Wilhelm Gustoloff in the bottom. She was carrying German refugees from Russian and the Russian forces advanced. Nazi wartime censorship concealed the disaster.

Six thousand Chinese were lost when a ship sank in the middle of an evacuation ship off Manchuria.

The next month 3,800 persons were lost when the refugee ship Lancegro was torpedoed off Shanghai.

More than 1,600 died in an explosion when the Belgian relief ship Imo and the French munitions ship Mont Blanc collided Dec. 6, 1917, in Halifax harbor. The Mont Blanc blast exploded and sank with a loss of 1,398 lives by a German submarine on May 7, 1915, off Kinsale, Ireland coast of Ireland.

Hoffa's Aide To Probe Charge

TORONTO (CP) — A representative of the executive president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters union, will take over investigation of grievances and several lengthy briefs before public hearings on the "bump" in one of North America's deepest coal workings.

Commission chairman Donald McInnes, a Halifax lawyer, said "we have a big task on our hands but we'll do it, with it the best way we can." He said the royal commission "is very conscious of the three disasters which have struck Springhill and of the great spirit and tenacity of purpose of the citizens. We hope that good economic conditions will be restored to you."

A group within the local some weeks ago demanded Mr. McDougall's resignation because they disputed the outcome of a battle held on a new agreement with the Ontario Trucking Association. The dissident faction has called a second vote on but there has been no move to date.

Mr. McDougall refused to quit and the Toronto joint council of the union began an inquiry.

Frank Fitzsimmons, Hoffa's personal troubleshooter, will attend a meeting Feb. 7 at which the controversy probably will come to a head.

U.S. With British Backing Urges Peaceful A-Explosions Be Allowed

GENEVA (AP) — The United States has urged with British support that a treaty banning atomic and hydrogen weapons tests permit nuclear blasts for peaceful purposes.

Chief U.S. negotiator James J. Wadsworth introduced the plan Friday at the three-power conference ending nuclear tests.

The Russians said they would study the plan carefully. In any case, they said they would demand East-West parity on the number of such shots.

Under the American plan, a seven-nation control commission would exercise supervision over peaceful nuclear explosions. The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union would be members of the commission.

Bar Association Concerned About Bill of Rights Clause

HAMILTON (CP) — Lawyer B. J. Mackinnon of Toronto said Friday that "serious consequences" could follow if the emergency powers section of Canada's bill of rights is allowed to remain intact.

The bill came up at the 52nd mid-winter meeting of the Canadian Bar Association.

The part of the plenary session referred to by Mr. Mackinnon is that which says any action taken by the federal government under the War Measures Act will not be looked at as a violation of the bill of rights.

He spoke to the civil liberties committee which is to report on a resolution for submission to the annual meeting next spring that this clause be rewritten.

The committee also will seek the support of the plenary session for resolutions asking the federal government to clarify who has jurisdiction over civil liberties—the provinces or federal authorities.

Ottawa also will be asked to put the issue before the Supreme Court of Canada for an opinion.

At another point in the day, the industrial relations committee forwarded to the association council a strongly worded resolution urging that action be taken to make sure judges consider the public interest in conciliation and arbitration boards.

HASN'T ACTED

Justice Minister Fulton proposed 18 months ago that judges be dropped from this role. He has not acted yet.

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts told the bar association the head of the province's juvenile population is "good and healthy."

He said he received "an extensive, factual report," based on a three-month study of the subject which he initiated following "public investigations indicating the problem might have been

Winter Control Cost $14,541 According to Town Engineer

TRENTON — During 1958 the sum of $14,541.30 was spent on winter control and spring cleanup, it was announced yesterday by the town engineer, Eric Alderney.

It is over $3,500 above the amount it cost the town in 1957 and it was the heavy snows during the month of December last which has boosted the cost of snow removal.

It is also expected that the costs will run as high for the year 1959 with January being a heavy month for snow removal as well.

An interesting point is that if the town did not own its own snow removal equipment it would have cost another $5,836.66. This amount represents what it would have cost for rental of outside machinery during the past year.

No figures have been released as yet for the month of January 1959.

Tree and brush removal during the year 1958 cost the town a total of $2,667.06. This figure includes work which was done during December under the federal and provincial winter work program, but represents only $115 of the total amount.

And the work is still going on in town despite the fact there has been no snow fall for the past few days. The mild weather has almost presented as big a problem though as sewers become plugged and catch basins frozen to back the water from melting snow up and flooding some of the town streets.

The worst spot at present is on Marmora Street where the sewer crew found a plugged sewer and the water had flooded the street with about five inches of water. They worked all through last night to get the underground pipes unplugged.

In other places the steamjenny has been put to work at full speed to thaw out frozen catch basins.

It is expected that crews will turn their attention to the area around the Canadian Legion hall when the melting snow is also causing trouble.

Many compliments are still coming in to the engineer's office over the excellent job which has been done this winter in snow removal. Local business men have been high in their praise as the town crews have given the business section of town their full attention following a snow fall.

Commenting on the work of snow removal this winter the town engineer said credit must certainly be given to the co-operation and hard work of the men who do the work. "We now have a good bunch of men," he said, "who can handle the machines well and besides this the new grader is a tremendous help this winter. It's doing a great job."

Today the town trucks were out again with their sanding equipment when freezing air last night made the town streets close to skating rinks.

Historical Outline of Hastings South Given in Maiden Speech by Lee Grills

Editor's note: Following is the text of Mr. Grills' speech in the House of Commons on Friday. Mr. Grills is M.P. for the riding of Hastings South.

Mr. Speaker:

First allow me to congratulate the Mover and Seconder of the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. Since much has been said about these two deserving gentlemen, I heartily concur in what has been said previously.

I should like at this time to congratulate our Speaker, who through his unbiased attitude has won him the confidence of every Hon. member of this House, and who besides conducting the business of the House in an orderly, dignified manner, is also able to inject a little good humor and clever wit into his remarks. Thus pouring oil on sometimes troubled waters.

Mr. Speaker, it is an inspiring experience to be a part of this truly national government, sometimes referred to as the "Diefenbaker team." It is a complete representation of all Canadians regardless of their origin or geographical location.

It must be an inspiration to Canadian women who make up at least one-half of our population to see these lady members in this government. It has been said the reason there are not more women in public life is because they have no wives to help them. They have proven their ability in this House and I consider they also add charm and dignity. The ladies have been placed directly across from the opposition, just one more indication of our unselfish desire to share our good fortune with our less fortunate members across the way. While referring to the Opposition members, I have appreciated making the acquaintance of many of them since coming here and have enjoyed their friendship. After all

"There is a destiny that makes us brothers,
None walks his way alone.
All that we put in the lives of others,
Comes back into our own."

HUB OF CHEESE INDUSTRY

I should like briefly Mr. Speaker, to tell you something about the riding I am proud to represent in this House. The historic riding of Hastings South, which has contributed one of Canada's former Prime Ministers in the person of Sir MacKenzie Bowell, is located approximately 10 0miles east of Toronto on the north shore of the beautiful Bay of Quinte.

After listening with interest to the members of this House I would like to refer to my constituency as an example of a well-balanced economy. Hastings County has been known for many years as the hub of the cheese industry in Ontario. Belleville, where the British Empire Cheese Show is held each year is the home of such famous names as Cooks and Black Diamond Cheese and others, known not only across Canada, but in many countries of world as the finest Canadian Cheddar Cheese. To prove my point the Vice-President of the United States, Richard Nixon, on an informal visit to our area and Belleville in recent months, mentioned that he came to get some of Belleville's famous cheddar cheese.

Our agriculture consists of mixed farming operations including milk production for all purposes, hog raising and canning crops. I would say at this point, the present Government's stabilization program has brought about a sense of security to the farmers of my riding.

FARM PEOPLE IMPORTANT

I am one who believes our overall economy depends to a large extent on our farm people getting their fair share of the nation's wealth, our Stabilization Act should be reviewed each year.

I would like, also, to mention with pride our many Junior Farm and 4-H Club members, who will be future leaders in our community and public life.

I would make worthy mention of some of our industries in the progressive town of Trenton, known to many as the "Air Force Town" where one of our largest RCAF stations is located, we have a variety of industry including textiles, paper products, silverware, steel fabrication, electronics and many others, and the town is rapidly growing. Along the Trent Canal, north of Trenton, we have an industry, and a community worthy of special mention. Unfortunately the opportunities this land of ours has to offer, I refer of the village of Batawa and the Bata Shoe Company of Canada.

In 1930, a small group of men headed by a young man of 25 years, Thomas J. Bata, surveyed and measured land on the River Trent, above Trenton, Ontario. On a 1,500 acre site they hoped to build a new business, as well as a new life in a new community.

NEW COMMUNITY

Over the last decade or so, founding a business in Canada has become a common occurrence, but a new community is not being born every day. As a result of the dreams and efforts of this young man and his associates an entirely new community has grown up in my riding, the Bata Shoe Company of Canada Ltd. Both of them are now as much an integrated part of the growing and expanding life of Canada as any of the varied industrial projects which are elevating this great country into the ranks of the leading industrial powers.

This plant not only manufactures shoes, but also shoemaking machinery and products used in National Defence. I also know from personal observation, of the loyal public spirited citizens who take their place and responsibility in our community. Truly an example of confidence in Canada's future.

The village of Frankford on the Trent River, Stirling with another shoe factory and the progressive village of Tweed in the land of the lakes area in our country, are examples of up-to-date and alive communities that we are proud of.

The historic town of Deseronto, joins the Tyendinaga Indian Reserve. I would add here I trust we will have a necessary causeway constructed above Deseronto joining the two counties, for their mutual benefit, in the near future.

There are many other industries in my riding, including a large distillery at Corbyville. Some members may have heard of it and not known the location. Time will not permit me to go into details of many other industries.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I would draw your attention to the expanding city of Belleville, known as the "Friendly City" the capital of our county. I would like to bring this fact to some of the honorable members opposite, particularly those in the front row, sometimes referred to as the brass of the party, who have been spreading gloom and doom in recent days. They seem to have their own political position confused with the national outlook. On January 1st of this year the City of Belleville annexed 3600 acres to its former boundaries to make up the required space and services available for new industries and new homes.

The last report from our local employment office, January 1st, states that unemployment assistance numbers are down from last year. Also the winter program is helping. I realize fully that the unemployment of any one person wanting to work is regretable and I am grateful that our position is improving. I might add here that in June 1957, there were seventeen vacant stores on the main street of Belleville. I have been told that on January 1st of this year there are only five. I refer to the encouraging outlook of my riding to prove our people have confidence in the government and in this ever-expanding Canada of ours.

Ideological Content Missing In Address by Khrushchev

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

An intriguing feature of Nikita Khrushchev's marathon address this week outlining the Soviet Union's new seven-year plan is the lack of ideological content.

There are the usual exhortations to the faithful to catch up with and surpass the capitalist countries in per capita output and the oft-repeated strictures against "revisionists" inside the Communist party.

But what emerges most clearly is a sense of inspiration and incentive with a suspiciously capitalist melody based on more and more of everything being produced by less and less work with the final, climactic promise of holding out the promise of a tax-free future.

GRANDIOSE BUBBLES

It is easy to prick some of the Russian leader's more grandiose bubbles. Elimination of income tax, for example, will mean little to a country where state-mandated prices and other forms of indirect taxation account for more than 90 per cent of the government's revenue. And few Westerners expect the Soviets have a chance of achieving a 70-per-cent rise in gross output of farm products.

But it would be a mistake to dismiss all the ambitious targets as so much pie in the Soviet sky.

SOME REALISM

The objectives set for production of industrial and consumer goods have a certain realism in view of recent Soviet achievements. British observers believe even the stupendous task of building 15,000,000 flats may be accomplished.

But the very success of Khrushchev's ambitious program is likely to confront him with new problems.

Russia's tremendous industrial development has led to the emergence of a new managerial and scientific class whose ranks are being swelled by the hundreds of thousands of students now receiving an advanced education.

EQUIVOCAL POSITION

Khrushchev owes much of his strength inside Russia to its recognition of this class and its hankering for harsh police state policies of the Stalinist era.

His dilemma has been neatly summed up by the British weekly, The Spectator, which says he is "in the unenviable position of attempting to run an autocracy by consent."

There is always the danger that a literate society will rebel and every success of the new seven year plan is likely to make Russia less willing to put up with Communist bureaucracy.

SPECIAL AMBASSADOR

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator George Stanley White, Ontario Progressive Conservative, has been designated a special Canadian ambassador to the Feb. 13 inauguration of Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt in Caracas. Others in the Canadian delegation will include Ambassador L. E. Couillard and members of his staff.

Outdoor Market Quiet This Week

The outdoor market was cool and quiet this morning except, perhaps, for the occasional yelp from a pair of pups for sale at $5.00 and $3.00.

A good assortment of apples was available. Snows, Spies, McIntoshes, Delicious and Sweets were all obtainable at prices ranging from 60c to 75 cents a basket and $1.50 to $3.00 a bushel.

Potatoes were selling at 50 cents a basket; carrots at 60 cents, turnips at 10 cents each.

Chickens were priced at 50c a pound. Prices on eggs were down from last week. Extra large were 48c a dozen, large 42c, medium, 39c and small 33c.

Honey, which is becoming short in supply, sold at 30c a pound, 55c a two-pound can, and $1.90 an 8-lb. pail.

The honey market had its usual display of a wide assortment of home baking of excellent quality at reasonable prices.

Jean Paul Payette, popular centre of the Macs' forward line, was awarded the Lee Grills Most Gentlemanly Player Award for the third consecutive year. Only four minutes were served in the "sin bin" by Paul during this year's season. The award is being presented by Lee Grills, M.P.

Gordon Bell, the stalwart last man of defence for the Belleville team, is shown receiving his replica for the most valuable player award; the Bill Green Memorial Trophy, from John Hibbard. This year the trophy awarded jointly—to Mr. Bell and to Mr. Hildebrand. This is the first time the trophy has been jointly awarded.

Tourist Industry Revenue Down From Last Year

TORONTO (CP) — The revenue of Ontario's tourist industry dropped slightly last year.

The annual report of the department of travel and publicity was tabled Friday in the Ontario legislature, estimates that money spent by visitors from outside of Canada was down by about three to five per cent in 1958.

But the report added:

"While revenue from non-resident visitors was down from 1957, it is estimated that resident tourist spending increased sufficiently to almost offset the decrease in foreign expenditures in Ontario."

The report made no dollar estimate of total revenues but the figure is usually set at $500,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year.

RECESSION TROUBLE

Visitors from outside Ontario who spent two days or more in the province declined about 2.2 per cent to 1,499,740 but the report offered this explanation:

"It is felt this was a reflection of the unsettled economic situation in the United States rather than a lessening of interest in the vacation attractions of this province."

Inquiries received by the department rose to an all-time record of 215,284 compared to 163,391 in 1957.

Complaints totalled 146, mentioning overcharging, rudeness, exchange on the dollar, liquor laws and misleading advertising in that order.

The report said investment in motel accommodation rose by $1,000,000 to $6,500,000 in 1958.

The department's inspection branch made 10,924 visits to tourist establishments, ordering improvements in 1,610 cases. Licences were refused for 27 operators and restored to 22. There was one cancellation.

Sol Brant, 79, Slugged, Robbed At Tyendinaga Reserve Home

Slugged and robbed at his home on the Tyendinaga Reserve when he apparently answered the door on Thursday evening, 79-year-old Sol Brant is in fair condition in Belleville General Hospital with head lacerations.

Provincial police said that after being slugged Mr. Brant lay unattended in his home until he was found Friday morning about 10 o'clock. His unknown assailants escaped with between $140 and $150 which he had in a wallet in his dresser drawer.

It is believed that Mr. Brant was slugged over the head with a stick of wood found lying in the doorway of the house. He lost considerable blood during the night.

Mr. Brant lived alone on the reservation.

Provincial Police officers Cpl. T. Lummiss and Constable Kerr have the matter under investigation.

RED CROSS HELPS

TORONTO (CP) — Two Canadian Red Cross social workers are to leave here Sunday to assist in disaster rehabilitation in Chile. Earthquakes there have more than 7,000 families have been affected in recent floods.

Premier H. C. Hansen called King Frederik at the king's request to give him latest details.

REORGANIZING RED CHINA — PRO AND CON

Confusing the meaning of the word "recognition" with "the more technical term of diplomatic recognition is a distortion that (innocently or purposely) is being used to 'sell' to the Canadian public the idea of the latter, and the eventual admission of Red China into the United Nations," says "The B. C. Catholic" of Vancouver.

It has a point there. We have seen quite a few cartoons depicting John Foster Dulles being kicked and prodded by a non-existent giant, labelled Red China. Mr. Dulles has never denied that Red China exists - - quite the contrary. "The B. C. Catholic" quotes Mr. Dulles as saying: 'We know it (Communist China) exists. It has killed and wounded about 100,000 Americans, so obviously it exists."

Unfortunately for the case made out by "The B. C. Catholic" it does not appear to have been so careful in quoting its opponents accurately in the controversy as we feel certain it was in quoting Mr. Dulles.

"The Canadian dailies," it says, "have adopted the editorial policy of 'recognition,' intimating clearly that those who oppose it are fools! They argue that we can't close our eyes to the fact of Red China's existence, the reality of the Peiping regime, the 'glorious' prosperity of this 'great' and 'progressive' nation."

Now, as we have already mentioned, "The B. C. Catholic" has dealt quite effectively with the erroneous argument that in refusing diplomatic recognition to Red China we are closing our eyes to the fact of its existence. We should, however, be prepared to listen to its arguments against recognition with greater attention had it not placed in quotation marks, as indicated, certain words in the above paragraph. We doubt very much that any Canadian daily newspaper referred to Red China's "glorious" prosperity or termed it a "progressive" nation. That some reported China was reducing its poverty, or even increasing its prosperity, and that some reported it was making progress, we do not doubt, but this is very different from calling its prosperity "glorious" or the nation "progressive."

By declaring that Canadian daily newspapers favoring diplomatic recognition of Red China have used these phrases "The B.C. Catholic" created a misleading impression.

As for calling China a "great" nation, we consider this a plain statement of an obvious fact. It is great in area, great in population and great in its history of past achievements. Surely the fact that a nation with a long history of cultural achievements and possessed of material wealth has temporarily fallen into the control of a band of ruffians does not automatically eliminate it from the role of the great! Germany remained great even when Hitler ruled. Even if we argue that the moral character of people is identical with that of their rulers, a highly questionable assumption, we ought to recognize that an evil nation can be a great nation, just as easily as can a good one.

The error in reasoning here seems to be matched by an error of equal magnitude in another sentence which constitutes the crux of the argument by "The B.C. Catholic" on diplomatic recognition of Red China. "Never can we accept, co-exist with, or condone the Ideology of Communism," it stated. It is easy to agree with two-thirds of that statement. Accept the ideology of Communism, no; condone it, no; but co-exist with it, yes. We are doing so today, and must continue to do so if we wish to exist at all, for there is no way in which we can quickly eradicate it without also eradicating ourselves and our own philosophy.

In fairness to the B.C. paper we should perhaps add that from the tenor of its other remarks on the diplomatic recognition of Red China it would appear that it probably used the word "co-exist" in the sense of endeavoring to reach a friendly accord with Communist nations.

Support for this theory will be found in another sentence: "Diplomatic recognition is the official acceptance of a government, willingness to accept such a government on the family of nations, admission and approval of that government, granting it a right to exist." This sentence appears to equate approval of a government with granting it the right to exist.

Two things need to be said here. Firstly, diplomatic recognition does not necessarily imply approval of a government. Secondly, in today's world, if we wish to exist ourselves we must grant our foes, as well as our friends, the right to exist also.

In today's world, friend and foe can live together or die together, but we cannot arrange thing so that half die and half live on, or rather we cannot arrange this with any assurance of the proportions of friends and foes which will make up the two classes, the quick and the dead.

IF

By EDGAR A. GUEST

If smooth were the paths
That we journey along,
And bright were the skies
And the air sweet with song,
If never a cloud
Hid the light of the sun,
Then winning a battle
Would not be much fun.

If love were but wooing
And winning a maid,
And no one of losing
Were ever afraid,

If frowns never hurt us
And quarrels never came,
Then loving would really
Be dreary and tame.

If life were all getting
And keeping for age,
If hearts were no losses
To meet on the way,
No sadness to blend
With the gladness we know,
We'd hunger for something
Our courage to show.

Deseronto Days 1912-32

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer by HARRY M. MOORE

(ARTICLE 1)

Our decision to revive The Deseronto Post in January, 1919 was the culmination of many things. At that time we had a printing plant in Egansville, Ont., which we had bought in 1917 from southwestern Ontario where the climate proved too much for us. Prior to this, however, we had been deer hunting in the Madawaska area, we were to spend Christmas at the family home, Deseronto, where a message arrived from Clarence Young, Trenton Courier, begging us to come south to help him.

It was during a weekend trip home that we were to fall in with an Egansville businessman, who promised great things if we put the plant to work in his village. There was but one paper, the old Mail, having been destroyed in the fire of July 1911. We fell for it, left the Courier in the lurch and came.

However, this was not the Egansville we knew as an apprentice in the printing business. Many of the industries destroyed by the fire were no longer in evidence. The local publisher had thirteen of the sixteen business lots and had the businessmen on his side. The only point in our favor was that while he was strictly neutral during the war, we couldn't help but have two brothers overseas. We set at once to work to espouse the Allied cause fearlessly. In time, the war was over.

It was the situation, until we spotted an advertisement in the old Toronto Globe in which the Post was offered for sale. But we had no money. We had worked on three different occasions in Trenton, but oddly enough when we were over, he never mentioned it. We were. We checked a map, and that Deseronto was close to Trenton, but in a different county.

We wrote a letter outlining our position made it known that he was ready to sell, and we were going to leave the field to him, that is, of course (but he didn't know it) we could make a deal in Deseronto, in the county where we had been schooled, our first public schools but of course much farther north.

GETTING THE PUBLIC

We caught a train which brought us to Belleville to spend the week-end, Saturday night at an upper Front Street hotel. Much foreboom we were on our way to the car station when we met a man from Wilno, near Algonquin Park, who was in the city looking for E. Gus Porter to offer him the job of getting the Deseronto Post. He had been "AWOL" from the army, out of jail. We were did hear the result of that.

The noon train was in Deseronto, to bypass the lower hotel, and to walk Front Street to the eastern end of the business section, to enter Stewart's Hotel, conducted at that time by the late Alfred Payne, who was to be often noted previously as an Intelligencer newspaper man.

Of course we had to tell Tommy who we were, where we had been, what we were planning to do—in Deseronto. He was a plasterer by trade and what he had to say, he said it. What he couldn't get through his head was why we had and a complete printing plant of our own, we had any plan to buy the plant of The Post which had ceased three months before due to the sudden death of its youthful owner.

"Why bother with that old plant?" he asked, "just let it be. Bring in your own and be done with it."

Which was all very well if say!

we had been that type of person. The situation was simply this. The young publisher had left a lifetime young widow (in Napanee), and possibly the printing plant was the extent of the entire estate. Besides, The Post had a mailing list, a list of subscribers, but of course would reveal the names of its former customers and anyway, who were we to play a shabby trick on a widow — on anyone for that matter?

COMPLETED THE DEAL

That afternoon the young owner and a relative, in the person of Walter Exley, arrived from Napanee, and a meeting of The Post office. We gave the plant a cursory examination, learned the purchase price and terms of payment and completed the deal in the lawyer Herrington's office, Napanee, a few hours later. We paid a stipulated amount in cash, were given two-years to pay off the balance, at a good rate of interest, of course. (We completed paying off everything within fourteen months.)

We called in Miss Myrtle Rawson, who had been a typesetter on The Post before the death of its owner; we brought down a good printer from Egansville. We moved our household effects that same day, and on Dan Kingsbury home, east Front Street, but we left our printing plant in Egansville until the time being.

The shop and office at that time was in a downtown block, between McCullough's drug store and the Bowerman grocery store. Next to the drug store was a good printer, Ed Hall's shoe shop, but much to our surprise, in a separate building next to the barber shop, was the printing office of the defunct Deseronto Tribune, owned by the property of the Dominion Match Company with W. J. McMicking, an excellent citizen, as the manager. We were soon to learn that Deseronto was a far more interesting than was required by the match company, this manager knew. Deseronto was no less than the corporation itself, and, as a result, we were not unduly concerned about such opposition, it was not our own fault that we were known of it before.

Shortly the town council, then headed by Mayor W. J. Malley, Reeve T. J. Naylor, Councillors Jas. Bell, Thomas Burns, James Dunn, W. H. Harvey, John Dunlop and others, met and made it known by unanimous vote of council that we were welcome, that we should be given wholesome support.

And then a new first issue appeared The Belleville Intelligencer, then being published by the son of a Methodist minister, Mackenzie Bowell, added to the Deseronto community and we wished us every success in our venture.

Another article next Saturday.

Japs Wearing Plug-in Pants

Stratford Beacon-Herald

The Chicago Daily News' Foreign Service Correspondent Brooks proclaims a solution of Japan's problem of keeping its people warm. Writing in his report, in the wake of the most severe cold spell in that country, he Beech reports a sharp upturn in the sale of "hot pants" by the department stores of the Japanese Capital.

The brightest buyers of electrically-heated pants are workers employed in unheated factories. Stationary workers are also buying in their pants to the nearest outlet, and go to work. When they leave they unplug.

Electrified pants are only one heating device the ingenuity has dreamed up by the under-heated Japanese to beat the cold.

They are also turning out such items as electric slippers, coats, bolsters, quilts, foot-warmers, cushions and, of course, electric blankets.

Illurieuses notwithstanding Japan sounds like a cosy spot for a winter vacation, wouldn't you say?

Mr. J. Franklin Lang of the Bank of Montreal, London, who has been spending his holidays at the home of his parents, has returned to London to resume his duties.

The choir of St. Michael's Church held a very delightful party last evening at the home of Mrs. James Grant, choir director. About thirty were present, and enjoyed progressive euchre during the evening. The prizes were won by Mrs. J. M. Truaisch, Miss Alma Shumacher, Miss Claire McAlpine, Miss Violet Deler, Mr. Douglas Dunmide, Mr. Jack Fahey, Mr. Jack Bowyer, and Mr. Harold Davidson.

Belleville and district commenced a daybreak this morning the task of digging out of the worst blizzard, snow storms on record. Driven by furious winds which whipped the temperature to zero last night, twelve inches of snow covered the district on the level. West of the city where the storm apparently struck heaviest, drifts of 40 feet were reported in some locations.

Spacemen's Shop Talk

Milwaukee Journal

If a man told you that he went out to get some ice for auntie and stopped near the doghouse to rave about a pickup and talk over some relaxation times, you'd have to know whether he was a scientist or a lover talker to understand him.

There is a scientist—in space age work—his little adventure would be quite normal and business-like. Ice is a scientific shop word for liquid oxygen. Auntie is an astronautic missile. A doghouse houses instruments on a rocket. A pickup is a device for measuring such things as temperatures and velocity. And relaxation time is the periods needed for material to return to its normal state after temperature and pressure changes.

It's a new language — and Republic Aviation Corp. has written a 133 word glossary so its employees can understand it. Many more words do you now know? Consider this paragraph from the glossary:

"The mixture of gasses surrounding us which we've been happily breathing for ages and which has been compounded into atmosphere, chemosphere, ozosphere, ionosphere, exosphere, not to mention mesosphere, troposphere and space."

It's going to stay "air" and "space" as far as we're concerned. And "ice" will remain salmon. We aren't going to become spacemen. We don't talk the language.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BELIEVE IN GOD

I have never-found it difficult to believe in God. He is manifest in all directions. Nature applauds Him. The tiniest flower looks up to His face. He breathes upon the entire earth. It is His garden. Love is embodied in all His creatures. Intelligence is to be seen in the Sunlight. The birds tell the astronomy of glory to His name. How can we disregard the evidence of His existence?

God is always around. That is why we can put our trust in Him and always feel safe. He can blot out all fears and doubts. He can warm the heart and bring peace to the soul. He can whisper into our ears all times of perils and guides us every life that surrenders to His will, and then one walks with Him and talks with Him. Only believe.

God makes it possible to ride and say storm and dismiss every worry.

Why can't we all believe in God? Let us pour our heart be troubled." Believe in God and plan it all.

The PACKSACH

By GREGORY CLARK

Ten years ago, I made up my mind definitely never again to rifle in a car driven by one of my best friends. At the car wheel, to be honest, I'm a lunatic. For twenty years, he had scared the shuffling out of me. It is true I had never spoken personally to any of the collisions, crashes, sideswipes and visits to the ditch that he was commonly involved in. Until last November, I stuck to my vow. Then, on the Alcan Road expedition, I had either to ride in his car or walk.

The transformation was incredible. He drove cautiously, at moderate speed, with the greatest consideration for others. No horn blowing or cursing round curves, no narrow squeaks to pass other cars.

"Why," he said, "the tension of driving was killing me. By sheer physical effort, a minute-by-minute, second-by-second vigilance effort of mind and body, I controlled myself and forced myself to drive the way I am doing now."

I asked him how long he had been reformed.

"Over two months," he said proudly.

It was a comfort, a pleasure to drive with him.

Yesterday, I phoned him and if I could ride in his car to a meeting in a neighboring town.

"Ah," he said. "I've given up driving. My wife is the safer driver now; she does all our driving. I found the physical strain of trying to control myself more than I could stand."

To Your Good Health

COMMON WARTS ARE CAUSED BY A VIRUS

A few words about warts are in order because of frequent inquiries, and I hope this will answer a whole sheet of letters, since many asked essentially the same thing.

First of all, the common garden variety of wart seen often in children. These are caused by a virus, and they disappear eventually. They don't do any harm. There are all sorts of home remedies, such as covering them with a fresh slice of raw potato, and so on.

By the law of averages, some of these warts are going to disappear at about the time somebody starts one of these trick remedies, and that is why you find people swearing that their nostrum is a "sure cure" for warts. The same holds to a point in trying to argue them out of it; they believe it.

When warts persist, or become a nuisance because of the location or appearance, drugs may be employed to remove them, and since these drugs are irritating, they should be handled under medical supervision. The same holds true for some of the arsenical or bismuth solutions which are used internally. The dosage is quite well-regulated.

Painful warts, on the sole of the foot, deserve prompt attention, because these are a cone-shaped growth, with the blunt point projecting through the skin and pressing down into the tissues which contain nerves. In a word, they hurt!

In this type of wart, then, I would waste no time in having professional care. Otherwise, since they are caused by a virus, care should be taken to prevent the virus from spreading to others in the family. The towel, washcloth, and razor should be careful about wearing slippers — and only his own — he goes around with his shoes off. Don't track the virus on the floors or tile floor of the bathroom.

X-RAY IS USED

In some stubborn cases X-ray treatment helps, but the probabilities are that your doctor will prefer some other and more routine treatments first.

Warts are more likely to be complained of what she described as "many warts, either tiny loose ones, or small fleshy ones, all white, about the size of a pinhead."

From the description one would judge these to be papillomas, or very small warts, which develop in certain types of skin, usually in brunettes, as they grow older.

These are not caused by virus. They just seem to grow that way. They can be a nuisance from the standpoint of appearance, but they are readily removed by caustic chemicals which "burn" them off. This must, of course, be done by somebody who knows what he is doing, and can see what he is doing. Do not, certainly, try it yourself. It's an invitation to burning yourself, leaving scars, and perhaps risk of infection. Done by your doctor, the process is safe, quick and simple.

"Dear Sir: Several months ago I read your article about using colored toilet tissue. A friend of mine has been using colored tissue and has an infection . . . — Mrs. S. M."

What! Let's set the record straight. You may have read somebody else's comments to that effect, but it isn't anything I ever said, printed — or believed. The color is without significance.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Why should the whites of my eyes be a yellowish color?—P.A.R."

They shouldn't. It may or may not be a serious matter. The whites, of course, is to have an immediate checkup to see whether this is the beginning of jaundice. Early treatment naturally, is of great help.

"Dear Doctor: I am from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois. Enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Paints Mayo In the Nude

Windsor Star

Most mortals, who think of art in terms of beauty, or as a form of mental relief, are mystified by much of what is called art in these modern days of art for art's sake. Such an art simply because those who create it don't regard it as art! It matters naught to them if we think them a bit looney.

The picture should then be ready to take a bath in a duck-pond, although possibly screened by a few strategically placed boughs.

We would like to think it is a painting of a picture as a joke; then we could understand it. But the woman evidently lacks a sense of humor, being furious when the picture was removed.

A mayor, even of an English village, is entitled to some dignity. It's a commanding difficult for a nude man to be dignified. There is something fraudulent about it. The mayor had not posed for the picture. Except for his head the rest of him might have been a composite of several other guys.

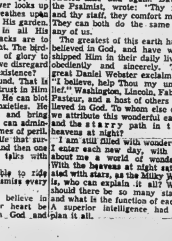
Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HABIT — GOOD, BAD, OR BOTH?

Habits get hold of us. In fact, the English word "habit" comes from a Latin word which means "to have" or "to hold." Habits are ways of thinking or acting which get hold of us. They establish patterns of thought or action to which we conform automatically.

Now the possibility of habit formation is one of the great blessings of God. Suppose that every time we wanted to make a physical movement, we have to time a thought passed through our minds we would have to start from scratch — as we do experience to help us, no previous ways of thinking to help us guide us. Life would always be in the beginning stage. The more the helpful acts we have lives become habitual, the better for us.



The person for whom the wheels of life's actions and thoughts are habitual is molded into a satisfactory pattern) — such a person is a personality.

But habit has a negative side. The older we grow the more we are inclined to do what we are doing or thinking. The alcoholic is the man who has become to be in the grasp of a habit — a disadvantageous and unwanted habit. The criminal is a person who cannot free himself from the incessant demand which his passions make for appeasement. The person of ungovernable temper is habituated — unfortunately so. The criminal is the habitual wrong-doer.

Watch out for the growth of habits — the tendency of nature to get hold of us and conform us to a pattern.

A Life for Living

Wholeness of Body, Spirit, Mind

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

If I were to ask, "Do you want your health restored?" there would scarcely be a single answer in the negative.

There would be differing degrees of intensity in the way you would say "yes." Some would say it with great eagerness for they know they are in the grip of disease. Others would answer with thoughtful seriousness, suspecting they are close to illness. Some might say that they do not need their health restored because they are without an ache or pain. But tomorrow they may hear of a friend who dies without warning. Yes, whether we are sick or well, we are all interested in health.

Let us start on this level of physical health. Jesus so gave Himself to healing the bodies of men that He has merited the title of the Great Physician. What the cases He cured would correspond in modern medical terms we cannot know with certainty for in those days our methods of diagnosis were non-existent.

Just how He healed, I do not know. But because I do not understand the method I do not deny the fact. The limits of human understanding are far short of the limits of divine doing. God does many things which are as yet mysteries to me. Some of the healing works of Jesus seem more explicable now than when I began my ministry because recent years have revealed new insights into the relation of mind and body. Perhaps some day I shall understand more of the principles by which Jesus performed His cures.

JESUS' METHOD

Wherever I can observe it, this universe appears to be law abiding. I cannot, therefore, believe that Jesus healed by violating or suspending the laws of science has found valid. What He did was bring into use forces higher than those whose laws medical science has charted. A miracle is not an event which outrages reason but one which outruns reason.

It is this mysterious and unchartered potency of physical life that Jesus set free in men. How significant than the specific cases He cured was His revelation of the possibilities for health, enjoyment and use resident in the body. He instilled a new respect and expectancy in his countrymen regarding their bodies.

He also gave impetus to the healing art which has developed magnificent hospitals, sent out missionary doctors and nurses to disease-ridden lands, enabled millions of babies to grow up and lengthened the span of life.

When I grow fearful that the human race is about to commit suicide because the atom and hydrogen bombs have such destructive power, I take hope by turning my thought to the growing humanitarianism and progress of the healing art. And now the churches are giving more and more thought to spiritual healing.

Jesus not only revealed new possibilities of health and gave new impetus to healing, but He also put the body in its proper relation to the wholeness of life. Although He gave so much effort to healing the bodies of men, He ever reminded His hearers that "life is more than meat." He did not let the concerns of the body overshadow the mind and spirit. He imparted such control over the body that His apostle Paul could say, "I keep my body under."

WE LEAVE OURSELVES

Whenever we devote too much time and thought to bodily comforts and aches and adornments, we limit ourselves. For this reason Jesus said: "Do not be anxious, saying, 'What shall we eat?' or 'What shall we drink?' or 'What shall we wear?' . . . But seek first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well." The Great Physician knew that when we are living enough to live for we do not worry so much over the rest. We have to live more than a pair of newlyweds can be happy in the most modest surroundings whereas when love has left, people are restless amid their riches.

We of America and Canada boast that we have the highest standard of living in the world. But what do we mean? Do we not mean that we have the best houses, the finest cars, the most physical comforts? Good as these are, they will not save our culture. Bodily comforts can make for spiritual softness.

Remember health means wholeness of body, mind and spirit.

The Bible Today

A British entomologist who was engaged with the Australian forces during the Second World War has recently written a travel book. In it he describes what he found in the island of New Guinea when he visited the headquarters of the Christian Missions there. Without any bias he points out the obvious benefits Christianity has brought to this great dark island.

The story of Christianity in New Guinea is also the story of the Bible Society. Almost all the growing literacy on the island has been the work of teachers and missionaries and translators, and the natives prize above all their possessions this Book which has brought them such light. About 15 dialects in New Guinea now have some part of the Scriptures, which are read and re-read in the villages and market places, and homes of the people by trained native teachers and evangelists.

Suggested readings for next week:

Sunday, February 1st., Luke 20:19-26; Monday, February 2nd, John 8:48-59; Tuesday, February 3rd., John 9:1-17; Wednesday, February 4th., John 9:18-41; Thursday, February 5th., John 10:1-18; Friday, February 6th., John 10:19-42; Saturday, February 7th., Genesis 3:1-24.

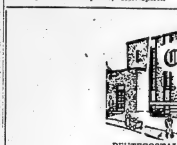
BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

LONGSPURS

By Winifred Wilson

The name longspur was given to a certain kind of sparrow on account of the long nail on its hind toe. However, this peculiarity is shared by other birds, as the snow bunting (a relative) and the horned lark, which is a member of quite another family. Further distinctions of the longspurs include a small, acutely conical bill, deepest at the base than it is wide-and exposed nostrils, something rather unusual in Birdland.

Actually there are several species of longspurs, which, though having the main points in common, differ in size, coloring, and distribution. McCrowy, by some ornithologists considered only a cousin while the rest are brothers, may be found in the drier parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta. Smith's breeds along the southern edge of the tundra from northern Manitoba westward, and passes quickly through cultivated Canada in spring and autumn. The chestnut-collared breeds in the southern sections of all our prairie provinces, especially any arid spots.



The Lapland longspur is the most widely known — not that it breeds near civilization, but because after leaving its northern home it either migrates through or winters in all southern Canada. Nesting as it does from the Arctic Islands to the northern limit of trees, most of us know little about its appearance and habits in summer. But by late autumn it reaches us in flocks, mostly large, ready to clean up our farm land by consuming every weed seed that lies in its path.

RUN AND HOP

Like the other birds that have elongated nails on the hind toes, Lapland longspurs ordinarily run over the ground, but occasionally take big hops. If you come upon them gorging themselves, the entire flock rises at your approach, and off they go with undulating flight, all talking at once with happy little voices.

Longspurs are among the few birds that have a flight song, somewhat after the manner of the European lark or our own bobolink. The clear song is given as the bird floats slowly back to earth after making a steep rise. But we cannot expect to hear flight songs for a few months yet.

This, the most common winter member of the family east of the Rockies, is a bit smaller than a song sparrow. A brown, streaked bird, the tail is black, with just two white feathers on either side. The male wears a black cap, and by spring will acquire a black bib.

Refreshments were served by the Kinsale ladies and thanks on behalf of the members and their escorts were expressed by Miss Baverstock.

Going Places

Talking Rather Than Fighting Kids' New Travelling Pastime

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Herewith, drawn from life, is what may be the first and only complete list of the things a small girl, 6, and a boy, 4½, do to pass the time on an auto trip of some 150 miles:

1. Fight.

2. Draw pictures on the frosted rear window pane.

3. Draw pictures on the frosted side windows.

4. Try to draw pictures on the frosted windshield until Daddy stops them.

5. Sing, unfaltering, the most intricate lyrics of popular songs ("knick-knack, paddy-wack throw a dog a bone").

6. Recite television commercials with equal dexterity and detail, right down to a long, involved fairy tale about a "pot-o'-gold-'n'-ant" who comes along and eats all the "Ma-s-a-s."

7. Play television quiz games — "You're right for $100! Now tell Mommy what you want to get with your X!" — sometimes dragging Mommy and Daddy in by the heels to dream up suitable questions.

8. Read road signs, first grade readers, and the speedometer to advise Mommy if Daddy is going too fast.

9. Ask intelligent questions for the first time in their travelling career, many of them pertaining to things they see out the window which they never noticed before: "What holds the sky on to the end of the big rock?"

(The answer: "Sit still, you're rocking the boat.") Or "What's the big, big, big kootchy-kootchy-koo with the 6-month-old who is starting to mind her own business and sleep.

IMPROVEMENT, ANYMORE

Although the above, though it may be, is a vast improvement over what it would have shown six months or a year ago, when at least nine of the ten items would have been "fighting."

This was baby Hillary's introduction to the road, and she proved herself worthy of membership in this travelling family. After a spot of cultural eating what we had feared would develop into two little monsters of the highway, we had almost come to the conclusion that our memories of travelling with a trouble-free infant were just time-dimmed pleasant illusions.

But it was true. Children under a year, when their main interests are eating and sleeping, are the easiest to travel with. A stack of diapers, a jug of milk, and then in the car bed . . .

Riding lulls any boy to sleep almost immediately (it even lulls some adults.) It doesn't stop them from getting hungry or sleepy, however, so our equipment included an insulated bag with a compartment for baby bottles and milk that kept the items warm all day. Another compartment for diapers makes the bag a complete baby's travel kit.

DIAPER PAIL

Why have used, and approve of, disposable paper diapers with plastic backings. For this trip we took cloth diapers from home, deposited them in a coated enamel can dumped under the car bed, and washed them in our host's washing machine at our destination.

For a trip of more than one day you'd probably find the disposable diapers more convenient, if more expensive. But since you have to get the children's clothes washed in a self-service laundry every few days anyway, the diaper pail may not be too bad an idea.

Milk and baby food will be warmed cheerfully by any restaurant waitress in any food unit.

The car bed is a necessity for babies under the sitting- up age, so bring it with you. Don't let the swapped for a car seat hooked over the front seat backrest. Baby in the latter age may be taken sprawled out on the seat. The bed occupies considerable space in the back of the average car, and with our three children we found one of them had to be trapped behind if it was going to sit anywhere.

Which, come to think of it, may be why the fighting was kept to a minimum.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Mahatma Gandhi wrote: "To cerned and many of the actors call woman the weaker sex is a libel; it is man's injustice to woman. If by strength is meant brute strength then, indeed, is woman less than brute than man. If by strength is meant moral power, then woman is immeasurably man's superior. Has she not greater intuition, is she not more self-sacrificing, has she not greater powers of endurance, has she not greater courage? Without her man cannot be. If non-violence is the law of our being, the future is with woman. Who can be a more effective appeal to the heart than suffering?"

Our thought for the weekend is not an appeal for preferment. Rather we have read these thoughts from the mind of India's great leader, we felt the challenge and how immeasurably finer the world would be for men and women everywhere if we measured up to the virtues and attributes he attributed to us.

We listened with amazement a few days ago when two gentlemen were discussing the teaching of all history because it was worthless for its deception, its appeal to nationalism, its fuel to the fires of hatred, is tragic. Now it is equally tragic and true that we so far ignored the teachings of the brotherhood of men taught by Jesus, the compassion of Buddha and the gentleness of Hindustan. How tragic would it be if we lost none of the lessons of history and the ethics of great religious leaders to bring us up short as we follow the detours.

T & T does not know, but we do know that March 10th is Mother's Day and the knowledge of each that impending is there to help us prepare for tomorrow. How we interpret our individual gap or the history of nations depends on us. Can anyone picture tomorrow without yesterday. This past week and since hearing the two panelists, we have read a fine article by the Lebanese permanent delegate and Arab Minister Plenipotentiary to UNESCO on "The Orient Today and Yesterday." T & T wishes that it could be published in its entirety in every newspaper and magazine in Canada. He writes: "History is not simply the mirror of the past; it also reflects the reactions in the present and to a large extent governs our behavior in the future. The events of yesterday is reflected in the virgin mind of the schoolchild or student by his textbooks, and what he learns from them will be projected by him onto the world of tomorrow."

BETTER UNDERSTANDING NEEDED

Mr. Charles Ammoun writes briefly, plainly and powerfully for a new approach to history between the East and the Occident. He acknowledges that Freudism are still bad so far as contemporary history is concerned, and many of the actors are still living. The wounds have not yet healed, and conflicts of interest have not been solved." He pleads for the East to bury the hatreds of a couple of hundred years when we don't know how was ascendent. He pleads for the West to leaven its condescension.

He points out that the first mathematics and the first science and the first great religions came out of the east. He wants history to record this. He wants the easterner to acknowledge the historical fact of western contributions to the Orient, and he wants each to bury the hatreds of the past few generations, fortify the future by preserving the contributions each has made to the other. "What we have to do, now all, is to drive home the need for human fellowship. That is yet another challenge to the United Nations. It is essential today to repeat such ideals continually. They are accepted in principle but ignored in practice.

Truth cannot be served by closing one's eyes to history. Whether it is pleasing or distasteful. History can no longer be ignored than the present or the future.

T and T wonders how many of its readers have read or heard about an exposition held last summer in Switzerland. It was sponsored by the Swiss Federal Government and was received and developed entirely by women. It was called "Saffa" (Switzerland's Applied Feminine Achievement). There were eighteen buildings in it and a space of fourteen acres. The exhibits portrayed the role of women in the household in career woman or from mother to sculptor in bronze. Through the medium of exhibits the women of Switzerland endeavored to show their potential effectiveness in helping to reduce world tensions as well as being homemakers. We wonder how something like this would go over in Canada or with our federal authorities.

'Origin of Man' Topic at Alpha Lambda

The regular meeting of the Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, was held at the home of Mrs. Glynn Ryan.

The subject for the evening: "People", was handled by Miss Joan Bronskill, who chose "The Origin of Man", as her theme; "Modern science has told us that the world is older and man is younger than anyone dared estimate before.

During his evolution mankind had human bodies before human brains. Today man, with his highly developed brain, stands alone in the complex of nature, master of vast forces and arbiter of his own fate."

XI Alpha Mu invited the chapter to attend a dessert party in February.

It was decided that the society would sell new gliders in the spring.

My Neighbour Is a Soul in Need

By Alma Mason

One of the greatest blessings bestowed on members of today's society is the opportunity given to enjoy the company of all types and classes of our children. Class distinction still exists but it is trimmed now with mythical and transparent lace. The heavy furbelows of pride of family and race and creed have been replaced with the glazier trimmings of fraternity and tolerance. At last we are not forbidden that daring and enlightening over the high fence that used to separate races, religions and different layers of society. Because of this, surely we have taken a swift step toward the bed rock foundations of Christ's teachings.

Jesus mingled with all types of people. For this He was often severely criticized. His terrible and ignominious death on the cross sprung from His fearless championship of the underprivileged common folk. He did not just speak of the love for all men, the lowly born, the handicapped, the most ruthless sinners; He blessed them with His company. He healed them of iniquity and physical disease. "He had compassion on them." By example and effort and word He admonished us to be humble, to love each other and to help each other regardless of creed or race or perishable social barriers.

Over and over again since our Prince of Peace died that we might live, we have erected pride of race, pride of creed, pride of family, pride of material possessions. Boasting dictators have risen and fallen. Their blind followers have been ground into the dust of obscurity with them. Great men imbued with honesty and sincerity and humility, have risen to lead us again to the rainbow of truth illumined by a cross on a dark hill. How many times in two thousand weary years have we had to learn again that magnitude of soul is no friend of charlatanism, that moral turpitude courts disaster and that "pride goes before a fall." How many times have we struggled again up that dark hill towards a lonely cross?

A woman of questionable character lived in a neighborhood peopled with good, solid, well behaved citizens. She was ostracized and snubbed by her proud neighbors. One of her family of neglected children passed away. A kindly soul, believing that no one in her vicinity should be left alone in sorrow, fed and housed the children during the period of mourning. She soon found, to her chagrin and dismay, that she was to be subjected to ridicule for her warm hearted actions. Telling a friend of her experience, she reasoned that: "Most of the people living in that block are devout, refined and chaste, but they have not lived, I'm sure as God wishes us to live. They contribute to overseas missionary projects and honestly wish to have the Christian faith spread to all peoples. Personal missionary work is a cost of another order."

Intermingling with all peoples of God's human family is a broadening and fascinating adventure. Touching shoulders with members of different races always contributes to the bright progress of the individual intellectually. How can one understand the culture of the Greek race, the patience and courtesy of the Chinese, the elegant appearance and cleverness of the German—unless one enjoys enlightening experiences of friendship with them.

For complete happiness we must cultivate and move among a circle of friends who will share our interests and aspirations and pleasures. For rich breeding of Christian character it is necessary to add to our jewels of friendship by actively putting into practice the attributes of the Kingdom as set forth by Jesus.

Jesus left us a simple, unaffected philosophy. With it He left, through example, a golden opportunity to experience nobility without haughtiness, gentility without vanity, kinglintes without conceit. He wound His forthright messages in the silver satin of parables. We find in the tenth chapter of St. Luke the parable of the Good Samaritan. As we well know, this parable was told by Jesus as an answer to the doubting lawyer who said "And who is my neighbour?" The parable ends with two sublime verses "Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves? And he said, He that showed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, go and do thou likewise."

My neighbor is a soul in need.
What care I for race or creed?
My brother stands in love's bright flame,
What care I for pride of name?

My friend is he who shares my loss;
Who stoops to help me with my cross:
Who kneels to lift me from my sin;
Who beckons me to enter in
Where hope and faith and trust impart
An open portal to his heart.

My neighbor is a soul in need;
I honor him, his race, his creed.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

WHERE SHOULD SHE HAVE BEEN SEATED AT WEDDING RECEPTION?

Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I attended the wedding of my husband's brother, on which occasion my husband was best man. My husband's sister bridegroom are the only brothers in the family — no sisters.

At my husband's family is small, there were only two tables at the reception: my in-laws sat at one table; and at the other table were four relatives, including me, and four strangers.

My question is: as a member of the immediate family, and in view of the fact that my husband, as best man, sat at the bridal table, where would my correct seating-place be? — H.

It is really impossible for an order, not knowing all the facts, to give a definite answer to this question. However, I would think that, if convenience made it possible, you, the wife of the best man, might have been invited to sit at the bridal table. I must add that it is not a must that the wife or husband of a wedding attendant is to be invited to sit at the bridal table, but when there aren't many attendants, that is often the place.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF BRIDE'S PARENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please answer for us two questions about the financial liabilities of the bride's parents?

1. Do the bride's parents have to stay at the wedding reception (which is to be held in a private suite of a large hotel here) until all the guests have left?

2. Is it a responsibility of the bride's parents to furnish cars for the guests to go from the church to the reception even if the guests don't have their own cars? — Bride's mother.

Yes. Since the bride's parents are the hosts of the wedding reception, they must stay at the reception until all the guests have departed.

2. No. The guests are expected to provide their own transportation from the church to the reception-place. However, usually guests who don't have cars are thoughtfully on the lookout to invite guests who haven't, whether or not they have them.

WHEN IS WOMAN GUEST OF HONOR SERVED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last evening I went to a dinner party at the home of some newly-made friends, who, I had thought, were "sticklers" for etiquette. It was a charming occasion, a more or less informal dinner, and they did not seem cold to serve.

The dinner was given in honor of a very attractive lady who was their house guest. She was, of course, the guest on my right of the host, and I was very much surprised that she served first, both when the host served the roast and when the waitress passed anything. Wasn't this a serious error? Shouldn't the hostess have been served first? — Reader.

No. This procedure was absolutely correct — the woman guest of honor, seated at the right of the host, should be served first. This is the proper bow-of-honor to the guest-of-honor!

Stories of Famous Hymns

By Dr. Howard V. Harper

Bishop W. Walsham How wrote this hymn of Christian stewardship in 1864.

Perhaps he was remembering the Scripture in the seventeenth verse of the nineteenth chapter of Proverbs ("He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord") as he penned his final stanzas:

"And we believe Thy word,
Though dim our faith may be;
Whate'er for Thine we do, O Lord,
We do it unto Thee".

The distinguished Englishclergyman is known throughout Christendom as a magnificent hymn — "For All The Saints Who From Their Labors Rest". He died in 1897.

"O Word Of God Incarnate", "O Jesus, Thou Art Standing Before The Fast-Closed Door", and others.

He was born at Shrewsbury, England in 1823, was ordained to the ministry in 1846, and held a number of important posts in the Church of England before being consecrated a bishop, in 1888. He died in 1897.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

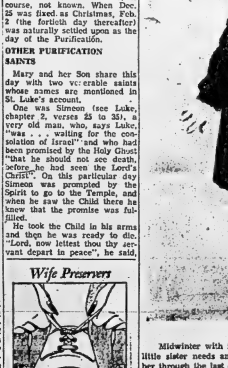
Purification of Virgin Mary

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Monday, Feb. 2 — Today is commonly called Candlemas, but its real name as far as the Christian calendar is concerned is "The Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary". According to Jewish law in those days a woman after childbirth was for a time in a state of legal or ritual "uncleanness". If the child were a boy, the mother had to appear after 40 days at the door of the Temple, and to bring as an offering a pair of doves. In the case of a girl baby, the period was 80 days. When the birds had been sacrificed, the mother was cleansed.

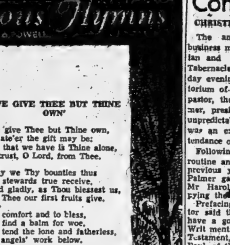
Also there was a law requiring that any firstborn son be brought after 40 days and presented to God in the Temple, and then ransomed with money.

Nothing back from here, it is not believable that the Virgin Mary was in any way unclean or that her divine Son should need to be ceremonially presented to His Father, but Luke tells us in his second chapter that the Holy Family complied with both these ancient regulations. Mary brought the sacrifice, and the Baby was presented and brought back, tradition says, for a token of five shekels.



The date of this event is, of course, not known. When Dec. 25 was fixed as Christmas, Feb. 2 (the fortieth day thereafter) was naturally settled upon as the day of the Purification.

OTHER PURIFICATION SAINTS



Mary and her Son share this day with two ex-celebrate saints whose names are mentioned in St. Luke's account.

One was Simeon (see Luke, chapter 2, verses 25 to 35), a very old man, who, says Luke, "was . . . waiting for the consolation of Israel" and who had been promised by the Holy Ghost "that he should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ". On this particular day Simeon was prompted by the Spirit to go to the Temple, and when he saw the Child there he knew that the promise was fulfilled.

He took the Child in his arms and then he was ready to die. "Lord, now letlest thou thy servant depart in peace", he said,

Wife Preserves

"WE GIVE THEE BUT THINE OWN"

We give Thee but Thine own,
Whate'er the gift may be;
All that we have is Thine alone,
A trust, O Lord, from Thee.

May we Thy bounties thus
As stewards true receive,
And gladly, as Thou blessest us,
To Thee our first fruits give.

To comfort and to bless,
To find a balm for woe,
To tend the lone and fatherless,
Is angels' work below.

The captive to release,
To God the lost to bring,
To teach the way of life and peace
It is a Christ-like thing.

And we believe Thy word,
Though dim our faith may be;
Whate'er for Thine we do, O Lord,
We do it unto Thee.

Congregational Meeting

CHRISTIAN - MISSIONARY ALLIANCE TABERNACLE

The annual congregational business meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle was held on Tuesday evening in the upper auditorium of the church with the pastor, the Rev. Sackville Palmer, presiding. In spite of the unpredictable weather, there was an exceptionally fine attendance of members.

Following the usual opening routine and the reading of the previous year's activities, Mr. Palmer gave his report, with Mr. Harold Vanderwater occupying the chair.

Prefacing his report, the pastor said that a church should have a goal, adding that Holy Writ mentions Moses of the Old Testament, and the Apostle Paul, of the New Testament, as goal setters who pressed toward the mark. Continuing he said: "It is with much praise to God for His abundant blessing upon pastor and people that we bring this report of the activities and ministries of the Alliance Tabernacle for the past year. We say with the Psalmist, 'Bless the Lord, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless His holy name'. We do thank God for the progress in each department of the church, notwithstanding there is still much to be done before the 'night cometh when no man can work'. Jesus said, 'Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail - against it'" Matt. 16-18.

IDEAL CHURCH

"The ideal church is a praying church; a spirit-filled church; a united church; a witnessing church; a working church, and a triumphant church."

Mr. Palmer outlined the church's progress in 1958 in which the following departments had their share: The Sunday School with its average attendance of 103, showing 7 boys climb from the 11's into the Pioneer Girls, with their Guide, Miss Gladys Atyeo, have faithfully labored; the Alliance Youth Fellowship, under Gordon Barbara, has been a blessed year; the Women's Missionary Society, with Mrs. D. Atyeo as president, for their faithful labors in helping the missionaries with the "Get Set Girls", a boys' club recently formed, have actively been functioning with an average attendance of 11, and a record attendance of 17; the Men's Club, with George Unger, William Rodgers, Ralph Barbara and Frank Allen who have been working with these boys.

The treasurer reported with the objective of $10,000 has now reached $9,000 mark, with approximately $7,000 coming into the treasury during 1958. "Arise and build the sanctuary of God", constitutes a challenge to each member for prayer and practical support.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. George Fairhead for her work in typing, cutting stencils and gestetner work, a real ministry for the Lord. Statistics included the pastor's outside ministeries in Cobourg; Peterborough; Edmonton, Alberta and Calgary, Alberta, as well as ministers who have held services in Belleville Tabernacle.

During the year 31 new members have been added to the church; four babies have been dedicated and four couples united in marriage.

1959 GOALS

Goals set for 1959 include: Building extension program; a ten per cent increase in all departments of the church, and the formation of a visiting committee.

Mr. Palmer closed his report by a poem by A. B. I would ask for a busy year, filled with service true; doing with all Thy might, with all Thy heart. I ask to do. Lord, I would ask for a year to hope, looking for Thine to come, and hastening on that year of years that brings us Christ and heaven".

The total income from the different departments was $8,456.46, broken down as follows: General fund, $7,741.64; building fund, $714.82. Disbursements, $8,409.70; Sunday School, $681.12; missionary, $251.61; Sunday Junior School, $33.98; Adult Fellowship, $41.23; A.Y.F., $67.34; Women's Missionary Society, $35.00; benevolent fund, $70.81.

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham...

"See nations, slowly wise and meanly just,
To buried merit raise the tardy bust."

Ever have a pet bird stuffed, after it'd died? Charles Dickens did!

What's more, it is on display, along with the original manuscript of Edgar Allan Poe's "The Raven" which are features of an exhibit commemorating the centenarial of Poe's birth, at Yale University Library. Here's why.

When Dickens' children bogged their father to put their pet raven in a story, he had Grip, the feathery fiasco, ride the shoulder of "Barnaby Rudge" which indirectly inspired Poe's "Raven."

When Dickens' story began appearing serially in the States a hundred years ago, it caused such interest, editors of the competing Saturday Evening Post asked Poe, who was well known for his tales of mystery and stories, to predict the ending. Not only did he predict that the fiendish murder for Post readers far in advance of those reading the story itself, but, the solution was "substantially correct" to Dickens's ending.

Poe's powerful imagination brooded over the image of the raven; he let Dickens's "Grip" unseat the dark symbolism potential in (the) midnight cloak and was moved to write a poem," which he re-wrote, polished, and for his efforts received the Raven," described as "deadly and grim" and "ghastly" and always speaking "Nevermore".

"Dickens won't that the raven's last words were 'Nevermore'? old girl' a salutation taught by his children, and to which when Grip died it was stuffed and put under, in life-like manner, "on shelf in glass standing on branches taken from a tree at "Gads Hill Place" where Dickens lived in England." After Dickens' death, when his possessions were auctioned off, Grip, the bird was purchased by a Lord Mayor of London for $365 in gold, and changed hands twice before it became the property of Richard Gimbel, a curator of Yale Library, in 1943 — safe out of range of war.

The story of Poe's life is a sad one, for whom, like the hero, of his "Raven," "sinking, fainting, fell and followed faster". Left an orphan at two, he was taken kindly by a wealthy man, who indulged, but never adopted" by a childless longing" and disowned him after his first misdemeanor, as a youth. He had no formal education outside of a none too successful year at the University of Virginia, where he loved a child-wife whom he loved, but could not support; he would prove to keep any of the plentiful literary jobs long, and "fled into fantasies of what was both symptom and cause".

And yet, says Joseph Wood Krutch, who has made a deep study of his work and life, Poe, though uneducated, unfamiliar with the best literature of his day, "became the specialist in morbid melancholy and horror, and has been more genuinely original than many more talented greats. He has produced, he says, a body of prose and poetry which cannot but his penultimate reputation as one of the five or six American writers belonging indisputably to permanent world literature. Says, too, that certain of his horror tales are among the most often read of all his stories. One such was "A Cask of Amontillado" (A toast was made with Amontillado wine at the preview of the exhibit, Jan 19).

"The Raven" declares Mr. Krutch, "is unquestionably the best American poem," and adds, "When Johnson called Poe a jingle bust' is no comfort to the man whose genius it honors too late. Poe was rendered obsolete, when we honor that genius, as we will be honored this year by our tribute serves the one practical purpose it might serve by its belated lateness. It may help to a still later generation which resolutely refuses to believe that will be in its turn 'merely just'". The lives of many might be saved if we could be fair, if they were treated by their contemporaries with a little more generosity. Believingness; said little Robby, son of Belleville lawyer, Mr. Robert Gimbel, who is an officer of the Belleville Power Squadron.

"I'll bet you know my father is the right-hand commander of the powed squadron!"

SUGGESTED

Hulmenbrune; Rouladen mit Brauner Sosse, Rotkohl und Kartoffeln; Blumenkohl Salat; Kirschauflauf.

Chicken Broth; Beef with Brown Gravy; Tomatoes and Potatoes; Cauliflower Salad; Cherry Pie.

Answer: Nothing happens to the pie. As waitress has served pie, flaming desserts the plates or dishes have never been harmed. If you are going to go into the field of flaming cookery though, you should have a chafing dish. Then you can use it to the best advantage with your guests watching and you not one whit overtired about your utensil. When the flaming sauce is poured over the ice cream it does not coms in direct contact with the dish. Burned spots on dishes are done over ice cream just a few minutes ago on a glass plate in the stove. I am sure that I am correct. I just ran over the ice cream to the plate, flickered for a few moments then went out. On Christmas day we poured a little more alcohol on the remains of on a crystal serving dish and I didn't give it a second thought. It burned moderately well and difficult trick is to make the sauce hot enough. You have to warm a spoonful of the sauce over the chafing dish flame or candle flame, then set it afire with it, then pour this flaming starter into the sauce and it will burst into flame. But I must warn you that sometimes if you are using a very strong liqueur and there is a large amount of sauce it may flame high and could singe your front hair or eyebrows. So be cautious. Practise with one ingredient before performing before guests.

Question: I hate to admit that I am in a cooking rut but the fact is we have a roast of beef every other Sunday and the other Sunday roast chicken. Now my husband came from a big family and has often said to me "Why don't you make soup from the bones?" I don't know how to make soup from bones. Mary would you tell me what to add to the bones or bone from a rib or porterhouse roast to make good, nourishing soup? I have saved the day for me countless times . . . Edie.

Answer: Well Edie, I hope I do it again. It is ever so easy so easy and I don't wonder your husband asks.

HOMEMADE VEGETABLE SOUP FROM BEEF BONE

Bone may be raw or from roasted meat, but if bone is cooked leave on a few shreds of meat, cover bone with a quart of cold water and add: 2 tablespoons each dried green peas, pot herb mixture, 1 teaspoon chopped celery, onion, carrot, potato, macaroni, barley, tomato, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 or 2 beef bouillon cubes. Simmer together 2 hours. Remove bones and barley and set up any pieces of meat that are too large and return to them. Taste soup and correct flavor by adding salt and pepper if needed. You can use the same procedure for chicken bone soup, but use noodles instead of macaroni and increase amount equivalent of 1 cup and reduce the variety of vegetables. Okay? Good luck.

Question . . . I clip your recipes that appeal to me — both glamorous and thrifty — and would like some information about serving flaming desserts at a meal, particularly at my own home. For example, ice cream in lovely red glass sherbet dishes and the hostess is ready flaming a sauce in a silver chafing dish at the table to pour over the ice. The instructions say "Pour the flaming mixture over the ice cream and serve immediately." Now — would not the mixture of hot, slightly diluted brandy and cold ice cream be apt to crack glass and even crack the dishes? Then, I'd like to know for your most glamorous occasions, but . . . you. Now, I've noticed any glamorous heat-proof glassware in the stores, at least none that would look good with a damask cloth. Spoon chips every other time. How do you serve these desserts? And I wonder what the alcohol and flame might do to the silver, even what happens to your nice shiny stainless steel frying pan . . . I want to be glamorous but I also want to be sensible . . . "Flambeau".

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

'Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Counsel reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Ronald H. — Our relationship is embarrassing.

Barbara D. — I trust him to show a little gumption.

Ronald R. — I am 28 and very much in love with a girl two years younger. Barbara and I have known one another for a year, and during the past six months we have had intimate relations.

Getting the relationship on this basis wasn't my idea. It was Barbara's. I wanted to marry her, but she said she wasn't sure whether or not she wanted to. She said she was attracted to me, but I wasn't all she hoped for in a husband.

I am quite unhappy about this relationship. My family and friends can't understand what is going on with us. I find it very embarrassing to have to make excuses and explanations. Every time Pam ready to break off, Barbara says let's consider it further and we're back on the same basis.

Barbara D. — One of the things that annoys me most about Ron is that he puts his opinion of his family and others above everything else. He has no religious or ethical scruples against our relationship, but he is afraid of what others think. I have always been a rebel, and I don't mind what others think of this score.

We have really been hoping Ron would become less family-dominated because of our relationship. But the opposite seems to be taking place. He is more afraid than ever. I want him to show a little gumption before we marry.

A friend of mine is married to a man just like Ron, and she says it's awful. He doesn't move a step without consulting his mother. I couldn't stand that. Yet at times I feel I'm in love with Ron.

The Council: Ronald does appear to be the strength of character and integrity most women would like to find in a husband, but Barbara is not the one to help him develop these characteristics. She is arrested at the same stage in a reverse form.

Ronald dislikes his present relationship with Barbara but is weak enough to go along with it. His feeble protest is that it is "very embarrassing to have to make excuses and explanations." He turns toward Barbara with the plea that she save him this embarrassment.

It appears to us that if Ronald would recognize his own manliness and his own values he would not have to shove his moral responsibilities elsewhere. He would not accept a situation he dislikes. He would also accept a rejection with good grace. Barbara does not accept him as a husband. Period. He would go his own way and find a woman who will accept him.

Barbara's "rebellion" is an ineffectual and childish one. She does not specify any reason why she's present relationship with Ronald is superior to or better than marriage. She is concerned only with the fact that outsiders should not approve. Her concern their disapproval she shows how emotionally bound she is to her parents. She would have to untie Ronald as the emotional representative of her "world" and be on the side that frankly admits its abject dependence upon parents and the friends of the parents who represent them.

Ronald and Barbara badly need a real sense of moral values. When they know what is right to them in their own hearts and minds, they will begin to be able to make responsible choices. Barbara has really put her finger on her own as well as Ronald's problem when she says that the lack of religious or ethical principles is owing to this lack that both these young people are family-dominated.

Your Car

Check Brakes Often to Assure Maximum Safety

By EUGENE B. HILMOE

Even under ideal road conditions and with brakes in top working order, a car travelling at 40 m.p.h. will require an approximate stopping distance of 140 feet or more . . . depending on the driver's reaction speed. Obviously, with brakes below normal efficiency, twice this distance might well be needed.

Service neglect is a leading cause of brake trouble and contributes to many accidents. This fact must be stressed. Any brake work should be a do-it-yourself project . . . only those who really know how should ever tackle the job.! But the average driver can do something about brake should have brakes safety-checked at least twice a year — see that only brake fluid of the very best quality is used — immediately report even the slightest change in braking action to his mechanic and have him investigate.

R. K. asks: "My '53 sedan has developed a heavy engine knock which is exceptionally loud when the car moves slowly in low gear. Is this main bearing trouble?"

A. Probably. It could be a loose flywheel knock however, particularly if it is irregular.

H. J. writes: "The cigar lighter on my car suddenly stopped working. Can it be fixed cheaply or is it better to replace it?"

(A) Although the lighter socket could be at fault, a more likely trouble is the coil element. Any auto accessory shop can sell you a replacement which is easily screwed on.

From B. R.: "I have heard that gas mileage can't be as good in winter as it is in warm weather. Is there any truth in this?"

(A) Yes . . . in winter a cold engine takes much longer to warm up thoroughly and begin operating at peak efficiency.

T. G. asks: "I had electrical trouble for a while and eventually had to put on heavy-duty battery. Now, not only does everything work well, but I can also see an improvement in gas economy. How come?"

(A) A weak battery will cause gas waste via hard starting and engine missing at idle and low speeds.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Accepting a Challenge Can Make Your Retirement Happier, Longer

By THOMAS COLLINS

You are a wife, on the mature side of age 59, or you are a widow, somewhere beyond 65. And you don't know what happens next . . .

In either case, listen:

"I was left a widow at 61. I had no experience in business. I had never handled any of our income. My husband passed away after two years of cancer.

"I found myself left with two pieces of run-down property, my home and another house. The income from them wouldn't pay the monthly requirement on the mortgages. There were doctor's bills, hospital bills, and many others. There was no life insurance for me, no pension and no income. I was very much confused. And I had no children.

"But I had plenty of advice. Mostly to sell out.

"There is one thing every older woman should keep in mind: She must make up her own mind and not listen to too much advice.

"I could not think of selling myself out of a home. But I had to have money to repair the property so I could have an income.

ASKED GOD'S GUIDANCE

"I found a carpenter, a plumber and an electrician and secured from them an estimate of what the repairs would cost. I did a lot of praying, asking God to guide me.

"When I got the estimates and the plans, I went to the loan company that held the mortgages on the property. I hunted up the president, and I told him my troubles.

"He told me to find out how much the repairs would cost. I told him my plans and estimates on his desk. He complimented me. Then he said it was not the policy of his company to let a widow lose her home if it could be helped. Then he agreed to loan me enough money to repair the houses . . ."

She went back to the carpenter, etc., made her deals for the repairs, worked out arrangements with the loan company to pay both the mortgage and repair costs in monthly sums she figured she could afford.

PAYMENTS WERE HEAVY

"The payments were very heavy. But I rented my rooms, and also the other property. I did laundry. I cooked for some of my roomers. I did handwork, such as sewing. I slept on the floor at times so I could take in a few more dollars from my rooms.

"I tried to make my house as near like home as possible for the roomers. And they appreciated it. At least most of them.

"And in ten years I paid off all my mortgages.

"I am past 80 now. I still have my own home. I still have my roomers. I make as many as six beds some days. I do all my work but the laundry. I have a woman come in once a week to clean.

"I am very happy. And I have my own home still. I am a cripple with arthritis, and I don't get out much unless somebody takes me in a car. I rarely miss church. There is usually someone kind enough to take me and bring me home. If that is not convenient, I go in a taxi . . ."

Such a magnificent woman! She has kept her home, gained an income, and is able to hire a cleaning woman and a taxi. But there's something else for you to think about: Would she ever have lived to beyond 80 without fighting?

Where ever you look, you will find that it is the older people who have a second challenge, or those who take on one voluntarily, who live longest and happiest. I don't know why. It's just the way it seems to be.

Canadian Legion Evolution, Now One of Canada's Largest Community Service Groups

They served 'til dead, why not we?" This is the motto of some 217,000 Legion members across Canada in more than 2,000 branches. When the Canadian Legion was founded in Winnipeg back in 1925 its major purpose was to see that the veterans of the Great War were fairly represented and treated by the government and other agencies. This it has been doing for over thirty years and with the sound approach that any presentation of proposed legislation represent the situation fairly. The respect the Legion has for making just demands is fully recognized by the country's legislatures. In fact, it was the Legion's proposal in 1941 for benefits for returning servicemen that was the cause for founding the Department of Veterans' Affairs and setting up of the rehabilitation program enjoyed by every veteran.

The welfare of the veteran and his dependents still remains the prime function of the Canadian Legion but the majority of branches across Canada have expanded their interests to include all persons in their communities, young and old alike, whether they are veterans or veterans' dependents or not.

Juvenile sports play a big part in the Legion's activities. Not only on the many individual local scenes but nationally as well. A contribution of $20,000 was made to the Canadian Olympic Training Fund to provide better coaching for those young athletes who aspired to representing Canada abroad in international competition. Hundreds of local teams in softball, baseball, basketball, soccer, football, hockey, and other sports are sponsored by the Legion Branches.

Many branches also contribute to scholarships for local students. Contributions are also made towards providing scholarships and bursaries. During 1958 over $65,000 was spent by the Legion in this manner. A bill was initiated by the Legion to provide free higher education to children of dead war veterans. During the Second World War over 250,000 service people took educational courses sponsored by the Legion.

Included in the community [illegible] the Legion are the construction of low rental apartments for elderly folk. These projects have been conducted both at the local branch level and at the provincial command level. A new low rental apartment was opened in Chateau Gai, Quebec, just last week. Another was opened in Port William, Ontario, to accommodate and senior citizen, whether veteran or not.

Also along the lines of construction have been the many courses available to veterans who contemplate building their own homes. Many are now building on city lots under a recent expansion of the Veteran's Land Act, which was urged by the Legion. These courses cover the many aspects of home building from the legal, planning and construction points of view.

As far as can be seen the work of the Legion is quite extensive and varied. During the past 2 years the work load has increased 30 per cent. Over twenty pieces of legislation have been prepared for presentation in Parliament on behalf of veterans all over Canada. Indicative of the unselfish attitude of the Canadian Legion is the fact that about 65 per cent of the veterans benefiting from and making direct use of Legion services do not belong to or actively support the Legion or a local Branch. One third of the annual budget of the Legion goes towards the providing of these many services. As many as 10,000 different active files on individuals seeking advice and help may be processed by the Legion Service Bureau at any one time.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

Apart fro the actual veterans' services and assistance there are quite a large number of benefits for children of veterans. This service, known as the Children's Program, was launched in 1950. It ensures the children of deceased or disabled veterans will not suffer from lack of opportunities which they might normally have.

This program provides many things, amongst which are assistance in obtaining suitable employment, sending children to summer camps; direct assistance in obtaining needed school books and clothes; arranging for medical, dental and legal advice or help, and sponsorship in specialized training courses and apprenticeship. The Legion also actively supports youth associations, clubs and Scout troops, and co-operates with the Juvenile courts.

The legion is set up, naturally enough, on democratic lines. Each branch is an independent unit, although it agrees to abide by the general constitution of the Canadian Legion when the branch is given its charter. The local branch decides its own policies and places its work. National and provincial headquarters provide any assistance which a branch might desire in matters of major importance, however, providing the branch desires such.

Members range from privates to generals but each has an equal chance in holding an office within the Legion branch, provincial or national organization. The elected offices carry no salaries but offer a lot of hard work. Those eligible for membership in the Legion also reflect its democratic outlook. Besides those who have served in Her Majesty's Forces, former members of the Merchant Navy, Fisheries Patrol Services, Corps of Canadian Overseas Fire Fighters, war correspondents, members of the Canadian Red Cross and the St. John Ambulance who served in a theatre of war, may become full members of the Legion. Immigrants who served with the forces of an allied nation are also welcomed as associate members and become full members upon naturalization.

There also exists a large number of ex-servicewomen who form the Ladies' Auxiliary, which comprises many branches find invaluable in assisting in the local activities and fund-raising. There are also several independent Ladies' Branches. One of these is being formed in this area with the inaugural meeting being held tomorrow in Cobourg. Catering for banquets, holding teas and selling poppies are just a few of the activities which the ladies perform.

These are but a portion of the activities which take place in Legion halls across Canada, no matter whether the hall is a million-dollar structure, such as Vancouver Legion members enjoy, or whether it is a little more than a couple of rooms, as the Canadian Legion perpetuates the memory of fallen comrades of yesterday by serving the nation's communities today.

Dominion President

Local Legion Looks Ahead, Plans More Public Projects, Perhaps Enlarged Premises

Belleville Branch 99 of the Canadian Legion has been a part of this community for almost 32 years. It received its charter in June 10th, 1927 and has been operating since that date, although times have been rough — especially during the depression years, at various stands in the city. The local branch really took its present forward direction in 1945 when much new life and interest was added by veterans of the Second World War. Since that time it has gained greatly in numbers, prestige and its work in the community.

Operating with a current membership of 235 veterans the Legion have just completed paying for their present building on Pinnacle street. Prior to moving into this building in 1935 they occupied premises on Coleman street for a number of years after their building on Dundas street where the bus terminal now is, became too small to accommodate the membership.

Before the Second World War the Legion occupied quarter jointly with the Army, Navy, and Air Force Veterans' Association on Front street. During the depression, however, the Legion's activities all but faded out and the ANAF association was donated their present building in about 1935. It has been through the diligent efforts of the Legion members, and their executive that they now occupy a completely debt-free home.

In keeping with the current trend of Legion branches towards becoming community service organizations, besides servicing the needs of all veterans in their area, Branch 99 started the present Rose Terminal, sponsored trade fairs, band tattoos and fireworks displays for the pleasure and entertainment of local residents. Many of the Legion members are active in youth work, especially in sports. Branch 99 has sponsored juvenile hockey, baseball, softball and soccer teams. The latter team, under the coaching of Bob Carter won the Belleville Minor Soccer championship last season — one has won the title on several other occasions.

WILLIAM HEASMAN

Even though the present building has just been paid for, the expansion of Legion work and the membership are going to require larger premises. It is understood that plans are already being discussed either for enlarging the present premises or acquiring a new and larger building. The present banquet room can only accommodate about half the current membership of the branch.

The annual Poppy Campaign, which the local branch puts on each year provides the funds to undertake welfare work which would otherwise be impossible to accomplish. Funds are maintained to help out any veteran who might be stranded in passing through town, needy families are helped through periods of emergency, and funds are also used to provide the kiddies with Christmas parties and gifts which might not come from any other source. Those and other services for the community will be expanded in line with the branch's desire to serve the community more fully now that the building on Pinnacle St. has been paid for.

TO AID STUDENTS

BRANTFORD (CP) — A special "citizens' committee headed by school principal and a clergyman, has been set up here to seek bursaries for able students. Probably the first of its kind in an Ontario municipality, it is to be known as the student-aid co-ordinating committee and will approach organizations for bursaries.

Roundabout - - -

By DOUG PHIPPEN

Just as the Great War is, perhaps, best remembered by a sonnet written by Lt.-Col. John David McCrae there also exists a rather memorable sonnet which comes out of the Second World War. It was written by an American who died while serving in the Royal Canadian Air Force. Pilot Officer John G. Magee, Jr., born of British missionary parents, wrote a sonnet which we first discovered in university. It impressed us very much at that time, although our English professor didn't think it worthy of even critical comment. Nevertheless, it still holds for us the same feeling which we experienced upon first reading it. The magazine of the Canadian Legion, the Legionary, calls it the "In Flanders Fields" of the air. We prefer to think of it as possibly the World War II equivalent of "In Flanders' Fields" as being another very fine piece of literature to come from the minds of men whilst engaged at war.

High Flight

Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds—and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of—wheeled and soared and swung..
High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring there
I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.
Up, up the long, delirious, burning blue
I've topped the wing-swept heights with easy grace
Where never lark, or even eagle flew—
And, while with silent lifting mind I've trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space,
Put out my hand and touched the face of God.

The above was featured on the front of the Legion's memorial calendar for last year, incidentally.

Many people, perhaps, have thought or still think of the Legion as a collection of veterans who sit about swapping stories over a few pints of beer, and getting out to parade once a year on Armistice or Remembrance Day. This is a pretty antiquated opinion.

It might have applied to some branches a number of years ago, since its inception must have come from somewhere or other, but the nature of the Legion today hardly warrants this opinion.

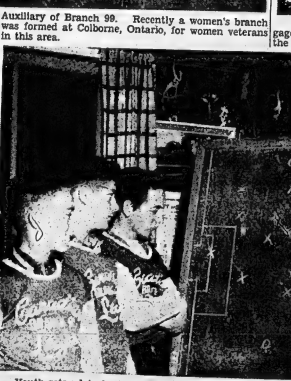
True enough, there is an atmosphere of camaraderie which the outsider may not understand, but the aims and work of the Legion across Canada today are quite readily apparent to all who will take note of them.

As that very fine gentleman Dave Burgess, dominion president of the Legion, stated the other evening, the Legion's guiding thought in the community is "doing something for others." He asked the members of Branch 99 to continue to turn their efforts to community affairs in Belleville. We feel that the members of Branch 99 will certainly rise to this challenge as they have risen to others in the past.

A good week to all, especially those who can go out three times in a row at darts with a double-one.

The old Legion quarters is now the site of a Colonial Coach bus station on Dundas St. This building was the first post-war Branch 99 home.

There is a place for ex-servicewomen, as well as men, in the Canadian Legion. Above, pictured with Dominion President David M. Burgess is the Ladies' Auxiliary of Branch 99. Recently a women's branch was formed at Colborne, Ontario, for women veterans in this area.



This is the new home of Branch 99. The mortgage was burned in a ceremony held last week. It is the overcrowded focal point of local Legion activities.

George Ellerby is awarded his life membership pin in the Canadian Legion by Dominion President Dave Burgess. The service officer for Branch 99 for a number of years, Mr. Ellerby is the first man honored with a life membership in Branch 99.

Darts are thoroughly enjoyed every Thursday evening by members of the local Legion in their quarters on Pinnacle Street. Here an enthusiast launches another missile to join the two he already has put into the twenty mark.

The game tees off a series of 15 exhibition games for the Canadian iceland Marco Polos before they get down to the serious business of the world tournament set for Prague March 5-15th.

They will play six games in Sweden and the balance in Scotland, Norway, Finland, Germany, Italy and Switzerland before arriving in Prague.

Following the world tournament they will play three games in Czechoslovakia and three in Britain before proceeding home. There is a possibility of one or two games in Paris.

European games will be played in Oslo, Helsinki, Dortmund, Garmisce, Cortina, Bolzano and Basel. British games are slated for Nottingham, Brighton and Wembley.

Last night the Macs wound up a tightly-packed 48-game Eastern Ontario senior league schedule. They finished in first position.

The McFarlands, says playing coach Ike Hildebrand, will be in good shape. They jammed 48 league and eight exhibition games into a 96-day schedule, finishing in a blaze of glory after a sluggish start. They are now said to be as strong, if not stronger, than the Whitby Dunlops when they left last year for the world tourney at Oslo.

The Macs will be bolstered for the overseas junket by Pete Conacher, Goose Gosselin, Denis Boucher, Billy Graham and "Red" Berenson. Another goalie is expected to join the club.

"It will not be Johnny Albani," Coach Hildebrand told this reporter. "I do not want a goalie who has been idle for some time to join the club a week before tournament time.

While heavy schedule commitments did not permit much instruction on international hockey rules, the Macs received many valuable tips from Jean Paul Lamirande, Dunlops' star of a year ago, and others. Coach Hildebrand figures the exhibition games played overseas will be sufficient to give his charges the savvy on the rules.

Competitions for the 11th world and 25th European championships will take place in Czechoslovakia. Nations competing are Canada, Russia, Norway, Poland, United States, West Germany, East Germany, Italy, Switzerland and Czechoslovakia.

Red China and Finland have withdrawn from the world tourney, but this will not interfere with the McFarlands exhibition game at Helsinki.

Qualifying competitions between the eleven teams competing in the world tournament will take place in three different Czech cities. These are Bratislava, Brno and Ostrava.

The teams will play in three different groups. Canada, Russia and Sweden, three of the last world championship, will be seeded in the different groups.

In picturesque Bratislava, the capital of Slovakia, is located the best ice stadium in the country. It seats some 16,000 spectators and is the home of the national champions, the Red Star Brno club.

In Ostrava, the coal and steel centre of the country there is a modern "indoor stadium" seating some 20,000.

Six surviving teams from the elimination series will compete in Prague in the world tournament. These games will be played in the Winter Stadium, a handsome edifice with a seating capacity of 14,000.

"Playing here," said Coach Hildebrand, "is something in our favor. We understand the majority of the exhibition games will be played on the wind-swept, snow-blown outdoor rinks of Europe. Playing indoors will give us one strike."

While a lot of the experts have taken it for granted Russia and Canada will meet in the tournament finals, Hildebrand said he is not selling the other teams short. Sweden has a strong team, so has Czechoslovakia.

"We are going over there as a hockey club, to play hockey. And that is what we are going to do," the square-jawed little coach said. "We realize we are up against some tough teams and we'll be going all-out for victory in every game regardless of the opposition.

"We know, too," he added, "that the eyes of fifteen million Canadians, not to mention the rest of the hockey world will be on us, and we hope our very best will be sufficient to retain the world hockey title for Canada."

FANS LOVED HIM

Gordon "Red" Berenson, former Regina Pats centre ice star caught the eyes of the fan-packed arena last night with his brilliant play.

"Red" starred with the Pats in the Memorial Cup finals last year and his play earned him the offer of a two-year contract with the Montreal Canadiens.

Ike Wants To Come Back

Ike Hildebrand will be back at the helm of the Macs next season "if they want me."

The playing coach said he had decided to call it quits after winning the Allan Cup and the world championship.

"But," he said, "I have had such wonderful treatment and reception by Belleville fans and others, that I have changed my mind. I'll be back next year."

"We have a wonderful team and with our last-minute reinforcements we are going to make them two of the world sit up and take notice. They will know that Canada is in the world tournament long before it is over."

Kenneth William Brymer, 20-year-old Toronto youth who escaped from a Florida chain gang two years ago, talks with his mother in Toronto where he waits for a ruling on whether he will be returned to the U.S. to serve out his sentence. Brymer swam an alligator-infested swamp in 1957 after serving two years of a 20-year sentence for breaking into two houses in the U.S. He was rearrested Tuesday after being released from Kingston Penitentiary where he served two years on charges of shopbreaking and theft, two charges of auto theft and two charges of false pretences. Mrs. John Brymer weeps, says it would be "cruel and inhuman to send my son back to Florida." Brymer will know of the ruling February 4. (CP Wirephoto).

Liberal Leader Voted Down on Special Session

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer will be in the House until some time next week to start debating unemployment in the Ontario legislature.

His request for an immediate special sitting of the House to discuss the problem was voted down 52 to 10 Friday after he appealed a ruling by Speaker R. W. Downer. Two CCF members supported the Liberals.

Mr. Downer said that while unemployment is "a matter of urgent public importance" as required by the rules, it is a general and not a specific problem. "Ample opportunity will be offered at a very early date for full debate on this subject," the Speaker said.

Mr. Wintermeyer called for the special sitting Wednesday. He made his application under a rule which permits any member of the House to make a 10-minute speech on an urgent question if it is "a single specific matter of recent occurrence."

Opposition leaders will be able to discuss unemployment at length when throne speech debate gets under way next week. But the government decides the order of speakers in throne debate and other House business can take precedence.

Canada has only one penitentiary to hold its women prisoners, the one at Kingston, Ont. Facilities are few—there is only one school teacher available to meet educational needs and there is no real training program for the women such as there is for male prisoners. This sketch by an inmate at Kingston shows a scene in the dining room. (CP Photo.)

Chorus of Sighs, Kisses Greet Men Passing Through Dining Room at Women's Prison

A Canadian Press reporter on a tour of six of the country's eight penitentiaries visited the women's prison at Kingston, Ont. In this article last of five, he describes how women prisoners live and work.

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's known as "the treatment." Strong men profess to smell at the prospect, but perhaps are more flattered than they admit.

It is a chorus of sighs, kisses and faint whistles from almost 200 pairs of pursed feminine lips.

It happens almost every time a man passes through the dining room at the women's penitentiary in Kingston, Ont., during a meal.

During a recent visit, it happened to this reporter and a male escort from the neighboring men's penitentiary.

SEVERE LOSS

But what lingers most in the memory are the words of the male escort afterwards: "All they've lost is their most precious possession—their personal liberty."

It is difficult not to get the impression that these women in the drab grey dresses are the most neglected prisoners in the federal penitentiary system, although improvements in their treatment are being made.

Authorities are laying the groundwork for a broad program of reform that will affect the country's eight penitentiaries. Changes will be made over the next few years.

Every woman sentenced anywhere in Canada to a term in a penitentiary must serve it at Kingston. The women's prison is administered as part of Kingston penitentiary although it is separate institution. Of the 98 women confined there on the day of my visit, 50 were from British Columbia, 38 of them for drug offences.

LACK TRAINING

There is no real training program for the women, such as there is in the men's penitentiaries.

One school teacher is available to meet the education needs of all the women, and to run their small library, the prisoner canteen, the recreation program and their hobbycraft activities.

There are three typewriters for those who would learn typing. If the women want to take shorthand to round out their secretarial training, they must do so by correspondence.

The women work in the prison sewing and laundry rooms, but this is part of operations essential to keep the prison running, not vocational training.

They are kept in individual cells, just as men are, but the women's cells are open almost continuously from the time they are unlocked for breakfast at 7:30 a.m. until they are closed for the night about 8 p.m.

TOO A TABLE

The women eat four at a table in a central dining room, where they are allowed to gather to watch television, play cards and so on.

In the way of makeup, they are allowed to put on a cream base coat, powder and lipstick. They can use lotions and deodorants. But mascara and eyebrow pencil are prohibited.

On Sundays and holidays they have table cloths on their dining tables. The rest of the time the dull brown tables are bare.

They are allowed to decorate their cells with pictures and the like and hang curtains on the barred doors. They sleep in metal - framed beds similar to those in a hospital and cell furniture includes a dresser, wash basin with hot and cold running water, a chair, writing table and a toilet.

For recreation they play softball and volleyball in the prison yard, raise flowers in tiny individual plots and exercise during winter in a small basement gymnasium.

Perhaps Squabs Will Come Rooster-Size

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Collins built some nests in their barn loft for pigeons and looked forward to the day when they would have squab on their dinner table.

Then they found a rooster from their flock of chickens missing.

After five days they found him, 12 feet up, billing and cooing with one of the pigeons in a nest full of eggs.

Now the Collins are waiting to see what hatches.

Indians Reject 3 Million Offer For 1,383 Acres

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) —The Tuscarora Indians have rejected what the New York state power authority called a final bid to acquire part of their land for the Niagara power project.

The Indians voted unanimously Thursday night to turn down an offer of $3,000,000 plus some fringe benefits for 1,383 acres of their reservation.

This seemed to spell the defeat of the state power authority in its long fight to acquire the land for part of a water storage reservoir in the power project.

Authority Chairman Robert Moses had announced Wednesday that if the Tuscaroras rejected the latest offer the authority would build a smaller reservoir elsewhere.

The Tuscaroras fought acquisition of the land in bitter court struggles. Recently, however, they mentioned the $3,000,000 purchase price, raising speculation that an out-of-court settlement was in the offing. Their court fight against appropriation of the land still is pending in the Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington.

Renew Attacks On 'Anti-Party' Group of Reds

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet Communist party congress Friday heard renewed attacks on the "anti-party group" of disgraced leaders opposed to the policies of Premier Nikita Khrushchev — this time by executive member Mikhail Suslov.

The anti-party group includes V. M. Molotov, Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov.

Recently broadened to include former premier Nikolai Bulganin, it was further extended at Thursday's congress session to Mikhail Pervukhin and Maxim Saburov, both formerly leading Soviet planners.

Suslov, a member of the party presidium, told the 2,000 delegates today that the party had "consolidated its ties with the masses."

"The Leninist principles of leadership have been re-established and the anti-party group ... has been routed," he said.

Suslov, 57-year-old former editor of Pravda, has gained much influence in recent years and now stands second to Khrushchev in the party secretariat.

It was Pervukhin, a long-time ningred regional party secretary who Thursday attacked Pervukhin and Saburov for not joining in the general condemnation of the anti-party group. He further demanded impeachment of the group before the present congress.

Pervukhin still is a candidate member of the presidium and Saburov is on the central committee of the party.

Pilot May Have Become Lost In Heavy Fog

KITCHENER (CP)—A student pilot who may have become lost in fog was killed Thursday when his light plane crashed in a field near Elmira, 15 miles northwest of here.

Airport officials sent out an alarm when Kennedy became overdue on a flight expected to last no more than 40 minutes. Although visibility had been good when he took off, fog closed in later.

He had about two hours' fuel left when he crashed on the farm of Oscar Martin three miles southeast of Elmira.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THEY'RE CHAMPS, TOO!

It's all over for a while now—and the Boosters can rest on well-earned laurels. Or back up for a fresh start and keep the home fires burning until the boys come home.

They should go around patting themselves on the back. Nobody would blame them.

For they are the unsung national champions of Canadian Booster Clubs. Nobody can deny that.

For never in the history of Belleville hockey—and that goes for Canada too—have so many done so much for so few.

Collectively, that is. The brunt of the noble job fell on the shoulders of the workhorse executive. Some members kicked in with good efforts. The majority paid their way—and made donations.

Duffy and Dow can take a bow. So can the Beares, Wards, Orrs, O'Neills, Rollins, Grahams, Bowermans, Matthews, Lewis's and other members of that august chain-gang executive of money-diggers.

"Snipe" Matthews has been named honorary president of the Royal and Ancient Antediluvian Order of Gimmick-Makers.

"Snipe" can think of more ways to extract money for the common good than the shrewdest Petticoat Lane Sunday morning operator.

At one time he thought of opening street-corner pencil and shoelace dispensaries. Another idea was outdoor shoe-shine parlors.

His tin-can collection gimmick was not patented and now not a few settlements across the country which are in need of ready cash have copied the idea.

While the Boosters are not going around shouting their remarkable exploits from the housetops, they are justifiably proud of their efforts in their financial support of the team.

The original president of the club, Dick Beare, set the organization off to a wonderful start last year. He, his executive and a large membership raised funds to buy players.

After all, how many groups of this nature in Canada stepped out and raised $10,000 starting from scratch?

They raised the funds in a chain-like sequence of events. Scarcely had one "gimmick" been wrapped up successfully than another was started. At times they had more than one cash-raising project under way.

Their "free tickets to Prague and Kelowna" projects were perhaps the biggest moneymakers. But smaller "gimmicks" such as casoramas, draws, raffles, etc., contributed to the fund. Their between-period bingos proved very popular. Other clubs are now doing likewise.

But all of them entailed a tremendous amount of work, and as was said before the brunt fell on the broad shoulders of the president, executive and a few members. Duffy was busier than the one-armed collection taker with the hives. At one time his home phone was out of order. If he was taking a vacation in Florida or California.

Dick Beare managed to squeeze in his time selling biscuits and tobacco in between Booster gimmicks. Harry Rollins toiled hard and rehearsed his rinkside speeches from the thrones his lumber company office. Jim Ward sold draw tickets in his sleep.

The rest of the executive held up their end in a magnificent manner. All worked tirelessly for the common cause—and that objective of $10,000.

And the proudest moment in their lives occurred last week when their president turned over that amount to Mayor Gerald Hyde.

Too much credit cannot be given such a grand bunch of guys and gals who worked tirelessly and non-stop to achieve their financial goal.

More power to their pea-pickin' little elbows.

Leafs Landed A Plum When They Signed Dick Duff

Starry Little Left Winger Headed for Third 20-Goaler; Uses Old Scarface as Model

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's been another drab, disheartening National Hockey League season for Toronto Maple Leaf supporters, but their load has been lightened a little by the play of Dick Duff.

The left winger started the season in hesitant fashion but once paired with centre George Armstrong he regained his lost scoring touch and seems headed for a third consecutive season of more than 20 goals.

Not yet 23 years old, Duff came up along the classic assembly line that developed so many Leaf stars of yesteryear but failed to deliver the expected material when Toronto began its youth movement a few years back.

FROM KIRKLAND LAKE

Spotted in the Northern Ontario town of Kirkland Lake in his early teens, the short, sturdy winger was brought to Toronto's St. Michael's College and after the requisite grooming played three games in a Toronto uniform before he was 20.

In 1955-56 he was up to stay, scoring 18 goals in 64 games. The season after he bounced to 26 goals and established himself as a star. This year he has 17 after 41 games.

Duff grew up idolizing another left winger who lived nearby. The boyhood hero was Red Lindsay who also got his hockey schooling at St. Michael's but went to Detroit Red Wings in a Toronto uniform before he was 20.

In 1955-56 he was up to stay, scoring 18 goals in 64 games. The season after he bounced to 26 goals and established himself as a star. This year he has 17 after 41 games.

Duff grew up idolizing another left winger who lived nearby. The boyhood hero was Red Lindsay who also got his hockey schooling at St. Michael's but went to Detroit Red Wings in a Toronto uniform before he was 20.

The two are remarkably similar in many ways despite their hockey backgrounds and positions. Both list their height and weight in NHL records books at five - feet eight - inches and 160 pounds.

But Duff may not have the fire that made Lindsay one of the league's most consistent players yet one who could inspire his teammates on occasion demanded. Which is what Leafs need now more than anything.

GOOD NUCLEUS

They have a good nucleus with Duff, Billy Harris, Ron Stewart and Bob Pulford. All can be counted to be in the 20-goal class each season, but none seems able to go over the top or come up with the big performance when it's needed.

George Armstrong, the big Skead, Ont. lad Leafs once hoped might fill the bill, is having one of his best seasons now that he's no longer expected to provide the spark.

Teamed with Duff after an injury that sidelined him for 10 games last November Armstrong started to score and so did Dick.

But Toronto still is searching for a latter-day Syl Apps or Ted Kennedy to lift them out of last place.

Western Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders extended their winning streak in the Western Hockey League to 13 straight games Friday night by defeating Vancouver Canucks 6-3.

Seattle Totems, leaders in the coast division, trounced Spokane Flyers 6-1 and Edmonton Flyers beat Saskatoon Quakers 5-3.

Murray Oliver, formerly with Hamilton in the OHA Junior A series, scored three of Edmonton's five goals.

Bucs Land Haddix, Burgess Redlegs Get Frankie Thomas

NEW YORK (AP)—Pittsburgh has landed a much-needed left-handed relief pitcher in Harvey Haddix and a solid left-handed-hitting catcher in Smoky Burgess in a multi-man deal that sent slugger Frank Thomas to Cincinnati Redlegs.

In addition to Haddix and Burgess, the Pirates Friday night picked up a regular third baseman in Don Hoak from the Redlegs. Cincinnati also obtained infielder John Powers, handyman Jim Pendleton and pitcher Whammy Douglas in addition to Thomas.

A powerful righthanded batter, Thomas had a fine year last season. He hit .281, smashed 35 homers and drove in 109 runs. But for the second-place Pirates, he played first base, third base and left field.

Haddix, a veteran, had an 8-7 record for Cincy last year. Burgess, sought after by almost every club in the league, finished with a .263 average. He usually hits .300 but there wasn't so much room for him to bat at Cincy with Ed Bailey around. Bailey had a bad slump last year but he is much younger than Smoky.

STAMPS SIGN TULSAN

CALGARY (CP)—Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union Friday announced signing of Bobby Morris, 185-pound halfback from Tulsa University. Morris, a first choice in his sophomore year of the National League New York Giants, led the team in rushing last year. He also is rated a fine punter.

Don Hogan Scores Twice For Barons

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The front-running Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League show no signs of cracking, but they had a new worry today.

The Bisons have been pestered by the persistent Hershey Bears. Now they have to watch the Cleveland Barons, who have pulled into a tie with the Bears for second place, 2½ games behind the leaders.

With George Veljovaz scoring three goals, the Barons trounced Springfield Indians, 6-3 Friday night, while the Bisons were recording their third straight victory—a 4-3 decision over Providence Reds.

Don Hogan scored two goals for the Barons and Mike Labadie got the other. Floyd Smith collected two of the Indians' three goals.

Wally Hergesheimer found the range with a 30-footer six minutes before the final buzzer to give the Bisons their victory over the Reds.

They led briefly, 2-0, in the first period before Dick Gamble hit in close at 12 seconds and 22 seconds to tie it. The Bisons never were behind thereafter.

No Change in Hall of Fame

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League, said Friday he knows of no reason why there would be any change in the league's support of a hockey hall of fame at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

Campbell was commenting on a dispatch from Kingston saying directors of that city's hall of fame committee have decided to proceed with erection of a building there this year.

"The NHL has no decision to lend support to the hockey hall of fame at the CNE something over a year ago," said Campbell. "We have been pursuing that policy ever since."

Vargas Verdicts Tony Anthony

NEW YORK (AP) — Reuben Vargas, a swarming 5-to-1 underdog, dropped Tony Anthony for a nine count in the eighth round on the way to a split decision in a bloody 10 - round brawl Friday night.

Anthony weighed 177, Vargas 180½.

Referee Dave Fell called it even in rounds but gave Vargas the edge in points. He maintained the strength of the knockdown, Judge Charley Eaton gave it 5-4-1 for Vargas. Judge Mike Davidowitch scored it 6-4 in favor of Anthony.

Vargas, ranked as a leading contender moving into the heavyweight ranks, was the sharper puncher with his hooking and slugging flurries. But he let Vargas bull him around the ring and proved a sucker for a long overhand right.

The eighth round had hardly started when Vargas landed a solid left hook on Anthony's unprotected chin. The former Olympic team boxer went down on his back, his head hitting the ring apron. He was still on one knee when referee Fell counted nine. He barely lasted out the remaining 2½ minutes of the round.

Fidel Castro Will Open International

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — A college baseball pitcher who went on to strike out a Latin American dictator is to inaugurate the 1959 International League season.

Fidel Castro, leader of the successful New Year's Day revolt in Cuba, has agreed to throw out the first ball for the club's opening game in Havana April 14 between the Sugar Kings and Toronto Maple Leafs.

The announcement came Friday at the league's annual meeting here from Eduardo (Bobby) Maduro, Havana businessman and president of the Sugar Kings.

NEW MANAGER

Maduro also announced the appointment of a new Havana manager and submitted a bright report on Cuban baseball prospects under the new regime.

Pedro (Preston) Gomez, 34, former infielder with the American League Washington Senators is the team's new field general.

Maduro told reporters Castro "loves baseball" and was a pitcher at Havana University.

He said a capacity crowd of 28,000 is expected at Havana's stadium for the opening game.

The new regime has abolished a flourishing numbers racket and "this will give lower-income Cubans more money to spend on other forms of recreation."

TO VISIT TORONTO?

Maduro told Rudie Schaffer, Toronto's general manager, that he would ask Castro to consider a trip to Toronto when he met the first pitch when Sugar Kings open Maple Leafs' home season April 20. Toronto has extended such an invitation earlier.

Maduro, commenting on Buffalo Bisons' decision to play ball in Cuba, because Bisons felt the situation dangerous, said:

"Everything is back to normal now and . . . we were considering moving our club to Havana until because of a tight situation if Batista was not overthrown."

Delegates re-affirmed a 154-game schedule for each club before adjourning for a meeting tendered by Montreal Royals, pennant-winners last year.

A threatened strike by the IL Players' Association to back a demand for a pension which did not come up for official discussion. But delegates went into informal talks and it was understood they re-affirmed rejection of the pension proposal.

IL President Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy later told The Canadian Press:

"The situation is still the same. We're in no position to set up a plan and our stand has not changed."

Unionville Rinks Acquire Two Top Curling Trophies

TORONTO (CP)—Two of the province's top curling trophies went Friday to the tiny hamlet of Unionville, 15 miles north of here.

Murray Roberts and Ted Sellers skipped their rinks to a combined 16-13 victory over Guelph foursomes to retain the Ontario Tankard, top prize of two days of double rink competition.

The Globe and Mail Trophy, a consolation event in the Governor - General's Trophy playoffs, was won by D. Van Luven and Stan Defoe, another pair of fingernerved curlers from Unionville, which has a population of 585.

Bill Stephenson and Ted Caldwell of Orillia took the Governor-General's prize with a 19-12 victory over the Guelph entry of L. MacDonald and Dr. S. Brown.

KITCHENER DEFEATED

The tankard consolation, the Burden Trophy, went to R. E. (Bim) Sturgeon and Harry Lewis who skipped their Ottawa rinks to a narrow 16-15 decision over Kitchener's Ted Nowak and Carl Asmussen.

Unionville's tankard win was an almost exact repeat of last year's final, with the same rinks competing. John Eedes and Al Jones of Guelph had to be content with runner-up acclaim for a second year.

They made it a real fight, though, even after Unionville's skips had jumped to a 4-0 lead. Guelph tied it up in the ninth but time ran out when Unionville held a three-point edge in the final end and Eedes had only two rocks left.

It is the first repeat victory since Eedes took the tankard home in 1951-52.

Other Guelph goals were scored by Leon Rochefort and George Ustalo, while Toronto's Jack Martin deprived Guelph goalie Don Rich of a shutout.

Bob Cunningham picked up three goals and an assist for four points and Rod Gratton two goals and two assists to spark the Guelph win. It was their second successive victory over Toronto by the same score.

Other Guelph goals were scored by Leon Rochefort and George Ustalo, while Toronto's Jack Martin deprived Guelph goalie Don Rich of a shutout.

Ottawa's Harry Lumley had to come up with some fairly thrown saves when his partner's rink hit a steady string of losses but he was more than equal to the job against Kitchener.

Orillia's skips hammered out an early lead over Guelph and then settled down to a takeout game which protected the winning margin.

Both Unionville rinks are in Oshawa today for the Ontario playoffs leading to the Dominion finals. The first round has Roberts and Sellers meeting Murray Roberts is the defending champion.

In the tankard semi - finals, Unionville ousted Gravenhurst 20-18 and Guelph put out Weston 26-20.

In the Burden, Asmussen and Nowak of Kitchener downed Jack Sands and M. Chernoff of Kingston 21-18 and Oshawa ousted Owen Sound's T. I. Thomson and W. A. Wilson 20-15.

In the Globe and Mail semi-final, the Owen Sound rink of T. Gardhouse and A. D. Pollack lost out 30-19 to Mississauga, which then lost to Unionville, 19-16.

Bilts Wallop Marlboros 7-1

GUELPH (CP)—A 7-1 win over Toronto Marlboros Friday night put Guelph Biltmores into third place on first Western Association Junior A standings, shunting the idle St. Michael's College Majors to fourth Open.

Bob Cunningham picked up three goals and an assist for four points and Rod Gratton two goals and two assists to spark the Guelph win. It was their second successive victory over Toronto by the same score.

Other Guelph goals were scored by Leon Rochefort and George Ustalo, while Toronto's Jack Martin deprived Guelph goalie Don Rich of a shutout.

Ottawa's Harry Lumley had to come up with some fairly thrown saves when his partner's rink hit a steady string of losses but he was more than equal to the job against Kitchener.

Maroons Wallop Dutchmen Trappers Win Sixth in Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Top and bottom clubs grabbed the spotlight in the OHA-NOHA Senior A race Friday night.

Chatham Maroons turned the tables on Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen with a 5-3 home ice victory that vaulted them back into the league leadership. Kitchener had taken it over with a 7-4 win at Kitchener Wednesday.

North Bay Trappers, driving to get out of the league cellar for the first time this season, dumped the third-place Sudbury Wolves 6-2 for their sixth straight game without defeat.

In the OHA Eastern Senior A the Belleville McFarlands wound up their share of the schedule in high style thrashing last-place Cornwall Chevies 12-1 at Belleville.

Chatham's win was the 10th time the two clubs have switched first place in the standings.

Chatham, like Kitchener on Wednesday, dominated the play most of the night and outshot the visitors 48-33.

Copper Clyde and Ted Power bury pulled goalie Ray Frederick late in the third period. But North Bay's Ches Koneczny promptly took advantage of it and scored his second goal to give Trappers the edge with 60 seconds left.

IF AT FIRST . . .

O'Flaherty tried it again as soon as Sudbury got a faceoff in the North Bay zone. The gamble misfired once more—Stan Maxwell scored.

Rene Fepin and Ken Gribbons fired the goals that put Sgt. Major Jim Logan and Andy Voykin rounded out Sudbury scoring.

Gene Chatham a 2-1 first period lead. Al Cleary made it 3-1 in the second and the hosts only had to match Kitchener's two third-period goals to take the decision. Leyte and Cleary handled the scoring.

Kitchener scorers were Butch Martin, Jack MacKenzie and Bob Nevin.

FREAKISH GAME

It was a freakish game at Sudbury where two players accidentally shot pucks into their own nets.

North Bay coach Ab Demaroo had to put himself into the lineup to tie the league's minimum of 12 players for a road game. An infraction of this rule would have cost the team $100.

Bobby Forhan of Sudbury and Jean Therrien of North Bay pulled the boners, batting the puck past their own goalies in attempts to clear it. But each atoned for the errors by scoring two more—this time for the right teams.

McFarlands Ring Down Curtain In Blaze Of Glory

Brown's Hat Trick Tops Pack In 12-1 Win Over Cornwall, Berenson Debut Brilliant

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The McFarlands said farewell to their home fans and the Eastern Senior "A" League in a blaze of scoring glory here last night, crushing the Cornwall Chevies under a 12-1 score before a crowd of nearly 2,800.

Held scoreless for 15 minutes of the first period, the Ikemen blew the game wide open. They scored three goals before period end, added five to a single return in the second and blasted home four more in the final frame.

"Wiener" Brown spark-plugged the high-scoring Macs, with three goals and as many assists. Ike Hildebrand became the first thirty-goal scorer of the league with his single. He also had four assists. Floyd Crawford had five and Lionel Botly came up with his first goal of the season.

The brilliant play of Gordon "Red" Berenson, former Regina Pat centre star, featured the game. The 180-pound redhead scored two beautiful goals and had an assist in his McFarland debut. Pete Conacher was dressed but used sparingly as he is not yet in shape. "Goose" Gosselin joins the club today.

The Macs grabbed themselves a 24 scoring points. Moe Benoit scored his 15 and 16th goals and Barton Bradley had one and one. Billy Graham also had one and one. Lou Smrke had a goal and three assists while Minnie Menard with two helpers and Dewsbury and McLellan with one each rounded out the point-snaring.

Referee Vern Goyer handed out 14 penalties, eight to the Macs Dewsbury and LaBell drew majors and misconducts following a scuffle while Graham and Sevsias were jugged for fisticuffing.

Denis Boucher who played for the Chevies last night scored their only goal. His clearance is not yet through from Cornwall, but Manager Drury Denyes stated the player will be going overseas with the McFarlands.

Highlighting a close-checking first period was Wiener Brown's picture goal. The little left-winger grabbed a centre ice pass, slickhanded his two beautifully through the defence and doked Devaney out of position to score. Ike set up the play on a pass from Crawford.

McLellan was gaga, and he was just back when Barton Bradley slapshotted a blazer past Devaney from twenty feet out. Ike and Wiener were in on the play.

Keeping up their offensive the Macs made it 3-0 when Moe Benoit scored his 15th goal of the season. Moe's shot never left the ice and slithered in the net behind a surprised Devaney. Ike and Wiener were again in on the kill. Dewsbury was chased with a minute to go.

A penalty punch scuffle featuring Al Dewsbury and Don LaBelle with Johnny McLellan getting in the play marked the wide open second period. Dewsbury and LaBelle drew majors for misconducts with Johnny getting a minor.

The Macs fired home three goals in the first nine minutes with Wiener and Billy Graham and Moe Benoit hitting the hemp an unspotted player. Cornwall broke the ice at 9.42 with Denis Boucher scoring and Grigg and Haughton helping.

Lionel Botly scored his first goal of the season at 13.45 blasting home Hildebrand's pass to the point with a slapshot that Devaney never saw.

The Wiener got his hat trick a minute later stealing the puck from a Chevy defencemen after he broke his stick.

Early in the period Aggie Kukulowitz of Cornwall was taken to hospital for examination after falling and striking his head on the ice. It was feared he had a concussion.

Red Berenson brought the crowd to its feet with a beautiful play opening the third period. He took Smrke's pass and sizzled through the Cornwall team to drive home a high backhander to give the Macs a 9-1 lead. "Red" repeated a minute later from out in front of the Cornwall net.

Billy Graham and Sevsias tangled in a pushing duel with Graham drawing a minor and the Chevies two minors for their efforts.

Ike Hildebrand got goal No. 30 at 7.08 with Bart Bradley shooting his coach a perfect pass. Johnny McLellan was chased for tripping and a minute or so before game end, Minnie Menard shot Lou Smrke a perfect pass. Lou coasted in on Devaney and made no mistake, to give the Macs a 12-1 margin, and that's the way it all ended.

"Two" Bradley took over the Macs goaltending duties from Gordie Bell in the third period and the popular trainer-goalie handled ten Cornwall shots flawlessly.

Lineups:

Cornwall: goal, Devaney; defence, Bingley, Labelle, Servas, Goyette; forwards, Henri, McKay, Muir, Burke, Grigg, Malak, Haughton, Kukulowicz, McMillen, Boucher.

Will Settle Basketball Title Around Table

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The world amateur basketball championship will be settled today around a conference table.

Russia, with a 5-1 record, will win if officials of the International Basketball Federation decide not to forfeit all of the Soviet team's games because it refused to take the floor Friday night against Nationalist China. The Russians also can win if the IBF counts only the game with China as a loss.

Brazil, which defeated the United States 81-67 Friday night for a 4-1 mark, can win without any argument whether they win or lose against a so - so Chile team tonight if all of Russia's victories are forfeited.

The Russians went through with their announced intention of not playing Nationalist China because they do not consider Formosa a nation. Bulgaria is expected to do likewise against the Chinese tonight. Friday night's game was awarded to the Chinese 2-0 after they lined up and dropped in one field goal.

The crowd bombarded the U.S. players with fruit, vegetables and words Thursday night and booed and jeered the Americans throughout while applauding the Brazilians Friday.

Col. Rulph Stevenson, manager of the U.S. team, said bluntly: "I don't want to come to South America again."

HELPING DAD GET PACKED

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand of the Belleville McFarlands who represent Canada in the world's hockey tourney at Prague this winter is seen packing a suitcase in his Peterborough home as the family gives him a hand. Canadian team is off Sunday for a tour of several countries in Europe before the world tourney starts in March. Among, left to right are: Jody, 5; star lacrosser and hockeyist Ike; his wife, Helen; little Allan, age nine months, and Jay, 10. Helen is used to seeing Ike off on long hockey and lacrosse trips.

Marlene in Quarter-Finals

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (CP)—Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Foothill fired four birdies and her partner, Ann Casey Johnstone, of Galion Ohio, Iowa, two Friday as they won their quarter-final match in the women's national four - ball golf tournament.

The 5 and 4 win over Berridge Long of Huntington, W. Va., and Alice Dye of Indianapolis sent them into a semi-final match today against Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, and Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass.

Miss Streit and Miss Goodwin won two-up over Cookie Swift Berger of Edgertsville, N.Y., and Mrs. J. C. Dooley of Bainbridge, Ga. well, N.J.

Defending champions Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore and Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., were eliminated by Mrs. Frances Hartson of Redmond, Calif., and Frances Smith of Bainbridge, Ga. They gained a 4 and 3 victory by shooting six-under-par golf for 31 holes.

The Downey-Lindsay team had won in 1957 and 1958.

May Not Video Football Games

OTTAWA (CP)—Unless some big-budget advertiser decides to kick through with large sums, Eastern Canadian football fans may not see their favorite sport on television next fall.

Ottawa Rough Rider executive Sam Berger, chairman of the Big Four football league's television committee, said Friday night bids from would-be sponsors of 1959 Big Four games so far have not been generous.

The league would want to receive at least as much as it did during the 1958 season, he said.

A Montreal brewery, paid the four league teams—Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal — $350,000 last season for the privilege of sponsoring the TV showings of Big Four games.

AP CBC BID

In addition, the league collected another $50,000 from the CBC for playoff-showing rights. The CBC did not enter a 1959 bid.

Berger said negotiations will continue with the tenderers, and with other potential sponsors who have asked for information about the matter. A dozen "responsible" corporations had made inquiries.

They included breweries, auto manufacturers, oil companies and the like.

Berger said "more than one" tender was received before Friday's deadline, but the executive had instructed him not to disclose the number or the amount of the top bid.

FISHING SPECTACULAR

KINGSVILLE (CP)—Some 500 fishermen who poked boats in ice-covered Lake Erie here this week say the ice fishing hasn't been as good in 32 years. Spectacular catches of perch and smelt have been picked up.

Canadian Fight for Champ? Just Possible Says Manager

NEW YORK (CP)—There have been discussions of a possible Canadian fight for heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, but that's all his manager says.

Cus D'Amato, commenting on a Toronto report that the world champ has signed to defend his title in either Vancouver or Toronto, said there have been negotiations but "further than that I have no comment."

The negotiations, he said, were with Canadian sports promoter Lorne Cassina. There were no commitments, he added.

SAYS CONTRACT EXISTS

In Toronto, John Pritchard, public relations executive for Cassina-Bell productions, said Cassina had a written contract with television firm represents Cassina's TV interests.

Pritchard said Patterson's opponent will probably be a leading British Empire boxer.

Pritchard said Patterson's Canadian fight depends on the champion's defence against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden.

That contract, signed in New York Thursday, calls for a fight sometime before Sept. 30.

If Patterson fights Johansson in June, the Canadian fight would be delayed until September. But it is scheduled for later in the summer, after Patterson has defended in Canada beforehand, Pritchard said.

WON'T BE PINNED DOWN

D'Amato noted that he has reserved the right for another fight either before or after the Johansson bout, but replied "no comment" when he was asked whether it might take place in Canada.

Asked whether any Canadian fight would be in summer, he said "I never signified any particular time" and added, "this would depend on circumstances I have discussed with Cassina."

He again said "no comment" when told that the Toronto report said Patterson's opponent in Canada would probably be a leading British Empire boxer.

On the Tracks

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Eddie Arcaro Friday was set down for five days for interference in Thursday's eighth race at Santa Anita. However, the suspension will not keep Arcaro off Wednesday in today's $100,000 added Santa Anita Maturity.

The stewards grounded Arcaro after studying films of his ride on Spring Boy.

He bumped Honest in the stretch. Spring Boy, who finished first, was set back to third and Honest was moved up from third to second.

The suspension, Arcaro's first at Santa Anita since 1935, will be effective Feb. 3-7 inclusive.

Hildebrand, Bell, Macs' MVPs, Payette Is 'The Gentleman'

IKE HILDEBRAND

GORDIE BELL

TWIN AWARDS

The McFarlands operated in an aura of cheers, presentations and flashlight bulbs last night.

Highlighting the presentations were the most valuable players and most gentlemanly player awards.

The MVP award was split for the first time. Replicas of the Bill Green Memorial Trophy were presented to the nominees, Ike Hildebrand and Gordie Bell. The trophy itself was presented to the coach.

Jean Paul Payette won the "most gentlemanly" award for the third year in a row. He was presented with the Bandsome Cup by Grills Trophy.

The Carlings player-of-the-week award was won by Moe Benoit. This was presented by Mayor H. J. McFarland.

The team was presented with the AWAP mascot "Archie." It will go with them overseas. Fred Poole presented it.

At the Booster Club farewell reception given at the Elks Hall, the players were presented with nylon duffle bags by Booster president Armand Duffy, and cartons of cigarets by the Imperial Tobacco Company.

The draw for the free trip to Prague, or $1,000 in cash, was won by Steve Flagler, 346 Bleecker Avenue.

The most valuable player awards proved popular. Both Ike and Gordie received a trememdous ovation from the pecked arena.

Belleville Oldtimers Hockey Association officials Johnny Hibbard and Han Fenn presented the replicas to the players. Bobby Green, in honor of an illustrious dad, handed the Memorial Trophy to the playing coach.

Mr. Hibbard said, "The committee had a tough time in making the selections. After much discussion and thought it was decided to split the award and honor the two winners."

The capacity crowd cheered Jean Payette to the echo as the popular centre received his award from Lee Grills M.P. Paul received only two penalties during the schedule.

The Booster Club, in another generous gesture, presented Manager Drury Denyes with a cheque for $750., the purchase price of Archie Smrke. President Armand Duffy did the honors.

Some 200 Boosters attended the farewell party given the Macs. Playing coach Ike Hildebrand and his merry men were the recipients of good wishes. The Macs' new centre "Red" Berenson, after his brilliant debut as a McFarland, also came in for a lot of attention.

Tardif played for Royals Thursday in Chicoutimi and turned in a sound game. Locas is a brother of veteran Jacques Locas of Chicoutimi.

Ray Milland Wants to Direct But Pay Not Good Enough

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The trouble with acting," says Ray Milland, "is it pays too darned well."

Anyway, it pays well for a longtime star and Oscar winner (The Lost Weekend) such as Ray Milland. Hence, he is going back to work as an actor.

Ray is a restless chap with a long frustration. He has often said that he hates acting—though I suspect that he doesn't hate it as much as he claims. He says he would much rather direct, and he has directed three films so far.

"But the trouble is that they don't pay a director enough," Ray complained. "As a director, I make about a fifth of what I can draw as an actor."

He took an eight-month vacation from both careers and found the inactivity drove him crazy. He's itching to get back to work, and TV is the answer. His first job has been a Goodyear Theatre drama. It's a mood piece which he directed and stars in with Gia Scala.

He soon starts his second TV series which will take place the Schlitz playhouse spot. It's a suspense drama and he plays a lawyer who trouble - shoots for hire in all parts of the world.

It surprised me to learn that Ray was doing another series. His first, in which he played an inane college professor, caused him much pain. After the second season, he fled to the Riviera with his wife and wrote the sponsor that he wouldn't return unless the contract were cancelled. He got his wish.

So why is he doing another one?

"I have an escape clause," he said with a gleam in his eye. "If I don't like doing the series, I can quit at the end of the year. I wouldn't do it any other way."

He didn't mention that the first series paid him $5,000 per week and the second will likely to the same. Then, perhaps, he might be able to afford the luxury of giving up acting for the director's life.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — From the producers of "My Fair Lady", "Gigi", Leslie Caron, Maurice Chevalier, Louis Jourdan, Eva Gabor, in Gigi, in Technicolor, CinemaScope, 2.00-4.90-7.15-9.30.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Rockets Galore", Jeanne Carson, Donald Sinden in Sinden, 1.45-3.55-6.05-8.15.

AT THE PARK — All Technicolor and CinemaScope show "Merry Andrew", Danny Kaye, Pier Angeli, 1.30-4.25 — "The Sheepman", Glenn Ford, Shirley MacLaine, 2.55-10.25.

AT THE BELLE — Leslie Caron makes romantic overtures to man-about-town Louis Jourdan in "Gigi", which is playing for the last times today at the Belle Theatre. the musical score is by the same composers as "My Fair Lady", and other stars include Maurice Chevalier, Hermoine Gingold and Eva Gabor.

AT THE PARK — Imprisoned for participating in a holdup into which he was tricked, Robert Blake (right), seems to be getting the worst of it from Gene Evans in this scene from Allied Artists' "Revolt in the Big House", opening Monday at the Park Theatre for its first Belleville showing. The picture stars Evans and Blake with Touch Connery in a strong supporting role. On the same program "Riot in Cell Block 11", starring Neville Brand and a cast of thousands.

T-V TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

Have you ever wondered why television reception is better on some days than it is on others?

Although clear weather isn't necessary for a good television picture, atmospheric conditions such as high or low barometric pressures have a definite bearing on fringe area reception.

For example: during the winter months the barometer begins dropping just before a mild spell and generally reception improves. When a cold snap is due the pressure will rise sharply and usually reception falls off.

Generally speaking, the period of best reception is from April until September when atmospheric conditions are most stable.

It is during periods unfavorable for good reception when the condition of your TV set counts most. If your television is weak or out of adjustment, you may not get any picture, or at best a snowy one — while if your set is in tip-top working order you may still be able to enjoy your favorite programs.

CIRCLE TV SERVICE can't do anything about atmospheric conditions, but they can make certain that your set is performing at its best. They're conveniently located at 304 Coleman St., Phone WO 8-8191 (In Trenton EX 2-7669).

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

John B. (Bunny) Ahearne could be the big winner - financially speaking-in the world amateur hockey championships in Czechoslovakia March 5-15. He has a lot to say about the tournament.

Bunny, a 55-year-old Irishman, is president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, which sponsors the tournament. He's also a travel agent in London and, as such, arranges pre-tournament exhibition games, travelling and accommodation of most of the visiting teams - all for a price, of course.

Bunny is handling arrangements for Belleville McFarlands, the club that hopes to retain the world title won by Whitby Dunlops in 1958. The Macs leave Montreal by air for Scotland on Sunday and from the time the plane lands at Prestwick until the team's first tournament game in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, on March 5, Bunny will be an interested follower.

The Belleville management doesn't know what Bunny has arranged for the team. All they know is that games have been scheduled for Scotland, Switzerland, Sweden, Finland, Germany, Italy and Norway. Team officials don't know where the players will stay or how they will travel after arrival in Europe.

Bunny is an old hand at arranging European exhibition games.

He has been overseas representative of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association for 20 years or more. He's been in trouble with the CAHA but it never seems to disturb him, or his relations, with Canada's governing body of amateur hockey.

He traded punches with Doug Grimston of New Westminster, B.C., late CAHA president, during the Winter Olympic Games at Oslo in 1952. This episode was supposed to be the end of Ahearne as far as the CAHA was concerned.

Grimston publicly castigated Ahearne at the 1953 annual meeting of the CAHA; but the incident was soon forgotten and Ahearne was back at his old stand. Ahearne attended that meeting, at his own expense, returned to England and carried on just as he had been doing for years.

COACHES WERE WRONG

National Hockey League coaches are astute fellows as far as players are concerned. So consider this: Before the National—Hockey—League season opened last October, the coaches were practically unanimous in picking Eddie Shack of New York Rangers for the Calder Trophy as the rookie of the year.

Shack, a left winger who went to Rangers from Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series wasn't even a contender in the voting at the halfway mark of the 70-game NHL schedule.

Jack (Winnipeg Turbine) Wells says that Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union at one time passed up quarter Johnny Unitas of the National Football League champion Baltimore Colts.

"The story," says Wells, "is that coach Frank Filchock, then of the Roughriders, passed up Unitas because he asked for $100 a game. Filchock figured that if that was all he wanted he couldn't be much good."

'Y' Basketball

The Y.M.C.A. gym was the scene of much action between the Belleville student nurses' basketball team and the Y.M.C.A leaders corp.

Final score: Leaders 17, Nurses 12. Outstanding scorer for the winners was Sue Skelly with 12 points while Carole Williamson, Sandra Sullivan, Dale Howard and Beth Davidson shared the scoring for the losers with 2 points each.

Referees were Phyllis Walsh and Judith Mott of B.C.I.V.S.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, February 1, 1959

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Your hunches are apt to be good right at this time, so be certain to get into the solitude long enough to let them come through accurately. Then it will be possible to line up best schedule for week ahead. P.M good for affairs of the heart.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Especially fine time for cooperating with associates or clearing up misunderstandings. But first be sure to go to church of own choice. Then schedule your time wisely for real accomplishment. Iron out all differences and find peace of mind.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Think in terms of assisting your partners and fellow workers today if you are to get the most out of living in the future. Also, be philanthropic and an inspiration to others. P.M. see that your clothing and surroundings are in A-1 shape.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) If living it anti-astrologically, you should arise with a song in your heart and the will to do good to others. A visit to church will also deepen this fine feeling. Be out and about early, visiting the sick, lending a helping hand to loved ones, etc.

A Northwest Passage Letter In Local Philatelist's Set Is Unique Piece of Canadiana

An item in the Scott's Scrapbook in the January 16th edition of the Ontario Intelligencer caught the attention of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sillitoe of Belleville. The item concerned a letter which was carried on the first mail delivery through the Northwest Passage in 1938 to 1940. Mr. Sillitoe, an ardent collector of Canadian postage stamps, had mailed this very letter from Edmonton, addressed to a secretary in his office.

It was just twenty years ago that the first packet of letters was in transit across the then newly-opened Northwest Passage mail route. In this packet was the letter mailed in Edmonton by philatelist Edward Sillitoe. Mr. Sillitoe arranged to have the letter carried from Edmonton to Edmonton via the Northwest Passage route through the services of R. W. Hale, Canada Post Office superintendent in charge of organizing the mail services in the northern part of Canada.

The route of the letter took it east to Montreal. It was then put on the R.M.S. "Nascopie," which left Montreal at 10.00 a.m. on July 9th., 1938, on route through Hebron, Newfoundland; Port Burwell, N.W.T.; Churchill, Chesterfield Inlet; Thule and into Fort Ross, the terminal point of the Nascopie's voyage. It arrived in Fort Ross on August 31st., 1938, after having passed through Craig Harbor, the northernmost point of mail delivery in the Dominion at that time, on August 25th.

The envelope, which is rather large, has notations on it in ink and various tracts and R.C.M.P. who helped carry it on its way. The seal also has some of every stamp issued in 1938 by the Canada Post Office. Illegible, but mail official delivery and registered all stamps are all included.

After the mail arrival at Fort Ross, N.W.T. it was put on the schooner "Aklavik," which was unable to complete the journey owing to ice conditions. The letter was then returned to Fort Ross from where it was forwarded to the Edward Island on March 15th., 1939, via dog teams. In August of that year the M.V. "Tudlic" received the mail. King Edward Island and forwarded it to Perry River, hence it was taken to Cambridge Bay by R.C.M.P. dog team patrol.

Another R.C.M.P. dog team patrol conveyed the packet of mail from Cambridge Bay to Coppermine, N.W.T. This leg of the trip took nine days, arriving in Coppermine on January 17th., 1940. On January 24th the Mackenzie Air Service flew the mail out of Coppermine and it arrived in Edmonton on January 27th of 1940, almost nineteen months after it was originally mailed in Edmonton.

The cover is certainly a part of Canadian history, being the only letter in existence which covered the Northwest Passage route on the first delivery with a full issue of stamps on its face. Several other covers were made up by R. Hale and also by the Right Reverend A. L. Fleming "Bishop of the Arctic," to be sent on this first passage. Mr. Sillitoe, however, was the only one to put on more postage than the post office required and in doing so received a unique relic, by mail, of course.

United States Concedes Right To Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States has apparently conceded to Canada a right which this country gave the U.S. decades ago.

Informants said here Thursday that the U.S. appears to have recognized Canada's best publicity that Canada is entitled to downstream benefits on the Columbia River.

The reported move was greeted enthusiastically by British Columbia.

"Downstream benefits" refers to a share for Canada of power generated at dams on the American section of the Columbia from water fed down as needed from storage dams on the Canadian part of the river. The Columbia rises in British Columbia and flows through that province and the U.S. Pacific Northwest before it empties into the Pacific at Astoria, Ore.

Canada granted the U.S. downstream benefits on the upper St. John River many years ago. The St. John rises in Maine and flows through New Brunswick into the Bay of Fundy.

LONG BATTLE

This country for at least 10 years has been battling for U.S. recognition of downstream benefits on the Columbia.

The Canada negotiators to have won a major diplomatic victory after two years of intensive but secret negotiations with the U.S.

The two governments announced Thursday that the six-member international joint commission has been asked to recommend as an early date apportionment of downstream benefits.

This can only mean, informants said, that the U.S. has recognized Canadian entitlement to downstream benefits.
